Doctors stir: Home Ministry sends advisory to West Bengal

Strike enters sixth day; Mamata says all demands accepted

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT
NEW DELHI/KOLKATA

As the stand-off between the West Bengal government and the junior doctors of the State-run hospitals continued for the sixth consecutive day on Saturday, the Union Home Ministry sought an urgent report from the State government on the strike and issued an advisory on the issue.

"This Ministry is in receipt of a number of representations from doctors and medical associations from different parts of country for their security in view of the ongoing strike by doctors in West Bengal. It is requested that a detailed report be sent urgently on the ongoing strike by the doctors," it said.

Want to make India a $5 trillion economy by 2024, says PM

At NITI Aayog meet, he sets up agri task force and asks States to boost growth

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT

Each State must aim to at least double its economy if the country is to achieve the target of a $5 trillion economy by 2024, Prime Minister Narendra Modi told the Chief Ministers gathered for the NITI Aayog's fifth Governing Council meeting on Saturday.

Responding to concerns from the States, he announced the setting up of a high-level task force on structural reforms in the farm sector, as well as a potential revision of disaster relief fund norms.

crease their economy by 2 to 2.5 times, working towards raising GDP targets right from the district level, he said. He added that the common man's purchasing power would increase as a result. He urged the States to focus on their potential to grow exports.

The meeting was attended by the Chief Ministers of all States barring four — Punjab, Himachal Pradesh and West Bengal, Telangana, according to NITI Aayog Vice-Chairman Rajiv Kumar.

To transform the agri-economy, Mr. Modi said the high-powered committee for agriculture reforms "would include some Chief Ministers and take a holistic approach to the subject."

The death toll among children suffering from suspected Acute Encephalitis Syndrome (AES) in Bihar's Muzaffarpur rose to 69 on Saturday, with most of the victims aged between one and seven.

"The death toll today [Saturday] of children has gone up to 69 — 58 at government hospital, SKMCH, and 11 at privately owned Kejriwal hospital," Muzaffarpur civil surgeon Shailesh Prasad Singh told The Hindu over phone.

"We're making all efforts to tackle the situation with all our infrastructure and additional support... sick children continue to come in at the hospital and total 110 children are currently admitted at the SKMCH," Dr. Singh added.

ment for all and the district administration is quite alert to tackle the situation," asserted Muzaffarpur District Magistrate Alok Ranjan Ghosh. "There are enough ambulances for the convenience of patients and the awareness campaign about AES too has been launched in a big way in the district," he added.

On Wednesday, a central team of doctors had visited the hospital to monitor the situation and submitted its report to the director general, health services, on Friday. A person privy to the report, who spoke on condition of anonymity, told The Hindu that the team had pointed out several inadequacies at the SKMCH in Muzaffarpur, including the fact that available resources were not being "optimally utilised" at the hospital.

Seven die while cleaning septic tank in Vadodra

Police file charges against hotel owner

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT
AHMEDABAD

Seven people, including four sanitation workers, died while cleaning a septic tank in a hotel near Vadodra on Saturday. Three of the victims used to work at Darshan Hotel, while the others were hired to clean the sewer line and the septic tank.

The police have lodged a complaint under charges of culpable homicide and causing death due to negligence against hotel owner Hassan Abbas Borhaniya, who was arrested on Saturday.

Vadodra's officiating District Collector Kiran Zaveri said, "They died of asphyxia inside the tank as revealed in their post-mortem examination, conducted at a Vadodra hospital." The bodies of the workers have been handed over to their families. The deceased have been identified as Mahesh Patanwadiya, 47; Ashok Harijan, 45; Brijesh Harijan, 25; Mahesh Harijan, 25; Vijay Chaudhary, 22; Sahdev Vasava, 22; and Ajay Vasava, 22.

Gujarat Chief Minister Vijay Rupani expressed sorrow after coming to know about the incident and announced compensation of ₹4 lakh each to the dependents of the deceased.

BJP MLA Shailesh Mehta, who represents the Dabhoi Assembly constituency, said four sanitation workers were from nearby Thuvavi village and were hired to clean the sewer lines.

He added that the incident shows sheer disregard for the safety of workers. (With PTI inputs)

Hong Kong suspends extradition Bill

Leader Carrie Lam yields after violent street protests

HONG KONG

Hong Kong leader Carrie Lam on Saturday indefinitely delayed a proposed law that would have allowed extraditions to mainland China, in a dramatic retreat after anger over the Bill triggered the city's biggest and most violent street protests in decades.

The Bill, which would have covered Hong Kong's 7 million residents as well as foreign and Chinese nationals there, was seen by many as a threat to the rule of law in the former British colony.

Around a million marched through Hong Kong last Sunday to oppose the Bill, according to organisers of the protest. "After repeated internal deliberations over the last two days, I announce that the government has decided to suspend the legislative amendment exercise, restart our communication with all sectors of society, do more explanation work and listen to different views of society," Ms. Lam said.

Bhutan throws up pay wall amid surge of Indian tourists

Flood of 'unregulated' tourists has prompted measures from pristine Himalayan destination

THIMPHU

For centuries, parents of newborn children in the Thimphu valley have visited the Changangkha Lhakhang (temple) that rises above the Bhutanese capital, bringing their babies as young as four or five days old to be blessed by its deity.

But a surge of tourist inflows into Bhutan this year has left parents and pilgrims jostling for space in the temple's small inner sanctum.

The crowds have sparked a major debate across the country that could mean tougher regulations for tourists from the region, especially India.

Shangri-La worried: Bhutan promoted a brand of tourism that brought in only a few willing to pay well. •GETTY IMAGES

"It was suffocating for the mothers who were trying to get blessings for their children," explains a guard outside the temple, "They could barely say their prayers and they were very upset," he added.

On June 7, the Tourism Council announced it was shutting the temple to all tourists for the three months, or peak season. The notice, printed on a board outside the temple, says the closure was in the "interest of the safety of the tourists", and was done so as to allow "important religious events" to be conducted inside.

Entrance fees

When the doors of Changangkha Lhakhang re-open to tourists, they will be charged 300 Ngultrums (₹300) as entrance fees, the government has decided.

Other monasteries and temples in the country, known for its deep Buddhist religiosity, are quickly following suit.

The measures are part of an entire list being compiled by the Tourism Council of Bhutan (TCB) in response to the large numbers of "unregulated" tourists now making a beeline for the Himalayan Kingdom, once called the "Last Shangri-La" for its remoteness and pristine environment.

For decades, Bhutan's government promoted an exclusive brand of "high value, low volume/impact" tourism, that brought in only a few tourists willing to pay well for luxury hotel brands, rather than "backpackers" and tourists looking for a cheap holiday.

Health services remain partially hit

Doctors continue protest for second consecutive day in solidarity with W.B. counterparts

BINDU SHAJAN PERAPPADAN
NEW DELHI

Healthcare services here remained partially hit for the second consecutive day on Saturday with many government and private hospitals, along with clinics and nursing homes, joining the protest in solidarity with their counterparts in Kolkata.

The protest follows an attack on a junior doctor at Kolkata's NRS Medical College and Hospital by the relatives of a patient, who died there on Monday evening.

The doctors in Kolkata have been on strike since Tuesday. The Indian Medical Association (IMA) stated that violence against doctors is unacceptable and needs to be condemned. "The medical fraternity is very disturbed and concerned about the rising incidents of physical violence and assault on doctors and their staff," it stated.

With helmets on

ed in the protest.

The doctors worked wearing bandages or helmets and held demonstrations.

A statement issued by the AIIMS Resident Doctors' Association read: "Though we have gone back to work today [Saturday], the West Bengal government should ensure that doctors are offered a safe environment to work in. We want written assurance that our demands will be looked into."

"The Centre had constituted an Inter-Ministerial Committee, which had promised to enact a central Act for violence against doctors. But, sadly, this is yet to see the light of day. It is time for the medical fraternity to unite and stand firm till the government brings in a Bill to curb violence against doctors, in the coming Parliament session," said former IMA chief K.K. Aggarwal.

"If the doctors and other healthcare staff are always under constant threat and pressure from ongoing violence and assault then they will not be able to do justice with their profession. Also, they will not be able to treat their patients properly and promptly," he added.

The Progressive Medicos Scientists Forum (PMSF) stated that they hold the Mamata Banerjee-led government in W.B. responsible for letting the situation snowball to the present state through sheer lack of sensitivity for concerns of junior doctors.

"Her [Ms. Banerjee's] suggestion that Kolkata's resident doctors are not willing to see Muslim patients is preposterous and demeaning," it stated, adding that many district hospitals are on the verge of collapse while public hospitals in big cities are becoming dysfunctional due to increasing workload. "Infrastructure is grossly short of requirements, the paucity of medical staff, and unavailability of medicines have caused immense suffering to patients. On the other hand, it has stressed out the medical staff, who find it difficult to meet the needs of the patients," it stated.

Monitor activities of criminals released from Tihar: top cop

STAFF REPORTER
NEW DELHI

The police force should focus on criminals released from Tihar jail by monitoring their activities and keeping surveillance on them, said Delhi Police Commissioner Amulya Patnaik.

During the crime review meeting on Friday when five murders were reported in the city, Mr. Patnaik also asked officers to intensify action against criminals in border districts like Outer North, Outer and North East, who might have come after procuring firearms from other States.

Mr. Patnaik asked District Deputy Commissioners to identify affected vulnerable stretches during evening hours and ensure proper patrolling and barricade checking.

Apart from this, Crime Branch and Special Cell have also been asked to focus on criminals carrying firearms and told to keep an eye on the supply of illegal weapons.

Bootleggers who attacked SHO, other policemen still at large

They took advantage of crowd at the spot to flee: police

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT
GURUGRAM

More than 24 hours after four policemen were attacked allegedly by bootleggers in Nathupur village here on Thursday night, no arrests have been made so far.

The accused had hit Station House Officer of DLF Phase-III police station on his head with a liquor bottle during a brawl.

A case has been registered on charges of obstructing a public servant in discharge of duty, voluntarily causing hurt, assault and criminal intimidation among others. The accused have been identified as Pawan and Ankit, both brothers. The police said they received a tip-off on Thursday night that two men in Nathupur village were selling liquor illegally from a house.

Following this, the SHO along with three policemen reached the spot. The duo claimed that they were innocent and the liquor was being illegally sold by their tenant. The two sides then got into an argument, which soon turned violent.

The brothers then noticed one policeman recording the incident on his phone when they attacked the police party.

Before fleeing the spot, they also snatched the wallet and identity card of an Assistant Sub-Inspector.

One of the victims said the accused were aggressive and violent and did not seem to have any fear of the police. He said the duo took advantage of the chaos after a crowd gathered at the spot and managed to flee.

The policeman said Nathupur was mostly inhabited by daily wagers who preferred the supply of liquor to the doorstep. Hence, the illegal sale of alcohol was rampant in the village.

Gurugram Police spokesperson Subhash Boken said several teams have been formed and raids are being conducted to arrest the accused.

Woman, 'lover' held for killing husband

They promised to pay friend ₹7,000 to commit crime

STAFF REPORTER
NEW DELHI

A 34-year-old woman and her "lover" have been arrested and a minor apprehended for allegedly killing the woman's husband in the servants' quarters of South Avenue, police said on Saturday.

DCP (New Delhi) Madhur Verma said Anju and Shivam Thakur (21), who allegedly planned the killing of Suresh Saini (52) with the help of a friend, Aman, had promised him to pay ₹7,000 for the execution of the crime. They had also roped in a minor.

In the small hours of June 7, a PCR call was received at South Avenue police station that a person's throat had been slit. The victim was taken to Ram Manohar Lohia Hospital where he was declared brought dead, the police said. Investigation revealed that Suresh was alone at the time of the at-were held from Burari. Anju was also arrested.

During interrogation, Shivam allegedly told the police that Anju was in a strained relationship with Suresh as he used to gamble. He claimed he and Anju had developed intimacy.

"Anju further disclosed that several people used to come to her house and her husband forced her to make tea and food for them at odd hours. A month before the murder, Anju consumed poison after a tiff with her husband. She told Shivam that either she or her husband will stay alive," Mr. Verma said, adding that the two then decided to kill Suresh and roped in the minor and Aman. The two men came masked and slit Suresh's throat, the officer added.

The police said they have launched a manhunt for Aman.

tack, around 12.30 a.m., as Anju had gone for a stroll. "There were two boys near the scene of crime who told the police that two masked men had come to the area. Their description was noted by the team," Mr. Verma said.

The movement of the wife was found to be suspicious and the police were also informed that she often visited a particular friend, Shivam, in Meerut.

After several raids, Shivam and the minor - who matched the description of one of the masked men - which a trap was laid in Rohini around 4 a.m. on Saturday. The police then spotted the minor outside his SUV. "He was asked to surrender but he started to run. When policemen chased him, he fired at them but was soon overpowered," the officer said.

The SUV, two pistols along with nine live rounds, one country-made pistol and 10 cartridges were recovered from his possession.

The minor is involved in five other criminal cases, including extortion, attempt to murder, robbery and carjacking, the police said, adding manhunt is on for the absconding accused.

NDTV promoters call SEBI order 'bad in law'

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT
NEW DELHI

A day after the Securities and Exchange Board of India (SEBI) barred Prannoy Roy and his wife Radhika Roy from holding any directorship in New Delhi Television Ltd. (NDTV) for a period of two years, the NDTV founders, in a statement, said they believed the SEBI order was "outrageous, bad in law and against all procedures."

Mrs. and Mr. Roy, along with their holding firm RRPR Holdings, were barred from accessing the securities' market for two years for allegedly concealing material information from shareholders while entering into loan agreements between 2008 and 2010.

Mr. Roy and his wife have also been restrained from being directors in any listed entity for a year.

The statement from Mrs. Roy and Mr. Roy on SEBI order said: "The founders of NDTV believe the SEBI order asking them to step down as directors and to not hold any management positions in NDTV is outrageous, bad in law and against all procedures. They will challenge the SEBI order in the courts as advised within the next few days."

No trade action against India as of now: U.S. Trade Representative

Says it will continue to raise market access issues with New Delhi

WASHINGTON DC

The Office of the United States Trade Representative (USTR) said that it had no announcement of a trade action against India at the moment but continued to raise market access concerns with India, reacting to the media reports from last week that the U.S. was considering launching a 301 probe against India.

"We continue to communicate to India that U.S. exporters are encountering significant tariff and non-tariff barriers that impede U.S. access to the Indian market across sectors, including both goods and services," the Office of the USTR told The Hindu via email.

A 301 probe can be wide in scope and can result in the U.S. imposing tariffs or taking other trade action against its trading partners if the parties don't come to a settlement.

The USTR's comments came on a day India said it would take retaliatory action against the U.S.'s tariffs on steel and aluminium (from 2018), by imposing tariffs on 29 goods from June 16, The Hindu had reported. The tariffs will cause the U.S. a tax burden of $220-$290 million. While the USTR's comments suggest that any trade action may be on hold at the moment, a former U.S. official, who did not want to be named, told The Hindu last week that a 301 probe was likely to be launched against India within the next six months unless substantive progress was made on trade issues. Commerce Minister Piyush Goyal would have to show a willingness to fix trade issues and also have proposed fixes ready, the former official said.

In August 2017, the USTR initiated an investigation of China under Section 301 of the U.S.'s Trade Act of 1974. In April 2018, the USTR official announced the U.S. made a determination based on its probe and proposed tariff action. The first set of tariffs kicked off in July 2018.

AirAsia India to offer special fares at ₹955

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT
BENGALURU

AirAsia India will fly its domestic and international passengers at low fares as part of the carrier's fifth anniversary celebrations.

The airline's 'Big Sale' will have tickets at ₹955 for destinations such as Bengaluru, Hyderabad, Chennai, Kochi, Goa, Pune and Visakhapatnam. Its international fares will start as low as ₹999 and cover destinations such as Kuala Lumpur and Bangkok, said the company.

Sunil Bhaskaran, MD & CEO, AirAsia India, said: "On the occasion of our fifth anniversary, we would like to acknowledge the support of our patrons by rolling out our special anniversary offer." AirAsia started its operations in India in 2014 as a joint venture between Tata Sons and AirAsia Berhad.

Now, auditor casts doubt on Reliance Infra as going concern

Posted ₹3,301 cr. loss in March quarter

PIYUSH PANDEY
MUMBAI

The auditor of Reliance Infrastructure of Anil Ambani's Reliance Group, has cast a doubt about the company's ability to continue as a going concern.

"Losses incurred during the year and certain loans for which the company is a guarantor indicate that a material uncertainty exists that may cast significant doubt on the company's ability to continue as a going concern," said Reliance Infrastructure auditors BSR & Co. LLP and Pathak H.D. & Associates, in their audit report.

The debt-laden infrastructure company reported its biggest-ever quarterly loss of ₹3,301 crore for the March quarter as it booked impairment and write-offs worth ₹8,500 crore.

The company, in a filing to exchanges on Friday after deferring its results twice earlier, said it booked a one-time impairment of subsidiary Reliance Naval and Engineering Limited, which it had acquired in 2016, without disclosing the amount.

"The said amount may be written back upon successful debt resolution pursuant to the updated Reserve Bank of India circular," said the company.

Reliance Infrastructure losses widened due to losses suffered by another subsidiary Reliance Power Ltd. in which it owns a 33.11% stake. Part of the exceptional loss of ₹1,741 crore also included the loss due to the sale of investments pursuant to invocation of pledge.

Reliance Power reported a loss of ₹3,558.5 crore for

The company booked impairment and write-offs worth ₹8,500 crore.

Reliance Infra losses widened due to losses suffered by its arm Reliance Power in which it has 33.11% stake the March quarter, dented by the impairment and write-off, as against a profit of ₹189.21 crore a year ago.

Reliance Power made a withdrawal of ₹1,017 crore from its general reserves, reducing the impact of the one-time impairment and write-off. Auditors of the company highlighted that the losses would have been higher without this.

Even Reliance Power auditors had questioned the ability of the company to stay afloat due to mounting losses and liquidity issues.

Reliance Group's flagship firm Reliance Communications (RCom), which had already filed insolvency petition at the Mumbai bench of National Company Law Tribunal (NCLT), had outstanding dues of ₹47,000 crore.

Only last week, the auditor of Reliance Capital, PwC, quit saying the company has restrained it from performing its duties as a statutory auditor.

Archaic labour laws must be scrapped, says staffing body

Most of these regulations written for a different era, irrelevant to present conditions: ISF president

BENGALURU

The number of people in formal employment in India will grow only if the country's archaic labour regulations, that are irrelevant in today's context, are fully scrapped, says Indian Staffing Federation (ISF), a staffing industry apex body.

The plant in Greater Noida, Uttar Pradesh, is spread across four factories over 25,000 sq.m. It will start with a production capacity of more than 300 million components per year.

In August last year, Holitech Technology signed an MoU to set up a production

Way forward: If labour rules are simplified, the country will experience a boom in formal employment, says ISF. ■ REUTERS

Chakraborty told The Hindu that the country currently had an overdose of labour rules and their irrelevant existence will only damage the growth of formal job market in particular and the economy in general.

"We have some 44 Central labour rules in addition to over 100 State-specific laws. Most of these regulations were written for India of a different era and therefore currently are not in use or are irrelevant to today's conditions," she argued.

As per ISF, if labour rules are updated and are made simpler the country will experience a boom in formal employment. "Small enterprises will not shy away from scaling up their businesses or adding people if labour laws are made friendly. This will automatically boost formal employment in the country. It will also improve the ease of doing businesses and investment flow will pick up. Eventually, streamlining labour laws will bring in positive impact on the economy," she said.

There should be consistency and uniformity in definitions. For instance, the existing labour laws, define 'worker' and 'wage' in 17 different ways. "There are hundred different things like these that cause ambiguity and confusion in the minds of small entrepreneurs," said B.S. Murthy, CEO, Leadership Capital, a people management firm.

Mr. Murthy added: "Irrelevant rules and unrealistic compliance have come in the way of job creation. Too many complex and ambiguous labour regulations have made India a hostile place for MSME players."

Xiaomi supplier Holitech sets up plant in U.P.

The Chinese firm plans to invest $200 million in India over three years

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT
NEW DELHI

Chinese component-maker Holitech Technology has inaugurated its first manufacturing plant in India. The company will invest about $200 million in India over three years to make parts such as compact camera modules, capacitive touch screen modules, thin film transistors, flexible printed circuits and fingerprint modules.

Holitech was first invited to explore investment opportunities in India by Xiao-mi, for whom Holitech is a supplier.

"The local manufacturing plant is ready. It will be in production by third quarter of 2019 and aims to generate 6,000 jobs in three years," Xiaomi said in a statement.

The plant in Greater Noida, Uttar Pradesh, is spread across four factories over 25,000 sq.m. It will start with a production capacity of more than 300 million components per year.

In August last year, Holitech Technology signed an MoU to set up a production facility in Tirupati, Andhra Pradesh, at an investment of $200 million. However, the company's plan with regard to this plant is unclear.

"Uttar Pradesh has extended incentives for the establishment of the manufacturing plants as per UP Electronics Manufacturing Policy," the statement added. Deputy Chief Minister Dinesh Sharma, said: "Uttar Pradesh has a young entrepreneurial spirit and poses an attractive destination for similar minded companies. Our state-of-the-art infras-structural offerings make Uttar Pradesh an exciting investment opportunity and it is heartening to see Holitech initiate a big revolution in the market for local manufacturing."

Muralikrishnan B, COO, Xiaomi India, said: "Holitech is a global component supplier and with its entry into India, we are positive that a new era of local electronics component manufacturing will begin fostering job creation and encourage entry of other component makers in India."

INTERVIEW | ROLAND BUSCH

'We have a strong offering for India'

'Consumption space, airports or buildings, we can deploy our technologies'

PIYUSH PANDEY

Dr. Roland Busch, COO, CTO and Managing Board member of Siemens AG, was in India recently to attend Siemens Innovations Day. In an interview with The Hindu, Mr. Busch spoke about restructuring of businesses, increasing digital focus on India and funding Indian start-ups. Edited excerpts.

Siemens planned to tap $1.5 trillion opportunity in India and to make India among its top 5 global markets. Where are you now?

■ I think we are executing that plan and well on track. India could be among the five largest markets after the U.S. China and Germany. We see a high growth rate, which was a little bit lagging, but we believe that this is picking up. We believe in the strengths of the Indian markets. We will stick to our strategy and its a positive outcome from our side.

There are talks that Siemens will lay off 20,000 employees globally. Your comments.

■ This is about how we focus on growth business. We have some businesses which are not growing. The gas and power business, for example, is a market that's shrinking while others are still okay. In a shrinking market, you have to adapt your capabilities and that's what we do.

Is digitisation taking away jobs?

■ There is a demand for maintaining or increasing our growth rate, and this can be done only if you drive productivity. India is still growing in the labour market, while the Chinese labour market has peaked already. So, we have an ageing society which means we have to compensate for 1.5-1.8% of growth with technology to maintain the growth momentum. This is where digitisation kicks in.

Your plan to merge the mobility division of Siemens with Alstom failed. What's plan B?

■ True. This is a very strong business. If you talk about the growth rate, in the first half year, it was very impressive. It's a growing business. Its terms of profitability, we are the market leader. This means that we don't need to rush. We are looking at all options.

Is it a set back for Siemens given that you were working since the last two years to close the deal?

■ Last two years, we were focussing on our plan to merge it. We were fighting for it very hard. Didn't go through, it's a long story. Not really [a setback]. While we were talking we were making sure that we were still competitors. For reasons we can debate, it's not going through. For me it's over.

Your plans to tap the Indian start-up space?

■ Next-47 is our venture capital arm. We are going to increase our footprint here. We want to create more visibility in the start-up space. We want to deploy more capital in the Indian start-up space. It's $1 billion funds over five years. There is no break up country-wise. Next 47 will play more of a catalyst role.
