Discom debt to return to pre-UDAY levels

State-owned power generation firms have to become commercially viable: Crisil

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT

Aggregate external debt of State-owned electricity distribution companies (discoms) is set to increase to pre-Ujwal Discom Assurance Yoiana (UDAY) levels of ₹2.6 lakh crore by the end of this fiscal, according to Crisil's analysis of discoms in 15 States, which account for 85% of the aggregate losses.

With most States having limited fiscal headroom, continuous financial support to their discoms may be difficult. So discoms have to become commercially viable through prudent tariff hikes and a material reduction in aggregate technical and commercial (AT&C) losses, said the Crisil statement.

As per the MoUs States had signed under UDAY in

No bailout: Tariff hikes and a reduction in AT&C losses is the way forward for State discoms, says Crisil. • P.V. SIVAKUMAR fiscal 2016, their discoms were to initiate structural reforms by reducing AT&C losses by 900 basis points (bps) to about 15% in fiscal 2019, and also implement regular tariff hikes of 5-6% per annum. In lieu, State governments took over threefourths of discom debt, thus reducing the interest cost burden. While discoms enjoyed the benefit of debt reduction, structural reforms have been slow to come by.

For instance, AT&C losses

reduced by only 400 bps by December 2018 from pre-UDAY levels and the average tariff increase were a paltry 3% per annum.

'Potential for losses'

"Further improvement in operations may face challenges because the focus on new rural connections without adequate tariff hikes can increase losses," said Subodh Rai, senior director, Crisil Ratings.

"Add to that the funding needs for budgeted capital expenditure, and the external debt of discoms would balloon to about ₹2.6 lakh crore by the end of fiscal 2020." That arithmetic is based on the assumption of average tariff increase of 2%, and partial funding of losses through State grants.

+ Mastercard to invest $1 billion in India over five years

Aims to develop India as global technology node

TCA SHARAD RAGHAVAN

Mastercard on Monday anment in India over the next five years aimed at converting India into a vital node in the company's infrastructure, and also to continue business expansion.

"There is a very large presence that Mastercard has built, and now, after having seen the last five years, we are very bullish on the overall Indian economy and what the future looks like, and clearly very excited about the digital payments ecosystem and payments ecosystem in general," Ari Sarker, co-president, Asia Pacific at Mastercard told

"Therefore, we are making a commitment of another $1 billion in India in the coming five years, and what is interesting in this investment is that roughly $300 million is going to go into an investment where India will become a part of our global technology nodes of our network," Mr. Sarker added.

Previous investment

Mastercard has previously invested $1 billion in India over the last five years, Mr. Sarker explained, which have resulted in several acquisitions, increased employment in the India offices, and improvements in technology development capabilities. "If you look at 2014, our presence in India was only 30-odd people. which was largely focussed on banks in India for our sales and distribution effort," Mr. Sarker said. "Today, 14% of our global workforce is based in India and we are developing significant technology capabilities out of India through our technology hubs in Pune [and] Vadodara."

The about $300 million portion of the investment will make India a node for the delivery of payment processing capabilities. "In essence, all of our processing capabilities [such as] authorisation, clearing, settlement, tokenisation, fraud and safety services, all of that will be locally delivered," he said. "It will take us two years to build up."

"We expect market turbulence to continue on the back of U.S.-China trade tensions, the ongoing general elections and Q4 earnings season," Mr. Jani added.

In a series of tweets on Sunday, U.S. President Donald Trump said that tariffs on Chinese goods worth $200 billion would be shortly increased from 10% to 25%. Another $325 billion worth of goods that remain untaxed would soon attract a rate of 25%, he added.

This led to a panic sell-off in most markets, with the Chinese benchmarks shedding more than 5%, while Hang "Market volumes were lower than recent average as buyers stayed away amidst tense times," Deepak Jasani, Head of Retail Research. HDFC Securities, said.

"India VIX closed 10.2% higher at 26.5 - more than three-year high," he added.
