SHUBHAJIT ROY
NEW DELHI, AUGUST 1

TWO WEEKS after the International Court of Justice (ICJ) ruled that Pakistan must review Kulbhushan Jadhav's death sentence and affirmed his right to consular access, Islamabad on Thursday said it has "offered" India "consular access on this Friday".

India said it was "evaluating" the proposal and would respond through diplomatic channels.

"We have offered the Indian High Commission to avail consular access on this Friday. The reply from the Indian side is awaited," Pakistan's foreign ministry spokesperson Mohammad Faisal said. Pakistan said it would grant consular access "according to Pakistani laws", for which the modalities were being discussed.

Asked about Pakistan's offer, the Ministry of External Affairs' official spokesperson Raveesh Kumar said: "We have received a proposal from Pakistan. We are, right now, evaluating the proposal, in view of the ICJ judgment. We will reply to Pakistan through diplomatic channels."

On July 17, the Hague-based ICJ ordered Pakistan to undertake an "effective review and reconsideration" of Jadhav's conviction and death sentence and asked it to grant consular access without further delay. The ICJ upheld India's stand that Pakistan is in egregious violation of the Vienna Convention on Consular Relations, 1963 on several counts in the case.

Flying in SC face, Assam releases list of how many out of NRC in each district

Exclusion low in border districts, says BJP, to argue that entire process flawed

ABHISHEK SAHA
GUWAHATI, AUGUST 1

FLYING IN the face of the Supreme Court's directions to the State NRC Coordinator almost a year ago, the Assam government Thursday revealed district-wise figures of people left out from the National Register of Citizens. And said that in districts close to the Bangladesh border — where the share of Muslims in the population is high — the exclusion percentage was lower, while in other districts it was comparatively higher.

The government used this data to argue that the process was flawed and several BJP MLAs slammed the court-mandated coordinator Prateek Hajela.

Responding to a Zero Hour notice in the Assembly, Parliamentary Affairs Minister Chandra Mohan Patowary said in a written statement, "According to data, 12.15% applicants' names were excluded from the final draft. In districts close to the Bangladesh border, like South Salmara, 7.22% applicants were excluded from the draft NRC. This figure in Dhubri is 8.26% and in Karimganj 7.67%. But districts where indigenous people live, like Karbi Anglong, the figure is 14.31% and in upper Assam's Tinsukia, where sons of the soil have been living for ages, this figure is 13.25%."

The percentage of Muslim population in Dhubri was 79.67%, and in Karimganj was 56.36%, according to Census 2011. South Salmara was carved out of Dhubri in 2016.

Inconvenient data, pressure tactic by Govt

AFTER THE Supreme Court insisted that the NRC be ready by the end of this month, the Assam government's release of this data ratchets up political pressure for re-verification. The data that shows low exclusion in Muslim-dominated areas doesn't fit with the BJP's narrative. All eyes are on the court now.

UP gives Rs 25 lakh to family; SC asks if victim can be moved out of Lucknow

NEW DELHI, LUCKNOW, AUGUST 1

EXPRESSING STRONG displeasure over the handling of the Unnao rape case and a road accident last Sunday which left the 19-year-old victim and her lawyer critically injured and her two aunts dead, the Supreme Court Thursday transferred all cases related to the matter from Uttar Pradesh to Delhi, while ordering interim compensation of Rs 25 lakh for the victim and CRPF security cover for her, the family and their lawyer.

BJP MLA Kuldeep Singh Sengar, who represents Bangarmau in the UP Assembly, is the accused in the rape case and has been booked for murder in the accident case.

The bench of Chief Justice of India Ranjan Gogoi, Justices Deepak Gupta and Aniruddha Bose transferred the cases to the court of Tis Hazari district judge

Citing rich-poor 'divide,' AAP announces free power for half of Delhi

NEW DELHI, AUGUST 1

IN A move that will touch 26 lakh of Delhi's 49 lakh households with an electricity connection, Chief Minister Arvind Kejriwal announced Thursday that free power will be extended to those who use less than 200 units per month.

Another 14 lakh, who use between 201 and 400 units per month, will benefit from a 50 per cent subsidy. In all, this means that around 40 lakh, or 81 per cent, of households with a power connection stand to benefit from the decision.

The Aam Aadmi Party (AAP) government's move comes just months before the Assembly polls are expected to be held in Delhi.

The relief will be in place only

NEW DELHI, LUCKNOW, AUGUST 1

HOURS AFTER its government in Uttar Pradesh was hauled over the coals by the Supreme Court which shifted the Unnao rape case to Delhi and ordered speedy trial, the BJP Thursday expelled its Bangarmau MLA Kuldeep Singh Sengar, the rape case accused who has also been booked for murder on a complaint from the victim's family.

UP BJP president Swatantra Dev Singh told reporters in Lucknow: "The state leadership had already suspended him, the central leadership has expelled him. It comes under the purview of the central leadership... Kuldeep Sengar has been expelled from the party."

"The BJP government stands by the victim, and will not be with anyone who is guilty. The CBI inquiry has been recommended and both the government as well as the organisation are with her... prompt decision has been taken," he said.

Ex-Maldives Vice-President reaches TN port, MEA says not allowed entry

ARUN JANARDHANAN
CHENNAI, AUGUST 1

FORMER MALDIVES Vice-President Ahmed Adeeb Abdul Ghafoor (37) was detained off the coast of Thoothukudi on Thursday, after he reached the southern port on board a tug vessel. The Ministry of External Affairs (MEA) said he was denied entry as he did not possess "valid travel documents".

Police sources said he was being questioned by Central government agencies including the Coast Guard, Customs and intelligence agencies. Official sources said they were unable to ascertain if his intention was to seek asylum in India.

The ship, Virgo 9, was initially denied clearance to berth at the Thoothukudi old port. Official sources said the ship with nine crew members — an Indian and eight Indonesians — had left for Indonesia on July 11. After unloading its cargo, it started the return journey on July 27.

"We are yet to ascertain whether he boarded the vessel from the coast or mid-sea, from some other boat or vessel. It was the Indian crew member who informed the ship agent in Thoothukudi about the Maldivian who had joined them on the return journey," said a police officer.

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
NEW DELHI, AUGUST 1

THE THREE-MEMBER mediation panel appointed by the Supreme Court to find an amicable solution to the Ayodhya issue submitted its report to the court Registry Thursday.

A five-judge Constitution Bench will review the report Friday to take a call whether to continue with the mediation effort or commence daily hearing of the appeals against the September 30, 2010 verdict of the Allahabad High Court on the disputed Ram Janmabhoomi-Babri Masjid site.

On July 18, the Constitution Bench, comprising Chief Justice of India Ranjan Gogoi, Justices S A Bobde, D Y Chandrachud, Ashok Bhushan and Abdul Nazeer, had asked the mediation panel led by retired Supreme Court judge Justice F M Ibrahim Kalifulla to inform it on the status of the process by August 1.

That direction came when the bench was hearing a plea by Rajendra Singh, son of Gopal Singh Visharad who was one of the plaintiffs in the original civil suit in the Ayodhya land matter.

Auto sales keep sliding downhill, big three manufacturers hit roadblock

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU
NEW DELHI, AUGUST 1

HIT BY a dip in consumer sentiment and liquidity crunch for non-banking financial companies (NBFCs), car manufacturers witnessed a sharp decline in demand last month.

Maruti Suzuki saw its domestic passenger car sales decline 36 per cent and Honda Cars India witnessed a 48.7 per cent fall in sales in July 2019 over the corresponding period last year. Toyota Kirloskar announced a 24 per cent dip and Hyundai Motor India announced a 10 per cent drop.

Maruti Suzuki, which has over 50 per cent market share, saw its domestic sales fall from 154,150 units in July 2018 to 98,210 units in July 2019. In fact, July unit sales for the company were the lowest since June 2017, when it sold 93,263 units.

The July numbers are in line with the industry trend over the last 12 months, with manufacturers facing the heat and taking measures like cutting production.

Retrograde, harsh: Voices in India Inc slam 3-year jail term for CSR default

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU
NEW DELHI, AUGUST 1

DESCRIBING THE government's decision to impose a monetary penalty and prison sentence of up to three years on executives of companies that fail to comply with the mandated corporate social responsibility (CSR) expenditure as "retrograde", sections of India Inc are learnt to have communicated their concerns to decision-makers in the government.

In amendments moved to the Companies Act, the Rajya Sabha Tuesday passed the Bill that specified, among other provisions, that unspent CSR funds by companies should be transferred into an escrow account called Unspent Corporate Social Responsibility Account, with the corpus to be utilised within three years of transfer. It also said that any unspent annual CSR fund must be transferred to one of the funds under Schedule 7 of the Companies Act, such as the Prime Minister's Relief Fund, within six months of the financial-year end.

However, the provision in the legislation that has raised concerns among corporates is the stipulation of penal provisions for firms that are not able to meet the requirements.

The amendment to Section 135 of the Companies Act now states, "If a company contravenes the provisions of Families help police pull young men back from brink

SAGAR RAJPUT
MUMBAI, AUGUST 1

IT WAS a Friday nearly two years ago, the start of the weekend in Saudi Arabia, and the expat Indian engineer was catching up on Facebook. Within minutes, he froze. On his nephew's page were pro-Islamic State photos and videos of the war in Syria.

The engineer quickly shut down his computer fearing Saudi trackers, and picked up the phone to dial Mumbai.

"The moment I answered the phone, he started yelling at me," recalled the nephew, the son of the engineer's sister, speaking to The Indian Express on the condition that he not be named. "My uncle wanted to know how I had fallen for all this. 'Why are you taking this path? You are not going anywhere, okay?' he screamed."

AN EXPRESS SERIES PART II

The next phone call from Saudi Arabia was to his mother.

And within days, the nephew, then a 21-year-old pursuing a Bachelor in Business Administration (BBA), found the Maharashtra Anti Terrorism Squad (ATS) at his doorstep. Someone from the family had sought their intervention.

On Thursday, The Indian Express reported on how 120 youth, including six women, have undergone the ATS's deradicalisation programme to pull them back from the brink of jihadi recruitment. And how Maharashtra's programme — the only one in India to be run by a state police force — is being looked at closely by police from J&K, Punjab, Karnataka, Madhya Pradesh and Gujarat.

In Mumbai, ATS officers say a large part of their success is because of alert family members, or persons close to them, who make that crucial decision to call the police before it is too late. "The popular perception is that we reach these individuals though our own investigation. In reality, in more than a dozen cases, we got to them because their own family members tipped us off before their son or nephew or, in some cases, daughter got into bigger trouble," said a police officer closely involved with the programme.

That's why the Saudi-Mumbai case, officers say, is a textbook example of how families have been proactive in being the first responders. This also brings the family on board right from the beginning, say officers, and helps build trust.

Today, the BBA student has completed the deradicalisation programme and is looking for a job. "He has many uncles. I don't know which one made that call. But whoever did, I am eternally indebted to him," his father, who runs a leather business in the western suburbs of Mumbai, told The Indian Express.

Looking back on the day police showed up at his home in November 2017, the youth said, "My mother was traumatised and my father was very angry at me. I was worried that if people came to know I had been arrested in such a case, my family would have to bear the consequences." To his surprise, he said, the police too did not make a show of it. "They told me, 'If you want it to remain a secret, come with us quietly'," he said.

At the ATS office, there was

Assam NRC list

The government highlighted that reports "suggested wrongful inclusions and exclusions in the NRC". This was the reason the state demanded a 20% re-verification in districts closer to the Bangladesh border and 10% re-verification in others, it said.

The Supreme Court, however, had rejected the request by the state and the Centre to order a sample verification on July 23 this year. Hajela had said that in the course of consideration/ adjudication of the claims, the SNRC had already undertaken re-verification to the extent of 27%, the Court noted.

The overall data provided by the government in the Assembly places Hojai district at the top with an exclusion rate with 32.99%, followed by Darrang at 30.9% (Muslim population 64.34%, according to 2011 Census). Hojai was carved out of Nagaon in 2015, and apart from Muslims, it is home to large numbers of indigenous tribes and Bengali-speaking Hindus.

The exclusion rate in Nagaon (Muslim population 55.36%) was 14.12%. Other Muslim-majority districts like Morigaon (52.56% Muslims)and Barpeta (70.74% Muslims) left out 15.04% and 13.4% of the population, respectively.

The famed river island of Majuli had the lowest exclusion rate of 1.62% followed by that of the upper Assam district of Charaideo at 2.88%.

When contacted, Patowary told The Indian Express, "We had presented the same data and arguments to the Supreme Court earlier but the court had not taken cognisance. When members of the Assembly were discussing the issue today during Zero Hour, I presented before the Assembly the data and the arguments. Areas close to the borders have registered high inclusion rates whereas certain areas where indigenous communities live have registered high exclusion."

Citing the example of his colleague, BJP MLA Rama Kanta Dewri, from the Tiwa community, Patowary said, "She has been excluded from the NRC draft. We demand a re-verification because we want our NRC to be absolutely error-free."

Three BJP MLAs, participating in the Zero Hour discussion, too, demanded re-verification and criticised Hajela for his comment that 27% re-verification had being already done. They raised questions regarding the supposed inclusion of allegedly illegal Bangladeshi citizens in the NRC.

"The entire process is left in the hands and mercy of one person who is the state coordinator of the NRC. Nobody is to be heard on it. The Home Ministry in Centre, the Chief Minister of the state - nobody.. On the one hand, the Centre and state government want at least 20% re-verification in the districts of Assam bordering Bangladesh but State Coordinator says he has already done 27%. This proves there is no coordination between the government and the NRC work, which is dangerous for our democracy," said BJP MLA Shiladitya Dev.

BJP MLAs Debananda Hazarika and Numal Momin questioned the re-verification claimed to have been already undertaken by Hajela and reiterated the issues raised by the government in its response during Zero Hour notice.

"In areas close to international border, 5-6% names were not included. Whereas, areas where indigenous people including tribals reside up to 18% names have not been included. People started questioning NRC itself. NRC has to be correct, with 0% error. No foreigner's name can be included," said Momin.

Hazarika questioned whether the NRC would be a correct one, "free from any single foreigner". "If correct, then it will be a Magna Carta or else it will be a threat to stability, sovereignty, national integrity and unity of our country," he said.

Free power

for this financial year as the Delhi Electricity Regulatory Commission (DERC), the quasi-judicial body that fixes power tariffs in the city, releases a new rate each year. Officials said the subsidy for the next financial year will depend on the tariff that is fixed then. The announcement caps the July 31 reduction in tariffs across slabs by the DERC.

According to Kejriwal, close to 17 lakh people (35 per cent of users) will not have to pay for electricity usage during the summer under the new tariff. In winter, the number of people falling under the 0-200 unit category goes up to 67 per cent, officials said.

Kejriwal described the 200-unit limit as a "basic lifeline commitment" and a move towards bridging the divide between the privileged and the masses. He said the move will cost the government between Rs 1,800 crore and Rs 2,000 crore.

"The government is giving a basic commitment of power through this, like we did in the case of water. Many people had argued that if we make water of up to 20,000 litres free monthly, there will be wastage. But we have seen that instead of waste, people have started saving more to avail the subsidy. Likewise, this step will encourage power savings. It will also act as a controlling factor in terms of arresting the growing power load," Kejriwal said.

Crediting the decision to the work done in the power sector over the last four years, Kejriwal said: "The power infrastructure had collapsed due to lack of investments. There has been all-round improvement in these areas... and discoms are financially healthy today. Their regulatory gaps are coming down substantially."

Pointing out that power cuts have become a "thing of the past", Kejriwal said: "We managed steady supply even when peak load was 7,400 MW. There has been a reduction of 85 per cent in terms of power cuts."

Kejriwal said the subsidy was made possible because of an "honest government". "If power infrastructure sees such development, if the financial health of discoms improve, if revenue sees an uptick, if people get 24-hour power supply — it is possible because people chose an honest government. If I am trying to extend facilities available to khaas aadmis to the aam aadmi, how am I wrong?" he said.

Ex-Maldives V-P

In New Delhi, the Ministry of External Affairs' official spokesperson, Raveesh Kumar, said: "There are designated entry points through which foreigners are allowed entry into India. The entry is facilitated on the basis of appropriate valid travel documents. In the instant case, since he was not entering India through a designated entry point and did not possess the valid document, he has not been permitted entry into India".

In 2016, Adeeb, one of the richest and influential politicians of Maldives who was the Vice-President from July 22 to November 5, 2015, was sentenced to 15 years in jail for allegedly plotting to assassinate the then President Abdulla Yameen. He was also convicted of corruption and terrorism and faced a total sentence of 33 years. This year, a court ordered a fresh trial on the same charges after cancelling his convictions, citing undue political interference.

Adeeb is a key witness in a money laundering case against Yameen, who lost the presidential election to Ibrahim Mohamed Solih in September. A senior Maldivian official said Adeeb was supposed to appear before investigators on Wednesday or Thursday. About two months ago, Adeeb had visited Pune for medical reasons.

"He had promised that he would appear before them, but did not turn up. He was among the political prisoners who were released by the Supreme Court last year. When the court decided to re-investigate some of those cases, there were cases linked to Adeeb too, and he was not supposed to leave Maldives. These cases, related to terror, money laundering and corruption, are currently being probed by multiple agencies, including police, office of the prosecutor general, as well as two independent presidential commissions," said the official from Male.

"The current regime used him against President Yameen in the last elections and now they want to use him to jail Yameen. Adeeb was possibly trying to escape, fearing that he would face trouble later even if he gave statements against Yameen now," said an official linked to the previous Yameen dispensation. " worship had been impeded by the state government which disallowed him from going near the idol. He had sought an injunction against the removal of idols.

Claiming that there had not been much progress in the mediation, Rajendra Singh urged the court to declare the mediation proceedings concluded so that hearing on the appeals can commence. He said "despite initial reluctance in the process of mediation, the applicant herein wholeheartedly participated in the mediation proceedings conducted by three eminent persons appointed by the court. However, in three meetings participated during five months, neither any concrete proposal has come from anyone nor any headway is likely to be made in the process of mediation".

Hearing Singh's application first on July 11, the court had called for a status report from the panel which also has Art of Living founder Sri Sri Ravi Shankar and senior advocate Sriram Panchu as its members. After considering the status report on July 18, the court called for another status report by August 1.

The High Court had divided the 2.7-acre disputed land at the Ram Janmabhoomi-Babri Masjid site equally among the three parties — the idol Ramlalla, Nirmohi Akhara and the Sunni Wakf Board.

Auto sales

Industry insiders say the sector is witnessing a drop in headcount across the value chain, and the trend may result in job losses in automobile companies.

Industry players say there is pressure on NBFCs on account of a liquidity squeeze since the fallout of the IL&FS crisis in September 2018, and that has led to customers finding it difficult to fund their purchase. The overall decline in consumer confidence has also contributed to the continued slide in industry sales.

N Raja, deputy managing director, Toyota Kirloskar Motor, said, "The industry is deeply concerned with the increasing pressure of low customer sentiment faced by the sector. The high insurance costs, rise in taxes and liquidity crunch across the non-banking finance segment, and tightening of lending norms, have significantly affected domestic sales in the last few months."

Experts say customers are also postponing their purchase in the hope that the industry's transition from BS-IV to BS-VI may lead to big discounts from manufacturers between January and March 2020. Manufacturers can only sell BS-VI compliant cars beginning April 1, 2020.

According to data released by Society of Indian Automobile Manufacturers (SIAM), passenger car sales fell 24.97 per cent in June 2019, and two-wheeler sales by 11.69 per cent. Commercial vehicle sales too fell 12.3 per cent in June.

sub-section (5) or sub-section (6), the company shall be punishable with fine which shall not be less than Rs 50,000 but which may extend to Rs 25 lakh and every officer of such company who is in default shall be punishable with imprisonment for a term which may extend to three years or with fine which shall not be less than Rs 50,000 but which may extend to Rs 5 lakh, or with both."

Until now, the Bill required that "if the company fails to spend such amount, the Board shall, in its report (annual report). specify the reasons for not spending the amount."

An industry source confirmed that the Confederation of Indian Industry (CII) has taken up this amendment with the government and has requested it to have a relook. Speaking to The Indian Express, Naushad Forbes, co-chairman of Forbes Marshall, termed the move "retrograde" and said that "it violates the principle of minimum government and maximum governance."

Sandeep Parekh, founder of Finsec Law Advisors, said that with this move, "It (CSR spend) has become a tax and is no longer good behaviour and CSR."

Forbes added that when the move was brought in, it was a sensible decision and was well thought-out law that provided a guideline to companies on social commitment. However, "introduction of penal provisions makes no sense. You can't punish the entire industry for a few bad eggs," he said, as he called India Inc to come out strongly and publicly.

Families help

no FIR, no lock-up, just a lot of questions, conversations, and long counselling sessions over the multiple days he was asked to visit. Confidentiality is "sacred to the programme", said officers. "Even today our neighbours are not aware that my son went through a counselling session for a month. It was that secret," said his father.

The student's case, say officers, was relatively easy. "Before we took him in, he already seemed to know he was getting into something wrong," said an officer. Psychometric tests established that he shared a special emotional bond with his father, prompting the ATS to set up a face-to-face meeting in their office. The father was clear: if his son goes against the country, he needs to be in jail.

Soon, the youth broke down and promised that he would never get involved in anything that made his father ashamed of him.

Consular access

The terms and conditions of the proposed consular access are not clear. According to sources, there are a number of issues on which discussions are being held between Indian diplomats in Islamabad and Pakistani government officials: how many Indian officials will conduct Jadhav's interview; what will be the duration of their meeting; will officials from Pakistan, other than security personnel, be present; will there be a glass partition between them.

According to Pakistan foreign ministry's statement, Jadhav has been informed of his rights under Article 36, Paragraph 1(b) of the Vienna Convention on Consular Relations (VCCR), which states that "authorities shall inform the person concerned without delay of his rights..."

SC on Unnao: pay relief, move case to Delhi

Dharmesh Sharma. The bench directed that "the trial judge...will commence the trial forthwith on a day-to-day basis and will ensure completion of trial of all the five cases within 45 days from commencement of the trial".

It asked the CBI to "expedite" the probe into the accident case and complete it "preferably" within seven days and not later than 14 days.

In line with the court direction, the Lucknow District Magistrate and SSP handed a cheque of Rs 25 lakh to the victim's mother Thursday night.

The judges also sought the views of the victim's family to decide whether she should be moved from the Lucknow hospital where she is admitted to some other hospital in the country for advanced treatment.

In Lucknow, a cousin of the rape victim told The Indian Express the family would want her treated in Delhi. "It has been four days and she has not opened her eyes. She has not gained consciousness even once."

Maintaining that the family has full faith in the CBI, the cousin said they had been demanding that the cases be transferred to Delhi. "We welcome the decision and thank the Supreme Court. We will accept all the instructions because we do not feel safe in Uttar Pradesh. We don't think we will get justice here after what our family and the lawyer have been through. This is the first step towards our victory," the cousin said.

The Supreme Court directions came two days after it emerged that the victim's family had written to the CJI on July 12, seeking the court's intervention and complaining about the threats being issued to them.

Directing the UP government to pay the interim compensation to the victim, the CJI made evident his displeasure at the state of affairs. When a court official sought to draw the bench's attention to what the statute says on award of compensation, the CJI Gogoi asked if what had happened was as per law. "What is happening in this country? And you want the court to follow the letter of the law?... What is this? We will be failing in our duty if we don't award compensation."

The cases ordered to be transferred include four cases pending trial before the CBI Special Court in Lucknow and last Sunday's road accident case.

Appearing for the CBI, Solicitor General Tushar Mehta sought a month's time to complete the investigation, saying scientific examination may take time. But the bench was unwilling to grant the request. It said it would give the agency seven days. "Whatever you have to do, complete within that time," the CJI remarked. Later, while dictating the order, the bench said if there is any difficulty, the agency may avail one week extra but no more.

Senior advocate V Giri, assisting the bench as amicus curiae in a pending matter of expediting POCSO cases, told the bench that the family apprehended danger to their lives and should be provided protection. Almost in tears, he also sought security for their lawyer, and suggested protection by central forces. The bench agreed and ordered CRPF cover.

Advocate Ramkrishna Reddy, appearing for the family, urged the court to also transfer the woman's uncle from a jail in Rae Bareli to Tihar jail in Delhi, saying he feared for his life — his wife died in the Sunday road accident. On this, the bench sought a report from the UP government and said it will consider it Friday.

Earlier in the day, the bench sought to know the medical status of the woman to decide if she should be moved to Delhi in an air ambulance. Breaking for lunch, the bench asked the Solicitor General to inform it about her status once it reassembles.

Mehta later told the bench that the victim was at King George's Medical University hospital and was medically fit to be moved if she and the family agreed. He said it may not be necessary as the Lucknow hospital has all facilities.

The bench then asked advocates Reddy and Giri to take instructions from the family. When Reddy said she should be shifted, the CJI told him: "Don't take a call on you own. Consult family."

On the family's July 12 letter to the CJI — it was received by the Supreme Court Registry on July 17 — the CJI sought a report from Secretary General Sanjeev S Kalgaonkar on why the letter was "lying unattended" until July 30.

The bench asked the Secretary General to hold an inquiry if there was any lapse by a Registry official in processing the letter and placing it before the CJI.

Sengar had been suspended in April 2018 when a CBI probe was ordered into the Unnao rape case. Singh said he had spoken to his predecessor, Mahendra Nath Pandey, who told him that Sengar had already been suspended from the party. But Satyadev Singh, who became the state disciplinary committee chief when Pandey was heading the state unit, said the matter never came to him, and the "state president directly looked into that matter".

If there was hesitation in the BJP on Sengar's expulsion, the reason was political, and a divide within its state unit over caste affiliations. Sengar is a Thakur, a community to which Chief Minister Yogi Adityanath too belongs.

Of seven BJP MPs from Uttar Pradesh whom The Indian Express spoke to, five were of the view that the party should not take any action against Sengar because he was "trapped" in the case. All five belong to the Thakur community.

The remaining two MPs — one a Scheduled Caste and the other a Brahmin — said the party "cannot afford to let Sengar continue" in the BJP given the "heinous crimes" he is accused of. "After Sunday's road accident for which the victim's family blamed Sengar and his people, the party has no reason to let him continue. Pressure is mounting on the party," one of the two said.

"He should be expelled from the party. The state unit in Uttarakhand was quick in taking action against an MLA for a lesser offence. So, there can be no excuse to delay it. It is affecting the party adversely," the other MP said.

Sources in the UP BJP also said top leaders in the government are "upset" and there is "palpable discomfort" among a section of MLAs over the party's hesitation in moving against Sengar.

BJP MP from Domariyaganj Jagdambika Pal attributed Sengar's arrest to "media pressure and the hype over the case".

"Kuldeep Singh and his brother have been in jail and they are far from Unnao. It is unfortunate that such an accident took place... the BJP had no role to play in it. The Chief Minister has already recommended that the case be referred to the CBI, even the accident. The CBI has already taken up the case," Pal said.

"The accused is in jail, the matter is in court. The court will take a decision. But the allegation that the accused tried to eliminate the victim's family is not believable... It was an accident. But it has been made into a murder case," he said.

Kejriwal flexes subsidy muscle for power move

SOURAV ROY BARMAN
NEW DELHI, AUGUST 1

SINCE TAKING office in 2015, the AAP government's annual average allotment for its power subsidy scheme has been around Rs 1,574 crore, which may rise by at least Rs 300 crore with Thursday's decision.

Chief Minister Arvind Kejriwal estimated that August may see around 35% out of Delhi's 49 lakh power consumers falling in the 0-200 consumption category, but the annual average, going by estimates of discoms, could touch 60%.

Over 26 lakh consumers in Delhi fall in the 0-200 units consumption bracket in terms of annual average, while around 14 lakh consume between 201-400 units, and will get a 50% rebate on their bills. "The number of consumers in each slab vary depending on seasons. Naturally, the 0-200 category shrinks during summer and peaks during winter," a power department official said.

Asked about the potential rise in the subsidy bill, Kejriwal said the government was allocating Rs 1,800 to Rs 2,000 crore annually, which is not likely to see any change as the new tariff structure announced by DERC has significantly brought down fixed charges, which has left the government with enough spare money to absorb the new scheme.

So far, the government provided a 50% rebate to those consuming 0-400 units, and about 81% of consumers benefitted.

In 2015-16, the first year of the scheme, the government had allocated Rs 1,690 crore for the water and power subsidy scheme collectively. Out of this, the power subsidy bill was around Rs 1,200 crore.

CM announces the subsidy, Thursday. Express

The following year saw the power subsidy outlay rise to Rs 1,577 crore; which further rose to Rs 1,676 crore in 2017-18. In 2018-19, Rs 1,699 crore was set aside for the scheme and in the budget for 2019-20, an allocation of Rs 1,720 has been made.

It is likely that, if needed, the government will get a revised amount sanctioned during the upcoming monsoon session of assembly.

Meanwhile, the government had allocated Rs 320 crore for the water subsidy scheme — under which those consuming up to 20,000 litres don't have to pay any bill — in 2016-17, which rose to Rs 396 crore in 2017-18 and Rs 452 crore in 2018-19.

The power scheme will benefit those consuming 0-200 units irrespective of their sanctioned load.

Around 26 lakh domestic consumers have sanctioned loads up to 2 KW and 16.5 lakh have sanctioned capacities between 2 and 5 KW.

BJP says it's timed with polls, Cong claims CM looted people

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
NEW DELHI, AUGUST 1

A "POLL-STUNT" and a "gimmick" is what the opposition in Delhi has called the AAP government's decision to waive power bills of households consuming less than 200 units of power per month.

Delhi BJP president Manoj Tiwari called the move a poll stunt, but said he welcomed the move. "Kejriwal is announcing freebies in view of the assembly elections," he said.

BJP's Leader of Opposition in Delhi Assembly Vijender Gupta said that Kejriwal had claimed that Delhi's power discoms were looting people when AAP came to power in 2015.

"He is the man who had demanded an audit of discoms by CAG, charging them of looting people. Now, he is saying the discoms were bankrupt, which exposes him," Gupta claimed.

The Congress, meanwhile, demanded that the fixed power charges raised in 2017 be returned to the people of Delhi.

Delhi Congress working president Haroon Yusuf said the move was Kejriwal's "gimmick" ahead of assembly polls: "One can learn to make big announcement concerning a small thing from Arvind Kejriwal. Delhi people were being looted for the past 16 months in the name of fixed charges."

Senior AAP leader Atishi, meanwhile, hit out at BJP saying that Delhi has a chief minister who understands policy.

"If Manoj Tiwari ji is so opposed to free electricity, then he should give up free electricity given to him as an MP. I want to tell him that the AAP-led government is able to provide electricity at such a price because it has an honest and IIT-educated chief minister who understands policies," she said.

AAP has claimed several times that power in Delhi is the cheapest out of all states.

Decision to touch over 90% homes once winter arrives

MALLICA JOSHI
NEW DELHI, AUGUST 1

SEASONAL VARIABILITY in power consumption means the Delhi government's enhanced power sops could extend to 91% of the population during the winter, government officials said.

According to those familiar with the plan, the percentage of consumers who fall under the 0-200 units category in winter is around 67% — up from 35% in summers.

"For the 201- 400 unit category, where the government will give a 50% subsidy on tariff, the number is 24% in winters, taking the total number of beneficiaries to 91%. The subsidy bill in winters will be significantly higher than in summers and monsoons as the only high-power consuming appliance people use then is a geyser," an official said.

When the government had announced free "lifeline" water of up to 20,000 litres per household per month in 2013, it had come under criticism for encouraging people to "waste" water.

After water subsidy was announced, water consumption came down in the city

Data released by the Delhi Jal Board, however, suggests the number of people whose water consumption decreased after the policy was announced went up considerably.

In his budget speech this year, Deputy CM Manish Sisodia said that before implementation of the plan, 5 lakh households were using less than 20,000 litres of water per month. The number went up to 13.67 lakh in 2018, he said.

According to senior government officials, though, the behaviour of a consumer differs when it comes to power.

"With water, we realised a lot was being wasted because it was a much cheaper commodity. In addition to that, even if people did not pay water bills, their connections were not terminated. But with power, since privatisation, this opportunity did not exist. We don't expect as many people to move into the 0-200 unit bracket as we saw in the water policy," said a senior government official.

"But because the base (number of connections) is so large, even if a small number lowers consumption, there will be considerable power saving," another official said.

Strike to be felt at Delhi govt hospitals, AIIMS today as well

NEW DELHI, AUGUST 1

Lok Nayak and GTB hospitals saw zero OPD attendance and routine surgeries were cancelled

HOLDING HER two-and-a-half year old son in arms, Ishrat, a resident of Mangolpuri, headed back home. Standing inside the AIIMS Cardiothoracic Sciences Centre, she was turned away, as resident doctors were not available. Her son, Mehboob, cannot move his left hand after he was diagnosed with jaundice.

"We were referred by a private hospital to AIIMS a few months ago. Last week, we came to the hospital. Today, the doctor was supposed to see our child. It takes months to take an appointment from a doctor here," she said.

Like her, hundreds of patients across Delhi faced a tough time, as more than 20,000 resident doctors from government hospitals went on strike and refrained from attending OPDs and other routine services. Medical practitioners were protesting against the National Medical Commission (NMC) Bill passed in the Rajya Sabha with some amendments Thursday.

The Bill aims to replace the graft-tainted Medical Council of India, and proposes a common final-year MBBS examination—the National Exit Test (NEXT) — for admission to post-graduate medical courses and to obtain a licence to practise medicine.

Sleeping on a mat outside G B Pant hospital's OPD was Sushila Prasad, crying because of a stomach ache. "She's been in tremendous pain for the last few months. Doctors in Lucknow said she has stomach cancer in February and we came to Delhi to verify. Doctors are supposed to check and tell us whether we need surgery or not," said her husband Bindra Prasad, who has been unemployed since his wife fell sick six months ago.

Resident doctors from AIIMS, RML and Safdarjung held marches and raised slogans as the bill was passed in the Rajya Sabha. Doctors marched from Safdarjung to the AIIMS flyover, and later to the Parliament, where they were detained.

Another group of doctors, associated with the Federation of Resident Doctors' Association (FORDA), who had planned to march to the Parliament from RML Hospital, were prevented from venturing out, said Dr Sunil Arora, the body's general secretary.

The Delhi government-run Lok Nayak and GTB hospitals saw zero OPD attendance. Both hospitals attended emergency cases while routine surgeries were cancelled. "In the absence of doctors, we are managing the patient load. We ensured no emergency case is turned away," Dr Kishore Singh, medical director of Lok Nayak hospital, said.

Resident doctors from Delhi government hospitals and AIIMS will be on strike today as well.

Bill has advantages but why hurry, ask experts

ASTHA SAXENA
NEW DELHI, AUGUST 1

AMID PROTESTS by the medical fraternity across the country, the National Medical Commission Bill was passed by Rajya Sabha Thursday, with Union Health Minister Dr Harsh Vardhan calling it a 'golden day' in the history of medical education.

However, a certain section of the fraternity is demanding amendments to the Bill, particularly to Sections 32(1),(2) and (3), saying it will encourage quackery by providing licences to those not holding MBBS degrees to practice modern medicine as community health providers.

"The Bill was conceived by the previous UPA government, when the MCI was put in suspended animation. The attempt was to replace MCI, because there were allegations of corruption. The new government wanted to transform medical education and that is why they wanted to continue with the NMC Bill. But there are still many questions which will be left unanswered, since it is an experiment," Dr M C Mishra, former director of AIIMS, told The Indian Express.

The Bill proposes a common final-year MBBS examination, National Exit Test (NEXT), for admission to post-graduate medical courses and for obtaining a licence to practise medicine. It would also act as a screening test for foreign medical graduates, official sources said.

Dr Anant Bhan, researcher, Bioethics, Global Health and Health Policy, said: "There was an urgent need for regulatory reform in the health sector, and bringing in the NMC has been a good approach... Not every medical student has the skills... This is where a good quality exit exam can help. But a hurried implementation will create a huge mess. The government should go through similar models adopted in other countries and modify it accordingly."

No objection in public, why oppose CCTVs in classrooms, says HC

PRITAM PAL SINGH
NEW DELHI, AUGUST 1

The CM had inaugurated the scheme at a Lajpat Nagar school in July

"WHEN PEOPLE do not have objections to CCTVs in public places, parks or school corridors, then why are they opposed to having cameras in classrooms," the Delhi High Court said Thursday, setting aside claims that children's right to privacy would be affected if cameras are installed inside classrooms in Delhi government schools.

A bench of Chief Justice D N Patel and Justice C Hari Shankar sought to know what is "so special about classrooms", when photos and videos of students and individuals are captured through CCTVs in public places. The court was hearing a petition urging the court to issue an interim direction to stall procurement of cameras to be installed in classrooms.

The court also refused to stall the ongoing process of installing CCTVs in classrooms, which is being done as per the Delhi government's proposal last year to install over 1.4 lakh CCTV cameras in its schools.

Last month, Chief Minister Arvind Kejriwal inaugurated the installation of 210 CCTV cameras at Shaheed Hemu Kalani Sarvodaya Bal Vidyalaya in Lajpat Nagar. He had also said that over 1,000 Delhi government schools will be equipped with CCTV cameras by November this year.

Hinting that there was nothing wrong with having CCTV cameras in classrooms, the bench said "every privacy is gone by" while walking on roads having closed circuit television (CCTV) cameras.

It said the objection on cameras should have been from the beginning of its installation.

"There is special privacy in classrooms. What is that?," the bench asked the petitioner's advocate, Jai Dehadrai.

Dehadrai argued it was not healthy to have cameras inside classrooms where "children, including girls, often discuss personal things". To which, Delhi government's additional standing counsel Sanjoy Ghose contended that the feed from the cameras would be password protected and accessible to only the parents of the kids.

The petition contended that installing cameras without any regulatory mechanism on access to its footage could lead to incidents of stalking and molestation.

The petitioner also sought a feasibility test amongst the target population of students and teachers, to understand the issues they face when it comes to surveillance.

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
NEW DELHI, AUGUST 1

THE FAMILY of a Class XII student, who allegedly committed suicide at her South Delhi home on Wednesday, alleged she was "driven to take the extreme step" by another schoolgirl's family, who had allegedly accused her of bullying. The victim's family has claimed "she had no prior altercation with the other girl and was not under any apparent stress".

DCP (South) Vijay Kumar had told The Indian Express that parents of another school student had complained to the school principal against the victim for allegedly beating their child.

"She was very bold. If she was driven to take her own life, she must have been really harassed. School authorities must answer and tell us what happened... The girl's mother and other family members repeatedly provoked us by suggesting a public brawl to decide who's stronger, but we resisted," alleged the girl's paternal aunt.

"Both girls were not friends, but they did not have any history of altercation either. Our girl was very chirpy and happy. She never seemed depressed or had any kind of mental stress," she said.

DCP Kumar said: "A Class XI student alleged the victim thrashed her and two boys on Monday at 12.30 pm after school was over. The parents of both the students were asked to come to school. By the time the victim's parents reached school, the teacher had left. The girl went home and was found hanging in her room in the evening." He added that the family has not filed a complaint against anyone so far.

He said no foul play is suspected and no suicide note has been recovered.

School officials did not respond to attempts seeking a comment on the suicide.

SOURAV ROY BARMAN
NEW DELHI, AUGUST 1

AB InBev has just been hit by a three-year ban in Delhi for alleged evasion of taxes

MORE TROUBLE may be brewing for beer giant AB InBev, which has just been hit by a three-year ban in Delhi for alleged evasion of taxes, sources have said.

According to officials, who did not wish to be identified, Budweiser — one of the company's most popular brands — was being promoted at a 'Boiler Room Party' on June 23 at a popular city hotel, which was raided by the Excise Department.

The department claims to have found multiple licence-related violations at the party, which was attended by over 5,000 people. "The beer brand was the sponsor of the event, where it was being exclusively served," an official claimed.

"It is likely that another inquiry will be initiated against the company over alleged violations. It will not just be against Ab InBev but all stakeholders of the event," the official added.

The ongoing ban on Ab InBev pertains to a case of alleged evasion of taxes in 2016 involving liquor firm SABMiller — acquired by AB InBev in 2016 for around $100 billion — using duplicate barcodes allegedly on bottles of Haywards 5000 and Fosters in a popular pub in the city with similar barcodes. The presence of identical barcodes on different bottles, an official claimed, means that the company paid excise duty once for the sale of multiple bottles.

A spokesperson for AB InBev India, however, said: "We work to meet the highest standard of compliance across our markets. We deny the allegations set out in this order and look forward to presenting our views in full cooperation with the excise appellate process. This order relates to operations of SABMiller dating back to 2016, prior to our takeover. Specifically it concerns an alleged mismatch in barcode status of 11 bottles of Fosters and 1 bottle of Haywards 5000 found at a single retail outlet in Delhi. After we took control, we have discontinued our relationship with the vendor that managed the relevant Delhi warehouse and are taking steps to enhance our systems. We look forward to receiving a fair hearing on this matter."

In the latest instance, excise officials claimed, the event organisers had applied for P-13 permits, which come at a cost of Rs 5,000. However, for a party of this scale, they needed P-10 permits that cost Rs 1 lakh.

"Apart from that, entry to the event was through tickets, and liquor was being sold in the basement, for which they had no permission either from the excise or from other law enforcement authorities. The alleged tax evasion was done in multiple ways," the official claimed.

The state government collects excise duty on alcohol, which acts as a source of tax revenue. For now, the warehouses of the company's vendor have been sealed in the national capital, where the demand for beer eclipses hard liquor during summer months.

However, the department has allowed the company to extinguish its stocks that are in vends or in various stages of transit.

AB InBev brands have a share of around 20 per cent in the Indian market, according to industry estimates.

HEADMASTER SAYS ALLEGATIONS FALSE, BASELESS

ARANYA SHANKAR & ANAND MOHAN J
NEW DELHI, AUGUST 1

A DELHI court has ordered Delhi Police to register an FIR after a Dalit guest teacher who used to teach at Jamia Middle School approached the court claiming he was "insulted and humiliated" by the headmaster, who "addressed him by his caste" in front of many teachers last year.

Metropolitan Magistrate Rajat Goyal, in his order dated July 30, said that "on the basis of the allegations levelled, commission of cognizable offences under section 3 and 4 of the SC/ST (Prevention of Atrocities) Act, 1989 appears to have been committed" and thus it was "obligatory for the police to register an FIR in the matter".

When contacted, Additional DCP (South East) Kumar Gyanesh said: "We are registering an FIR under court instructions. It will be registered under the SC/ST Act."

The complainant, when contacted, claimed casteist slurs were used by the headmaster several times, and he was made to do work outside his "protocol".

The complainant had to seek the court's help to register the FIR since the complaint had been filed a year ago in May, shortly after he was disengaged from service. His counsel Sanjay Kumar Singh moved an application under Section156 of CrPC and submitted before court that the complaint was made on May 8, 2018, to SHO, Jamia Nagar and a month later to the DCP (South East). However, no action was taken.

The Metropolitan Magistrate had directed police to produce an action taken report, which showed that an enquiry was in fact conducted and staff members were examined.

Harendra Kumar, the complainant, also approached the National Commission for Scheduled Castes and the Jamia Millia Islamia Vice-Chancellor, as the school is affiliated to the university. "I was appointed as a guest teacher in 2017, and was removed from my post in March 2018 without any reason. During my tenure, the headmaster humiliated me continuously by making me do all kinds of work including making tea, washing utensils, hanging curtains in the lab, etc. On more than one occasion, the headmaster used casteist slurs to address me," Kumar claimed. "I was told that if I do all this, I will be made permanent..."

However, Headmaster (Officiating) Mohammad Mursaleen said the allegations were "false and baseless" and that Kumar was "using his SC identity" to take "revenge": "None of what he has alleged is true. The DCP has already conducted an enquiry and found that it is all false."

While Registrar A P Siddiqui did not respond to calls and texts, Jamia PRO Ahmed Azeem said he needed time till tomorrow to respond to the matter.

Fate of 30 plots in Kant Enclave hangs in balance

Gurgaon: Four months after 14 structures in Faridabad's Kant Enclave were demolished in compliance with orders of the Supreme Court, the remaining establishments built there after 1992 are likely to meet the same fate in the coming days, with the final deadline given to residents coming to an end at midnight on Wednesday.

"The court had extended the deadline for vacating the properties to midnight of July 31 for those willing to submit undertakings stating they would vacate their establishments by then," said Sanjeev Mann, Senior Town Planner. Owners of 30 of 44 plots had promised to do the same, said officials.

"We will conduct an inspection to determine to what extent this order has been met, and then will submit a report to the Chief Secretary," he said.

In September 2018, the SC recognised that the land on which Faridabad's Kant Enclave stands as 'forest', and called for the demolition of all structures constructed there after 1992. ENS

Parvesh's mosque claims false: Minorities body

ASHNA BUTANI
NEW DELHI, AUGUST 1

THE DELHI Minorities Commission has said that it undertook a one-month investigation to look into BJP MP Parvesh Sahib Singh's claim that 54 mosques in the capital were illegal, and found that not a single one had been constructed on government land illegally.

"There is sufficient ground to initiate legal proceedings against MP Parvesh Sahib Singh for making false claims and spreading rumours to target a particular community. We may even file an FIR against him," Owais Sultan Khan, the DMC chairperson, said.

A fact-finding committee was formed by the DMC on June 24, six days after Singh wrote to the Lieutenant Governor about alleged "mushrooming of mosques on government land".

In a letter to the L-G, Singh had written: "I would like to apprise you regarding a peculiar type of trend... prevailing in whole Delhi, of mushrooming of mosques on government land, roads and secluded places".

However, Khan denied the claim, saying: "A 400-year-old mosque in Najafgarh has come under this list. The committee visited 58 masjids, 3 madrasas, 3 mazaars, 3 graveyards and one Immabada, including all those on Singh's list...."

Apart from photos, addresses and ownership details of places in the list, the DMC report also comprises photos of a number of temples that were allegedly constructed illegally. "We do not want to release a list as they have done. But there were some obvious sightings," said Khan.

When contacted, Singh said: "The Minority Commission is not a government body and has merely taken suo motu cognizance of the issue. Even though most of its members are AAP members, they do not have any right to investigate ownership of government land..."

Tihar Jail opposes plea seeking conjugal visits

PRITAM PAL SINGH
NEW DELHI, AUGUST 1

A PIL in the Delhi High Court seeking to uphold conjugal visits to jails as a fundamental right of prisoners and their spouses was opposed by Tihar Jail Thursday.

Jail authorities said no such programme was offered in any closed jail in India, and "instead, an opportunity to preserve family ties and marital stability is ensured through regular releases on parole/furlough/interim bail".

Director-General of Tihar did not agree that "conjugal visits can help curb the menace of sexual crimes in city". "How do sexual crimes committed outside prison have any relation with conjugal visits to prison as a solution to the menace," the jail said in an affidavit before a bench headed by Chief Justice D N Patel. It added: "Allowing conjugal visits in prisons... may not be feasible in light of the limited infrastructure, security concerns of visitors..."

The PIL by lawyer-social activist Amit Sahni claimed conjugal visitation rights were not provided at prisons in the state.

ROLL CALL

SONIA GANDHI: Not Present
RAHUL GANDHI: Present

5 QUESTIONS

BSP'S JAUNPUR MP SHYAM SINGH YADAV SPOKE ABOUT THE DETERIORATING LAW AND ORDER IN UTTAR PRADESH. HE SPOKE TO DEEPTIMAN TIWARY ABOUT THE UNNAO CASE AND RISE IN CRIMES AGAINST WOMEN AND DALITS.

What was the issue?
The law and order situation in UP is deteriorating... After elections, atrocities on Dalits and backwards have increased. Most of these attacks have been revengeful, perpetrated by people associated with the BJP because they did not vote for the party. Even after so many years of Independence, SCs are threatened not to vote. When they do, those who intimidated them followed up on the threat. The police is with the oppressor. SCs go to register FIR, but it is not registered. Rather they are booked on false charges.

You also spoke about the overall law and order situation in UP.
According to media reports, rapes have increased by 24 per cent in UP compared to last year. Eight women are raped every day. An MLA of the party in power had allegedly raped a minor but the FIR was initially not registered despite so many dharnas and rallies. When it was finally reported, her father was tortured and killed in police custody... People do not believe that she (Unnao rape victim) will get justice under the BJP government.

Do you think BJP should have distanced itself from the MLA?
He should have been expelled long ago... They (BJP) are fools. They are not good administrators. They are losing the trust of the people by continuing to support the member...

You said under Mayawati there was better law and order in the state.
Everyone believes that Mayawati's regime gave the best law and order situation to the state. Yogi-ji (Adityanath) does not have administrative experience. He is good at talking. He talks about finishing corruption. But it has only gone up. There is income tax terrorism in the state. These agencies have been given so much power that the officers have begun to also look after their own interests.

What should be done?
I do not think (PM) Modi is capable of correcting this. The Centre and the state government are so busy hiding their own follies that they are not able to concentrate on the job at hand.

Amid AIADMK walkout, RS nod to medical commission Bill

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
NEW DELHI, AUGUST 1

RAJYA SABHA on Thursday passed the National Medical Commission Bill to replace the "corruption-plagued" MCI with a new body. The Bill, which seeks to repeal the Indian Medical Council Act 1956, was passed by a voice vote amid a walkout by AIADMK.

The Lok Sabha had passed the Bill on July 29.

"I can say with utmost confidence and utmost sincerity at my command that this Bill... is the biggest reform of recent times in the field of medical education," Harsh Vardhan said. He said the Bill seeks to "put in place a new structure to tackle the challenges in medical education effectively".

In 2016, the Bill was referred to a Standing Committee, the minister said, and out of its 56 recommendations "40 have been fully accepted, seven partially accepted and nine not been accepted".

Congress leader Jairam Ramesh, who was part of the Standing Committee in 2016, said, "Seven have been partially accepted, that is the problem." By partially accepting them, he said, "the government has destroyed the spirit of the Standing Committee and is in danger of destroying the constitutional scheme of things by which health is a state subject and medical education is a concurrent subject". He proposed that at least 14 members of the Commission be nominated by states instead of six, as the Bill stated.

Former Union minister Suresh Prabhu said the country's medical education standards need to be uniform. "It might be state responsibility, but it is a national duty," he said.

In his reply, Harsh Vardhan said that NEET is an institutionalised body conducting examinations in 13 languages. "Once NMC Bill is approved, exit examination will be implemented in three years," he said, thanking senior Congress leader Ghulab Nabi Azad for his suggestions.

Health Minister Harsh Vardhan in Rajya Sabha on Thursday. PTI

The Bill proposes bringing uniformity in national standards in medical education by proposing that the final-year MBBS exam be treated as an entrance test for postgraduation and a screening test for students who graduate in medicine from foreign countries. This exam, called National Exit Test (NEXT), would ensure that the proposed National Medical Commission (NMC) moves away from a system of repeated inspection of infrastructure and focuses on outcome rather than processes, Vardhan said.

AIADMK's Vijila Sathyananth said the medical entrance examination was a burning issue in Tamil Nadu. "Bring a common syllabus for whole of India and then have a common entrance examination," she said. NEET and NEXT should not be enforced in the country, she added.

In his maiden speech in Rajya Sabha, TMC's Santanu Sen said the medical fraternity was against the "draconian" Bill. He said its provisions would lead to corporatisation of medical education and corruption, and was against federalism.

Supporting the Bill, JDU's Ram Nath Thakur said medical colleges should be increased. His party colleague Manoj Kumar Jha said that concerns of protesting doctors should be looked into.

DMK's Tiruchi Siva demanded that every state have representation in the Commission.

Congress's Ghulam Nabi Azad strongly opposed the provision that aims to provide licence to 3.5 lakh unqualified non-medical persons to practise modern medicine. "Are we making 70 per cent of population guinea pigs?" he asked.

Earlier, the Congress and SP urged the government to withdraw this provision, saying it will "institutionalise quackery".

EXPLAINED

Overhaul on cards as docs protest

FOR THE first time since establishment of Medical Council of India in 1956, the structure of medical education regulation in India is set for an overhaul with National Medical Commission. Doctors, however, have been protesting against a clause about a limited practice licence, which they say would encourage quackery, as well as a provision for making the final MBBS exam an entrance test for PG education. All the teething troubles for NEET PG, they say, would be in vain if ultimately a university examination is all it would take to decide who can enter a PG programme.

Oppn: Govt bringing in Bills without informing, can't take us for granted

DEEPTIMAN TIWARY
NEW DELHI, AUGUST 1

THE OPPOSITION on Thursday accused the government of pushing through Bills in the Lok Sabha in a hurry and changing the list of business late in the night giving little time to members to prepare for discussions. The Opposition has warned the government not to take members for granted.

Speaker Om Birla assured the Opposition that he would ensure members are aware of the Bills to be taken up for discussion at least a day in advance.

When proceedings began on Thursday, Congress leader of the House Adhir Ranjan Chowdhury raised the issue of the list of business having been changed late on Wednesday night. "Sir, these people are bringing Bills without informing us. At 10 pm we are informed that such and such Bill is going to be discussed. How will I prepare my members? How will I prepare the list of speakers? We should at least get two days notice."

Chowdhury was supported by TMC MP Saugata Roy, who raised a point of order citing rules which call for a copy of list of business to be distributed among members in advance. "In yesterday's list of business, three Bills were listed... The first one was Inter-State River Water Dispute (Amendment) Bill, second one was the Dam Safety Bill. So, members prepared for the Dam Safety Bill knowing that the Bill would be taken up for discussion today. Suddenly, this morning we find that the Insolvency and Bankruptcy Code (Amendment) Bill has been listed in today's list... The Bill on POCSO has been listed and also the Arbitration and Conciliation Bill... Parliament cannot function at the whims and fancies of anyone," Roy said.

However, Parliamentary Affairs Minister Prahlad Joshi said that every member had been given a copy of the Bills a fortnight ago and that the list of business was changed because the Opposition objected to a discussion on Dam Safety Bill.

Speaker Om Birla: Will make sure members are informed at least a day in advance

"The Business Advisory Committee has allotted time. The Bills have been circulated. What's the problem in that... As far as Dam Safety Bill is concerned, Adhir Ranjan Chowdhury requested me not to take it up and thus we have postponed it. We have talked to the Leader of the largest Opposition Party. What wrong has the government done?" Joshi said.

Chowdhury said he had only objected to Inter-State River Water Dispute (Amendment) Bill and Dam Safety Bill being clubbed together.

DMK MP Kanimozhi too expressed displeasure at the state of affairs. "The practice is that if the Bill is not taken up on the given day, it will be taken up the next day. But suddenly, a new practice has come up that till 9 o' clock, 10 o' clock or 11 o' clock, we have to wait for the revised list of business, and completely new Bills are brought in...There is a decorum to be followed in this House...You wanted to extend the House. We are cooperating with you but you cannot take us for granted to this extent."

After TMC MP Sudeep Bandyopadhyay and Congress MP Shashi Tharoor made similar arguments, Speaker Om Birla said, "I will discuss the issue again in BAC. I will make sure that before the Bills are listed, the information is circulated among members at least a day in advance. Members will also be informed by the office of the Speaker."

Parliament approves changes in insolvency and bankruptcy code

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
NEW DELHI, AUGUST 1

PARLIAMENT ON Thursday approved changes in the Insolvency and Bankruptcy Code (IBC), providing greater clarity over the distribution of proceeds of the auction of loan defaulting companies, with the Lok Sabha passing the Bill with voice vote. Seven sections of the code are being amended.

The Bill was passed by Rajya Sabha on Monday.

The Insolvency and Bankruptcy Code (Amendment) Bill, 2019, gives the committee of creditors of a loan defaulting company explicit authority over the distribution of proceeds in the resolution process, and fixes a firm timeline of 330 days for resolving cases referred to the IBC.

The amendments would also bring in more clarity on various provisions, including the time-bound disposal for resolution plan at the application stage, as well as the treatment of financial creditors, Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman said.

"Once the Corporate Insolvency Resolution Process (CIRP) begins, it has to be completed in 330 days, including litigation stages and judicial process," Sitharaman said, citing the proposed amendments.

The approved resolution plan would be binding on Central and state governments as well as various statutory authorities.

Sitharaman said the proposed amendments also respond to issues pertaining to financial creditors in the wake of a recent ruling with respect to financial and operational creditors.

Recently, the National Company Law Appellate Tribunal (NCLAT) had ruled in the Essar Steel Ltd's case that the Committee of Creditors (CoC) had no role in the distribution of claims, and brought lenders (financial creditors) and vendors (operational creditors) on par.

Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman in the Lok Sabha on Thursday. PTI

Sitharaman quoted a Supreme Court judgment to say that there is no longer a "defaulter's paradise" with implementation of the code. She also said the provisions of the Bill empower home buyers. "The government will endeavour to do full justice to them," she said, adding that the government was also looking at ways to resolve the issue concerning buyers of flats from JP Group of companies.

On issues concerning Jet Airways, the minister said that the stakeholders were free to work out a resolution plan and they were not obliged to use the IBC, which is optional.

Earlier, participating in the debate, Gaurav Gogoi of the Congress said the performance of the IBC has been a mixed bag. He also raised concerns about the liquidation of companies, especially firms in the real estate sector, that put home buyers' life savings at risk.

M Srinivasulu Reddy of the YSRCP referred to the death of Cafe Coffee Day founder V G Siddhartha and said industries are sick because of business failures. "The government is working towards 'ease of doing business', whereas there is an increase in 'difficulties in doing business'," he said.

POCSO amendments passed in Lok Sabha

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
NEW DELHI, AUGUST 1

THE PROTECTION of Children from Sexual Offences (Amendment) Bill, 2019, which provides the death penalty for aggravated sexual assault on children, was passed in Lok Sabha on Thursday. It was passed by Rajya Sabha on July 29.

Replying to the debate on the Bill, Women and Child Development Minister Smriti Irani said there are 6.2 lakh names on the National Registry of Sex Offenders launched by the Centre last year, and 1,023 fast-track courts to try child sexual abuse cases are being set up across India under the Nirbhaya Fund.

She said fast-track courts would be set up in the next two years. "Eighteen states have already come forward to join hands with the Centre to set up these courts. Each court will be given Rs 75 lakh as administrative expenses," she said.

The Bill was unanimously passed in the Lok Sabha in a rare show of consensus with the only exception being AIMIM's Asaduddin Owaisi, who opposed the death penalty clause. "Since in most of the cases child sexual assault is done by someone from within the family, the death penalty will make it very difficult for the victim to actually report the case. She will be under pressure from the family to not report it. I oppose the Bill," he said.

WCD Minister Smriti Irani at Parliament House on Thursday. PTI

When Ramya Haridas, Congress MP from Kerala, brought up the Unnao rape case, the treasury benches said the Congress was trying to score political points over a Bill that was being passed to protect children of the country.

Irani said that she has held meetings with several ministries over the issue of protection of children against sexual abuse. The Home Ministry will set up an online dashboard for monitoring sexual abuse cases, while the HRD Ministry will introducing teaching of "good touch, bad touch" in schools, she said.

Irani said the Bill aims at making offences against children gender-neutral. She said the Bill defines child pornography so that sexual predators indulging in such heinous crimes could be punished.

Participating in the debate, Thirunavukkarasar of the Congress suggested that since the Bill has a provision for the death penalty, it should be sent to a Parliamentary committee for further scrutiny.

DMK member Kanimozhi said the Bill should be sent to a select committee or standing committee as harsher punishment could deter people from reporting the crime.

Ambiguity in UAPA Bill, send it to House panel: Oppn in RS

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
NEW DELHI, AUGUST 1

THE OPPOSITION on Thursday criticised the Unlawful Activities (Prevention) Amendment Bill 2019 in Rajya Sabha, saying it does not clearly state as to how a person would be labelled a terrorist and that the provision could be misused.

The Congress-led Opposition demanded the Bill be sent to a select committee for further discussion, as in the current form it could be struck down by the court.

Speaking during the debate on the Bill, Congress leader Kapil Sibal said it could be misused to label anyone as a terrorist. "I support this Bill if you agree to send this to a select committee. Otherwise I oppose it," Sibal said. He said every member in the House is against terrorism but at the same time it was the responsibility of all parties to see that the law is not misused.

Citing previous anti-terror laws like TADA and POTA, Sibal said there were several instances where such laws were misused in the country. "Misuse happens... We want to fight terrorism but we should also know what is happening on the ground... the Bill will be challenged in the Court and struck down... then again it will have to be brought to Parliament... it is endless process," Sibal said. "We are not against the Bill but how will you label a person terrorist? It is not clear in the Bill."

Sibal said it is the prerogative of the Opposition to protest against certain provisions of the Bill which they think are not right. "We have lost two Prime Ministers, one Chief Minister to terrorism. Nobody has suffered more than us. Still we know that we should not misuse such laws," he said.

'Bill will be challenged in court and struck down... then again it will have to be brought to Parliament.'

Opposing the Bill, TMC's Sukhendu Sekhar Ray said there was no need to bring the legislation when the UAPA Act was already there. He said the Bill would be used to target people who are critical of the government. People would be labelled as "urban Naxals" and part of "tukde-tukde gang" and brought under the purview of this Bill, he said.

SP's Ram Gopal Yadav said there should be no ambiguity in the Bill.

Intervening in the debate, Minister of State for Home Affairs G Kishan Reddy said the government has brought the Bill to designate individuals engaged in terror activities as terrorists. The minister said those like Masood Azhar have been designated as international terrorists and the Bill would help the government to label such individuals as terrorists.

AIADMK member S Muthukaruppan supported the Bill, saying it is essential to counter terrorism inside and outside the country.

BJD's Prasanna Acharya also backed the legislation and said it has been brought at very appropriate time. However, he said the government should learn from history and "never try to misuse this law".

Supporting the Bill, JD(U)'s Ramnath Thakur suggested that the NIA be made powerful as the FBI of the US.

In his maiden speech in Rajya Sabha, MDMK leader Vaiko vehemently opposed the Bill, saying it would strangle the voice of minorities and all those who love freedom. He said that laws like POTA, TADA and sedition have been misused by various governments in the past. Vaiko said the amendment Bill is highly "undemocratic", "unconstitutional" and "unwarranted". He said that the legislation usurps the power of states and said the country should be called "United States of India".

The debate will continue on Friday.

DELHI CONFIDENTIAL

A DIFFERENT CONCERN

LOK SABHA members frequently flag issues concerning their constituents, but rarely find an opportunity to articulate their own problems. As the Lower House debated the Public Premises (Eviction of Unauthorised Occupants) Amendment Bill 2019 on Wednesday, Congress floor leader Adhir Ranjan Chowdhury revealed how he was first allotted a bungalow that had been already given to a senior officer, only to be followed by the offer of a dilapidated house. Meanwhile, he was threatened with eviction from the place where he was living. As he fought a court battle, he ended up giving the impression that he was hankering after a bungalow. Chowdhury's demand: A robust law, but also a redressal mechanism.

APT CHOICE

THE DELHI trial court judge who will now hear the Unnao case has played a pivotal role in introduction of vulnerable witness courtrooms in the national capital. The Unnao case has again highlighted the lack of protection for witnesses, victims and their relatives in sensitive criminal trials. It came as no surprise when Chief Justice of India Ranjan Gogoi, after detailed discussion in his chambers, decided that Tis Hazari district judge Dharmesh Sharma would hear the Unnao case. District judge Sharma has also worked extensively on witness protection programme in the national capital when he was secretary of Delhi Legal Services Authority.

EMOTIONAL ADDRESS

WHILE ADDRESSING the Indian community in Gambia's Banjul on July 31, President Ram Nath Kovind became emotional. This, he said, was due to the energy displayed by the community on his arrival. Kovind largely spoke extempore, and many in the audience were almost in tears due to the emotions evoked by his speech. Kovind is on a three-nation visit to Benin, The Gambia and Guinea.

Bihar to allot plots in Patna to legislators to build houses

Allotment to be through society, rates likely to be one-sixth of market price

SANTOSH SINGH
PATNA, AUGUST 1

AFTER HIKING the salary of legislators by about 30 per cent last November, the Bihar government has now decided to allot 2,650 sqft land in Patna to each serving legislator to build a house.

The government has decided to allot, through a society, the plots at "minimum rate", which should be Rs 15-Rs 20 lakh per katha (1,325 sqft) as compared to circle rate of Rs 65-70 lakh and market rate of Rs 1-1.25 crore. There are 243 MLAs and 75 MLCs in the state.

Bihar State Awas Board, which already has 32 bighas in its possession along Ashiana Nagar-Digha Road in the state capital, will distribute the 2,650 sqft land to each legislator through Navvihar Vidan Mandal Sadasaya Grih Nirman Swablambi Sahkari Samiti Limited Patna. The society is likely to start functioning from August-end or September. The Bihar State Cooperative Federation and Bihar Land Development Bank will be the nodal bodies to allot land.

A cooperative department official said: "Bihar legislature recently endorsed formation of the society. Parliamentary Affairs Minister Shravan Kumar will be its chairman, Cooperative Minister Rana Randhir Singh its secretary and BJP legislator Sachindra Prasad Singh its treasurer. The three will be collectively responsible for land allotment." The state housing board has enough land to accommodate 318 legislators, the official added.

Asked about the need for allotment of land to legislators at "highly subsidised rates", Kumar said: "Let the society be registered first. There will be rules and bylaws."

A cooperative department source, however, said the the state housing board had been lying idle and grappling with problems of land encroachment. "The government has decided to get every legislator a home of his/her own in Patna," said the source, adding that many legislators had to stay on rent to attend House sessions.

An RJD leader said: "The government's decision will be a bounty for legislators before 2020 Assembly elections. We too are finding it difficult to criticise it, as 81 of our MLAs are likely to benefit."

For Ashiana road area, the current circle rates are: price of land per decimal (435.5 sqft) on principal road is Rs 30 lakh, principal road (residential/ commercial) is Rs 25.5 lakh, Rs 22.5 lakh on main road and Rs 20 lakh on inner road.

A city builder said: "Market rate of land in this area is between Rs 1 crore and Rs 1.25 crore. A legislator getting it at one-third of circle rate and one-sixth of market rate is largesse."

A residential colony of Bihar legislators already exists near the veterinary college, where leaders like former Speaker Radhanandan Jha and RJD leaders Lalu Prasad and Rabri Devi have houses. Besides, the government has been constructing duplex bungalows for sitting legislators for about Rs 600 crore.

Last November, the Bihar government gave 30 per cent salary hike to its legislators. The cumulative salary with sundry allowances and house rent of a legislator has gone up from Rs 1,57,500 to Rs 2,00,000 a month now.

EXPLAINED

Eye on polls, largesse continues

THE GOVERNMENT bid to allot land to legislators for houses in Patna seems to be a continuation of its please-all policy to reach out to them before 2020 Assembly elections. Chief Minister Nitish Kumar, in particular, looks to reach out to the RJD, which has 81 MLAs. With leaders already beginning to cross over, the largesse may help the JD(U) president win over some more MLAs before the next election.

For CM's personal trip security, Andhra govt to pay Israeli firm Rs 22.5 lakh

SREENIVAS JANYALA
HYDERABAD, AUGUST 1

THE ANDHRA Pradesh government has sanctioned Rs 22.5 lakh to be paid to an Israeli firm to arrange security for Chief Minister Y S Jagan Mohan Reddy during his four-day "personal" trip to Jerusalem starting Thursday, according to an official order.

The expenditure comes at a time when the YSRCP leader, who stormed to power in the Assembly elections two months ago, has been advocating austerity measures in the cash-strapped state.

On July 31, the state's General Administration Department (GAD) issued an order to release Rs 22,52,500 for the Chief Minister's security for his visit from August 1 to 4. The order states that the amount is to be paid to Rehovot-based Triple S Tours and Travels through Airtravel Enterprises India Ltd.

"Tour of Sri Y S Jagan Mohan Reddy, Chief Minister of Andhra Pradesh, to Jerusalem, Israel from 01-08-2019 to 04-08-2019 on personal reasons — Sanction of an amount of Rs 22,52,500 towards security arrangements to Chief Minister of Andhra Pradesh in Israel," the order states.

It states that the amount has been sanctioned on an "invoice from Triple S Tours and Travels, 96, Herzel, St, Rehovot, Israel for an amount of US$ 30,591 for making security arrangements".

The latest order follows a set of three separate government orders issued over the last two months that earmarked funds for domestic logistics and security for the Chief Minister.

On June 26, a Government Order (No.133) sanctioned Rs 1.89 crore to strengthen his security, including Rs 75 lakh for permanent barricading and Rs 40 lakh for a helipad, fencing and approach road near his residence at Tadepalli in Guntur.

On June 25, through another order (GO No. 132), Rs 5 crore was sanctioned to widen a 1.30-km road connecting Jagan's residence with NH 16. Opposition TDP leaders, including Nara Lokesh, had termed this expense as "a burden on the exchequer".

On July 22, through GO No. 160, the government sanctioned Rs 24.5 lakh to provide security at Jagan's Lotus Pond residence in Hyderabad's Banjara Hills. Jagan shifted to his new residence at Tadepalli on June 22, but stays at the Lotus Pond address when he visits Hyderabad.

Visiting Jerusalem from August 1-4

When contacted, Andhra Chief Secretary L V Subramanyam said the state paying for a CM's security arrangements abroad is "not new". "Our security officers, even if they accompany the CM, are not allowed to carry firearms, or undertake surveillance. For this reason, the arrangements have to be assigned to an agency at the place visited by the CM," he said.

On the other expenditure, Subramanyam said they were part of the development master plan for Tadepalli village.

Jagan is visiting Israel after a gap of three years, and the latest visit will be his first trip abroad after becoming Chief Minister. Jagan's father and former Chief Minister, the late Y S Rajashekar Reddy, used to be a regular visitor to Bethlehem and Jerusalem.

According to officials, the Andhra CM is expected to make another personal trip this month — to the US to admit his daughter to a university. Jagan and his wife Bharathi are likely to visit the US from August 16, they said.

On July 30, the CBI Special Court granted permission to Jagan to go abroad from August 1 to 25. Jagan is out on bail in a disproportionate assets case that is being heard in the CBI court, and the bail condition requires him to take permission before travelling abroad.

On Thursday, Jagan arrived in Hyderabad from Vijayawada on a special flight on his way to Israel. Before catching a flight to Tel Aviv, he met Telangana Chief Minister K Chandrashekar Rao to discuss the agenda for a meeting with the Centre over the Godavari water-sharing issue. After returning from Israel, Jagan is scheduled to visit New Delhi to meet Prime Minister Narendra Modi, Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman and Home Minister Amit Shah to seek funds and aid for Andhra Pradesh.

NAVEED IQBAL
SRINAGAR, AUGUST 1

A NATIONAL Conference delegation led by party president Dr Farooq Abdullah met Prime Minister Narendra Modi on Thursday and urged him not to take any "precipitous steps" that may lead to a deterioration in the law and order situation of Jammu and Kashmir.

The meeting was attended by NC vice-president Omar Abdullah and Anantnag MP Justice (retired) Hasnain Masoodi. The party delegation also sought Assembly elections "before the onset of winter."

The party said in a statement that the Prime Minister was apprised of "the panic and the anxiety that has gripped Kashmir following undue rumour-mongering. The delegation acquainted the PM about the anxiousness that has beset the state in wake of deployment of troops and undue tinkering with the states special status. They urged the PM that no pronouncement that might vitiate the peaceful atmosphere of the state should be made."

After the meeting, former chief minister Omar Abdullah tweeted, "We requested him that no precipitous steps of any sort should be taken that may result in situation in the state, particularly the valley, worsening. We specifically asked him to let sub-judice matters be settled by the courts & other matters be settled by an elected government."

Omar said the meeting took place in a cordial atmosphere.

Speaking to The Indian Express, Masoodi said, "We have recommended to the PM not to consider any political, legal or administrative move at the moment since the Amarnath Yatra is on and there is good tourist inflow to the Valley. Orders regarding troop movement or stocking rations create panic, even though the Governor's statements have eased things relatively."

Masoodi said that through the course of the meeting, the Prime Minister was "receptive and positive".

The National Conference political affairs committee is set to meet on Sunday to discuss the further course of action.

"Having received a number of requests especially from @MehboobaMufti Sahiba & as a follow up to today's meeting with @PMOIndia, @JKNC_President Dr Farooq Abdullah Sb will be reaching out to political leaders of the state to meet on Sunday to discuss the prevailing situation," Omar tweeted on Thursday night. PDP president Mehbooba Mufti had earlier requested Farooq Abdullah to convene an all-party meeting.

Meanwhile, People's Conference chairman Sajad Lone has questioned the NC's decision to unilaterally meet the Prime Minister. "What on earth happened to the supposed collective action. Is it a rush for brownie points or mercy petition for economic crimes. The innocent people of Kashmir will never know," he tweeted.

Karnataka: Nine more MLAs move SC against disqualification

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
NEW DELHI, AUGUST 1

NINE MORE disqualified MLAs from Karnataka approached the Supreme Court on Thursday, challenging the Speaker's July 28 decision to reject their resignations and disqualify them. Those who have approached the court are A H Vishwanath, K Gopalaiah, K C Narayana Gowda, Pratapgouda Patil, B C Patil, Arbail Shivaram Hebbar, S T Somashekhar, B A Basavaraj and Munirathna.

Three other disqualified MLAs, Ramesh Jharkiholi, Mahesh Kumathalli and R Shankar moved the court earlier this week against the Speaker's order to disqualify them.

In the fresh plea, the applicants said their they have a fundamental right under Article 19 to carry on any trade, business and profession. "Their right to resign from the post of MLA and carry on any vocation of their choice including public service cannot be denied by the...Speaker by a completely illegal and unconstitutional order," the plea said and added that the action of the Speaker violated the fundamental rights of the petitioners under Articles 19 and 21.

The Speaker, they contended, has grossly erred in holding that the resignations of the petitioners was not "voluntary and genuine". Under Article 190 of the Constitution read with Rule 202 of the Karnataka Assembly, a member can deliver resignation signed in his own hand and the Speaker is only to satisfy himself about genuineness and voluntariness of the resignation, the plea said. They "stated that there is no doubt that the resignations are voluntary and genuine".

LEADERSHIP CRISIS

CWC meet after Parliament session, Cong may buy time

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
NEW DELHI, AUGUST 1

THE LEADERSHIP crisis in the Congress triggered by the resignation of Rahul Gandhi as party chief is showing no signs of an end. The top leadership of the party is yet to arrive at a consensus on his successor and all indications are that the Congress Working Committee, which will meet after the Parliament session, could buy more time by either appointing a provisional president or entrusting a group of leaders the task of finding a new president.

With the party gearing up to celebrate the 75th birth anniversary of Rajiv Gandhi on August 20 in a big way, there is an element of urgency to address the leadership vacuum before this and the CWC would meet after August 7 to put in place an alternative arrangement. The delay in the convening of the meeting of the CWC came up for mention at a meeting — of Congress general secretaries and in-charges of states — convened to chalk out programmes for celebrating Rajiv's birth anniversary and Mahatma Gandhi's 150th birth anniversary.

Sources said veteran leader Ghulam Nabi Azad and AICC in-charge of Jharkhand R P N Singh told the meeting that the CWC should be convened soon to address the situation triggered by Rahul's resignation. AICC treasurer Ahmed Patel told the gathering that the Committee would meet after the Parliament session comes to an end, taking into account the availability of Rahul and Sonia Gandhi.

After the meeting, a top leader said there could be two-three scenarios — the CWC could either appoint a provisional president, task a group of leaders with the job of finding a new president, or it could announce a timeline for holding of elections for the post of Congress president.

AICC communication department in-charge Randeep Surjewala said the date for the CWC meeting has not been finalised yet, but asserted that Rahul would attend the meeting since he is an integral part of the Working Committee. On May 28, three days after the results of the Lok Sabha polls, Rahul had conveyed to the Committee his decision to step down taking responsibility for the party's rout. He made his decision public a month later. But even after two months, the Congress has not been able to appoint his successor or put in place an alternative arrangement.

While a section of leaders want Priyanka Gandhi Vadra to take over, leaders close to the Nehru-Gandhi family claim she is not interested. Many senior leaders, however, believe Priyanka would eventually take over as the Congress president. They say the argument that she is not interested in the top job is largely because the timing now is not right.

AHEAD OF POLLS, CM BEGINS MAHAJANADESH YATRA

Fadnavis: Will make Maharashtra drought-free in next five years

SHUBHANGI KHAPRE
GURUKUNJ MORJARI (AMRAVATI), AUGUST 1

PROMISING TO make Maharashtra drought-free in the next five years, Chief Minister Devendra Fadnavis on Thursday embarked on the 'Mahajanadesh Yatra', seeking absolute majority in the upcoming state polls.

Speaking at a rally in Amravati district's Gurukunj Morjari, in the presence of Defence Minister Rajnath Singh, Fadnavis said: "My biggest concern is drought. Even after ushering in sweeping reforms in multiple sectors, drought-free Maharashtra is yet to be accomplished."

"In the next five years, we will make Maharashtra drought free. I promise the people that we will not allow the next generation to go through hardships that come with drought. This is my resolve and commitment to the people and farmers," he added.

Taking on the Opposition, Fadnavis said that in the last five years, his government has spent Rs 50,000 crore for farmer welfare, compared to less than Rs 20,000 crore allocated during the 15 years of Congress-NCP rule.

He added that the yatra is aimed at giving an account to the people what the BJP-led government had done in the last five years. "I am confident of getting absolute majority in the elections. There is no ambiguity about our return to power," the CM said.

Speaking on the occasion, Rajnath described Fadnavis as a charismatic leader. "At the young age of 44, when he took over the reins of Maharashtra, many had wondered if he would be able to rule such a complex state. But he has proved his mettle... Five years ago, he had succeeded in winning the confidence of the people. Now, in the next five years, I am confident that he will live in the heart of every individual through his good governance."

In the first phase of yatra, which will continue till August 9, Fadnavis will visit Vidarbha and parts of north Maharashtra.

AGUSTAWESTLAND CHOPPER SCAM

Kamal Nath nephew's counsel: ED made contradictory statements

ANAND MOHAN J
NEW DELHI, AUGUST 1

THE COUNSEL of Ratul Puri, who is under the scanner for allegedly receiving kickbacks in the AgustaWestland chopper scam, on Thursday told a Delhi court that the Enforcement Directorate had made "contradictory statements" pertaining to a "missing witness" and added that the agency had made an attempt to "prejudice the judge".

The statement by the counsel of Puri — the nephew of Madhya Pradesh Chief Minister Kamal Nath — came after the ED on Tuesday had told the court that a witness in the AgustaWestland case, whose identity was disclosed as K K Khosla, "must have been killed". The agency said that "his family was too scared to register an FIR".

However, on Wednesday, ED special prosecutor D P Singh told the judge, "A little birdie tells us that we might have Khosla today or tomorrow somewhere."

On Thursday, Senior advocate Abhishek Manu Singhvi, appearing for Puri, told Special Judge Arvind Kumar that the ED's case was "prejudiced", and that it was the "utter irresponsibility of the prosecution" to claim that "Khosla not only vanished but might have been killed".

"If you want to prejudice the judge then don't do it clumsily. This imaginary murder... that I (Puri) am so influential that I got him killed, and his family does not file an FIR? The ED is terrified of filing an FIR? What will happen if he (Khosla) suddenly appears? Then the ED will say I used the word murder and in my dictionary murder and kidnapping are the same."

He said, "This is not responsible prosecuting, this is not even persecuting. Paint the man black...give the dog a bad name and hang him," Singhvi told the court.

Advocate Vijay Aggarwal, also appearing for Puri, told the court that the ED made contradicting statements. "One day they say he may have been killed, then the next day there is some other statement. There was a mention of a birdie." To this, Singh replied, "I had said that. There is a buzz that in one hour's notice... he will re-emerge. I still do not know whether he is alive or not or whether is absconding or not."

Aggarwal replied, "Will the court decide the matter on the basis of a buzz?"

Puri's counsel also told the court that the ED showed the judge a mobile phone and some statements, but they were not provided with the same for a fair chance to rebut. His counsel further submitted that Puri was not a flight risk and was willing to provide them with documents and meet with the officials at any given time.

Aggarwal asked if they could be provided with the case files, to which the judge said, "We will decide." Aggarwal then claimed that the ED during their arguments said that "Puri is guilty of money laundering and is tampering beyond reasonable doubt". "This shows that I will not be given a fair trial. Prosecution is the judge," Aggarwal said. The arguments in the case remained inconclusive, and will continue on Friday.

Based on land-grab FIRs, ED books Azam for money laundering

New Delhi: The Enforcement Directorate has booked Samajwadi Party leader Azam Khan for alleged money laundering in connection with a case of alleged land grabbing in Uttar Pradesh.

The ED case against the Rampur MP, sources said, is based on more than two dozen FIRs registered by the Uttar Pradesh police in this matter.

An agency official said the ED has taken cognizance of at least 26 UP Police FIRs against Khan in which he is alleged to have grabbed land in different villages by threatening and extortion.

Notably, Khan's name was added to the state government's anti-land mafia website after its launch in June 2017. Khan has earlier denied the allegations and said he was being targeted because he had defeated the BJP in Rampur. ENS

Karti challenges ED eviction notice

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE

Karti Chidambaram

A DAY after the Enforcement Directorate (ED) served an eviction notice to Karti Chidambaram, son of former Finance Minister P Chidambaram, with regard to his Jor Bagh residence, Karti challenged the notice, saying it was in violation of the law.

The house, in the name of Karti and his mother Nalini, had been attached by the ED last year in connection with its money-laundering probe into the INX Media case. The attachment was subsequently confirmed by the Adjudicating Authority under Prevention of Money Laundering Act (PMLA), following which the ED asked Karti to vacate his bungalow on Wednesday.

Challenging the notice in the Authority on Thursday, Karti said it was in violation of the law and alleged that "political vendetta" was behind the move. "The central government has been pursuing a politically motivated vendetta against the family of P Chidambaram, especially his son Karti and all persons even remotely connected to the appellant including his mother Nalini," PTI quoted his plea as saying.

The petition contended that the order and the entire attachment proceedings in the case are "bad in law" and the notice under Section 8(4) PMLA is purely a "mala fide" exercise of power to "prejudice" him. The plea requested that the operation of the notice be stayed.

The property was attached by the ED on October 10 last year, and confirmed by the authority on March 29, following which the directions were given, the notice said. In response to the developments then, Karti had called the order "bizarre and outlandish" and based on "crazy conjectures".

"This is meant only to grab headlines. The order will not withstand judicial scrutiny, review or appeal. Will approach the appropriate legal forum," Karti had tweeted.

In May 2017, the CBI filed an FIR naming, among others, Karti and INX Media for alleged irregularities in clearance from the FIPB to the media group for receiving overseas funds in 2007 when Chidambaram was Finance Minister. The CBI alleged that INX Media's FDI proposal was "deceitful and fallacious" but was still granted approval "by virtue of influence exercised over them (FIPB) by Karti P Chidambaram".

AIRCEL-MAXIS CASE

Court extends interim protection from arrest to Chidambaram, son

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
NEW DELHI, AUGUST 1

A DELHI court on Thursday extended till August 9 the interim protection from arrest to former Union minister P Chidambaram and his son Karti Chidambaram in the Aircel-Maxis cases filed by the CBI and the ED.

Special Judge O P Saini extended the relief after the argument on their anticipatory bail plea remained inconclusive as both the agencies sought time to argue the matter further.

In his order, judge Saini said, "Special Public Prosecutor Sonia Mathur, Advocate for ED, prays for adjournment on the ground that Solicitor General Tushar Mehta is not available today, which is strongly opposed by learned counsel for the accused. Reluctantly allowed."

During the hearing, Senior Advocate Kapil Sibal, who appeared for the Chidambarams, told the court that none of the accused have been arrested in the Aircel-Maxis case and that the investigation against them was already complete in both the matters and no purpose will be served by taking them in custody. "There is no allegation of tampering. It is not that I will flee. Both are Members of Parliament. Entire record is documentary. No allegation so far that I approached any witness or tried to influence the probe."

Vadodara: 499 mm rainfall over 24 hrs wreaks havoc

VADODARA, GANDHINAGAR, AUGUST 1

A STAGGERING 499 mm of rainfall in 24 hours till 8 am Thursday and a swollen Vishwamitri river left nearly 90 per cent of Vadodara inundated. The city was marooned as flight operations were suspended, railway tracks flooded and highway entry points into the city became inaccessible due to waterlogging. Flight operations, however, resumed in the evening.

The Vishwamitri river, which crossed the danger mark of 26 feet within three hours of downpour on Wednesday evening, began flowing above 34 feet on Thursday morning.

Four persons died in a wall collapse in Bajwa area late on Wednesday, and Vadodara district collector Shalini Agarwal told PTI that the body of an unknown man was recovered from Khodiyarnagar area Thursday. "The administration has shifted more than 4,500 people to safer places and evacuated 1,200 persons who were stranded in houses due to water-logging," she said.

Gujarat Chief Minister Vijay Rupani held a meeting in state capital Gandhinagar to take stock of the situation. He said that 75,000 food packets were prepared for distribution to people stranded in the waterlogged areas.

Rupani said that the Prime Minister's Office was constantly in touch with the state government over the situation in Vadodara and five additional teams of NDRF were flown in from Pune. Four NDRF teams are already in Vadodara, he added. Four teams of SDRF, two teams of Army and two companies of State Reserve Police were also deployed for rescue operations.

Two columns of the Army comprising 140 men were assisting the local administration, while two additional columns were kept on stand-by. The Indian Air Force (IAF) stationed two medium lift M-17 helicopters at Vadodara.

3 crocodiles rescued from flood waters

VADODARA, AUGUST 1

THE FOREST Department of Vadodara has so far rescued three crocodiles which had swum to residential areas after water from the Vishwamitri river flooded the city. However, the officials warned that more crocodiles will surface when the water starts receding.

"So far, we have rescued three crocodiles — one of them from a society on Rajmahal road, and two from societies in Nizampura area of the city," Assistant Conservator of Forests Vinod Damor said.

"The crocodile rescued from Rajmahal road was four feet long and nearly six years old while the others were baby crocodiles of about two years of age. They have been moved to our rescue centre for now."

Saying that it was likely that more crocodiles would be spotted once the water starts receding, Damor added, "The actual challenge is then. We have circulated our helpline numbers but there have been no more calls so far. We had also rescued a big tortoise from Fatehgunj area of the city. The forest department has circulated contact details of officials concerned and volunteers to be approached in each area in case of any emergency related to wildlife.

Speaking to the media, Gujarat Chief Minister Vijay Rupani said teams of Forest Department officials and voluntary organisations were keeping watch on the situation to catch any crocodile that is found from the waterlogged Vadodara city.

In a video that went viral of the crocodile rescued from Rajmahal road, the reptile is seen creeping up to two dogs stranded in the flooded waters and attacking one of them. Residents of the society could do nothing but watch. In the video, the dog is seen yelping and freeing itself from the jaws of the small crocodile.

The Vishwamitri river is home to nearly 300 crocodiles, as per the last census. Sighting a crocodile in residential areas close to the river is not uncommon but with the river water entering the city, the number of sightings is likely to rise.

UNNAO RAPE VICTIM INJURED IN ACCIDENT

Among the accused: UP minister's son-in-law, Sengar brother, aides

AVANEESH MISHRA
LUCKNOW, AUGUST 1

UNNAO'S NAWABGANJ block pramukh Arun Singh, who has been booked in connection with the accident in which the Unnao rape victim was critically injured, is the son-in-law of Uttar Pradesh Minister of State for Agriculture, Agriculture Education and Agriculture Research, Ranvendra Pratap Singh aka Dhunni Singh.

Dhunni (55) is a second-time MLA from Hussainganj constituency in Fatehpur. According to Dhunni's personal secretary Mohammad Saleem, he won the seat on a BJP ticket in 2007 and then in 2017, after which he was given a ministerial post.

BJP sources said that Dhunni joined the party in 2006. In 2012 he was made its Fatehpur district president. His affidavit for the 2017 Assembly elections shows that he runs a brick kiln and is in the dairy business. He does not have any pending criminal cases against him.

Dhunni's son-in-law Arun Singh (34) has been named in the FIR registered for murder, attempt to murder, criminal intimidation and criminal conspiracy in connection with Sunday's accident in Rae Bareli.

Arun told The Indian Express he joined the BJP in 2003 and was later made Bharatiya Janata Yuva Morcha district vice-president. He was made Nawabganj block pramukh in 2016. He married Dhunni's daughter in 2009 and resides in Nawabganj town.

Arun Singh

Denying all the allegations against him, Arun claimed he was booked as part of a political conspiracy by someone who has been misguiding the victim's family.

"This person, who has his name mentioned in the FIR complaint as an acquaintance, made his wife contest the block pramukh election against me. Since she lost the election, he is using the victim's family's grief to take revenge on me. I want justice for the victim's family and for myself. I want the CBI to do a narco test on me and everything will be clear," he said, claiming he was on the Amarnath Yatra when the accident took place.

Arun claimed he had no connection with the victim's family and did not even go to her village. "I did not even know who they were. I came to know about the victim's uncle (complainant of the FIR) and others after the case was highlighted by the media," he said.

In addition to MLA Kuldeep Singh Sengar and Arun Singh, there are eight others named in the FIR. One of them, Manoj Singh Sengar, is the younger brother of Kuldeep. Sources said he was living in Unnao city area and his family residence in the village was locked since the rape case issue hit the headlines.

The FIR also names Vinod Mishra who, according to village sources, is a close aide of Kuldeep, lives in the same village and runs a transport business. Mishra used to manage Kuldeep's finances.

Husband of Shashi Singh, Haripal Singh has also been named in the FIR. Haripal is the father of gangrape accused Shubham Singh, and was the complainant in the case registered against the victim's family members for allegedly forging documents to prove that the victim was a minor at the time of the alleged sexual assault by Kuldeep.

The son of Haripal and Shashi, Naveen Singh is another accused. A close aide of Kuldeep and a contractor by profession, Komal Singh is the sixth accused.

While Arun is number seven, Gyanendra Singh, who calls himself the brother of Kuldeep and earlier worked as a journalist in a Hindi news daily, has been named in the FIR. Rinku Singh, a close aide of Kuldeep, and Awadhesh Singh, a lawyer and close associate of Kuldeep, have also been named.

Apart from these 10, 15-20 unidentified people are mentioned in the FIR.

Three cops in victim's security team suspended

LUCKNOW, AUGUST 1

FOUR DAYS after the Unnao rape victim and her lawyer were critically injured after the car in which they were travelling to Rae Bareli was hit by a speeding truck head-on, three police personnel tasked with protecting her were suspended on Thursday for alleged dereliction of duty.

Unnao SP Madhawa Prasad Verma said that he has suspended two women constables — Ruby Patel and Sunita Devi — and gunner Sudesh Kumar, who were deployed for the security of the rape victim, for not accompanying her when she had left for Rae Bareli with her two aunts and the lawyer on Sunday.

The victim's two aunts were killed in the accident, while her condition and that of her lawyer continues to be critical at the KGMU Trauma Centre in Lucknow.

SP Verma said that the three police personnel also did not inform their immediate superiors when the victim had reportedly asked them to stay back.

Nine police personnel were deployed for her security and three of them were to travel with her at all times. Earlier, the SP had said that the woman had asked her security escort not to accompany as there "was no space in the vehicle".

The woman's uncle has also alleged that his wife, who died in the accident, and others had told him that BJP MLA Kuldeep Sengar, accused of rape, and his associates regularly pressured them to change their statements in court.

The uncle claimed that Sengar's associates also threatened to kill his family in a road accident if they failed to strike a compromise with him.

Victim, lawyer still critical but stable: doctors

Lucknow: The condition of the Unnao rape victim and her lawyer remained critical, but stable, doctors at King George Medical University Trauma Centre said on Thursday. However, they added that the lawyer is showing signs of improvement and he was being put out of ventilator for some time.

"The condition of both the patients... remains critical but stable. While the lawyer is being taken out of ventilator for trial from time to time, the woman is constantly on a ventilator. Both the patients are being looked after by a team of expert doctors," said Sandeep Tiwari, in-charge of the Trauma Centre.

Meanwhile, the CBI team investigating the accident case visited the Trauma Centre twice and talked to the family members of the victim and lawyer. They also spoke to doctors and sought their opinion if she could be airlifted to Delhi. ENS

August, September rainfall likely to be normal: IMD

ANJALI MARAR
PUNE, AUGUST 1

RAINFALL DURING August and September and the countrywide monsoon are likely to be normal, according to the latest forecast issued by the India Meteorological Department (IMD) for the second half of monsoon.

As per the forecast released on Thursday, August rainfall is expected to be 100 per cent of the Long Period Average (LPA) this year. This will be a continuing trend to the July rainfall, when the country received over 104 per cent of the LPA, bringing down the June deficiency of 33 per cent to 9 per cent below normal.

According to IMD, the country's LPA of the monsoon season is 89 cm, based on the average rainfall for the 1951-2000 period. Similarly, IMD maintains monthly-LPA figures — for August it is 26.13 cm and for September 17.34 cm.

"This year, rainfall during August will be 99 per cent of LPA and the season is expected to receive rainfall up to 96 per cent of LPA," the latest forecast suggested.

With the effect of El Nino fading away, other atmospheric factors that positively influence the Southwest monsoon are in the positive phase.

"The positive Indian Ocean Dipole conditions, which currently persist, will continue throughout this monsoon season," the forecast suggested.

With a fresh low pressure system set to form over Bay of Bengal around August 4 and expected to move northward, the IMD has indicated at rainfall intensifying over Delhi, Punjab, Haryana, Chandigarh, west Uttar Pradesh and Himalayan regions in the remaining days of this week. Since July 30, many areas in Jammu and Kashmir have been experiencing heavy spells of rainfall and this is expected to prevail till the weekend.

Some areas in Gujarat and southeast Rajasthan, too, received extremely heavy rainfall on July 31 and this will continue till the weekend, Met officials noted.

Rainfall will be back over Kerala, Karnataka and regions in the west coast.

"There will be rainfall throughout the country till August 8, only after which weather models indicate of some reduction in the activity," IMD's Extended Range Forecasts suggested.

EXPLAINED

Deficit likely to be wiped out

JULY AND August together contribute about 70 per cent of the total monsoon rainfall. With IMD predicting good rainfall for August as well, the deficiency in rainfall early in the monsoon season, mainly due to late arrival, is expected to be wiped out. With the weakening El Nino posing no threat during the latter half of the season, the cumulative rainfall at the end of the season is likely to remain close to normal.

VIRAL VIDEO

Schoolgirl speaks up on Unnao, family scared

MAULSHREE SETH
LUCKNOW, AUGUST 1

A DAY after a video of a girl student in Barabanki questioning a senior UP Police officer over women's security in the wake of Unnao rape victim's accident went viral, the parents of the girl did not send her to school, fearing for her safety.

The parents of the Class XI girl said that they will meet the school principal on Monday, and only after that, they will decide on when to send her to school again.

"She is naive and young. Whatever she reads in newspapers and watches on television, she said it. She speaks well and the rest of the school children prodded her," said the girl's father.

In the viral video, Additional Superintendent of Police (North) Ram Sewak Gautam is heard telling girl students attending a Balika Suraksha Jaagruktaa Abhiyaan programme at a school to stay alert and immediately call up the toll-free number if they feel anything wrong is being done to them. To this, the student stands up and asks the officer in Hindi, "If the person is a common citizen, then we can protest. But if he is a political leader, a powerful person, then how can we protest against him? When we know that even if we protest against such a high-profile person, still no action will be taken against him. We saw that Unnao girl is in hospital. So if we protest, what is the guarantee that we will get justice? What is the guarantee that we will be safe? What is the guarantee that nothing will happen to us?"

Stunned by the girl's question, the officer is heard saying, "All complainants to toll-free number would be provided help."

As the video went viral, Congress general secretary Priyanka Gandhi Vadra posted a news clip of it and hit out at the BJP government in Uttar Pradesh. "If some influential person does something wrong, then will our voices against him would be heard? This is the question raised by a student during girl'; awareness rally in Barabanki. This question is in the minds of every woman and girl in Uttar Pradesh. Answer BJP?) tweeted Priyanka in Hindi.

Expressing concern for her safety now, the girl's father said that they were not informed about any such event in the school.

"First of all, parents were not informed about any such event in the school. Even if there was something of that sort, then the privacy of the child should have been respected..." her father told The Indian Express.

"We have not sent her to school today and would not send her to school on Friday as well. I would first speak to the Principal on Monday. I have only one daughter and do not want her to land in any trouble for speaking her mind out in open," he added.

Speaking to The Indian Express, Additional SP Gautam said that the girl had asked him a "hypothetical question". "She is a student and had put up a hypothetical question, but we still tried to assure her that police are committed to protecting people..."

The school principal, however, could not be contacted despite several attempts.

MUMBAI, AUGUST 1

THE BOMBAY High Court on Thursday directed the Reserve Bank of India (RBI) to file an affidavit stating reasons behind changing the features and size of currency notes from time to time.

A bench of Chief Justice Pradeep Nandrajog and Justice N M Jamdar was hearing a petition filed by the National Association of the Blind (NAB), seeking directions to include distinctive features in new coins and notes for easier identification by the visually impaired.

Chief Justice Nandrajog asked the counsel appearing for RBI why was there a complusion to change the notes. "You (government) keep saying it is because of fake currency. I doubt that reason. Demonetisation showed that it was a myth that Rs 10,000 crore were taken away by Pakistan," he said.

"What is the compulsion of RBI to change features of notes from time to time? What is the compulsion of RBI to change the size of the notes," the court asked while directing the RBI to file an affidavit.

In the previous hearing, RBI had told court that a committee of experts was set up to explore the possibilities of developing a device to aid the visually impaired in identifying bank notes. The committee has recommended a mobile-based application, which will identify the notes and inform the person orally.

'I JUST GAVE FEEDBACK, COMPANY COMMITTED BIGOTRY'

MP Police to tell Zomato customer to sign peace bond

MILIND GHATWAI
BHOPAL, AUGUST 1

POLICE HAVE started the process to serve a notice to Jabalpur-based Amit Shukla, who had cancelled his food order on Zomato when he learnt it was being delivered by a non-Hindu, that will require him to sign a bond for keeping peace.

"Once the notice (under Section 107/116 of CrPC) is served to sign the bond, the police will watch his activities over six months. The police can take him in custody if there is another violation during the period," Jabalpur SP Amit Singh told The Indian Express.

He added that Shukla's tweet was against the spirit of the Constitution and had the potential to whip up passions in a communally sensitive town like Jabalpur.

In response to 40-year-old Shukla's complaint that the delivery person was a Muslim, Zomato, the app-based food delivery service, had tweeted,

Amit Shukla

"Food doesn't have a religion. It's a religion." This was followed by company CEO Deepinder Goyal's tweet, "We are proud of the idea of India-and the diversity of our esteemed customers and partners. We aren't sorry to lose any business that comes in the way of our values." Zomato's response won the internet.

However, Shukla was unfazed by the row his tweet had triggered. He said nobody had complained against him and the police had acted on their own.

"Let them serve a notice I will respond after taking legal counsel. Let's see what reasoning or grounds they cite. I haven't committed bigotry. Zomato has given a religious spin to what was essentially customer feedback. I tagged the company so the corporate headquarters notices the issue and resolves it. It was between an individual and a corporate. The company it its advantage," he told The Indian Express.

He said the company neither accepted his demand to change the rider nor cancelled the order, so he gave feedback. "They should have agreed to my personal choice. If you want to buy a red shirt from a shop, you should be given a red shirt and not black. I have my freedom of religion, I have my freedom of religious expression and the right to practise my choice," he said. "The company claims food has no religion, but why does it offer halal or other food (with religious connotation)? They committed bigotry in my case and highlighted it for free publicity."

Shukla said his reservations (about Muslim rider) are only for the month of Sawan because he believes one should eat pure and clean food.

An MBA and infrastructure consultant, Shukla said he became a BJP member a few days ago when the party launched its membership drive. Explaining his Twitter handle — @NaMoSARKAAR — he said he is an ardent follower of Prime Minister Narendra Modi and had advised him to attack Pakistan after the surgical strikes.

When asked whether he has Muslim friends and acquaintances, Shukla said he has many, and does not discriminate when it comes to their wages. "I have a Muslim mechanic for a decade. I trust him. But gaadi, ghoda, petrol alag cheez hai, food is intimate, a personal matter," he explained.

He said he had not committed a big crime, and if he were to face legal consequences, the company would have to face 10 times more.

VHP and Bajrang Dal extended support to Shukla on Thursday. His Twitter followers increased from 900 to 3,000-odd after the row.

Two held for raping, beheading 3-year-old

RANCHI, AUGUST 1

ABOUT A week after a three-year-old girl went missing from Jamshedpur, her beheaded body was recovered on Tuesday night. Two persons have been arrested in this connection.

While the postmortem report is awaited, police said the victim had injury marks on her private parts. They also said the two accused have confessed to rape. Police said they have registered a case under POCSO Act.

According to police, the girl's mother came to Jamshedpur with a friend last week. "They were sleeping at a railway station when one of the accused took the child and left the station," the police said, citing the CCTV footage of the station.

DSP Noor Mustafa Ansari (Railways) told the reporters, "The accused raped the child and after she started crying, he beheaded her. During questioning, the accused named his accomplice and he too was arrested."

Jharkhand man lynched over theft, 4 arrested

ABHISHEK ANGAD
RANCHI, AUGUST 1

A 45-YEAR-OLD man was lynched in Jharkhand's Dumka district late Wednesday night after he and his associates were caught stealing.

Police said Bhola Hajra was caught and beaten up by residents of Chihudiya village of Dumka's Jharkundi area, while his three associates managed to flee. They said four villagers have been arrested, while an investigation is on to nab the remaining three thieves.

Dunka SP Y S Ramesh said, "Four people had dug hole in a house and were decamping when villagers raised an alarm and beat one Bhola Hajra, who later died. He had several criminal cases registered against him, three of which were registered in Dumka for dacoity.

"After the death, we have registered a case against four villagers and have arrested them and are questioning the villagers," Ramesh said.

Coffee estate workers remember CCD founder Siddhartha

DARSHAN DEVAIAH B P
CHIKKAMAGALURU, AUGUST 1

V G SIDDHARTHA, founder of the Cafe Coffee Day chain who was found dead on the banks of a river near Mangaluru on Wednesday, had set out for Mumbai in early 1980s with Rs 7.5 lakh he had borrowed from his coffee planter father. By 1985, the youth from Mudigere in Chikkamagaluru district owned more than 10,000 acres of coffee farms in Malnad region. Of this, only 500 acres were his ancestral property.

The workers in his coffee plantations remembered him as a considerate and helpful employer.

Dasappa, who has spent 35 years in the Chethanahalli estate, said, "I have seen Sidaddartha since his childhood days. He was humble and treated people with respect. He always supported us."

Kavitha Bai, who along with her family has been working in the estate for 25 years, said, "My children are studying in good schools thanks to Ayyavaru (Sir). He always emphasised the need for education. He provided jobs to children of his labourers in his companies across the world. If anyone needed financial assistance, he would always lend a helping hand."

Another estate worker remembered Siddartha as a generous and kind person who treated his staff like family.

Siddhartha was known for his philanthropic work in Mudigere and had backed many development programmes in the area. According to an Amalgamated Bean Coffee (ABC) company employee, Chikkamagaluru town does not have a multi-speciality hospital, so Siddhartha had wanted to build one in his father's name, where all services would be provided free of cost to people from Malnad region.

"He had a very close relationship with coffee and wanted to take Karnataka coffee to global markets. He succeeded in doing so," said Halappa Gowda, who has known the family for long.

Siddhartha's family has been running coffee plantations for more than 140 years in Malnad region. He was the only son of Gangaiah Hegde, a freedom fighter, and Vasanthi.

Senior Congress leader B L Shankar attributed his close friend's success to his "own ability and determination to build such a huge business". Shankar, who is from the same village as Siddhartha, added: "He took Karnataka coffee to the international level and gave employment to many. Still, he remained a very humble person ..."

SAMPAD PATNAIK
BHUBANESWAR, AUGUST 1

DEPUTY LEADER of the BJP in Odisha Assembly Bishnu Sethi drew strong condemnation in the House on Thursday after he implied that a high proportion of women in India were forced into prostitution because of easy divorce processes like instant triple talaq.

The House was adjourned till 3 pm after Congress MLAs and some BJD MLAs raised objections, despite Speaker S N Patro's statement that he would examine the remarks.

While speaking in support of the instant triple talaq Bill — to which President Ram Nath Kovind gave his assent on Thursday — Sethi said that "Muslim women dominated the red-light areas of Mumbai and Kolkata". He quoted "survey reports" from magazines and newspapers to justify his claim during Zero Hour even as Congress and BJD members demanded that the statement be expunged.

"What is wrong in quoting survey reports in the House? I have not made any adverse remark against any community, but quoted survey reports that say Muslim women dominate red-light areas in Mumbai and Kolkata," Sethi was quoted by PTI as saying.

Addressing journalists outside the House, Sethi blamed the Congress. "Some people have been incensed since the day the Bill was passed in Rajya Sabha... I was giving my opinion that instant triple talaq is a medieval practice... A black law like triple talaq should end because not just because of Bills brought by BJP in Parliament, but Supreme Court has also given a judgment on the matter."

He added, "Some people developed stomach cramps because BJD supported the legislation. I said that Pakistan, Bangladesh and 39 other countries do not have instant triple talaq. There is no explicit reference to it in their holy text. So why should we not stop it... "

Indian arrested for 'spying', claim Pak cops

M ZULQERNAIN
LAHORE, AUGUST 1

POLICE IN Pakistan's Punjab province claimed to have arrested an "Indian spy" in the town of Dera Ghazi Khan and have handed him over to a premier intelligence agency for investigation.

On Wednesday, police arrested a man, identified as Raju Lakshman, from Dera Ghazi Khan district, some 400 km from Lahore. Police official Liaquat Leghari told reporters that a team of the border military police arrested the 30-year-old during patrolling.

"Raju Lakshman is an Indian national. The security agencies are interrogating him to know whether he crossed over here inadvertently or for spying purpose," he said.

Dera Ghazi Khan reportedly houses 'sensitive installations', and therefore the Pakistani government has banned the entry of any foreign national in this district.

Leghari said that at this stage, the "motive" of the Indian national's crossing over here illegally cannot be determined before investigation.

Earlier, police said Lakshman was arrested while entering the town from Balochistan province, the same province from where Pakistan claimed it had arrested Indian national Kulbhushan Jadhav.

Jadhav, 49, a retired Indian Navy officer, was sentenced to death by a Pakistani military court on charges of "espionage and terrorism" in April 2017, following which India had moved the International Court of Justice (ICJ), seeking a stay on his death sentence and further remedies.

The ICJ ordered Pakistan last month to undertake an "effective review and reconsideration" of the conviction and sentence of Jadhav and also to grant consular access to India without further delay.

Pakistan claims that its security forces arrested Jadhav from restive Balochistan province on March 3, 2016 after he reportedly entered from Iran.

Pak summons India diplomat over 'ceasefire violations'

Islamabad: Pakistan on Thursday summoned India's Deputy High Commissioner and condemned the alleged "unprovoked ceasefire violations" by Indian troops along the LoC, saying such actions are a threat to regional peace and may lead to a "strategic miscalculation".

This was the second time in a week that Gaurav Ahluwalia was summoned by the Foreign Office (FO) for firing along the LoC on July 30.

Director General (South Asia and SAARC) Mohammad Faisal, who is also the foreign ministry spokesperson, "summoned Ahluwalia again and condemned the unprovoked ceasefire violations by the Indian forces on July 30," the FO said in a statement. PTI

US military assistance to Pak: India conveys 'grave concern'

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
NEW DELHI, AUGUST 1

INDIA HAS conveyed its "grave concern" to the US over its decision to provide military assistance to Pakistan, the government said on Thursday.

Raveesh Kumar, official spokesperson of the Ministry of External Affairs, said the issue was taken up with US Ambassador Kenneth Juster in Delhi and with the Trump administration in Washington.

"We have taken up the matter with the US Ambassador in Delhi, as well as with the US government in Washington through our Ambassador. We have expressed grave concern over US military assistance to Pakistan," Kumar said during a media briefing.

Sources said the US envoy was called to South Block and a protest was lodged with him over the US decision to help Pakistan militarily.

Last week, the Pentagon notified the Congress of its decision to approve military sales worth USD 125 million that would result in the monitoring of the F-16 fighter jets of Pakistan.

This is under the Foreign Military Sale (FMS) which means Pakistan will pay for it. No US tax payers' money is involved. And this money will essentially be used to pay salary to 60 US contractors to monitor the use of F-16 jets in Pakistan, sources in Washington said.

The notification came days after a meeting between President Donald Trump and Pakistan Prime Minister Imran Khan in the White House.

It may be recalled that in February 2016, India had summoned US Ambassador Richard Verma and conveyed its "displeasure and disappointment" over the Obama administration's decision to sell F-16 fighter jets to Pakistan.

"The US side has told us that the proposed sale does not indicate any change in the US policy of maintaining a freeze in military assistance to Pakistan," Kumar said. "US has publicly stated that the proposed sale is intended to enable the US to continue technical and logistics support services to assist in the oversight of the operations of F-16 aircraft in Pakistan's inventory."

Pakistan had used the F-16 fighter jets against India after the Balakot strikes. The Pentagon asserted that the proposed military assistance will not alter the basic military balance in the region.

FIRST SINCE INDEPENDENCE

'Nagar Kirtan' with Guru Granth Sahib arrives from Pak

Amritsar: In a first since Independence, a 'Nagar Kirtan' (religious procession) that started from Nankana Sahib district in Pakistan's Punjab province entered into Punjab on Indian side via the Attari-Wagah land route Thursday to mark the 550th birth anniversary celebrations of Guru Nanak Dev, the founder of Sikhism. The 'Nagar Kirtan' began from Gurdwara Nankana Sahib, the birthplace of Guru Nanak Dev in Pakistan, and crossed over to India in the afternoon with around 500 Sikh devotees who crossed the border carrying the holy Guru Granth Sahib on their head.

The Shiromani Gurdwara Parbandhak Committee, which had organised the procession, termed it a historic moment and a first in 72 years.

An SGPC official said the holy book was brought to Wagah border on a vehicle. A large cavalcade followed the procession amid a thick security cover.

The Pakistani authorities had provided a special permission to the Sikh community to take out 'Nagar Kirtan', which will culminate at Sultanpur Lodhi in Kapurthala district.

Earlier in the day, Akal Takht Jathedar Giani Harpreet Singh, urged Sikh leaders on both sides to share their views with each other. ENS

PRITAM PAL SINGH
NEW DELHI, AUGUST 1

A TRIBUNAL of the Delhi High Court has upheld the ban imposed on the Students Islamic Movement of India (SIMI) and validated a Central government notification, issued in February this year, extending the ban for another five years.

The Indian government describes SIMI as a terrorist organisation and had banned it in 2001, shortly after the September 11, 2001 attacks, for two years. The ban was since extended from time to time. The five-year ban was first imposed in 2014.

The ban was lifted in August 2008 by a special tribunal, but was reinstated by the Supreme Court on August 6, 2008 on national security grounds.

The tribunal, headed by Justice Mukta Gupta, on July 29 had dismissed SIMI's contention that the government had no fresh evidence against it to extend the ban for another five years and held that there were valid reasons to ratify the ban imposed by the government under the Unlawful Activities (Prevention) Act (UAPA).

Additional Solicitor General (ASG) Pinky Anand and advocates Sachin Dutta, Rajesh Ranjan and Balendu Shekhar appeared for the Ministry of Home Affairs (MHA), which had on February 21 issued a notification setting up a tribunal under the Act, after the five-year ban ended on January 31. The judgment has been sent in a sealed cover to the MHA.

Earlier, the tribunal, constituted under the UAPA, had issued notices to SIMI and its functionaries, asking them to explain why the organisation and its activities should not be declared unlawful. Under the law, the tribunal has to decide if there was sufficient cause to declare an organisation unlawful. The tribunal conducted its hearings in several cities across India, including Delhi, Pune and Chennai, and took on record the testimonies of various police officers and others to adjudicate the issue.

The Centre had said its decision was needed to bring the Muslim community into the mainstream by checking its "disgruntled" elements.

The rise of unemployment rate, within various religious groups

UNION MINISTER for Minority Affairs Mukhtar Abbas Naqvi presented in Lok Sabha data on the rates of unemployment across major religious groups over the last three unemployment surveys conducted by the National Sample Survey Organisation (NSSO) and the Periodic Labour Force Survey (PLFS). The three sets of data correspond to the Employment and Unemployment Surveys conducted over the 66th Round (between July 2009-June 2010) and 68th Round (between July 2011-June 2012) by the NSSO as well as the PLFS (between July 2017-June 2018). The unemployment rates have been disaggregated for males and females as well as urban and rural areas.

Workers in the "usual status" category include (a) persons who worked for a relatively large part of the 365 days preceding the date of the survey, and (b) persons from among the remaining population who had worked for at least 30 days during the reference period of 365 days preceding the date of the survey. Category (a) refers to "principal status" and the category (b) to "subsidiary status" and the "usual status" definition includes both. As such, usual status is a more relaxed measure of unemployment. For instance, some of the unemployed under "principal status" might be working in a subsidiary capacity.

TIP FOR READING LIST

A BIOGRAPHY OF THE SEMICOLON

OF ALL the punctuation marks in English writing, the semicolon is perhaps the most controversial. Writers have always been divided over its necessity and effectiveness. Stephen King dislikes it, as did Ernest Hemingway and George Orwell, while Herman Melville and Henry James loved it. In Semicolon: The Past, Present, and Future of a Misunderstood Mark, historian and teacher Cecelia Watson traces the history of this punctuation mark, from its evolution to the present, and the various controversies surrounding it.

The semicolon has two main functions. One of these is to segregate words into groups that are already punctuated with commas — for example, "Gorakhpur, Amethi and Azamgarh in Uttar Pradesh; Patna, Vaishali and Nalanda in Bihar; Dhubri, Barpeta and Guwahati in Assam..." It is the other function that is usually controversial. As a mark that has a hierarchy between the comma and the period, the semicolon often separates two clauses that could have served as independent sentences. Some sentences work well with the semicolon, while others can be clumsy.

Invented in Venice in 1494 by printer and publisher Aldus Manutius, the semicolon for long had no strictly defined function. In the nineteenth century, as newer and newer grammar rules entered the discourse, disagreements over where and when to use the semicolon became frequent. In her biography of the semicolon, Watson uses a range of examples, from Milton to Martin Luther King Jr to Raymond Chandler, and argues that grammar fanatics should ignore the rulebooks and focus instead on communicating better.

"Does this mean anything goes? Not in the least," The New York Times writes in its review. "Watson opposes conventions only as they exist to spare us from thinking. Don't just learn the rules, her clever, curious book prompts us; learn to ask, whose rules (and to admire that semicolon while you're at it)."

SIMPLY PUT QUESTION & ANSWER

Reading the US Fed's rate cut

What does the quarter-percentage-point cut in interest rates by the US central bank — the first rate cut since the financial crisis of 2008 — indicate? How is India likely to be impacted?

ANIL SASI
NEW DELHI, AUGUST 1

LATE WEDNESDAY evening India time, the United States Federal Reserve announced a quarter-percentage-point cut in interest rates — the first rate cut in 11 years.

What makes this rate-cut action — the first since the global financial crisis broke in 2008 — more significant is that barely six months previously, the US Fed was on a hawkish rate-hike trajectory, moving in the direction of bolstering the debt-laden American economy.

Why the rate cut by the Fed?

The Fed has cited concerns about the global economy and muted US inflation among the key reasons for the decision to cut rates, and signalled a readiness to lower borrowing costs further if needed. At the same time, the central bank has underlined that the US economy grew "at a healthy pace" over the first six months of the year.

Financial markets had expected the quarter-percentage-point rate cut, which lowered the US central bank's benchmark overnight lending rate to a target range of 2%-2.25%.

In a statement issued at the end of its two-day policy meeting, the Fed said it had decided to cut rates "in light of the implications of global developments for the economic outlook as well as muted inflation pressures". It "will act as appropriate to sustain" the record-long US economic expansion, the central bank said.

A cut up to at least 75 basis points in the Fed funds rate had been expected by the end of the year, with the rate-cut cycle beginning from August. (One bps is equivalent to one-hundredth of a percentage point.) Fed Chairman Jerome Powell, however, underlined that the rate cut was merely a "mid-cycle adjustment to policy", thus ruling out multiple sequenced cuts in rates.

Does the cut indicate a shift in policy?

The cut in policy rates follows months of pressure from US President Donald Trump, who has been pushing the American central bank for a cut in rates to stoke growth. Powell has repeatedly pledged to follow economic data, and has resisted the nudges from the President — only to change course sharply now.

Federal Reserve chair Jerome Powell holds a news conference following the Federal Open Market Committee Meeting on Wednesday. Reuters

"Information received since the Federal Open Market Committee met in June indicates that the labour market remains strong and that economic activity has been rising at a moderate rate," the Fed said in its statement. "Job gains have been solid, on average, in recent months, and the unemployment rate has remained low."

The Federal Open Market Committee (FOMC) is a panel within the Fed that is responsible for setting policy rates. The ambiguity in the Fed was reflected somewhat in the vote on the decision, with two members of the 10-member FOMC opposing the decision to cut rates.

The decision failed to impress Trump, who has been calling for a big rate cut. The President scoffed at Powell, posting on Twitter: "What the Market wanted to hear from Jay Powell and the Federal Reserve was that this was the beginning of a lengthy and aggressive rate-cutting cycle which would keep pace with China, The European Union and other countries around the world... As usual, Powell let us down... We are winning anyway, but I am certainly not getting much help from the Federal Reserve!"

What will be the impact on emerging market economies, including India?

Theoretically, a rate cut in the US should be positive for emerging market economies (EMEs), especially from a debt market perspective. Emerging economies such as India tend to have higher inflation and, thereby, higher interest rates than those in developed countries such as the US and Europe. As a result, FIIs would want to borrow money in the US at low interest rates in dollar terms, and then invest that money in bonds of emerging countries such as India in rupee terms to earn a higher rate of interest.

When the US Fed cuts its interest rates, the difference between the interest rates of the two countries increases, thus making India more attractive for the currency carry trade.

A rate cut by the Fed would also mean a greater impetus to growth in the US, which could be positive news for global growth. But this could also translate into more equity investments in the US, which could temper investor enthusiasm for emerging market economies in a proportionate manner.

How did the stock markets react; why?

Indian stocks tanked on Thursday. While domestic factors such as dismal July car sales data and slower GDP growth projections played a role in the selloff, one of the major factors was Powell's characterisation of the rate cut as a mid-cycle adjustment. Markets have taken this as a sign that sharp further cuts were not imminent.

Thursday's sell-off dragged benchmark indices to fresh five-month lows, with the BSE Sensex slipping below the 37,000 mark. The broader Nifty50, too, breached the 11,000 mark in the intra-day trade. Bonds in India too, fell as investors trimmed bets on aggressive interest-rate cuts in high-yield markets after the signal from the US Fed.

The sharp fall in yields of government securities over the past month have already priced in the Fed's action. A major 50 bps cut by the RBI expected next week will likely trigger a further rally in the bond market. (As investors buy government bonds, prices increase, and yields fall. A lower yield indicates lesser risk, but if the yield offered by a bond is higher than what it was when issued, there is a chance that the government that issued the instrument could be financially stressed and may be unable to repay the capital).

According to analysts, there are also concerns that if Asian emerging market currencies such as the rupee continue to weaken sharply against the dollar, that may result in central banks such as the RBI turning more cautious about cutting the policy rate too aggressively.

The Fed's tempered outlook on rate cuts found a reflection in the US markets. The Dow Jones Industrial Average and the S&P 500 lost over 1% after the statement.

Asian markets traded mostly lower Thursday, with Hong Kong's Hang Seng falling 0.7% and the Shanghai Composite 0.8%. Japan's Nikkei, however, bucked the trend. Britain's FTSE 100 fell 0.2% and Germany's DAX dropped 0.1%. But France's CAC 40 rose 0.4%.

THIS WORD MEANS: CONSULAR ACCESS (TO KULBHUSHAN JADHAV)

What ICJ ordered; Pak has 'offered' to India

SHUBHAJIT ROY
NEW DELHI, AUGUST 1

PAKISTAN has "offered" India consular access to Kulbhushan Jadhav, who has been in jail in Pakistan since March 2016. The former Indian Navy officer was sentenced to death by a Pakistani military court on charges of espionage and terrorism. Late Thursday evening, India was "evaluating" the Pakistani proposal.

The Hague-based International Court of Justice (ICJ) had ordered on July 17 that Pakistan must undertake an "effective review and reconsideration" of Jadhav's conviction and sentencing, and grant consular access to him without delay. The ICJ upheld India's stand that Pakistan is in egregious violation of the Vienna Convention on Consular Relations, 1963.

What is the concept of "consular access"?

Consular access simply means that a diplomat or an official will have a meeting with the prisoner who is in the custody of another country. Usually, during the meeting, the diplomat will first confirm the identity of the person, and will then ask some basic questions — on how he/she is being treated in custody, and what he/she wants.

Depending on the response, the diplomat/official will report back to his/her government, and the next steps will be initiated.

The principle of consular access was agreed to in the 1950s and 60s. The Vienna Convention on Consular Relations (VCCR) was framed in 1963, at the height of Cold War. This was a time when "spies" from the US and USSR were caught in each other's countries and across the world, and the idea was to ensure that they were not denied consular access.

All countries agreed to the principle, and more than 170 have ratified the Vienna Convention, making it one of the most universally recognised treaties in the world.

But, its implementation has faced challenges. While international law has long recognised the right of missions to assist and protect its nationals detained abroad, the ability of a consulate to provide effective aid has been heavily dependent on the prompt receipt of information of the detention, and timely access to the detainee.

Under Article 36 of the VCCR, at the request of a detained foreign national, the consulate of the sending State must be notified of the detention "without delay". The consulate has the right "to visit a national of the sending State who is in prison, custody or detention, to converse and correspond with him and to arrange for his legal representation".

Jadhav's wife, mother met him across a glass partition in 2017. PTI

No time interval is indicated for granting consular access. But it must be provided in all cases where a foreigner is "arrested or committed to prison or to custody pending trial or is detained in any other manner", regardless of the circumstances or charges.

Indian diplomats in Islamabad were discussing the terms and conditions of the consular access to be provided to Jadhav.

The key issues on the table: how many Indian officials would conduct Jadhav's interview; for how long would they meet him; would Pakistani officials other than security personnel be present as well; would there be a glass partition between them and Jadhav; would they be allowed to have physical contact with him, etc.

After the ICJ order, the Pakistan Foreign Ministry had said Jadhav had been informed of his rights under Article 36, Paragraph 1(b) of the VCCR. It had said that Pakistan would grant consular access to him "according to Pakistani laws", the modalities for which were being worked out.

India is arguing that Article 36, Paragraph 1(a) of the VCCR says "consular officers shall be free to communicate with nationals of the sending State and to have access to them. Nationals of the sending State shall have the same freedom with respect to communication with and access to consular officers of the sending State".

India has asked Pakistan to grant "full consular access" to Jadhav in "full compliance and conformity" the ICJ verdict and the Vienna Convention. India wants to ensure that the meeting does not become a sham like the one in December 2017, when Jadhav's mother and wife visited him.

One tribunal for all river water disputes: why the proposal, how it will work

AMITABH SINHA
PUNE, AUGUST 1

ON WEDNESDAY, Lok Sabha gave its approval to a proposal to set up a permanent tribunal to adjudicate on inter-state disputes over sharing of river waters. The Bill cleared by Lok Sabha seeks to make amendments to the Inter-State River Waters Disputes Act of 1956 that provides for setting up of a separate tribunal every time a dispute arises. Once it becomes law, the amendment will ensure the transfer of all existing water disputes to the new tribunal. All five existing tribunals under the 1956 Act would cease to exist.

Krishna (Tribunal-II)	Karnataka, Andhra, Telangana, Maharashtra	2004	Decision in December 2010, matter now in Supreme Court
Mahanadi	Odisha, Chhattisgarh	2018	Under adjudication
Mahadayi	Goa, Karnataka, Maharashtra	2010, reconstituted 2013	Award in August 2018, Goa asked for reconsideration, under adjudication
Ravi and Beas	Punjab, Haryana, Rajasthan	1986	One award in 1987, matter in Supreme Court
Vansadhara	Andhra Pradesh, Odisha	2010, reconstituted 2012	Under adjudication

Why the change

The main purpose is to make the process of dispute settlement more efficient and effective. Under the 1956 Act, nine tribunals have so far been set up. Only four of them have given their awards. One of these disputes, over Cauvery waters between Karnataka and Tamil Nadu, took 28 years to settle. The Ravi and Beas Waters Tribunal was set up in April 1986 and it is still to give the final award. The minimum a tribunal has taken to settle a dispute is seven years, by the first Krishna Water Disputes Tribunal in 1976.

The amendment is bringing a time limit for adjudicating the disputes. All disputes would now have to be resolved within a maximum of four-and-a-half years.

The multiplicity of tribunals has led to an increase in bureaucracy, delays, and possible duplication of work. The replacement of five existing tribunals with a permanent tribunal is likely to result in a 25 per cent reduction in staff strength, from the current 107 to 80, and a saving of Rs 4.27 crore per year.

The current system of dispute resolution would give way to a new two-tier approach. The states concerned would be encouraged to come to a negotiated settlement through a Disputes Resolution Committee (DRC). Only if the DRC fails to resolve the dispute will the matter be referred to the tribunal.

How it will work

In the existing mechanism, when states raise a dispute, the central government constitutes a tribunal. Under the current law, the tribunal has to give its award within three years, which can be extended by another two years. In practice, tribunals have taken much longer to give their decisions.

Under the new system, the Centre would set up a DRC once states raise a dispute. The DRC would be headed by a serving or retired secretary-rank officer with experience in the water sector and would have other expert members and a representative of each state government concerned. The DRC would try to resolve the dispute through negotiations within a year and submit a report to the Centre. This period can be extended by a maximum of six months.

If the DRC fails to settle the dispute, it would be referred to the permanent tribunal, which will have a chairperson, a vice-chairperson and a maximum of six members — three judicial and three expert members. The chairperson would then constitute a three-member bench that would consider the DRC report before investigating on its own. It would have to finalise its decision within two years, a period that can be extended by a maximum of one more year — adding up to a maximum of four-and-a-half years.

The decision of the tribunal would carry the weight of an order of the Supreme Court. There is no provision for appeal. However, the Supreme Court, while hearing a civil suit in the Cauvery dispute, had said the decision of that tribunal could be challenged before it through a Special Leave Petition under Article 136 of the Constitution.

Subdued tax revenues indicate that the economic slowdown may be more entrenched than it is believed to be

DATA RELEASED BY the Controller General of Accounts (CGA) paints a worrying picture of the government's finances. The Centre's gross tax revenues grew by a mere 1.4 per cent in the first quarter of the current financial year, and are likely to be well below nominal GDP growth for the quarter. In comparison, the Union budget pegged tax revenues to grow by 18.3 per cent this year. Last year, the Centre's tax revenues grew by 8.4 per cent (as per CGA) — below nominal GDP growth. This indicates that the trend of a rising tax to GDP ratio has been reversed. The first quarter numbers also suggest that the Centre's tax revenues will now have to grow by a staggering 22.3 per cent in the remaining part of the year to meet the budgeted target. Though collections are likely to rise in the coming quarters, achieving this target is a tall task, especially with a more entrenched slowdown in economic activity.

The break-up of the headline tax numbers reveals that direct taxes (both corporate and personal income tax) grew at a modest 9.7 per cent in Q1, but growth was well below the budget target of 18.6 per cent. Notwithstanding sluggish economic growth which would impact corporate profitability and taxes, corporate taxes, which grew by 6.3 per cent in Q1FY20, are typically lower in the first quarter, rising thereafter. But, the impact of the lowering of tax rates on most entities, as proposed in the budget, might temper these estimates. Income tax collections have continued to grow at a healthy pace, clocking 12.3 per cent in the quarter ended June. The surcharge on the super rich will boost collections further.

But the concern on the indirect tax side continues. Indirect taxes, excluding compensation cess and taxes of UTs, actually contracted by 4.9 per cent in Q1FY20. While part of the slippage in GST collections could be on account of IGST allocations, the slowdown in economic activity may well have exacerbated the situation. Also, compliance hasn't really picked up as pointed out by the Comptroller and Auditor General in its audit report. Part of this shortfall could be offset by higher excise and customs collections, which will pick up in the coming quarters as the proposals mentioned in the budget are rolled out. Yet, the larger message from the tax data, of subdued economic activity, is worrying. It is possible that the slowdown is more entrenched that it is believed to be. Limited fiscal space means that monetary policy is the only game in town. But monetary policy has limited ability to stimulate growth in the short term, especially when the transmission of lower rates to the broader system remains restricted. The outlook for growth remains hazy in the near term.

Zomato has stood firmly by pluralist principles and heartwarmingly punctured a stereotype

A PERSON PROFESSING the Hindu religion in Jabalpur and observing Shravan in a ritually sectarian fashion has turned the spotlight on an India divided, earned widespread derision, and shown that the majority online are not bigoted. He declined to accept a Zomato order delivered by a Muslim, and when he took his peeve to Twitter, the company's handle responded: "Food doesn't have a religion. Food is a religion." In a nation that has weathered centuries of restrictions on commensality, the tweet constituted a resounding affirmation of modernity. The company's CEO joined in the conversation, sticking up for diversity and stating that he was not "sorry to lose any business that comes in the way of our values." Reportedly, he supported the actions of his staff and assured them that they would not have to knuckle under to customer demands that were racial or attacked diversity.

As the conversation proceeded, though, it may have become obvious that standing up to bigotry may actually be good for business. While a small minority supported the actions of the peeved customer in Jabalpur, the volume of derision he has earned drowned out their voices. Critics pointed out that to retain ritual purity, he would have to take absurdly extreme precautions. He would have to check if his food was cooked by co-religionists, and that the delivery executive's vehicle did not run on fuel imported from a Muslim nation. At the same time, Zomato received congratulatory messages from all quarters, including politicians, businessmen and influencers, for defending the idea of a diverse India. Standing up for one's principles, it appears, is not necessarily detrimental to business.

India's corporate culture is not celebrated for being led by liberal principles. On the contrary, it is widely criticised for cronyism, for seeking patronage from power and safe markets among majorities. Against that backdrop, Zomato's moral determination to hold the line stands out in sharp relief. It has also busted the stereotype that young digital companies are actuated purely by the profit motive in the marketplace, and by the conservative views of deracinated techies in the boardroom. And it has answered one of the oldest questions about capitalism: Does morality matter in business? It does. Two tweets have won the company more goodwill than an expensive ad campaign would have. More significantly, they have gone some way in reaffirming public faith in the value of decency.

ALL'S NOT WELL

BCCI must realise that if it does not bring in anti-doping reform, it will be made to do so

THE INDIAN CRICKET board has long been an ostrich in matters of accountability. Its dreams of putting in place a self-sustaining T20 league which can rope in the world's finest talent — like America's NFL, NBA and World Series baseball — was realised in this last decade when the IPL turned monstrous in proportion. What did not follow for the BCCI, however, was the American insistence on integrity. Doping is the single biggest threat that can shred the credibility of any sport that wants to be taken seriously. But the way the BCCI has handled the positive test of its brightest young star, Prithvi Shaw, shows its casualness towards the modern day sport's most important protocol. Shaw was let off after a process in which the anti-doping code wasn't strictly adhered to and there was no transparency in hearings.

The government has cracked the whip and in coming days might make it difficult for the BCCI to go on believing it exists in a separate sporting universe. India, which notoriously sat second on doping charts in Olympic disciplines and won a measly total of 2 medals, has gone on believing all's well with cricket. Testing protocols are hardly followed in the world's richest league, the problem compounded by the fact that India's prima donnas have always resisted WADA's regulations. So, while the world's greatest names like Roger Federer and Usain Bolt are answerable to the dope tester's 6.30 am call and obligated to fill in the whereabouts forms, cricketers are rarely tested or punished once they return a positive sample.

The BCCI system has misused discretion in handing Shaw a lenient punishment that will deter no one. The BCCI leads the world in cricket's general obstructionism to any anti-doping reforms. Cricket's audience, too, needs to demand clean performances if the summer slam isn't to turn into WWE with balls and bats played by fully covered men with something to hide.

Health care is ailing

K SUJATHA RAO

THERE ARE SIX reasons why governments would like to regulate medical education. One, to ensure that doctors are appropriately trained and skilled to address the prevailing disease burden; two, to ensure that medical graduates reflect a uniform standard of competence and skills; three, to ensure that only those with basic knowledge of science and aptitude for the profession get in; four, to ensure ethical practice in the interest of the patients; five, to create an environment that enables innovation and research; and six, to check the corrosive impact of the process of commercialisation on values and corrupt practices. The question is whether the National Medical Commission Bill passed by Rajya Sabha on Thursday addresses these concerns.

The problem of inappropriately trained doctors of varying quality has been known since decades. The report of the Mudaliar Committee set up in 1959 had devoted substantial space to pointing out how doctors had neither the skills nor the knowledge to handle primary care and infectious diseases that were a high priority concern then as now. Likewise, standards vary greatly with competence levels dependent upon the college of instruction. In professionalising the MCI, with experts for all levels of education and practice, the NMC Bill can be a gamechanger.

It has the potential to be more nimble in setting curricula, teaching content, adding new courses and providing the much needed multisectoral perspectives. More importantly, the NMC has the potential to link the disease burden and the specialties being produced. In the UK, for example, it is the government that lays down how many specialists of which discipline need to be produced, which the British Medical Council then adheres to. In India, the MCI has so far been operating independently. This gap can be bridged by the NMC. Given the right people, it is also possible that the NMC can encourage and incentivise innovation and promote research by laying down rules that make research a prerequisite in medical colleges.

It is in curbing unethical practice and commercialisation of medical education that the Bill falls short. Today, there are 536 medical colleges with 79,627 seats. Of them, 260 or 48.5 per cent are private with 38,000 seats. The bill allows differential pricing with freedom for the college managements to levy market determined fees on 19,000 students, under what is called the management quota. This is admission for those with the ability to pay. There are colleges that are rumoured to arrange admission and the degree for a fee.

To counter such practices, the Bill has proposed mandating the NEET and NEXT. I was Secretary, Health, when these two concepts came into the policy dialogue. The NEET was mooted by the then board of governors for three reasons: One, to reduce the pain of students having to take an estimated 25 examinations to gain admission in a college; two, given the abysmal level of high school education, to ensure a minimum level of knowledge in science, and three, to reduce corruption by restricting student admission to those qualifying the NEET. Measured against these three goals, the experience has been mixed, demanding a rethink.

> It is a fact that the MCI required a college to be inspected 25 times to get final recognition, each being a rent seeking exercise. That "inspector Raj", as the Health Minister noted, will be done away with, is indeed a positive step. But in relying only on the NEXT as the principal substitute is to abdicate governance. Undoubtedly, there are grey areas giving scope for corrupt practices and production of substandard doctors. It would have been preferable to have tested the waters, examined the implications and then introduced the reform rather than including it in a law that is difficult to amend.

The NEXT is an idea borrowed from the UK that has for over seven years been struggling to introduce it. In all such countries, the licensing exams are stretched into modules, not a multiple choice questions type of exam. The underlying belief is that in centralising the qualifying examination, a college with the largest number of failed students will automatically close down. Following from this, the Bill has virtually given up inspections for assuring the quality of education.

It is a fact that the MCI required a college to be inspected 25 times to get final recognition, each being a rent seeking exercise. That "inspector Raj", as the Health Minister noted, will be done away with, is indeed a positive step. But in relying only on the NEXT as the principal substitute is to abdicate governance. Undoubtedly, there are grey areas giving scope for corrupt practices and production of substandard doctors. It would have been preferable to have tested the waters, examined the implications and then introduced the reform rather than including it in a law that is difficult to amend.

The excessive reliance on a battery of diagnostic tests is reflective of both commercial considerations as well as weak knowledge. Students spending lakhs to become doctors resort to unethical practices to recoup their investment and pollute the system. In the US, despite tight regulations and remunerative payment systems, there is still substantial unethical practice. The Bill, in reducing oversight, allowing extensive discretionary powers to government to set aside decisions of the NMC, making it virtually an advisory body, gives scope for the current state of affairs to continue, only at a higher premium nullifying the major need for reform of the MCI. This is the most worrying aspect of the NMC. In other words, the MCI got into disrepute only when commercialisation of medical education set in in the 1990's, and the amendment of the MCI Act in 1993, reducing the autonomy of the MCI and making it subservient to government. This has now been taken to another level in the Bill.

The Bill has other irritants — like permitting a registered medical practitioner to prescribe medicines. Left vague, much will depend on the rules. While there is a need to decentralise, to give to non-medical personnel some powers and authority, it needs tight regulation and supervision. Given our inability to enforce the Drugs and Cosmetics Act, as seen in the rising rate of the antimicrobial resistance problem, the issue of which comes first needs to be carefully examined. Prudence may be advisable. Another irritant is the continuance of the two parallel streams of producing specialists. By not bringing the DNB under the purview of the NMC, the DNB system is left open to abuse.

No law is perfect. It is dependent upon the people who interpret and implement it. Government has, under this Bill, arrogated to itself an unprecedented power to appoint people in the various arms of the proposed structure. The quality and integrity of these people will then define the future of the health system in India. We hope for the best as the long, bitterly fought battle to reform the 86-year-old MCI comes to a close.

KILLING JNU

Throttling of academic freedoms will also affect campuses elsewhere

APOORVANAND

SEPTEMBER 20 IS the birthday of Chandrashekhar, the young left leader who was killed in Siwan in 1997. He was a student of Jawaharlal Nehru University, the president of its students'union. We organise an annual memorial lecture in his name at Patna. This year, we decided to invite a professor from his university to deliver the lecture. She said a cautious yes, as she was not sure if she would be given leave. For the past three years, teachers of JNU have seen their leave applications rejected, not only for popular lectures like the one above but also for seminars organised by professional bodies or their peers. But we insisted that she should try. We wrote her a formal invitation letter.

Before my colleague could submit my letter with her application for leave to the authorities, she herself was sent one by them. It was a chargesheet. She was one of the 48 teachers who were asked to explain why action should not be taken against them for having participated in a protest last year at the administrative block. The chargesheet has been framed under Rule 14 of the Central Civil Services (Classification, Control, and Appeal) Rules 1965 and invokes sections of the CCS (Conduct) Rules 1964. Failing to explain their "crime" to the satisfaction of the authorities can invite penal action.

We knew then that her application for leave would not be accepted. She is one of the foremost scholars of her field internationally, a respected public voice and a much-loved teacher. But in the eyes of the authorities of the JNU she is merely an "employee" they can discipline with rules.

Teachers had always thought that they were not government employees. Vice Chancellors also knew that they do appoint teachers but they are not their subordinates. Teachers are regarded as minds which function best when not constrained. If you ask former vice-chancellors of JNU,they would talk fondly about the cordial relations they had with the faculty. It was an honour to be accepted as by the community of people, which included scholars such as Bipan Chandra, Romila Thapar, Namvar Singh or Tanika Sarkar. But the current administration in the JNU treats the teachers as its "employees". The invocation of the civil services rules to discipline them is the latest in the list of its atrocities. To tell a teacher that she cannot air her views freely, cannot write or speak publicly without the permission of the "competent authorities" is to take away from them not only their rights but also their fundamental duty.

> Academics with their long engagement with knowledge have the tools to test the political and policy promises offered to people. They must share it with the public to help them take informed decisions. So, they need freedom, not for their own sake but for the good of the society.

In democracies, people take decisions. But they do not have the intellectual wherewithal to examine the claims of the "powers that be" which seek their consent to rule them. Academics with their long engagement with knowledge have the tools to test the political and policy promises offered to people. They must share it with the public to help them take informed decisions. So, they need freedom, not for their own sake but for the good of the society. Academic freedom is slightly more than the freedom of expression. It is a basic necessity without which the business of knowledge cannot be conducted. All democracies therefore resist the temptation of controlling the campus. Peers decide, not state bodies.

We have been lucky to get a replacement for the lecture. But the damage done to JNU, if goes unchallenged, could affect university life elsewhere in the country. Indian campuses might resemble the campuses of the Stalinist era and academics would function as government spokespersons.

There is more happening at JNU which should attract public scrutiny. Creation of management, engineering and medical schools to marginalise the humanities and social sciences, the automation and vulgarisation of the admission process and the taking away of powers of the faculty in the appointment of new faculty and violating the principles of seniority is destroying the unique character of the university.

It is beyond the capability of the faculty and students of JNU to save it from an administration which is at war with it. It is the duty of the society, not only its alumni ,who are in powerful positions, to speak up. The existence of spaces like JNU help us to think about possibilities which can become a reality.

CHAVAN UNDER FIRE

A MEETING OF the pre-split AICC will be held in Bangalore on August 17 and 18. The Congress Working Committee took this decision today. There was a blistering attack on YB Chavan, Deputy Prime Minister, at the CWC meeting for his mishandling of the first list of ministers. Bhola Paswan Shastri, leader of the Congress Party in the Lok Sabha, Yunus Saleem and Vinayak Acharya led the attack They were supported by some others. When the attack was in full cry, Chavan left the meeting possibly in a huff. At one point, when Chavan said he took the blame for all that had happened, Mohammad Ali shouted," Don't try to defend, yourself." Chavan said the list of nominees would show that the interests of minorities, women and Harijans had been adequately safeguarded.

ANARCHY ON RISE

NANAJI DESHMUKH, JANATA Party General Secretary said here that anarchy was fast enveloping the country. Speaking at a rally to mark the death anniversary of Lokmanya Tilak, he said, "politics of opportunism doesn't behove a country of great ideals and leaders of the calibre of Shivaji, Tilak and Mahatma Gandhi. Society should boycott and isolate such power crazy elements." He wondered whether such leaders considered they could serve the nation and society only through the seat of power.

FAREWELL TO ARMS

A BATCH OF 100 rebel Mizos led by "Colonel" Vanthanga, former "Commander-in-chief" of the banned Mizo National Army bid farewell to arms, surrendered themselves before Mizoram's Inspector-General of Police, Ved Marwah, and signed the oath of allegiance to the Indian Constitution at a simple ceremony in the police complex at Aizawl. The government reciprocated the gesture, giving an initial rehabilitation grant of Rs 1,000 each and a promise of industrial and agricultural loans to enable them to start their careers afresh.

Remaking home

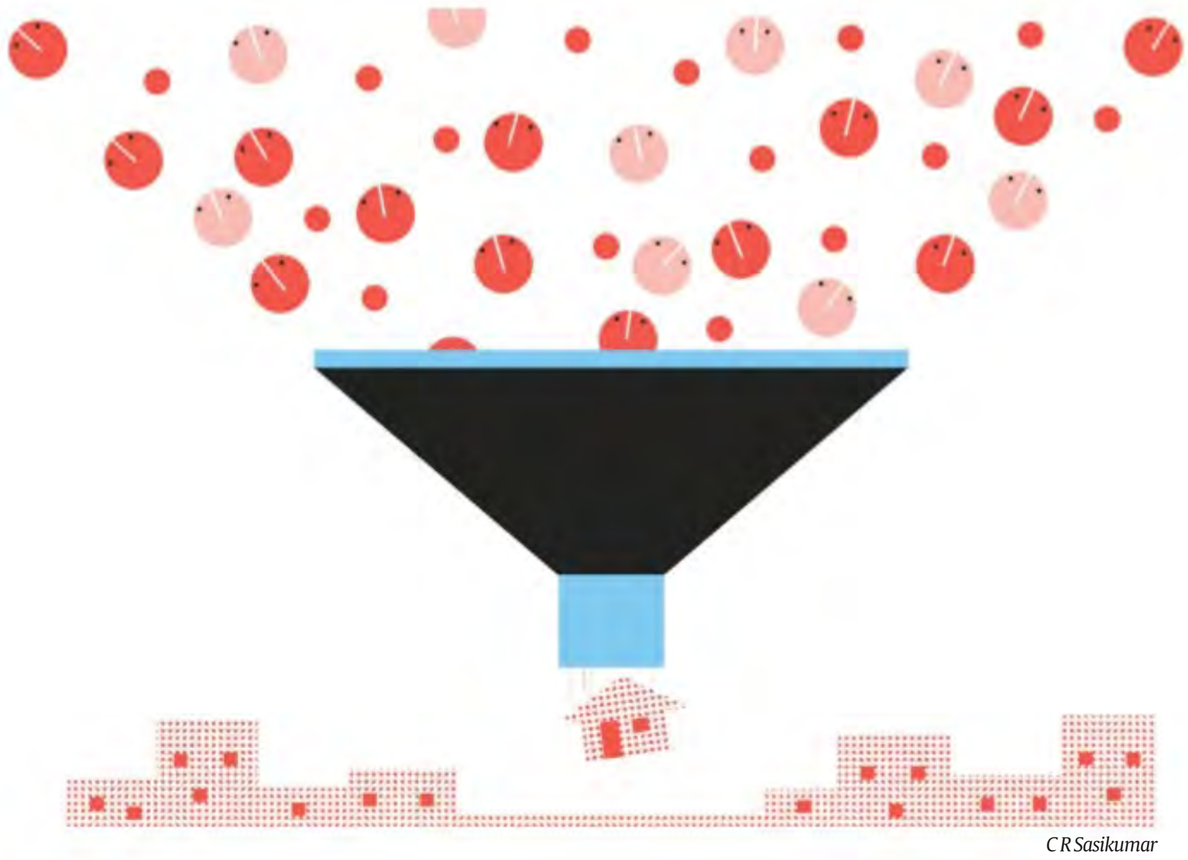
GAUTAM BHATIA



C R Sasikumar

TO SAY THAT there is no housing crisis in India is to make a statement of little value. Homelessness is on the rise, and has been for the past half a century. Eight years ago, after the 2011 Census, the demand for new housing was at 25 lakh units. With a great burst of building — mostly sub-standard and low cost units — the central government and state housing agencies added a sizeable number to the mix. But with demand rising exponentially and related to increasing migration numbers, the current requirement for shelter stands at 30 lakh units, more than double from the turn of the century.

Yet, the government's ineffective home building programmes proliferate. The Pradhan Mantri Awas Yojana aims to provide cheaper houses quickly to low income groups, with substantial interest subsidies on housing loans. The previous scheme, Awas Yojna, has been attempting the same since 1985 without much success. State housing boards have similar unachievable goals. Every year, more houses are constructed; yet, every year the demand increases.

Is this a sane policy for providing homes? When an idea has failed consistently wouldn't a different approach make more sense?

In the early 1950s, new houses in most cities relied on the bungalow model — a free standing home, single storied, spread on private land, and bounded by walls. The home's ownership, independence and property rights were paramount. Nearly 70 years later, despite a 100-fold increase in city population density and land values, little has changed from that ideal. The provision of a shelter is still wracked by the archaic ideal of ownership, still burdened by the unjustified expense of conventional construction, and still stuck to the impracticality of old space and design ideas.

Why is the dream of living in a home tied to ownership? Is the home less of a home if it belongs to someone else? The outmoded notion of a building in self-ownership, as a private family asset, is the primary hurdle in the quest for affordable housing. And in seeking to remedy the situation, four factors need to be evaluated in the search for a new model.

First, of utmost importance is to put a halt to the growing privatisation of the city, which would in effect do away with more private ownership of land and buildings. The current situation creates unfortunate divides between private colonies, flats and government housing — contributing to insecurity and gated colonies. So far, the isolating quality of the Indian city has been reinforced by divisions of profession, ethnicity and economic status. Where is in the world will you find cities with officially recognised subdivisions — Bengalis in their own enclave (Chittaranjan Park), lawyers in Niti Bagh, Jews in Jewtown and Parsis in Parsi Colony. Would white Catholic office secretaries live in their own suburb outside New York, away from Black Presbyterian bus drivers?

By discouraging home ownership, the city becomes more open and accessible to a greater number of new residents, thus creating the potential for a more diverse economic, ethnic and religious mix. Stringent urban land reforms would be the first step in that direction. By making housing part of city infrastructure projects, the government takes away land and construction from private builders and creates diverse pockets of housing in different parts of the city. Short-term rights to a home should ideally be the goal, such that citizens have easy access to subsidised rental housing without legal rights of ownership. Rental units instead would allow residents to live close to office and employment, keeping the neighbourhood changing and dynamic.

Second, it is imperative that a system of tax incentives and new rental regulations be used to achieve that goal. One of the key reasons for a shortfall in middle income housing is the unwillingness of a home owner to rent out when the legal rights grossly favour tenants. Besides obvious change in rental laws, the government needs to examine the current stock of available housing and create an equitable rental policy. The imposition of a high un-occupancy tax on buildings that are vacant will help to inhabit almost a third of private housing that remains empty in most cities. Take, Delhi. The city — including Gurgaon and NOIDA — is burdened with over two lakh unoccupied mid and high income housing. At the same time, there is a desperate requirement for housing three lakh low income and weaker section families. Builders, however, continue to construct upscale luxury apartments because profit margins are enormous. Such insanity can only be curbed when stricter construction restrictions are in place, and the government begins to see housing as a social service and not a business venture. Expanding the supply of low-income housing — something the private developers refuse to touch — will ultimately help the slum-dweller to a natural upgrade.

Third, the current densities of residential space need more efficient modifications. Do living/dining rooms, and private bedrooms have any value in new housing or would a smaller multifunctional and compact unit make more sense? Given the high land values, unless there is an increase in floor area ratio (FAR) with a complementary decrease in a home's occupancy footprint, economies of scale will never be achieved in city residential areas. In fact, subsidies on efficient space planning, environmental considerations and design that creates shared community spaces should be encouraged and rewarded.

Fourth, because political concerns remain enmeshed in changing civic status rather than demonstrating concerns for physical improvements, the Indian city continues to retain its Third World label. Civic governance structures need to be separate from politics, which is too often a happy and willing partner in bartering civic values for votes. The Delhi chief minister recently announced that 1,800 unauthorised colonies will grant home ownership rights to its residents. The move comes a few months before the assembly elections and demonstrates how the top leadership in the country plays shamelessly with a city's long range plans for quick short-term gains.

> There is a desperate requirement for housing three lakh low income and weaker section families. Builders, however, continue to construct upscale luxury apartments because profit margins are enormous. Such insanity can only be curbed when stricter construction restrictions are in place, and the government begins to see housing as a social service and not a business venture.

By contrast, Brazil's intervention in its Favelas or slum tenements upgraded individual houses after a rigorous survey of families, providing design improvements, ventilation, storage space and utilities where needed. Singapore replaced their poorer tenements altogether with a basic high rises of low cost low income housing integrated into the fabric of the city. By such inclusion the poorer sections were no longer relegated to depressed parts of the town but were granted space everywhere. Unfortunately, the Indian concept of "regularisation" works on the tacit admission that the city learn to accept the poor as they are, where they are — in self-created clusters outside the mainstream. They remain socially isolated, and develop outside of the norms of civic life — a necessary evil that can be exploited as cheap manual labour and efficient vote bank.

Isn't it the combined future of the government, architects, and planners to constantly test new ideas related to local forms of urban living? In Delhi, the new large-scale housing developments of Nauroji Nagar and Kidwai Nagar fall in the centre of the town and could have been effectively used to demonstrate radical new ideas of urban density, landscape, car-less streets, water collection reservoirs, green construction, alternative systems of energy and waste management and a mixed-use home-work-recreation network. Instead, a shabby mix of eight to ten storey tower blocks adds yet another third-rate sight to the already beleaguered city. Easy and quick time-tested commerce has similarly shaped Mumbai's Bandra Kurla Complex and Indira Nagar in Bengaluru. Over the next decade, as millions of new migrants move to towns, a radical view of the Indian home is the only way to go.

It is no exaggeration to say that housing in India is both inefficient, poorly constructed, thoughtlessly designed, and conforms to outmoded ideas that still hark to the bungalow prototype. Unless more thoughtfully-designed homes, with newer materials and technologies, and a more egalitarian housing policy become part of future government programmes, it is these citadels of waste and decay that will remain the public face of the city.

A step for gender justice

BHUPENDER YADAV

IT IS A historic moment for this country. The arbitrary, unconstitutional and unreasonable practice, generally called triple talaq, has become a practice of past and now, an offence. India has moved on from an era when the name of movie was changed to Nikah because there was a danger that if a husband asked his wife to watch a movie named "Talaq Talaq Talaq", she may suffer a heart attack as uttering talaq, talaq, talaq was considered as divorce.

The present legislation comes in the backdrop of an evolving society, which has influenced even Islamic states to make corrective changes by legislation to Muslim personal law. I congratulate our Muslim sisters for getting their due right of equality, an issue of paramount importance for the present government. Eradicating the unfair practice of triple talaq has ended their insecurity and uncertain future.

The fight against instant talaq was the fight of every Muslim woman, though it was started by an ordinary Muslim woman. Talaq-e-biddat left women insecure since it was generally accepted and practiced by the community, when a man wanted to correct his mistake. There was no reason for a woman in a civilised society to go through this trauma. This fight, being the fight of ordinary women against inequality and injustice, deserved the support of the government that considers equality, as outlined in the Constitution, its guiding principle.

Bringing the law that declares triple talaq an offence is a victory for the civil society; it should not be seen as a political victory. It is surprising how anyone can oppose such a progressive law, which was essential for the women of one particular community, who were facing discrimination due to this arbitrary practice. It is disheartening to see how those who have been talking about the Beijing declaration were against the passing of this much-needed law to ensure women's dignity.

Instant talaq concerns gender justice. The law banning it is about ensuring human rights and providing liberty to women to live with dignity. Many criminal offences have civil consequences, for example, rash driving. Crime involves punishment by the government while a civil wrong is a wrong against an individual that calls for compensation to the wronged person.

Generally, civil action can provide only compensation. What compensation would be appropriate for a woman like Shah Bano, who was divorced by her husband at 70? There was need for a law, which may act as a deterrent and prevent people from resorting to instant talaq. In short, criminalising instant talaq was the only option.

Triple talaq was not only a wrong against an individual, but it was an attack on the society in general. The government deserves appreciation for bringing a law that terms it as offence; declaring it a punishable offence makes it an effective law. The deterrence theory of criminology is shaping the criminal justice system in various countries.

We also cannot ignore the constitutional morality. The Supreme Court has held that the practice of triple talaq is not protected under religious freedom and the same is against the dignity of women. Gender justice is an important constitutional goal and without accomplishing the same, half of the country's citizens would not be able to enjoy their rights in reality. When Article 51-A (e) of the Constitution talks about renouncing practices derogatory to the dignity of women, how can a government not bring about an effective law to end the practice? Articles 14, 15 and 21, which are a part of the basic structure of the Constitution, make it clear that there was a need to bring a law, particularly since the Court had declared that the ambit of religious freedom does not cover triple talaq. Democratic values will survive only when people are guided by the constitutional parameters.

It is also important to note that it is not the first law to declare an unreasonable and arbitrary act as an offence. There are so many examples. For example, from the ancient time, polygamy was permitted amongst Hindus. But in 1860, the Indian Penal Code made "polygamy" a criminal offence. Next was The Hindu Marriage Act, 1955, which provides the conditions for a valid Hindu marriage. One of the conditions introduced was that neither of the parties to the matrimonial alliance should have a living spouse at the time of marriage. Clearly, the practice of polygamy among Hindus was eradicated by legislation and the same was made a criminal offence through law. So the law criminalising triple talaq is not the first instance of personal law being changed to ensure gender justice in India.

So many reformative laws have been introduced by the state. One such law was the Hindu Widows' Remarriage Act. The issue is not about religion or faith but the concern for gender justice and gender equality. In order to fully emancipate Muslim women from an unjust and discriminatory family law, their unique position and experience at the intersection of gender discrimination and religious discrimination must be taken into account.

The present government deserves appreciation for ensuring equality of women in letter and spirit. What is held to be bad in the Holy Quran cannot be good in sharia. Or, what is bad in theology is bad in law as well.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

LIMITED LAW

THIS REFER TO the editorial, 'Shortchanged by law' and the article 'Power and Justice' (IE, August 1). The law against triple talaq serves a dual purpose for the government: Humiliating the Opposition and mobilising a section of the educated and professional Muslims in big cities and towns. The practice of triple talaq is no doubt decadent. But the government's aim to confer justice and empower Muslim women, in all likelihood, might not be fulfilled. On the contrary it might do more harm than good to the wronged woman.

G Javaid Rasool, Lucknow

GENDER JUSTICE

THIS REFERS TO the article 'Taking down patriarchy' (IE,August,1).The writer's happiness over PM Narendra Modi's success in getting the anti- triple -talaq bill passed is understandable. Now he needs to show the same zeal to get the Women's Reservation Bill passed.

Tarsem Singh, Mahilpur

REFORM POLITICS

THIS REFERS TO the article, 'A familiar drama' (IE, August 1). Citizens will point out that corruption is the norm among bureaucrats, the police, and even the judiciary has not been able to escape its share of blame. India did have stellar politicians B C Roy in Bengal and Y B Chavan in Maharashtra. Therefore, the need is to ensure that honest, educated and well-meaning people join politics and occupy positions of power. Let the Election Commission allow debates among the contestants in state-sponsored auditoriums that are televised or shared through social media.

EMPTY BOAST

THIS REFERS TO the article, 'The 50-day journey' (IE, July 31). It is wrong to talk about high productivity in the current Monsoon Session. The government has bulldozed Bills on sensitive issues without proper discussion and scrutiny. Moreover, recent incidents of mob violence with forced sloganeering contradicts the vision laid down under "sabka saath, sabka vikas, sabka vishwas".

DEBATING TALAQ

INQUILAB HAS BACK to back editorials on triple talaq, on July 31 and then on August 1. The August 1 editorial writes about the "irony" of one side being so concerned about the Unnao rape incident and the accident, which has the victim "fighting for her life, and most of her family killed, where the accused is a powerful MLA and on the other hand, instant triple talaq, with the government so concerned, as if there were no bigger problem than this one, at present". The newspaper writes: "There is no doubt that this is a bad practice, but the haste displayed while making a law against this has never been seen in any other problem." This, the newspaper goes on to say, is when "Muslim organisations had declared that they will through social reform oppose this".

Rozanama Rashtriya Sahara on July 26 compared the 1980s to now, when the "then Congress government led by Rajiv Gandhi had tried to interfere in Muslim personal law". But widespread protests forced the government's hand to reverse its stance. Now, the people appear "unable to do anything, laachaar". It urges a look at facts, speaking of "back-breaking inflation, unemployment, sharply rising inequality that affect not just Muslim women but all women, including Muslim women"."When her son or husband is unemployed, can the Muslim woman be happy?" the editorial wonders.

Siasat on July 27 in an editorial after the passage of the Bill in the Lok Sabha calls the opposition parties and other parties who oppose the Bill to ensure that it not passed by the Rajya Sabha. Siasat writes: "The government will try many moves. And the Opposition must be alert. Those who are scared of opposing the Modi government must also make their stand clear." It writes: "Muslims are watching and will use this as a test to examine their so-called commitment to Muslims, their welfare and secularism. The time for empty words will have to end."

Etemaad (mouthpiece of the AIMIM) writes about the government pushing all the Bills it needs to consolidate its votebank in Parliament. It writes the government that has ignored the Sabarimala and Aadhaar orders of the Supreme Court, has chosen to bring out a bill for triple talaq instead of a law to control mob lynching. When such laws were brought against the majority community, for example in the Sabarimala case, it is stopped by an agitation. But Muslims have been scared beforehand itself, so they do not oppose such laws. While NIA is now a law stronger than POTA, it is clear that Muslims are the only targets. Why are steps not being taken to curb Hindu extremism? The newspaper calls for Muslims to "use their democratic rights to express their anger against the triple talaq bill, while staying within the law."

LAW AS HARASSMENT

Munsif on July 27 speaks of laws being hustled in an unseemly rush intehaai jaldbaazi. It takes special note of the RTI Bill, which, according to the newspaper, makes Information Commissioners almost "government servants" and quashes their autonomy and independence. The newspaper speculates if the Modi government is wreaking vengeance on RTI commissioners for the five big orders they gave which brought out the truth on the government. It terms the original bill a fine legislation of the UPA2 era, now being crushed.

The July 28 editorial of Daawat, the fortnightly newspaper of the Jamaat-e-Islami, focuses on the "anti-terror" law. It focuses on the "misuse of such laws". "Terror does not end with these laws as the intention is not to end terror. The intention is only to create new means of harassment against people which they take years to get out of," the editorial says. The newspaper writes that "earlier too, the intention was to harass innocents and push them in jail and this is what has happened. So, whenever attempts are made to formulate 'tough laws' they are opposed".

TRAGEDY IN UNNAO

Various editorials have taken note of the accident that wiped out several members of the Unnao rape victim's family. Etemaad on July 30 writes about the BJP MP Sakshi Maharaj meeting the accused, a BJP MLA, in jail recently. It asks for phone records of the truck driver, cleaner and owner scrutinised. Sahara on August 1 wonders, sardonically, why when "the Opposition is angry and brought up this crash in Parliament and the BJP claims to have suspended Kuldip Singh Sengar, the accused BJP MLA, is justice not forthcoming?" It calls for a CBI inquiry to be speedily ordered.

MOURNING SHEILA

Sahara editorial on July 22 talks about the tradition of leaders praising their opponents when they die. The editorial says it is commendable that BJP leaders praised Sheila Dikshit when she died. But why did they not do so in her lifetime? The editorial points out that if it happens, "political rivalry can never morph into personal enmity". The environment that will emerge in India then will be very positive, the editorial concludes.

US hails cooperation of 'great friend' India on Iran sanctions

Also praises 'less well-aligned' China for standing with US instead of Iran

WASHINGTON, AUGUST 1

THE US is "highly gratified" by the cooperation from a "great friend" like India in enforcing the oil sanctions on Tehran, the White House said on Wednesday.

Tensions between the US and Iran have heightened after Washington last year withdrew from the 2015 nuclear deal that aimed to curb Iranian nuclear activities. Washington has since reimposed crippling sanctions affecting the Iranian economy.

"We have been highly gratified by cooperation from a great friend and partner like India, and even less well-aligned countries such as China, in making the rather obvious choice that the United States would be the business partner of choice, not Iran," a senior official told reporters during a conference call.

India, which has galloping energy needs, went out of its way to co-operate with the US. India has brought down the import of oil from Iran to almost zero, though it has had historic and cultural ties with the Persian Gulf country.

India stopped importing oil from Iran after American waivers granted to eight major buyers expired in May

India stopped importing oil from Iran after American waivers granted to eight major buyers expired in May this year.

Referring to an open source information, the US official, requesting anonymity, said Iranian export of oil for July was at 1,00,000 barrels per day, which is down considerably from the previous historic low of 7,81,000.

The official credited the Trump administration for this and added that Iran has very little to offer in terms of being a trading partner.

"The United States just continues to be appreciative, particularly of India's cooperation, and continues to be very mindful of India's legitimate energy needs," the official said responding to a question on reports about talks between India and Iran on oil trade through their own currencies. PTI

WASHINGTON, AUGUST 1

THE UNITED States on Wednesday imposed sanctions on Iranian Foreign Minister Mohammad Javad Zarif, targeting the country's top spokesman and potentially hurting chances of diplomatic talks amid rising tensions between the two countries.

Zarif, a critical figure in the 2015 Iran nuclear deal, dismissed the action and said it would not affect him.

US President Donald Trump pulled the US out of the deal last year and ramped up sanctions to put pressure on Iran's economy.

Strains between Washington and Tehran have risen more in recent months.

"Javad Zarif implements the reckless agenda of Iran's Supreme Leader, and is the regime's primary spokesperson around the world. The United States is sending a clear message to the Iranian regime that its recent behavior is completely unacceptable," Treasury Secretary Steven Mnuchin said in a statement.

The sanctions against Zarif would block any property or interests he has in the US, but the Iranian foreign minister said he had none. "The US' reason for designating me is that I am Iran's 'primary spokesperson around the world'," Zarif said on Twitter. "Is the truth really that painful? SRI LANKA ELECTIONS

Gotabaya Rajapaksa, Mahinda's brother, set to be Opposition presidential nominee

CLEARING ALL major hurdles before him, Gotabaya Rajapaksa, the former defence secretary during the Sri Lankan civil war and the younger brother of former president Mahinda Rajapaksa, is all set to become the presidential candidate of the Opposition.

With the presidential polls set to be held in Sri Lanka towards the end of November, The Indian Express has learnt that Mahinda will announce the name of Gotabaya as the presidential candidate of the Sri Lanka Podujana Peramuna (SLPP) on August 11, at the party's national convention being held in Colombo.

Rolling out his campaign on the same day, sources said Gotabaya will be touring the nation till August 18 to meet top leaders as well as Buddhist, Christian, Muslim and Hindu clergy.

The Sri Lankan election commission had recently announced that the presidential polls would be held between November 15 and December 7, a month before the end of President Maithripala Sirisena's term.

While Mahinda cannot contest again for the post of president because of a two-term limit, there were several hurdles and uncertainties before Gotabaya's presidential candidature. One of the major challenges — his dual citizenship — has been recently resolved with Gotabaya renouncing his US citizenship in early May. His spokeperson tweeted on Thursday, "Certificate of Loss of Nationality of the United States' putting an end to rumours."

Another hurdle was a corruption case in the high court, in which the Supreme Court ordered last week that proceedings be suspended until the matter is heard in the Supreme Court and decided. A civil lawsuit in the US last April that sought damages from Gotabaya for allegedly instigating and authorising torture and murder was another case, filed by Ahimsa Wickrematunge, daughter of slain Sri Lankan journalist Lasantha Wickrematunge, who was murdered a decade ago. By renouncing his citizenship, Gotabaya doesn't face any threat from the US suit either.

Gotabaya Rajapaksa was a former defence secretary

While being credited for wiping out the LTTE as the defence secretary in the Mahinda Rajapaksa regime, Gotabaya — who faced accusations of war crimes from the Tamil community and rights groups — had successfully dodged crucial charges against him.

When asked about the perception of the international community that there is blood on his hands for the massive killings in northern Sri Lanka during the war, Gotabaya told The Indian Express in March 2018: "I know I haven't done anything wrong. I know I have done the correct thing. My conscience says that. When you ask about civilian killings, you must understand that war is not a rosy thing, whether it is in Sri Lanka or Afghanistan or India or Pakistan or Iraq. War is not a good thing, it is not a nice thing. But in Sri Lanka, I didn't create the war, I ended the war... Our country is a better place without the LTTE. Today, the president of Sri Lanka can go to Jaffna and speak there... Bombs do not understand who is enemy and who is friend, or if it is a civilian or military van..."

While Sirisena is reportedly not contesting again, the United National Party (UNP) leader and the current Prime Minister Ranil Wickramasinghe, or UNP's emerging popular leader Sajith Premadasa are among the names doing the rounds in the UNP camp as its likely presidential candidates.

In an election which is going to be fought over two crucial topics — national security and the sinking economy in the wake of Easter Sunday blasts, the SLPP leadership hopes that Gotabaya's candidature will play a major role in regaining the trust Mahinda had lost in 2015 presidential polls.

Hamza, son and heir of Osama bin Laden, is dead: US officials

JULIAN E BARNES, ADAM GOLDMAN & ERIC SCHMITT
WASHINGTON, AUGUST 1

OSAMA BIN Laden's son Hamza bin Laden, who was viewed as an eventual heir to the leadership of al-Qaeda and who had repeatedly threatened to attack the United States, is dead, according to two US officials.

Details of the strike that killed him were scarce, including when and where. The US government played a role in the operation, but it was not clear how, according to the officials.

Hamza bin Laden was killed sometime during the first two years of the Trump administration, officials said. He was killed before the State Department announced a $1 million reward for information on his whereabouts in February, but US military and intelligence agencies had not confirmed his death by then.

Though bin Laden carried a prominent name and lineage, the news of his death represented more of a symbolic victory for the American government than the removal of a threat. Al-Qaeda has not carried out a large-scale attack in years, and though bin Laden was being groomed to eventually take over the group, that time appeared to be well into the future.

Bin Laden was likely operating on the Pakistan-Afghanistan border, said Thomas Joscelyn, a senior fellow at the Foundation for the Defence of Democracies.

Asked about the death on Wednesday, US President Donald Trump declined to comment. NYT

EXPLAINED

Mystery surrounds his life and death

THOUGH US officials who refused to be identified said he was killed in an American strike in the last two years, exactly how and when Hamza bin Laden died remains a mystery. Not much is publicly known about him, except that Al-Qaeda was grooming him to be the face of the group. Intelligence agencies are split on whether he was born in 1989 or 1986. After his father fled Afghanistan in 2001, Hamza's location has been largely unknown, with reports placing him in many countries including Iran, Afghanistan and Pakistan. He was also mistakenly thought to have died in the 2011 operation in Abbottabad in which his father was killed. According to Al-Qaeda releases, he was keen to avenge his father and carry on in his footsteps.

DEMOCRATIC PRESIDENTIAL DEBATE: DAY 2

DETROIT, AUGUST 1

On the second night of debates among Democrats vying to challenge Republican President Donald Trump in 2020, the former vice-president came prepared to do battle after facing criticism for his sometimes wobbly performance in the first debate last month.

Striking a sharper and more aggressive tone, he tangled with rival Kamala Harris over healthcare, taking up a growing fight that has split the Democratic Party and dominated the first candidate encounter in Detroit on Tuesday.

He ridiculed Harris' contention that the US senator's recently unveiled healthcare plan would not require a middle-class tax increase or the elimination of private insurance plans.

Harris rejected Biden's description as "simply inaccurate" and ripped into his proposal to build on Obamacare, and include a government-run option, saying it would leave millions uninsured.

Biden also tangled with Senator Cory Booker, who renewed his criticism of Biden's work as a senator on the 1994 crime bill, which critics say led to the disproportionate imprisonment of African-American men. REUTERS

BIDEN SETS UP IMPENDING CLASH WITH WARREN

AFTER TWO sets of Democratic presidential debates, it appears that Joe Biden and Elizabeth Warren, at least at the moment, are two high-speed trains on a collision course.

Biden, the former vice president, likely did enough at Wednesday's debate to ease concerns among supporters that his front-runner status was in danger after his underwhelming performance in the first debate in June. Warren, a senator who has been gaining in opinion polls, turned in an assured performance in Tuesday's debate, forcefully responding to critics who charged her plans were too sweeping and expensive.

Both nights made clear that the ideological divide that is fissuring the Democratic Party will not soon be closed — and that voters may soon have to choose a side. REUTERS

KATHMANDU, AUGUST 1

THE COMMUNIST Party of Nepal-Maoists (CPN-M) allegedly targeted 23 telecommunication towers in different parts of Nepal on Thursday, signalling that it is determined to continue its armed rebellion against the State.

The simultaneous attacks, which partially damaged some of the towers, could be an indication that the CPN-M, which was part of the decade-long insurgency from 1996, is following exactly the same modus operandi.

Although the group has not owned responsibility for the incident, police have pinned the blame on them.

The CPN-M, led by Netra Bikram Chand Biplab, is a group that the government has declared unlawful.

Biplab's outfit has accused its parent Maoist party, which merged with Nepal Prime Minister K P Oli's party to form the ruling Nepal Communist Party, of compromising on the basic principles and mission of the 'People's War'.

THE WEALTHY FINANCIER IS ACCUSED OF SEX TRAFFICKING

AUGUST 1

JEFFREY EPSTEIN, the wealthy financier who is accused of sex trafficking, had an unusual dream: He hoped to seed the human race with his DNA by impregnating women at his vast New Mexico ranch.

Epstein over the years confided to scientists and others about his scheme, according to four people familiar with his thinking, although there is no evidence that it ever came to fruition.

Epstein's vision reflected his long-standing fascination with what has become known as transhumanism: the science of improving the human population through technologies like genetic engineering and artificial intelligence. Critics have likened transhumanism to a modern-day version of eugenics, the discredited field of improving the human race through controlled breeding.

Epstein, who was charged in July with the sexual trafficking of girls as young as 14, was a serial illusionist: He lied about the identities of his clients, his wealth, his financial prowess and his personal achievements. But he managed to use connections and charisma to cultivate valuable relationships with business and political leaders.

Interviews with more than a dozen of his acquaintances, as well as public documents, show that he used the same tactics to insinuate himself into an elite scientific community, thus allowing him to pursue his interests in eugenics and other fringe fields like cryonics.

Lawyers for Epstein, who has pleaded not guilty to the sex-trafficking charges, did not respond to requests for comment.

Epstein attracted a glittering array of scientists. They included the Nobel Prize-winning physicist Murray Gell-Mann, who discovered the quark; theoretical physicist and author Stephen Hawking; paleontologist and evolutionary biologist Stephen Jay Gould; Oliver Sacks, the neurologist and best-selling author; George M Church, a molecular engineer who has worked to identify genes that could be altered to create superior humans; and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology theoretical physicist Frank Wilczek, also a Nobel laureate.

Epstein at a trial. Reuters

The Harvard cognitive psychologist Steven Pinker said he was invited by colleagues — including Martin Nowak, a Harvard professor of mathematics and biology, and the theoretical physicist Lawrence Krauss — to "salons and coffee klatsches" at which Epstein would hold court.

While some of Pinker's peers hailed Epstein as brilliant, Pinker described him as an "intellectual impostor."

"He would abruptly change the subject, ADD-style, dismiss an observation with an adolescent wisecrack," Pinker said.

Another scientist cultivated by Epstein, Jaron Lanier, a prolific author who was a founder of virtual reality, said that Epstein's ideas did not amount to science, in that they did not lend themselves to rigorous proof. Lanier said Epstein had once hypothesised that atoms behaved like investors in a marketplace.

Then there was Epstein's interest in eugenics.

On multiple occasions starting in the early 2000s, Epstein told scientists and businessmen about his ambitions to use his New Mexico ranch as a base where women would be inseminated with his sperm and would give birth to his babies, according to two award-winning scientists and an adviser to large companies and wealthy individuals, all of whom Epstein told about it.

It was not a secret. The adviser, for example, said he was told about the plans not only by Epstein, at a gathering at his Manhattan town house, but also by at least one prominent member of the business community.

One of the scientists said Epstein divulged his idea in 2001 at a dinner at the same town house; the other recalled Epstein discussing it with him at a 2006 conference that he hosted in St. Thomas in the Virgin Islands. The idea struck all three as far-fetched and disturbing. There is no indication that it would have been against the law.

Once, at a dinner at Epstein's mansion on Manhattan's Upper East Side, Lanier said he talked to a scientist who told him that Epstein's goal was to have 20 women at a time impregnated at his 33,000-square-foot Zorro Ranch in a tiny town outside Santa Fe. Lanier said the scientist identified herself as working at NASA, but he did not remember her name. NYT

RITU SARIN
NEW DELHI, AUGUST 1

REVELATIONS FROM the Mauritius Leaks on the offshore holdings of Shivinder Singh and Malvinder Singh, the former promoters of Religare Enterprises, are being described as "corroborative evidence" for the Enforcement Directorate (ED) as it moved in on Thursday to search their residences as well as those of their associates Sunil Godhwani, N K Ghoshal and Hemant Dhingra.

The Indian Express investigation, in collaboration with the International Consortium of Investigative Journalists (ICIJ), as part of the Mauritius Leaks and Paradise Papers, was published on July 23, 2019, and revealed that Religare Capital Markets Ltd (RCML), a wholly-owned subsidy of the Indian entity, Religare Enterprises Limited (REL), set up an investment holding subsidiary in Mauritius in 2008 called Religare Capital Markets International (Mauritius) Ltd.

And this, in turn, became the instrument to acquire stakes in another Jersey firm, NCM Limited. The shareholders of NCM Limited are Shivinder Singh and Malvinder Singh as well as their spouses. While the investigation uncovered the Mauritius and Jersey ends of the complex corporate web created by the former Fortis promoters, ED officials said their focus was also on the beneficiary companies allegedly used by them in India to "divert" funds.

The "beneficiary" firms, listed by ED, and covered in Thursday's searches, are RHC Holding Pvt Ltd; Malav Holding Pvt Ltd and Shivi Holding Pvt Ltd, all located in Connaught Place, New Delhi; as well as Arch Finance Limited, in Daryaganj, New Delhi. N K Ghoshal, a resident of Faridabad, is shown as founder and promoter of Arch Finance Limited, allegedly one of the "beneficiary" firms.

In all, officials said, 16 companies used for alleged "diversion" of funds by the former Religare promoters are under investigation.

For their case under the Prevention of Money Laundering Act (PMLA), the ED borrowed heavily on allegations by Delhi Police in their FIR dated March 27, 2019. The ED has alleged that "Malvinder Mohan Singh and Shivinder Mohan Singh, in conspiracy with Sunil Godhwani caused it (Religare Finvest Limited, the complainant company) to give unsecured, high value purported loans under Corporate Loan Book (CLB) to shell companies and related/known entities of Malvinder Mohan Singh and Shivinder Mohan Singh."

The ED also picked up the allegation, first made by the Delhi Police, that loans were also extended to 19 entities controlled by the Religare promoters and Ghoshal who subsequently, "wilfully defaulted" on the loans to the extent of Rs 2,397 crore as principal and Rs 415 crore as interest. The ED noted that these 19 entities never repaid the loans and diverted funds into a "complex web of companies" of interconnected transactions to divert money.

A week ago, The Indian Express had reported that documents obtained from Appleby and Mauritius-based Conyers, Dill and Pearman — two incorporators of offshore companies — revealed that Religare Capital Markets Ltd (RCML), a wholly-owned subsidiary of REL, set up an investment holding subsidiary in Mauritius in 2008. This subsidiary acquired a 30 per cent stake in Jersey-headquartered entity NCM Limited whose beneficial owners were the Singh brothers.

"We would like to reiterate, the promoters neither own or have or had any stake in NCM Ltd. Appleby's have named the promoters, as this is the regulatory requirement in Jersey where NCM Limited was incorporated," a spokesperson for the Singh brothers had said in response to a questionnaire based on Appleby documents. The spokesperson added that the 30 per cent stake in NCM was acquired after "seeking all necessary regulatory approvals including from the RBI and SEBI." And that in March 2015, the Mauritius subsidiary divested all its stake in NCM. "The promoters were neither part of the Board nor the management of Religare during that period," the spokesperson said.

PRESSURE LIKELY TO GROW IN COMING MONTHS

Tax revenue growth: Widening run rate gap may hit govt's fiscal math

In July-March, gross tax growth need to grow at run rate of 22.3%; net tax growth at 29.5%

AANCHAL MAGAZINE
NEW DELHI, AUGUST 1

THE GOVERNMENT'S fiscal math could come in for increasing scrutiny in the coming months as tax revenue growth is progressively turning out to be far slower than the required run rate for direct taxes, even as Goods and Services Tax (GST) collections seem to be growing higher than the targeted rate.

Gross GST collections have recorded a growth rate of 6.8 per cent in April-July as against the required rate of 3.6 per cent, a higher rise that could be primarily attributed to a sharply lower growth rate assumed for Budget target as against the revised estimate for previous fiscal. But when it comes to direct taxes, a widening gap in estimates is evident — with only 9.7 per cent growth recorded in April-June as against the annual required growth rate of 18.6 per cent.

Also, the gross tax revenue collections are now required to grow at a run rate of 22.3 per cent and net tax revenue collections are required to grow at a run rate of 29.5 per cent in the remaining nine months of this financial year, the actual figures of revenue collections released by the Controller General of Accounts (CGA) showed.

Direct tax collections in the first quarter of this financial year have been recorded at Rs 1,67,567 crore, only 9.7 per cent higher than Rs 1,52,724 crore in the corresponding period in the previous financial year. "The targets are indeed looking steep as a single-digit growth has been recorded for April-July as well," a senior government official said.

While the overall gross GST collections seem to be moving closer to the target, the actual figures released by CGA for the April-June quarter do not paint an optimistic picture for Centre's GST revenue. GST revenue collections of the Centre for April-June contracted 5.9 per cent year-on-year to Rs 1.53 lakh crore, dragging the overall growth rate of the central government's tax collections to 1.4 per cent. The Central government's tax collections were recorded at about Rs 4 lakh crore in April-June.

For April-July though, the gross GST collections, which include revenues for both states and Centre have been recorded at Rs 4.16 lakh crore, 6.8 per cent higher than Rs 3.89 lakh crore recorded in the same period last year.

The average monthly required revenue target for GST for the current financial year stands at about Rs 99,112 crore, only 3.6 per cent higher than the monthly required average of Rs 95,650 crore as per 2018-19 revised estimates.

The Central government's fiscal deficit has already hit 61.4 per cent of the full year target at Rs 4.32 lakh crore in April-June, as per CGA data. In the corresponding period last year, the fiscal deficit amounted to 68.7 per cent of the full-year target. The Union Budget for 2019-20 has pegged the fiscal deficit at Rs 7.038 lakh crore or 3.3 per cent of the GDP, marginally lower than the interim budget's estimate of Rs 7.040 lakh crore.

Economists have already started to raise concerns about meeting the fiscal targets, saying that expenditure cuts might be required if revenue targets are missed.

"The realisation of the target for direct taxes and GST collections, and dividends and surplus from the RBI, nationalised banks and financial institutions and PSEs, will be crucial to prevent a revenue slippage in FY2020. Moreover, the speed with which the disinvestment programme kicks off, as well as the interest shown by potential buyers in the PSUs being offered for strategic disinvestment, will be critical. At present, we can't rule out that expenditure cuts may be required to prevent a fiscal slippage, if the revenue targets are missed," Aditi Nayar, principal economist, ICRA said.

GST mop-up rises marginally to ₹1.02 lakh crore in July

New Delhi: Gross GST collections stood at Rs 1.02 lakh crore in July, marginally up from the previous month, official data showed on Thursday. The July 2019 mop-up was, however, 5.8 per cent higher than the Rs 96,483 crore collected in the same month last year.

Revenue collection from the Goods and Services Tax had slipped below the Rs 1 lakh crore mark for the first time in the current fiscal in June at Rs 99,939 crore. PTI

Markets fall to five-month low on weak macro data, US Fed comments

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU
MUMBAI, AUGUST 1

BEARS ON Thursday tightened their grip on stock markets, sending equity benchmarks to five-month lows as weak macroeconomic data, capital outflows and hawkish comments from the US Federal Reserve hit the sentiment.

After a weak opening, the 30-share BSE Sensex plunged more than 750 points in late-afternoon trade, before finally ending at 37,018.32, down by 462.80 points or 1.23 per cent. The broader NSE Nifty dropped 138 points or 1.24 per cent to close below the key 11,000-mark at 10,980.00 with foreign portfolio investors (FPIs) continuing their selling spree.

With Thursday's fall, the Sensex has plummeted by whopping 2,890 points from 39,908.06 on July 4, a decline of 7.8 per cent after the presentation of the Union Budget.

Meanwhile, the rupee declined by 27 paise to close at a near five-week low of 69.06 against the US dollar on Thursday amid strengthening of the American currency and heavy selling in domestic equities.

The sell-off by FPIs continues unabated, as they pulled out Rs 12,419 crore in July and sold stocks worth Rs 1,466 crore in August so far, according to NSDL data. The selling spree intensified ten days ago after Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman last week declined to remove or relax the applicability of the new surcharge on the super rich on FPIs, but advised those staring at an increase in tax outflows to shift to the corporate structure where the Budget has not made any change in tax treatment.

"Indian markets have been in a free fall as FPIs offloaded $ 3 billion worth of Indian stocks over last one month post-Budget, on the back of impact of high-taxation and concerns of multi-year low economic growth. Further, with Fed Chairman's statement that interest rate cut isn't start of rate-cut cycle has cut short the excitement of investors, as Fed denied to play to the capital-market gallery. Ongoing results season reflects that there is a chance that Nifty companies may post degrowth in their net profits for the first time," said Jagannadham Thunuguntla, senior VP and head of research (Wealth), Centrum Broking.

Dim corporate earnings, FPI outflow also hit sentiment

THOUGH THE US Fed cut interest rates, its statement was less dovish than what the markets had expected.

The sentiment was further hit as growth rate of eight core industries dropped to a 50-month low in June and foreign investors, worried over the 'super rich' tax, continued their sell-off. Corporate performance in the June quarter hasn't cheered the markets either and rating agencies have started lowering the GDP estimate.

Though the US Fed cut the overnight Fed funds rate by 25 basis points (bps) as expected, the Fed statement and press conference were less dovish than what the markets had expected.

"One gets an impression the Fed is likely to be data-dependent going forward," said an analyst.

Weak economic data, unabated foreign fund outflows and disappointing quarterly earnings also weighed on market sentiment, traders said. Vedanta took the biggest hit (5.55 per cent), followed by Tata Motors, SBI, Yes Bank, Bharti Airtel and Infosys, which lost up to 4.50 per cent.

Sectorally, BSE metal emerged as the biggest loser, falling 3.37 per cent, following poor Chinese factory output data. It was followed by basic materials (2.49 per cent), telecom (2.35 per cent) and teck (2.07 per cent).

Other Southeast Asian markets were also subdued.

"We could see further pressure to global equities in the coming weeks as summer doldrums take many investors to the sidelines until we see fresh easing signals from the both the Fed and the European Central Bank," said an analyst.

Business failures should not be looked down upon: FM

ENS & PTI
NEW DELHI, AUGUST 1

REACTING TO the death of Cafe Coffee Day founder V G Siddhartha, Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman on Thursday said business failures in the country should not be tabooed, or looked down upon.

Responding to the debate on the Insolvency and Bankruptcy Code (IBC) in Lok Sabha, Sitharaman said that businessmen should get honourable exit or resolution to the problem in letter and spirit of the IBC.

"Business failures in this country should not be tabooed, or looked down. On the contrary, we should give an honourable exit or resolution to the problem in letter and spirit of the IBC," she was quoted by PTI as saying.

Siddhartha's body was found on the banks of the Netravathi river in Karnataka on Wednesday.

In a letter purportedly written by him, Siddhartha alleged, among other reasons, harassment by the Income Tax Department as cause for his extreme step. The I-T department has denied the charges.

Jayadev Galla (TDP) said businesses may fail because of economic downturn or business cycle. Galla also said that accountability of banks need to come under scrutiny.

"Signing of personal guarantee (by industrialist to take loan) is leading to taking extreme action like suicide," he asserted. Kalyan Banerjee (TMC) said that those who have taken loans from banks, will have to pay.

Pinaki Misra (BJD) referred to the death of the coffee tycoon, saying it is unfortunate that the insolvency law "should continuously continue to grow and expand in our country."

He said it does not bode well for the country because "that is not how you reach the $5 trillion mark."

Meanwhile, in the Rajya Sabha, TMC leader Sukhendu Sekhar Ray said, without naming Siddhartha that the "recent tragic death of a renowned entrepreneur, who had set up a chain of very popular business outlets all over the country, has caused shock and agony among the Indian corporates in particular, and in the minds of the people in general". He stated that Chief Ministers of West Bengal and Karnataka and many corporate leaders have "expressed their concern in the matter".

Mentioning the letter written by Siddhartha to the Coffee Day group and its board members, Ray said that "it appears that he was under tremendous pressure from other stakeholders of the company as well as he named a particular senior officer of the Income Tax Department". Ray said he didn't want to "go into the blame-game" but commented that the matter was "very serious".

The government has announced and taken up so many measures for Ease of Doing Business, the TMC leader said, but he added that "according to reports, about 5,000 millionaires have left this country last year only". He urged the government to take some actions, because, he said, "if we fail to regenerate the confidence among the industrialists and investors, the growth rate will decrease alarmingly and the unemployment rate will increase alarmingly".

Manufacturing PMI up in July on new orders, higher output

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU
MUMBAI, AUGUST 1

INDIA'S MANUFACTURING sector activity improved in July as new work orders and output strengthened slightly from the previous month, leading to moderate increase in employment, a monthly survey said Thursday.

The IHS Markit India Manufacturing Purchasing Managers Index, rose to 52.5 in July from 52.1 in June as companies scaled up production in response to a quicker upturn in factory orders. This is the 24th consecutive month that the manufacturing PMI has remained

In PMI, a print above 50 means expansion, while a score below that denotes contraction. "Following a slowdown in growth in the opening quarter of fiscal year 2019/2020, some momentum was regained in July. Measures for factory orders, production and employment improved in the latest month, although rates of expansion remained below trend," said Pollyanna de Lima, principal economist at IHS Markit. As per the survey, the main factor boosting production was a sustained rise in new work inflows. "Survey participants linked the uptick in growth to a pick-up in demand, mostly stemming from successful marketing efforts, competitive pricing and favourable public policies," Lima said.

She further noted that domestic market provided the main impetus to sales growth, while external sales rose moderately since April 2018, as factories took a hit from subdued global trade flows.

REUTERS
WASHINGTON, AUGUST 1

IN CUTTING US interest rates but signaling that a series of further cuts was unlikely, Federal Reserve Chairman Jerome Powell on Wednesday took a page from the playbook of his predecessor Alan Greenspan, who used a similar tactic in the 1990s with apparent success.

Rather than marking the start to a lengthy rate-cutting cycle, Powell said at a news conference after the decision that the Fed's quarter-point rate reduction was an "adjustment" aimed at keeping the US economy's record-long expansion going. "There is definitely an insurance aspect to it," said Powell, echoing the phrasing that the Greenspan Fed used to describe its monetary policy easing in 1995 and again in 1998.

The reference may not have been coincidental. Since becoming Fed chair in February 2018, Powell has met at least a dozen times with former Fed policymakers, according to records on Powell's daily activities released by the Fed, but no one more frequently than Greenspan.

US Federal Reserve Chair Jerome Powell at a news conference after Federal Open Market Committee Meeting in Washington, on Thursday. Reuters

The two last met on April 17, sharing a 75-minute lunch.

Last week, Greenspan endorsed the idea of an insurance rate-cut again. "If you consider that there are certain small-probability events which could be very dangerous, it pays to act to see if you can fend it off," he told Bloomberg TV on July 24.

And though US President Donald Trump complained the Fed had "let us down" by delivering only a limited dose of stimulus, the economic record shows that both times the Greenspan Fed tried insurance cuts, they worked.

In July 1995, industrial production and job creation were slowing and new unemployment claims were rising. Though Fed policymakers at the time did not believe the data meant a recession was coming, they did not want to wait to find out.

They cut rates three times, and the manufacturing sector and the job market both regained health.

Just over three years later, the economy was showing few signs of weakness, but a stock market swoon and credit crunch following the collapse of hedge fund Long Term Capital Management boded ill for the future. Again, the Fed cut rates three times, the stock and credit markets recovered, and the expansion continued.

By the end of the decade, with the help of the two sets of "insurance" cuts, the economy had chalked up what was then a record-long expansion, surpassed in length only by the current one.

This time around, Powell faces a different set of challenges, including an inflation rate that remains stubbornly south of the Fed's targeted level of 2 per cent and sudden swings in trade policy that are denting business confidence and investment.

Powell contends that all of the Fed's actions this year, starting with calling an end to rate hikes in January, have helped keep the economy on a relatively even keel.

It may be months or more before it becomes clear whether the added stimulus of slightly lower rates keeps the economy chugging along.

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU
NEW DELHI, AUGUST 1

REELING UNDER competitive pressure, Bharti Airtel on Thursday slipped into red with the telecommunications company posting a consolidated net loss in its April-June earnings at Rs 2,866 crore — far wider than analysts' estimates — against a net profit of Rs 107 crore during the preceding quarter.

The loss was on account of an exceptional item hit of Rs 1,445 crore towards accelerated depreciation of 3G network equipments or operating costs on network refarming and upgradation programme.

Furthermore, there was incremental provision aggregating Rs 1,586 crore on account of derivative liabilities pertaining to customary indemnities provided to a clutch of investors of Airtel Africa, and expenses relating to its listing.

Prior to the April-June period, Bharti, for the last four quarters, was posting a slender profit on the back of exceptional gains.

"The first quarter of the year has begun with a healthy and equitable growth across all our lines of businesses. Headline pricing remained stable, albeit at low levels,"

Consolidated revenues during the quarter also grew below estimates at 0.66 per cent sequentially at Rs 20,738 crore. India mobile revenues grew at 2.2 per cent sequentially at Rs 10,867 crore, which was lower than rivals Reliance Jio's Rs 11,679 crore and Vodafone Idea's Rs 11,269 crore.

EBITDA at Rs 8,493 crore was up 24.8 per cent sequentially and above estimates, while margin at 41 per cent was higher against 33 per cent in preceding quarter.

Bharti Airtel's India business revenues rose 0.68 per cent at Rs 15,345 crore compared to the preceding quarter, while losses increased at Rs 1,356 crore compared to Rs 1,283 crore in the preceding one. However, the company did well on the operating metrics front with its average revenue per user (ARPU) increasing 5.1 per cent sequentially at Rs 129, higher than Jio's Rs 122 and Vodafone Idea's Rs 108.

This is the first time that Bharti's ARPU came higher than that of Jio.

Commenting on the quarterly results, Gopal Vittal, managing director and chief executive officer, India and South Asia, said on Thursday, "The first quarter of the year has begun with a healthy and equitable growth across all our lines of businesses. Headline pricing remained stable, albeit at low levels." FE

Goyal to top IT companies: Train manpower in other languages

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU
NEW DELHI, AUGUST 1

COMMERCE AND Industry Minister Piyush Goyal has asked the National Association of Software and Services Companies (NASSCOM) and senior managers of information technology companies for data on non-tariff barriers faced by them in China and other east Asian markets.

During a meeting with such firms on Wednesday, the minister assured them the government would engage with countries like China, Japan and Korea to help overcome such barriers and boost India's IT industry there. However, he also urged them to explore other non-English speaking markets, according to a release by the Ministry on Thursday.

"He urged the top five Indian IT firms to create a corpus that will be spent on training manpower in languages like Mandarin, Japanese and Korean for accessing the markets in these countries," stated the release.

The companies include Tata Consultancy Services, Wipro, Infosys, Tech Mahindra and HCL, which have been conducting business in China for over a decade, it added.

- In fiscal 2018-19, India's IT and ITeS industry grew to $181 billion

"During the discussions with the Commerce and Industry Ministry, the representatives of the companies informed that although the Chinese IT services market is the third largest in the world, India's investments and business have not been able to grow in China due to various non-tariff barriers and challenges faced by Indian companies to set up their entity in China," said the ministry.

"Market access issues that create hurdles for Indian companies to open their business in China was also discussed," it added.

India's IT and IT enabled services (ITeS) industry grew to $181 billion in 2018-19, with exports from the industry at $137 billion and domestic revenues, including hardware, at $44 billion. The IT industry contributed 7.7 per cent to the country's GDP in the 2017-2018 financial year and is expected to contribute 10 per cent by 2025, according to the Ministry.

India is the largest exporter of IT services in the world, and exports account for around 79 per cent of the total revenue of the industry here. Citing NASSCOM, the Ministry said that the sector aggregated revenues of $160 billion in 2017, and that the US accounts for two-thirds of the India's IT services exports.

Indian realty firm's bond yield spurts to 73% abroad

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU
MUMBAI, AUGUST 1

THE BOND yields of one of India's largest real estate players surged to around 73 per cent on Thursday. A surge in bond yields typically indicates financial stress.

The firm's dollar-denominated bonds with a coupon of 12 per cent are listed in Singapore. Sources said normally yields on a bond issued by a corporate surge when there's thin trading or a liquidity crisis.

The group, one of the largest realty players in Mumbai, is not listed on Indian stock exchanges.

The dollar bonds were issued by the group's subsidiary in two tranches with maturity in 2020. In the first tranche, the company raised $200 million and $ 125 mn in the second tranche.

In January 2019, the company had announced that it will buy back the bonds. "The purpose of the purchase of the 2020 bonds is for the company to provide liquidity to the 2020 bond holders, proactively manage its capital structure and reduce gross debt and leverage," it had said in a statement in January.

Not as bad as in 1991: Mohan on current economic situation

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA
NEW DELHI, AUGUST 1

FORMER RBI deputy governor Rakesh Mohan said on Thursday that economic problem in India is not as bad as it was in 1991 when the country faced severe economic crisis on the external front.

Speaking at an event organised by Ananla Aspen Centre, Mohan said increasing tax rate is not a good idea. "There is a problem in the financial sector, industrial sector and agriculture sector, but situation is not as bad as it was in 1991," he said.

Mohan, a senior fellow at Yale's Jackson Institute for Global Affairs, also said allowing Indian companies to borrow from abroad is a dangerous thing to do. "We need to re-look our financial sector as a whole," the former RBI deputy governor said.

Referring to recent cases of crisis in the non-banking financial company sector, Mohan said, "There is widespread siphoning of funds, the siphoning of funds is done by people whom we trust."

"There is a problem in the financial sector, industrial sector and agriculture sector, but situation is not as bad as it was in 1991"

RAKESH MOHAN
FORMER RBI DEPUTY GOVERNOR

On increase in taxes on super rich in this year's Budget, Mohan said, "Increasing tax rate is not a good idea, increasing tax compliance is."

Noting that there is a huge increase of wealth in India, he wondered why it does not reflect in the tax-to-GDP ratio of the country.

Personal income tax-to-GDP ratio dropped in 2018-19 as compared to 2017-18, he said.

He also wondered about the logic of having Goods and Services Tax Council meeting in every two months.

Mohan also said India will have to try and achieve over 8 per cent growth for 10-15 years.

"Even if we achieve annual GDP (gross domestic product) of 8 per cent, even then in 2 years from now, we will be where China is today," he noted.

US to slap 10% tariff on $300 bn more in Chinese goods: Trump

REUTERS
WASHINGTON, AUGUST 1

US PRESIDENT Donald Trump on Thursday moved to impose a 10 per cent tariff on a remaining $300 billion list of Chinese imports starting September 1, after US and Chinese negotiators failed to kickstart trade talks between the world's two largest economies.

The levies — which would hit a wide swath of consumer goods from cell phones and laptop computers to toys and footwear — ratchet up tensions in a war of tit-for-tat tariffs that have disrupted global supply chains and roiled financial markets for more than a year.

"Trade talks are continuing, and during the talks the US will start, on September 1st, putting a small additional Tariff of 10 per cent on the remaining 300 Billion Dollars of goods and products coming from China into our Country. This does not include the 250 Billion Dollars already Tariffed at 25 per cent," Trump tweeted.

Crisil cuts India's GDP growth estimate for FY20 by 20 bps

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU
MUMBAI, AUGUST 1

RATINGS AGENCY Crisil on Thursday slashed its estimate of India's gross domestic product (GDP) growth by 20 basis points (bps) to 6.9 per cent for the fiscal 2019-20, in the wake of a host of downside risks including weak monsoon, slowing global growth and sluggish high-frequency data for the first quarter.

The slowdown would be pronounced in the first half, while the second half should find support from expected monetary easing, consumption, and statistical low-base effect, Crisil said at the releaseof its report on India's FY20 outlook titled 'Uphill Trek'.

"Agricultural terms of trade are also expected to improve with a pick-up in food inflation. In addition, farmers would benefit from income transfer of Rs 6,000 per year announced by the Centre, and farm loan waivers in a few states," it said.

Ashu Suyash, managing director and CEO, Crisil, said, "Given the crosswinds, the sops announced so far might not be enough to pitchfork growth in this fiscal to, or above, the past 14-year average of 7 per cent per annum. Policy action looks more attuned to consumption than investment demand, which means consumption will be the first to ascend as the tide turns."

PRONOUNCED SLOWDOWN 'IN FIRST HALF'

- The slowdown would be pronounced in the first half, while the second half should find support from expected monetary easing, consumption, and statistical low-base effect, Crisil said at the release of its report on India's FY20 outlook titled 'Uphill Trek'
- The ratings agency said that "agricultural terms of trade are also expected to improve with a pick-up in food inflation. In addition, farmers would benefit from income transfer of Rs 6,000 per year announced by the Centre, and farm loan waivers in a few states"

"The crucial question, therefore, is whether a trough is in sight. Given the fiscal constraints, public spending is unlikely to have the heft to pull growth above 7 per cent. And some of the recent, and much-needed, reforms would pay off only over the medium term. There would, therefore, be some near-term onus on monetary policy to stimulate. But how effective that can be is the big question," said Dharmakirti Joshi, chief economist, Crisil.

India's GDP had grown at an impressive 8.2 per cent in fiscal 2017, the fastest in a decade.

This was followed by disruptions stemming from policy initiatives and reforms, and rising global uncertainty including from trade disputes – which together triggered a cyclical downturn.

Then, the non-bank (including housing finance companies) crisis, which began late last fiscal, and stress that ensued, slowed disbursals and further impacted household demand, which had already moderated amid lower incomes, weak sentiment and rising costs (fuel prices and insurance for automobiles), Crisil said.

With access to funding becoming a challenge and non-banking financial institution caught up in managing liquidity, their growth halved to a multi-year low in the second-half of last fiscal, and remains impacted.

NCLAT sets aside order on land return to Jaypee Infra

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA
NEW DELHI, AUGUST 1

THE NATIONAL Company Law Appellate Tribunal (NCLAT) Thursday set aside an NCLT order directing Jaiprakash Associates Ltd (JAL) to return 758 acres of land, which was pledged with several banks, to Jaypee Infratech.

In May last, Allahabad bench of the National Company Law Tribunal (NCLT) had asked JAL to return 758 acres of land to its subsidiary Jaypee Infratech, declaring the transfer of the land as "fraudulent" and "undervalued".

Trial against RIL, former executives quashed

PRITAM PAL SINGH
NEW DELHI, AUGUST 1

THE DELHI High Court Thursday quashed the trial against Reliance Industries (RIL) and three of its then senior executives in a 21-year-old case of alleged recovery of secret government documents from the possession of one of the executives.

Justice Sunil Gaur set aside a trial court's March 2012 order to put RIL's then senior executives – V Balasubramanian, Shankar Adawal and A N Sethuraman – on trial for criminal conspiracy and possession of secret government documents, observing "since the documents in question have been already made public, therefore, they lose their confidentiality".

Delhi High Court on Thursday set aside a trial court's March 2012 order to put RIL's three former executives on trial for criminal conspiracy and possession of secret government documents

While all including RIL were charged under the Official Secrets Act (OSA), the executives were also to face trial for criminal conspiracy in wrongfully receiving/communicating secret documents.

The high court said that the trial court's order "suffers from utter non application of mind, therefore, it cannot be sustained".

"There is no hesitation whatsoever in concluding that continuance of proceedings before the trial court is travesty of justice, as the ingredients of the offence alleged are apparently lacking. Thus, to secure the ends of justice, the instant proceedings are hereby halted forthwith. Consequently, impugned order as well as the proceedings emanating therefrom, are hereby quashed," Justice Gaur further said. WITH PTI

Current liabilities of Coffee Day at more than ₹5,200 crore

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA
NEW DELHI, AUGUST 1

DECEASED COFFEE tycoon V G Siddhartha seemed to be under severe financial stress before his death with his flagship cafe chain Coffee Day Enterprises Ltd's liabilities doubling to over Rs 5,200 crore and his unlisted ventures for realty and hospitality having similar levels of debt, as per regulatory filings with stock exchanges and Corporate Affairs Ministry.

Siddhartha, whose body was recovered from a river near Mangalore on Wednesday after going missing earlier this week, had struggled with a mounting financial burden and a letter purportedly written by him hinted at his war with "serious liquidity crunch" and "tremendous pressure" from lenders and an unnamed private equity investor.

Filings with the ministry showed him trying to raise funds by pledging shares of his listed and four unlisted firms to raise money to pay off personal and company loans. Some of his loans were up for repayment this month.

He and his family pledged over 75 per cent of their shares in the companies, up from 60 per cent a year ago.

FUND RAISE BY SHARE PLEDGING

- Filings with Corporate Affairs Ministry showed VG Siddhartha trying to raise funds by pledging shares of his listed and 4 unlisted firms to raise funds to pay off personal and company loans
- He and his family pledged over 75 per cent of their shares in the companies, up from 60 per cent a year ago

Siddhartha had a number of entities that borrowed money from a gamut of organisations, including banks and financial institutions, for his non-coffee businesses.

A letter, purportedly written by him, had surfaced after he went missing on Monday evening that cited pressure from banks, investors and tax authorities.

"I would like to say I gave it my all. I am sorry to let down all the people that put their trust in me. I fought for a long time but today, I gave up as I could not take any more pressure from one of the private equity partners forcing me to buy back shares, a transaction I had partially completed six months ago by borrowing a large sum of money from a friend," Siddhartha purportedly wrote in the letter.

BSE-listed Coffee Day Enterprises Ltd (CDEL) had a total current liability of Rs 5,251 crore as on March 31, 2019, up from Rs 2,457.3 crore a year back, as per a filing to the bourse. CDEL's promoter companies — Devadarshini Info Technologies, Coffee Day Consolidations, Gonibedu Coffee Estates, and Sivan Securities — had also borrowed heavily from time to time.

A series of filings to the corporate affairs ministry showed him taking loans of as low as Rs 12 crore, and borrowing from institutions like Tata Capital Financial Service Ltd and Clix Capital Services (Formerly GE Money Finance Services), as well as Shapoorji Pallonji Finance (SPF).

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU
MUMBAI, AUGUST 1

TATA POWER'S net profit for the April-June quarter fell around 87 per cent year-on-year (y-o-y) to Rs 230.80 crore after the company recognised an exceptional amount of Rs 354 crore for a standby litigation with Adani Electricity Mumbai, and sale of non-core asset a year ago.

The company noted in its financial statement that the Supreme Court during the June quarter upheld the Appellate Tribunal for Electricity (APTEL) December 20, 2006, order directing the Group to pay around Rs 354 crore along with interest at 10 per cent per annum from April 1, 2004, up to the date of payment.

However, the power generation company's consolidated operating profit for the June quarter rose 23.6 per cent y-o-y to Rs 2,302 crore while margins rose 449 basis points. FE

Land of the tax-free

America has agreed to exchange information with only 47 countries under FATCA. Reuters

AMERICA HAS launched brutal assaults over the past decade on countries, such as Switzerland and Liechtenstein, where banks have helped American citizens hide money and thereby evade tax. Forced to clean up, these erstwhile havens have seen much tainted capital flow elsewhere—not least to America itself. Now it is the former aggressor's turn to be on the defensive. Other countries are using similar tools to those America once employed to reveal untaxed money stashed by their own citizens in the world's largest economy.

As well as fining and prosecuting the enablers of tax-dodging—Swiss banks alone coughed up at least $5.5bn—America passed a law in 2010 known as FATCA that required foreign financial firms to spill the beans on American clients. Stung into action, more than 100 other countries signed up to the "Common Reporting Standard" (CRS), and now swap tax-relevant financial information with each other.

America, however, did not join the CRS. Instead it shares information on the foreign clients of American banks under FATCA's reciprocal provisions. But sharing is patchy; a lot of countries get nothing. Combine that with the high level of anonymity offered by American shell companies, and it is hardly surprising that America has become the destination of choice for many tax evaders. One tax expert reckons that "over 90% of assets avoiding the CRS have been herded into the USA".

America does not have to worry about the sort of bludgeoning that it doled out to Switzerland—no other country has anything like the same extra-territorial financial power. But other countries are finding that there are legal tools at their disposal, all the same. One is the so-called John Doe summons. This American provision assists tax authorities going after "a particular person or ascertainable group or class of persons" whom they suspect of financial wrongdoing, but whose identities are unknown. If approved by a court, the summons forces banks to hand over names.

Until now the biggest user of such summonses in tax cases has been America, which, for instance, used the procedure in 2008 to prise open Swiss bank secrecy. That resulted in UBS handing over the names of around 4,500 account-holders. In April the tables were turned when a request from Finland prompted America's Internal Revenue Service to petition a federal court in North Carolina for leave to serve John Doe summonses on three banks in America. Heavy use at Finnish ATMs of payment cards issued by the banks, and linked to American accounts, had led the Finnish tax authority to conclude that they were being used by Finnish taxpayers who had hidden untaxed income across the Atlantic. The court has since granted approval.

More than 100 other countries signed up to the "Common Reporting Standard", and now swap tax-relevant financial information with each other. America, however, did not join the CRS. Instead it shares information on the foreign clients of American banks under FATCA's reciprocal provisions. But sharing is patchy; a lot of countries get nothing.

Other countries suffering tax leakage will be looking more closely at this procedure. Any of the 90 with a ratified bilateral tax treaty with America can use it, though some seem unaware of the option. (By contrast, America has agreed to exchange information with only 47 countries under FATCA.) Experts say it could help to break open not only dodgy bank accounts but also trusts and insurance policies, which are also commonly used to hide capital.

There could still be obstacles, for instance if an account is owned by an entity rather than an individual. But banks issued with a summons are required to investigate who stands behind account-holding shell companies. Due-diligence rules designed to curb money-laundering and the financing of terrorism, issued by FinCEN, a federal agency, already require banks to know the identity of such "beneficial" owners (though not all seem to do so). A shell-cracking bill picking up momentum as it passes through Congress would also help improve corporate transparency.

If more countries take the John Doe route, it would help balance the unequal relationship America enjoys in matters of financial transparency. For too long it has got away with demanding much while offering little in return. Tax dodgers stashing cash in America, says Mark Morris, an international tax consultant, should "prepare to be smacked open like a piñata".

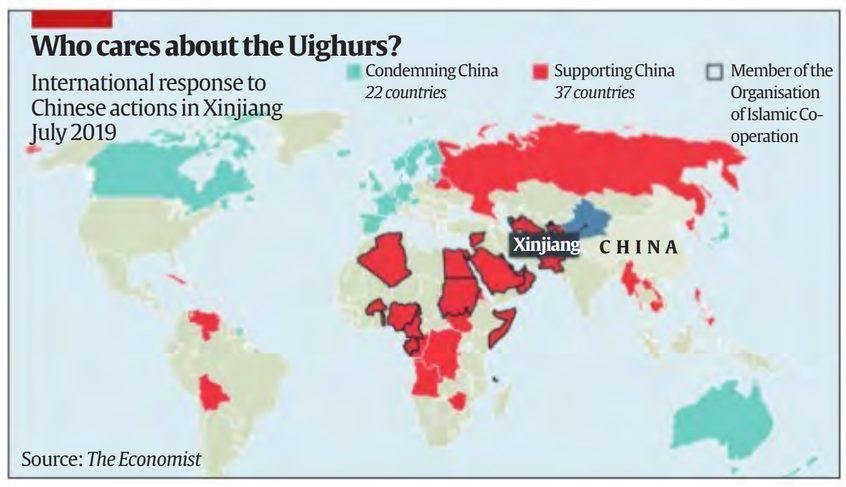
Chinese actions in Xinjiang become a matter of international dispute

FOR THE past three years China's government, citing national-security concerns, has run relentless campaigns against the culture and religion of the Uighur people, 11m Muslims who speak a Turkic language and live in Xinjiang, China's north-westernmost corner. Mosques have been shut. Men are forbidden to grow beards, women may not wear head coverings and children are barred from prayers. Most troubling are the growing details emerging about a network of detention facilities, which Chinese officials call vocational-training centres but which look for all the world like internment camps. Credible reports say these are holding at least 1m people—mostly Uighurs but also Chinese people of Kazakh and Kyrgyz ethnicity—in extra-judicial detention.

Until the middle of 2018, Chinese diplomats managed to keep international criticism of the camps in check. At that point America's vice-president, Mike Pence, raised concerns about "round-the-clock political indoctrination". Since then, the Chinese have lost their battle to persuade foreign countries that Xinjiang is purely an internal matter, of no concern to anyone else. But they have turned it into an issue that polarises diplomatic opinion. That polarisation has now burst into the open.

On July 8th, 22 countries signed a letter to the UN Human Rights Council, calling on China to end the "mass arbitrary detention" of Uighurs and other Muslims, and to allow international observers access to detention camps. This was the first concerted international condemnation of Chinese actions in Xinjiang. Signatories included most European countries, Canada, Japan and Australia but not the United States (see map), which withdrew from the council in 2018. However, Mike Pompeo, the secretary of state, later called China's treatment of the Uighurs "the stain of the century".



Days later, 37 countries, among them Russia and Saudi Arabia, responded with a letter of their own, defending China's policies on the grounds of fighting terrorism. Some signatories were anti-Western autocracies which can be relied upon to rally round anyone that the West criticises. They include Russia and Venezuela. Other signatories are Western allies, such as Egypt and Saudi Arabia, which oppose what might be called the global human-rights regime. They lock up plenty of their own opponents on security grounds. Still others are beneficiaries of Chinese investment, such as Pakistan and Laos, which cannot easily afford to bite the hand that feeds them.

Most intriguing, however are Gulf states which back China for a combination of defence, economic and even religious reasons. The United Arab Emirates, for example, cannot get the drones it wants from America, so is buying China's Wing Loong 2 drones. (Its de facto ruler was in Beijing this week.) It signed the letter, along with 19 other members of the Organisation of Islamic Co-operation, an international group of mostly Muslim-majority states. In 2018 China signed construction and investment contracts worth $28bn in the Middle East, a region that is struggling to attract foreign investment elsewhere. And some Gulf states, such as the UAE and Saudi Arabia, are trying to fight jihadist extremism at home by encouraging more modern forms of Islam. They seem receptive to China's claim that it is merely attempting to modernise Uighur beliefs (though in reality Chinese actions go far beyond that).

Credible reports say that what Chinese officials call vocational-training centres are holding at least 1 million people — mostly Uighurs — in extra-judicial detention. Reuters

China's attempt to divide international opinion about Xinjiang has worked so far. But, as more details leak out about the region's camps, Muslim leaders are beginning to come under domestic pressure to defend their co-religionists. One day, they may find it harder to kowtow.

DAY TODAY

BY PETER VIDAL

ARIES (Mar 21 - Apr 20)
An absence of vital planetary aspects in several sectors of your chart will give you the space to catch up with chores, responsibilities and initiatives set in train over the last few days. There may already be increasing signs of pleasant journeys in the near future.

TAURUS (Apr 21 - May 21)
Money still seems to be the overriding interest, although social and emotional complications are still using much of your energy. One star is making you outgoing and adventurous, another is rendering you over-sensitive and in need of peace and quiet.

GEMINI (May 22 - June 21)
A difficult emotional situation is hopefully fading from your life, assuming you're making the most of the opportunity the Moon is offering to put the past behind you. An act of conscious will may be necessary; the more determined you are, the more likely you are to succeed.

CANCER (June 22 - July 23)
It isn't selfish to want more time for yourself, so don't be reluctant to preserve your own space. Others must learn that they can't take you for granted for ever. At the moment, unattached romantic Cancers could be attracted to colleagues at work; business and pleasure become intertwined.

LEO (July 24 - Aug 23)
Sometimes partners think you're a little naive but, in reality, you are far too astute to let them drive you into second place. The Sun is now a sure sign that you'll get the better of almost everyone who crosses your path over the next two weeks or so. Have faith in yourself.

VIRGO (Aug 24 - Sep 23)
Your lunar patterns cajole, encourage and support you. Your major quality of the moment should be enthusiasm. You see, if you are confident you will attract positive developments, but if you expect the worst you will miss out on a golden opportunity right now.

LIBRA (Sep 24 - Oct 23)
Please remember that although the general progress of events is quite smooth, your judgment is likely to be impaired for no other reason than that yesterday saw irrational planetary alignments. The unmistakeable conclusion is that you must be content with your lot.

SCORPIO (Oct 24 - Nov 23)
Although the planets generally are in a rather vibrant position, Mars, your planetary ruler, is labouring through your solar chart. On one hand this suits you, for other people are more inclined to appreciate your emotional approach, but it does rather tend to emphasise any lack of practical sense.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov 24 - Dec 23)
Maintain your self-respect at all costs. The Moon, you see, is sending you various tests and challenges, the immediate result of which may be to undermine your confidence. First, you must understand that this is the case and then you should find ways to restore your position.

CAPRICORN (Dec 23 - Jan 20)
You'll soon be making a renewed bid for freedom, yet right now you would do better to consolidate your existing position, making sure your life is built on firm foundations. All of you should always remember that, in the astrological universe, change is perpetual and nothing is permanent.

AQUARIUS (Jan 21 - Feb 19)
You would no doubt gain untold benefit personally, professionally and financially, from new alliances and associations. However, before you proceed, just ask yourself whether current goals are really and truly exactly what you want.

PISCES (Feb 20 - Mar 20)
Mars has been in its present position for long enough to make you feel tougher and less ready to compromise. Yet if you really want to get your own way, friendly discussion and the gentle art of persuasion are essential. You'll get nowhere by bullying people.

An exhibition tells the story of the Madras Art Movement that emerged in the 1960s with an emphasis on modernism rooted in regional ethos

PARTH KHATAU

CURATOR AND art historian Ashrafi S Bhagat notes how the origins of the Madras Art Movement can perhaps be traced to London, when in 1954 artist KCS Paniker was exhibiting in the city. Making an observation about Paniker's works, a critic reportedly stated that they were "not Indian enough". The comment led Paniker — then the principal of the Madras Art School — to ponder if art could be more indigenous. "That was a turning point in KCS Paniker's life and it was when he began to look at art forms in his own region," says Bhagat.

Back in Madras, Paniker began to hold discussions with artists and his students on establishing an Indian idiom in art that was not influenced by the prevalent European or Western norms. While individual practices began to be altered, in the coming years, this led to the formation of the Madras Art Movement, and the establishment of the Cholamandal Artists' Village in 1966. On the outskirts of Chennai, the 10-acre space was to nurture a community of artists who would play an important role in the evolution of modernism in Indian art. "Not many people back then appreciated art. The patronage was restricted to a few consulates and tourists. We had to make art a sustainable career and that led to the formation of the Cholamandal Artists' Village," says artist SG Vasudev, one of the founding members of the group.

> CURATOR AND ART HISTORIAN

Though the group held innumerable exhibitions till the '80s, arguably the first major retrospective of the Madras Art Movement has been organised by DAG in Mumbai's culturally vibrant neighbourhood of Kala Ghoda. Titled "Madras Modern: Regionalism & Identity", the exhibition comprises 80 works by 22 artists who were part of the movement, including Vasudev, K Muralidharan, C Douglas, P Perumal, D Venkatapathy, AP Panneerselvam and SK Rajavelu. "The Madras Art Movement is the last of the major modern art movements in India. For the exhibition, Ashrafi met several artists from the group, gaining insight into their philosophy and working," says Kishore Singh, Head, Exhibitions and Publications, DAG.

Featuring paintings and sculptures, the showcase ranges from V Viswanadhan and Paniker's abstracts to DP Roy Chowdhury's owl in sombre hues and S Dhanapal's bronze bust. Vasudev's painting Maithuna features a corresponding sign for Gemini in Hindu astrology. The artist fondly recalls the first time he was offered money for his work. "I had drawn a village scene while I was still a student and some visitors to Cholamandal liked my work so much that they offered me Rs 50. It was a fair amount of money at the time and that was the first time I felt I could sustain myself as an artist," he says.

Bhagat notes how it is ironic that modernism in art probably reached Madras after northern India, even though the Madras School of Arts and Crafts is one of the oldest colonial art institutions in India. After its inception in 1850, the school taught carpentry, masonry and other crafts-related curriculum, till, post-independence, its first Indian principal, DP Roy Chowdhury, initiated a rigorous course in art. His student, Paniker, experimented with modernism — both as an artist and a teacher. "Paniker encouraged the ideology of nativism among his students and fellow artists, encouraging them to look away from the west. Unfortunately, not much has been written about this important period that helped shape modern Indian art," she says. With the exhibition, she hopes, the movement gets its due recognition.

MANU PAREKH

WHAT: Bhupen Khakhar's Son is the Father of Man, 44.5 x 48.7 inch, acrylic on paper, 1997

WHEN: In 1997, Madhvi (his wife) was having an exhibition in Baroda and we were there for more than a month. I used to go for morning walks with Bhupen. One day, the security guard greeted him and called him into his quarter. When Bhupen came out after a minute or two, he had a small pouch in his hand. He said it had the Rs 10,000 he had lent to the guard for his daughter's wedding. I had seen a painting in his studio where the central protagonist resembled this man. When I asked him if it was him, he said it was. I immediately commented on how only Bhupen could paint a security guard after painting someone like author Salman Rushdie. I think in the coming weeks, I mentioned how I would like to have the work. My comment and request stayed with Bhupen. He exhibited it at several places but around two years later enquired if I was still interested in the work. He gave it to me for a price that was much below its market value even then, but I paid him in installments, over a period of three weeks. I had seen this painting being made and now it is in my home. It was exhibited at the recent retrospective of Khakhar's work at Tate Modern and DAG Modern's exhibition featuring works of India's Rockefeller Artists in New York.

ON THE ARTIST: We were great friends. He was one of the finest human beings I know. I learned a lot from him. When we were in Baroda, we would have meals together all the time. Later, when we moved to Delhi, he would often come and stay with us. I still remember how his caretaker was like family to him, he would drop his children to school, teach them math. His studio was at the centre of his house, it was open for anyone to come in and look at him work.

The Fab Four

AFTER THE four-part anthology Lust Stories, filmmakers Karan Johar (pictured), Zoya Akhtar, Dibakar Banerjee and Anurag Kashyap are coming together again for Netflix's Ghost Stories. Featuring four stories that will be weaved together thematically, the production for the series will begin this month. While Johar is taking up the project "as a challenge" since he hasn't worked in the horror genre before, Banerjee feels it is the right platform to "experiment and explore". Having never directed a supernatural story in the past, Kashyap said, "I am really looking forward to challenging myself to make something that I have never attempted before. Also, I have never prepared so much for anything before."

Foes turn Friends

WARNER BROS is working on a big-screen adaptation of the popular cartoon series Tom and Jerry, that centres around the rivalry between Tom, a cat, and Jerry, a mouse. The live-action hybrid film has roped in actors Ken Jeong (Crazy Rich Asians and The Hangover), Rob Delaney (Deadpool 2) and Jordan Bolger (The 100) for its cast. Indian-Australian actor Pallavi Sharda (Lion, Besharam) has also been signed for the film. The story follows a new employee, Kayla, posted at a hotel, who employs Tom to do away with Jerry. The two later join hands and try to get rid of Kayla's evil boss Terrance. The film is slated for release in April 2021. The animated series debuted in 1940.

Lunch at Your Leisure

FOOD REVIEW

IF YOU'RE one of those people — and there are plenty of them — who spend the week planning how to snag a weekend lunch at the justly popular canteen at Andhra Bhavan, then it's probably time to cheer. You no longer have to tolerate the long waiting period, the crowd and the noise that are the usual attendants of a meal there (but what a meal it always is). There is a new joint in town, serving delicious Andhra thalis, the kind that are always followed by intense drowsiness. Best of all, there's no crowd of impatient and hungry people, all silently but obviously wishing you would hurry up so that they can be seated — not yet, anyway.

The afternoon that we selected to lunch at Tenali — The Andhra Kitchen, which opened a month ago in Green Park Main Market, the restaurant had only a few other customers. Based on the quality of food that we were served, however, we suspect this might change soon. A restaurant that serves thalis at reasonable rates as its main attraction is typically not the kind of place where you can linger over a meal, as customers are not usually encouraged to dally over their food. At Tenali, however, perhaps due to the attentive, patient service or the cheerful, welcoming interiors, one feels a little less pressured to scarf down the food and move on.

The interiors of Tenali; (above) the thali

The two thalis that we ordered — one vegetarian and the other non-vegetarian — were deeply satisfying. The vegetarian specials of the day were Brinjal Pappu and Bhindi Pulusu — the pappu, a kind of dal, was mild and comforting just as all lentil dishes should be, while the pulusu, which is a sour and spicy curry, played off well against the pappu's mildness. The non-vegetarian specials of the day were Mutton Curry and Chicken Curry — unfortunately, despite checking with the owner, we couldn't get more specific names than this. We were assured that on other days, depending on our luck, we would be served classics of Andhra cuisine, such as Gongura Mutton and Fish Pulusu. Not that it mattered, since both the dishes we were served were delicious, cooked till the meat was falling apart in a gravy base of tomatoes and onions, with plenty of heat from chillies. The accompaniments — Rasam, Sambar, Peanut Chutney, Donda Chana Poriyal (ivy gourd stir-fried with split chickpeas) and Payasam (made with vermicelli and sago) — hit all the right notes. The only disappointment on the plate was the Tomato Rice, which was the right shade of red but had almost no discernible taste of tomatoes. But will that one hiccup be enough to make us stay away from Tenali? Not by a long shot.

'Only CAC's opinion will matter on head coach selection'

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA
NEW DELHI, AUGUST 1

WHILE CAPTAIN Virat Kohli is entitled to his opinion, Shantha Rangaswamy on Thursday said the next India head coach will be picked only on the basis of the collective opinion of the three-member Cricket Advisory Committee (CAC) of which she is a part. The other CAC members are Kapil Dev and Anshuman Gaekwad. The same panel had also picked the Indian women's coach in December.

Ahead of the team's departure to the Unites States, Kohli had said that he would be very happy if incumbent Ravi Shastri continues following the West Indies tour.

"Virat is the captain and he is entitled to his opinion, but it will be the collective opinion of the three of us (CAC) which will determine who the the next head coach is," former India women's captain Rangaswamy said. "I read some media reports and I endorse Anshuman's view on the matter. We need to look at all aspects -- his experience, the ability to bring the team together and how a good a strategist one is," she said.

Gaekwad told the PTI that the CAC is neutral and goes into the process with an open mind. "The totality of that will be considered and individuals don't matter, it is the collective opinion which will weigh in determining who the head coach is," she added.

With Kohli's public backing, Shastri has emerged as favourite for the job. The others who are in the race are Australian Tom Moody and former India internationals Lalchand Rajput and Robin Singh.

The application deadline ended on Tuesday and the CAC is expected to conduct interviews of the shortlisted candidates this month. While Kohli expressing his preference when the selection process is on has been questioned by some, a few others, including Sourav Ganguly, feel that the Indian captain has every right to voice his opinion.

Players can have differences: Dev

Meanwhile, former India captain Kapil weighed in on the alleged Kohli-Rohit Sharma rift and opined that the two senior cricketers "can have differences off the field", but it should not matter as long as their on-field commitment was up to the mark.

Reports of a rift between Kohli and Sharma emereged post India's World Cup semifinal exit, though the Indian captain rubbished them ahead of the team's departure for the tour of the West Indies.

"There can be off-the-field differences, but it depends how you play on the field. Everyone should look into that," Kapil said.

"Off the field, the way of thinking can be different, approach can be different. But when you're playing there's only one aim — how we can win a match. That is important. Differences of opinion does not mean you will be pulling somebody down," Kapil, whose own relationship with Sunil Gavaskar during their playing days used to be hot and cold.

Phoenix rises at the Ashes

Against old foe, in front of a hostile crowd and under testing conditions, Steve Smith gets a rehabilitation hundred

BIRMINGHAM, AUGUST 1

STEVE SMITH scored 144 on his return to Test cricket after a ban for ball tampering as Australia recovered from 122-8 to 284 all out against England on the opening day of the Ashes series on Thursday.

England openers Rory Burns (4 not out) and Jason Roy (6 not out) confidently survived two overs in the evening session to reach stumps at 10-0 in the first Test.

Smith and Peter Siddle came to the rescue of Australia's first innings with an 88-run partnership for the ninth wicket at Edgbaston, and Smith then shared 74 runs with Nathan Lyon for the last wicket in an extraordinary turnaround.

Smith was finally bowled while trying to smash Stuart Broad. His 219-ball knock included two sixes and 16 fours.

Former captain Smith earned his first Test century — and 24th Test century overall in only 65 games and ninth against England — after a 12-month suspension for being involved in a ball-tampering scandal during the third Test against South Africa in 2018. He reached his hundred by hitting Ben Stokes to the boundary, triggering a mixture of boos and plenty of applause from the Birmingham crowd.

Siddle, who was selected for his bowling, hit a valuable 44 before he sent a delivery from offspinner Mooen Ali to Jos Buttler at short leg.

No. 11 Lyon was 12 not out.

England had reduced Australia to 154-8 at tea after the visitors chose to bat and reached 83-3 in overcast conditions at lunch. But Smith and Siddle started to dominate after tea when play resumed following a short rain delay.

Apart from Smith, the rest of the Australian top and middle order struggled to combat the moving ball in English conditions but the true worth of their score will only become apparent when England, shot out for just 85 by Ireland at Lord's last week, bat.

Joe Root's buoyant side are looking to round off an already memorable season by completing a World Cup and Ashes double.

Australia are looking to win their first Test series away to England in 18 years, and a partisan crowd booed the visitors when they walked out for the pre-match anthem ceremony. David Warner and Smith at least knew what to expect, having been given similar rough treatment during the recent World Cup, which saw England beat defending champions Australia in an Edgbaston semifinal.

Broad strikes

Dangerous left-handed opener Warner was lbw to Broad for two and did not bother with a review, even though technology suggested the ball would have missed leg stump.

As the initial exultant cheers from the crowd at an early wicket died down, Warner was subjected to a prolonged chorus of boos on his walk back to the pavilion, with spectators in the Hollies Stand waving strips of sandpaper and shouting "cheerio".

Fellow opener Cameron Bancroft, who was banned along with Smith and Warner after he applied sandpaper to the ball in Cape Town last year, hit two boundaries but then edged a fine Broad delivery that bounced and cut away to England captain Root at first slip.

The combination of Bancroft departing and Smith walking in to bat prompted the loudest jeers of the morning.

Usman Khawaja then departed for 13, caught behind by wicketkeeper Jonny Bairstow off Woakes although, in an innings where the umpires had several decisions overturned, England needed a review to confirm a dismissal that left Australia 35-3.

But a fourth-wicket stand of 64 ended when Head was lbw to Woakes for 35, with new batsman Matthew Wade falling in similar fashion to leave Australia 105-5.

In between those dismissals, Smith successfully reviewed after being given out lbw for 34 to Broad after not playing a shot.

He was in dire need of solid support but wicketkeeper Paine fell for just five when he carelessly hooked Broad to deep square leg.

An undaunted Smith completed a 119-ball fifty featuring just four fours, with Siddle also overturning an lbw decision on nought following a clear inside edge.

'Pollard and Narine will provide fireworks'

West Indies coach Floyd Reifer is confident that T20 megastars like Kieron Pollard and Sunil Narine alongwith some talented youngsters will provide the fireworks against India in the two T20 Internationals starting in Florida on Saturday. The West Indies T20 squad camped in Florida to acclimatise with sultry conditions and Reifer's team, which he calls a fine blend of youth and experience, will turn the heat on the Virat Kohli-led team full of youngsters. "The team is young, and we like to mix the experienced players with the youth. We have a very good blend. We are looking forward to the matches here in Florida. It should be a very exciting weekend, we lots of entertainment for the fans," Reifer said .

Arsenal break transfer record for Lille's Pepe

Arsenal has broken its transfer record to sign winger Nicolas Pepe from Lille as the London club tries to return to the Champions League. The 24-year-old Ivory Coast international is moving to the Premier League in a transfer deal worth a reported €80 million ($89 million). Pepe's move, announced on Thursday, eclipses the £55 million ($67 million) spent on Pierre-Emerick Aubameyang in January 2018. Arsenal will be playing in the second-tier Europa League again after losing in that league's final to Chelsea.

Prajnesh Gunneswaran will climb two spots on the ranking ladder to No. 88 after losing in the second round in Mexico.

Squandering break opportunities cost Prajnesh Gunneswaran dear as the Indian made a second-round exit from the ATP Los Kabos event following defeat against world number 28 Taylor Fritz in Mexico. The left-handed Indian, ranked 90, could convert just one of his six break chances to eventually suffer a 6-4 3-6 2-6 defeat against the American. The 20 points earned will help Prajnesh gain two places on the ranking ladder. He also pocketed $12,825 as prize money. Meanwhile, Divij Sharan and Jonathan Erlich knocked out the fourth-seeded pair of Ben McLachlan and John-Patrick Smith 7-5 6-1 to progress to the quarterfinals of the ATP 250 tournament. At the ATP 500 Citi Open in Washington, both Leander Paes and Rohan Bopanna lost their matches with their respective partners. The wild card pair of Paes and Jack Sock lost 5-7 2-6 to the Australian team of Alex de Minaur and John Peers. Before that Bopanna and his partner Benoit Paire fell in the second round of the four-team Qualifiers. They lost 6-2 3-6 7-10 to Matthew Ebden and Nicholas Monroe.

INTERVIEW: ABHIJIT SALVI, ANTI-DOPING MANAGER, BCCI

'Shaw has attended at least three awareness programmes; I am sure he knew... if he was attentive for even 5 seconds'

NIHAL KOSHIE
NEW DELHI, AUGUST 1

ABHIJIT SALVI is the Board of Control for Cricket in India's anti-doping manager. Speaking to The Indian Express, the BCCI's point-man when it comes to anti-doping measures, admits that the BCCI needs to increase the number of out-of-competition testing — the most powerful means of deterrence and detection — explains why the BCCI has no registered testing pool for its cricketers and talks about why Prithvi Shaw's casual approach towards over the counter medication led to the 'embarassing' situation for the cricketer.

How many anti-doping awareness programmes have been conducted by the BCCI for the players?

Even now I am in Dharamsala (for one such programme). We have been doing it every year, annually, before the start of the season and across age groups since 2010. In each and every state we conduct this. Earlier it used to be myself and Dr Vece Paes but since he retired a couple of years back I have been doing it on my own.

So you personally go to each state association to conduct this anti-doping awareness programme?

Yes I do that.

What constitutes this anti-doping programme?

We used to have an audio visual programme but along with that we also have a power-point presentation and it is more of an interaction with the players. We also have the BCCI anti-doping pocket guide, which we have had since 2010 and it gives out the list of medicines that are banned, what are players rights and responsibilities, what they are expected to do. All these details in brief are included in the pocket guide along with the 24x7 helpline number.

I do.

So basically you are a one-man army?

Yes, right now I am a one-man army but honestly I wouldn't like to use that word. We do have support. Essentially slowly we would grow, but right now I have been able to manage.

Did Prithvi Shaw attend the anti-doping awareness programme?

Yes he has. He has attended at least three of these programmes (anti-doping programmes). He was the captain of the India Under-19 team and the ICC at the Under-19 World Cup as well conduct these workshops. He has attended that plus, three of our programmes at least.

So Prithvi Shaw attended these programmes but went and bought an over-the-counter medication (cough syrup) and tested positive for a stimulant. As BCCI's Anti-doping manager this is a basic thing you would have told cricketers 'don't take over the counter' medicines.

During our presentation, at least 10 to 15 times I repeat to the players (not to take over the counter medicines) rather than just telling them about history of doping and the list of banned medications (which nobody can remember). Even when queries are asked to me I check the list (banned substances). So we don't expect cricketers to remember names of medicines. We tell players that even if it is the simplest of medication for a fever or headache you have to check with us. Everyday I get at least 25 to 30 drug queries on the helpline from different part of the country. So the message has percolated right from Sikkim to Kerala and all cricketers know they are bound by the anti-doping code. But I am sure Prithvi knew, if he was attentive for even five seconds in class. Just somehow a casual attitude (Prithvi's) led to this embarrassment.

Yes, we only received the report from the lab on the 2nd of May, although we had conducted the test in February. We have an arrangement with the lab that with the IPL being a shorter tournament we ask for the reports in 48 working hours and for domestic tournaments we ask for 10-day reporting. NDTL has been good because for the last few years all our samples have been tested by them. They have been prompt but this time along with Prithvi's report there have been a couple of reports pending as well. In the month of March and April we actually wrote to the lab asking them 'we haven't received these reports' and they responded saying they had some technical issues and they said they would report it shortly. There lies the delay. It wasn't like we tried to suppress the reports and let him play in the IPL.

Does the BCCI have a national registered testing pool of players?

No we don't have a national testing pool, but everyone who players BCCI matches, be it under-16, be it a girl or a boy and right up to the senior level, everyone falls in that pool. And the top cricketers are in ICC's pool.

Do the cricketers have to adhere to whereabouts so they can be tested out of competition?

No domestic cricketers don't have to adhere to whereabouts but the top cricketers submit their whereabouts for 365 days of the year to the ICC through ADAMS, which is the World Anti-Doping Agency's software.

So how does the ICC decide on who should be part of their registered testing pool?

Based on the rankings, ICC picks the names and it is updated every six months and accordingly, the players and the BCCI provide the whereabouts. These cricketers maybe contracted or may not be contracted with the BCCI, but depending on the rankings they send us the list every six months and those players have to submit their whereabouts. ICC has its own testing plan and even the BCCI does not know when these cricketers will be tested.

Will you be able to tell me how many of the contracted players have undergone out-of-competition testing?

Those statistics will be with the ICC but from our point of view we have tested them enough but I won't be able to tell you numbers. Each year BCCI conducts 250 tests overall in domestic cricket.

True. So in the first two years we were doing only in-competition testing but currently we are doing 30:70. So 30 per cent is out-of-competition and 70 per cent is in-competition. But slowly as per ICC guidelines and WADA guidelines we need to increase the out-of-competition testing. It is not that overnight we can stop in-competition and do only out-of-competition but we are slowly increasing that ratio. We want to increase the number of out-of-competition testing and reverse the ratio.

Does the National Anti-doping Agency (NADA) have any role in collection of samples in cricket?

No. NADA has no involvement in collection. The collection agency is the International Doping Tests and Management Agency (Sweden-based).

When it comes to out of competition testing there is a lot of intelligence in other sports by the World Anti-Doping Agency and respective international federations. Have top Indian cricketers, for example, been tested at their homes?

BCCI has not tested (cricketers at their homes) but I will have to check with ICC if they have gone to the homes of cricketers and tested them. Since 2017, the ICC has even been collecting blood samples from these international cricketers to look for growth hormone and other medicines. Then again I would stress that cricket is a low-risk sport when it comes to doping. Yes, I agree there are drugs which help a cricketer perform better but at the end of the day if you compare with all other sports like athletics, or wrestling and boxing, cricket is low-risk.

During the IPL how does the testing take place?

Even if foreign players participate in the IPL they are participating in BCCI's domestic tournament so they get tested as well. And if they test positive then BCCI's anti-doping code is applicable. All around the world among all cricketing nations it is an understanding that if BCCI finds a positive test in a foreign player all other cricket boards will agree with that sanction and approve of the ban as well.

During the IPL does the BCCI conduct any out of competition tests by which I mean, if a team has a gap between matches do you test players say when they are in a gym?

In the IPL we have more of out-of-competition than in-competition really and we have tested at team hotels, training sessions and everywhere.

Does the BCCI test Team India players when they have a camp at say Bangalore and has such testing happened regularly?

I don't think we have tested a lot of times at the national camp but we have. There have been times when we have tested players (at a camp).

The sports ministry has once again said that the BCCI does not have the right to conduct dope tests since it is not approved by the WADA and sports ministry. It has also said that BCCI is an interested party. Isn't that an important issue?

See BCCI on a trial basis wants to engage the National Anti-Doping Agency (NADA), but we haven't reached an agreement yet with NADA. Although the sports ministry has had this stand, the BCCI has been conducting testing for the last seven years and all the reports have been sent to WADA. And except for NADA not being part of BCCI's testing, WADA has been happy with what we are doing.

But the fact that the BCCI decides on which player has to be tested, isn't that odd. It is like saying the Athletics Federation of India will decide on who will be tested when.

If we had to protect any cricketers when they go to the international level, they will anyways get caught.

ONE MAN, TOO MANY ROLES

The BCCI's anti-doping programme is essentially run by one man — Dr Abhijit Salvi. He joined the BCCI in 2012 and for the next five years worked alongside Dr Vece Paes. Dr Paes retired in December 2017. Salvi, like Dr Paes ,is the anti-doping manager. The hands-on doctor has his plate full, though he expects his department to grow in the future. "Yes, right now I am a one-man army but honestly I wouldn't like to use that word. We do have support. Essentially, slowly we would grow, but right now I have been able to manage."

According to Dr Salvi his job profile includes following tasks:

- Answering up to 25 calls a day on the 24x7 helpline for cricketers.
- Conduct anti-doping awareness programmes around the country for each state unit.
- Decide which set of players need to be tested.
- Draw schedule for testing cricketers.
- Coordinate with National Dope Testing Laboratory about status of results.
- Decide appointment of a hearing panel, which decides on the quantum of punishment.
- Ensure elite players in ICC's testing pool declare their whereabouts for the purpose of out-of-competition testing.

ENS

No we don't have a national testing pool, but everyone who players BCCI matches... falls in that pool. And the top cricketers are in ICC's pool.

T20 era can tempt a cricketer to push the envelope

DR PSM CHANDRAN

The recent doping cases involving three cricketers establishes the fact that the menace of doping is as much prevalent in the Gentleman's Game as in other sports. It is disturbing to note that the players caught are young, but they can't be called naive. They are seasoned professionals. Prithvi Shaw is a Test cricketer while Divya Gajraj and Akshay Dullarwar have played first-class cricket.

The advent of T20 cricket has heralded the onset of brutal power in cricket. Spectators are demanding a sixer, a boundary or a wicket every other ball. Players who cannot enhance their performance to meet these demands have to make way for others. In order to survive, the players look for explosive power to bowl quick and hit the ball harder.

It is this search for performance-enhancement that might tempt the modern-day cricketer to push the envelope. Doping offers an assorted menu for cricketers. Anabolic steroids are the drug of choice for fast bowlers and batsmen who want explosive power. Stimulants can be useful to a batsman, fielder or wicketkeeper to delay the onset of fatigue or increase concentration.

A factor common in all three players caught in the doping net is that they had ingested banned drugs categorised as "specified substances" in BCCI anti-doping rules, which are derived from the WADA Code. Among the WADA provisions is a clause that if a player can prove that the ingestion of the banned drug was unintentional, he can get away with minor penalties that range anywhere between 0-2 years.

It seems that the three players prepared their defence admirably. For starters, they pleading guilty. They also waived their right to ask for the testing of their reserve sample. All this played a role in them getting lighter sanctions.

All three players pleaded that they had inadvertently taken the banned drugs. Shaw said he went to a chemist's shop to purchase a cough syrup and the pharmacist gave him a syrup that had Terbutaline, a Beta2 agonist on the banned list. According to Dullarwar, he visited a doctor who prescribed the banned corticosteroid tablets for his skin infection. Gajraj had a more authentic explanation to offer. He was prescribed a banned diuretic, acetazolamide by an eye specialist to get rid of the swelling in his injured eye.

Going by their accounts, the players get full marks for their defence. Rather than going into denial mode, they accepted the blame for taking the banned drugs. To strengthen their defence, they also submitted that they did not have enough exposure to the anti-doping awareness programme. They were also smart to argue that the pharmacist as well as the doctors who gave them the prohibited drugs had no knowledge about doping in sports, which is true in the case of most medical practitioners.

The independent review board to whom the cases were referred by BCCI showed restraint and compassion in dealing with the three cases. They relied on the dictum that "what counts in this context is what the cricketer actually knew, not what he should have known".

BCCI received the three results from the National Dope Testing Laboratory on July 16 and on July 30, issued the sanction orders. This is in sharp contrast to NADA decisions that often takes months or even years to result in an order. Unlike some other anti-doping agencies across the world, BCCI did not show any unwarranted 'obsession to punish' the drug offenders, rightly so especially when it was well known that none of the drugs which these players have taken have any performance-enhancing utility for cricket.

These cases involving the three cricketers are a lesson for dope offenders in the future to prepare their defence well in terms of when to plead guilty, how to argue on unintentional doping, and on the art of proving how the drug got into the body. All these are factors that can mitigate the doping offence and make offenders eligible to get away with lighter sanctions, as has happened in these cases.

Nevertheless, the BCCI order sanctioning Shaw leaves behind a big lacuna. His ineligibility period of eight months starting from March 16 to November 15 covers the period when he played IPL matches. According to the order, the player is ineligible to compete and receive monetary benefits during that period. Interestingly, Shaw had played 16 IPL matches for Delhi Capitals during the period between March 23 and May 12. He had even received the 'Man of the Match' award in addition to the retainer fee paid by the franchise. Shaw stands to forfeit all this money now.

Also, BCCI needs to review its present anti-doping educational programme that is claimed to be very broad-based and effective. All cricketers who are caught for a doping offence have claimed that they did not have adequate knowledge of anti-doping rules and regulations of BCCI. That is some 'food for thought' for BCCI!

THAILAND OPEN BADMINTON

Satwiksairaj Rankireddy and Chirag Shetty beat the Indonesian pair of Fajar Alfian and Muhammad Rian Ardianto 21-17 21-19 to enter the quarterfinals.

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA
BANGKOK, AUGUST 1

ACE INDIAN shuttlers Saina Nehwal and Kidambi Srikanth crashed out of the Thailand Open after suffering unexpected defeats but B Sai Praneeth sailed into the quarterfinals of the men's singles here on Thursday.

Seventh seed Saina, who returned to action after nearly two months, squandered a game advantage to lose 21-16 11-21 14-21 against unseeded Sayaka Takahashi of Japan in a women's singles second round duel that lasted 48 minutes.

In the absence of PV Sindhu, who withdrew in the last minute from the event, Saina's ouster marks the end of India's campaign in women's singles. Saina had earlier made last-minute withdrawals from Indonesia Open and last week's Japan Open because of injuries.

Later, fifth seed Srikanth too wasted a game's lead to bow out against less-fancied Khosit Phetpradab of Thailand 21-11 16-21 12-21 in the second round of the men's singles. To add to India's woes, unseeded Indian shuttlers Parupalli Kashyap and H S Prannoy too bowed out without a fight.

While Kashyap was no match for third seed Chou Tien Chen of Chinese Taipei, losing 9-21 14-21 in just 33 minutes, Prannoy suffered a 17-21 10-21 defeat against sixth seed Kenta Nishimoto of Japan.

But Sai Praneeth, who reached the semi-finals of Japan Open last week, continued his good form and stormed into the last-eight round with a comfortable 21-18 21-19 win over compatriot Shubhankar Dey. Sai Praneeth will be up against seventh seed Kanta Tsuneyama of Japan in the next round.

However, it was good news for India in the men's doubles event as the pair of Satwiksairaj Rankireddy and Chirag Shetty moved into the quarterfinals after registering a straight-game 21-17 21-19 win over Indonesian combination of Fajar Alfian and Muhammad Rian Ardianto, ranked seventh in the world. The India duo will next play qualifiers Choi Solgyu and Seo Seung Jae of Korea on Friday.

In mixed doubles, the pair of Rankireddy and Ashwini Ponappa defeated Indonesia's Alfian Eko Prasetya and Marsheilla Gischa Islami 21-18 21-19 to make it to the last-eight

In mixed doubles, the pair of Rankireddy and Ashwini Ponappa defeated Indonesia's Alfian Eko Prasetya and Marsheilla Gischa Islami 21-18 21-19 to make it to the last-eight round. On Wednesday, Rankireddy and Ponnappa had recorded one of the biggest wins of their career, stunning Olympic silver medallists Chan Peng Soon and Goh Liu Ying in the first round. It was only the second time that the world number 23 pair got the better of Soon and Ying, ranked 5th in the world. The Indian pair had defeated their Malaysian opponents in the mixed team event of Gold Coast Commonwealth Games last year.

The other Indian duo of Pranaav Jerry Chopra and N Sikki Reddy lost 16-21 11-21 to eight seeds Tang Chun Man and Tse Ying Suet of Hong Kong to bow out of the tournament. Rankireddy and Ponnappa will next play against third seeded Japanese combination of Yuta Watanabe and Arisa Higashino.

BUDAPEST, AUGUST 1

AFTER TWO stunning wins in three races, the force in Formula One is with Max Verstappen who will this weekend bid for another victory at the Hungarian Grand Prix. The 21-year-old Red Bull driver, whose father Jos reached the podium in Hungary in 1994, is hoping to sign off before the mid-season break with another flourish.

Verstappen's powerful performance in winning last weekend's tumultuous rain-hit German Grand Prix lifted him within 63 points of the defending five-time champion Lewis Hamilton with 10 of this year's 21 races to go. The Dutchman is a distant third in the driver standings, behind the Mercedes pair of Hamilton and Valtteri Bottas. Yet the Silver Arrows' self-described "Armageddon" on home soil at Hockenheim has inspired Verstappen's team to dream of greater glory.

The Dutchman played down his potential in the championship on Sunday night but Red Bull sporting director Helmut Marko thinks Verstappen might snatch the title from Hamilton. "I would not rule it out," he said.

Hamilton's Hockenheim horror

Hockenheim marked Hamilton's worst outing since joining Mercedes and with questions being raised about the Briton's durability and exhausting 'jet-set' lifestyle, Verstappen is emerging as the man to beat.

Hamilton was ill throughout the weekend and did well to step into his car but was clearly shaken by his error-strewn race.

He finished outside the top 10 but was awarded two points when Alfa Romeo's two cars were penalised, moving him up to ninth.

It was scant consolation for Mercedes on a day when Bottas crashed and the team, distracted perhaps by their own 'retro' celebrations of 125 years in motorsport, made some poor decisions on strategy and pit stops.

"We know that they weren't good enough, and that's why we ended up with such a bad result," said Mercedes engineering director Andrew Shovlin.

Mercedes were unbeaten in the opening eight races. Yet they could start to feel the pressure if they have another bad weekend, if Verstappen can turn the screw or if the Ferraris, with a more extensive upgrades package, can continue the resurgence they signalled in Germany.

Ferrari's own rising star, Charles Leclerc, started well in qualifying before being undone by the persistent Ferrari mechanical problems that forced him to start 10th. His team-mate Sebastian Vettel started in 20th.

Hamilton won last year's race in Hungary from pole and, if he is recovered from his illness, should start again as favourite. But neither he nor Mercedes are invincible, especially if Verstappen continues to drive so fearlessly. "I like the Hungaroring," said the Dutchman.

"It's one of my favourite tracks and I'm looking forward to going there. It's technical and you have to hit the apexes to position yourself well for each corner.

"It feels a bit like you're driving a big car on a small track, as it's so narrow, but that doesn't make it any less fun. The whole team looks forward to this race. It's one of the warmest and it's a good track for us. We'll give it everything before the summer break."

Alfa Romeo appeal

Alfa Romeo have formally appealed stewards' decisions that dropped Kimi Raikkonen and Antonio Giovinazzi out of the points at the German Grand Prix and extended Lewis Hamilton's overall Formula One lead. Stewards handed the two drivers 30 second post-race penalties for clutch-related irregularities at the start at Hockenheim.

The penalties meant Raikkonen dropped from seventh to 12th and Giovinazzi from eighth to 13th while Mercedes' five-time world champion Hamilton moved up to ninth with his lead stretched to 41 points.

If Alfa are successful, the Briton will lose the two points as well as his run of 23 successive scoring finishes.

Polish driver Robert Kubica, who was moved up to 10th, would also lose what is so far Williams' only point of the season as well as the first of his F1 comeback. Kubica's last point was in 2010, before he suffered a near-fatal rally crash.

Alfa Romeo, now ninth of 10 teams in the standings, had given notice on Sunday that they planned to appeal.

Pressure on Bottas to impress Mercedes

Budapest: Mercedes has a point to prove at this weekend's Hungarian Grand Prix, especially Valtteri Bottas. His future at Mercedes will be settled during Formula One's summer break, which follows Sunday's race. Last weekend's crash at the German GP has only increased the spotlight on the Finnish driver heading into the race. "For sure it was not ideal," Bottas said Thursday, reflecting on his Hockenheim crash. "Every race is important but when you know the team is making decision for the future ... it can be very important." Bottas has been on one-year rolling contracts since joining Mercedes in 2017 as a sudden replacement for retired world champion Nico Rosberg. AP

Murray reunites with brother for doubles win

WASHINGTON, AUGUST 1

THREE-TIME Grand Slam champion Andy Murray moved closer to a singles comeback six months after hip surgery, joining brother Jamie for a doubles victory on Wednesday at the ATP Washington Open.

The Murrays, partnered for the first time since the 2016 Rio Olympics, downed Frenchmen Nicolas Mahut and Edouard Roger-Vasselin 6-4, 6-7 (7/9), 10-5 to reach the last eight at the US Open tune-up event.

"The level of tennis I thought was really good," Andy Murray said. "It felt like there were some good points and quick reactions out there." Andy Murray is practicing singles and playing doubles as the former world number one, now ranked 222, continues his fightback from right hip surgery in January.

The 32-year-old Scotsman feared he could be forced into retirement before the operation. He returned to the court in June but only in doubles while he rehabilitates.

"I have no pain," Murray said.

"It's not restricting me in any of the shots that I'm hitting. I'm still maybe a little bit slow. I'm hoping that's something that comes back with time."Murray departed Washington in tears from pain and frustration last year after a rain-delayed 3:00 am singles victory that led him to withdraw.

"I'm in a much better place than I was last year. Physically, I just feel so much better," Murray said.

"I didn't know how much more I was going to be playing after here last year. To come back and be competing and be pain-free is brilliant." The British duo trailed 5-2 in the decisive super-tiebreaker but steamrolled back by taking the last eight points, with Jamie Murray's service winner securing the victory. It was Andy who began the rally with a backhand winner and added backhand volley and drop volley winners on the two penultimate points.

Murray declared on Monday his hip has responded better than expected and he was "quite close" to a singles comeback, perhaps as soon as Cincinnati in two weeks.

That would be only two weeks ahead of the US Open, with Murray also saying if he didn't play Cincinnati he would likely wait until after the US Open, cautious of pushing his luck untested in best-of-five-set matches.

The Murrays downed Frenchmen Nicolas Mahut and Edouard Roger-Vasselin 6-4, 6-7 (7/9), 10-5 to reach the last eight at the US Open tune-up event. AP

Murray, who won Grand Slam titles at the 2012 US Open and in 2013 and 2016 at Wimbledon, most recently played singles at the Australian Open in January, losing a first-round five-setter to Spaniard Roberto Bautista Agut.

The Murrays, who helped Britain win the 2015 Davis Cup, broke the French duo in the final game to claim the first set, then outlasted them to the finish after one hour and 51 minutes. They will play for a semi-final spot against third seeds Michael Venus of New Zealand and Raven Klaasen of South Africa.

Top seed Tsitsipas wins

Greek top seed Stefanos Tsitsipas, the 20-year-old who ousted Roger Federer on the way to the Australian Open semifinals, advanced to the third round in singles by defeating US wildcard Tommy Paul 6-3, 7-5.

US fifth seed John Isner advanced to the third round by eliminating Poland's Hubert Hurkacz 6-4, 6-4. Isner, seeking his 16th career ATP crown, was a Washington runner-up in 2007, 2013 and 2015.

"It was a good start. I'm happy with the win," said Isner, who faces French 10th seed Benoit Paire next.

Canadian eighth seed Milos Raonic, the 2014 Washington winner, ripped US qualifier Tim Smyczek 6-1, 6-4. He next meets German lucky loser Peter Gojowczyk, who dispatched Australian Alex de Minaur 6-3, 7-6 (8/6). In the accompanying WTA event, US third seed Sofia Kenin, who upset Serena Williams at the French Open, lost to compatriot Lauren Davis 5-7, 6-3, 6-4.

Lochte makes emphatic return from suspension

STANFORD, AUGUST 1

OLYMPIC CHAMPION Ryan Lochte made an emphatic return to competition on Wednesday, swimming the fourth-fastest time by an American in the 200-metre individual medley during a time trial in the US national championships at Stanford University.

"I'm back, woo!" Lochte proclaimed in his opening remarks on the pool deck at Avery Aquatic Center after qualifying for next year's US Olympic trials with the time of 1 minute, 57.88 seconds. "It's been a long three years but it's good to be back, get on those blocks and race again." Lochte is entered in the 100 butterfly, 100 and 200 backstroke and 200 and 400 IM this week, though he hasn't decided which events he will focus on for the Tokyo Olympics

"I don't do that much anymore," he said. "I've been splotchy with my swimming. Family trumps everything. Swimming has been my second priority. Nationals, for me is a stepping stone to see where I'm at in the swimming world. It's a long journey to next year to see what I can do."

Michael Phelps has told his old rival and teammate that making another Olympics is going to be that much harder. "You're older. You're different. Your body changes. Your mentality is different. You can't do as much in the pool," Phelps said recently. "The other things outside the pool take up your time. For him, if he truly wants to come back and be at that level, he does know what it takes to get there. He has to be willing to do the work. If not, it's not going to be as good as he probably hoped."
