Those excluded from final NRC will get a window of 10 months

Police officials in Assam brace for 'crisis' ahead of publication of register

RAHUL KARMAKAR
GUWAHATI
Those excluded from the final National Register of Citizens (NRC) to be published on August 31 will get a window of 10 months to prove their citizenship before being sent to detention centres, even as police officers in Assam on Thursday prepared to face an unprecedented "crisis".
"We cannot say how many will be left out. But each of them will have a window of at least 10 months to challenge his or her exclusion," Assam's Additional Chief Secretary in charge of the Home and Political Departments Kumar Sanjay Krishna said.
The publication of the register could be the start of an unprecedented complication - more of the humanitarian kind than of law and order, police officers said. However, the outgoing DGP, Kuladhar Saikia, said the police and other forces had ensured that security was in place before Saturday. "I believe this entire process will be completed peacefully with awareness and sensitisation drives preceding the exercise," he said.

More notices issued for re-verification

People included in the draft National Register of Citizens published in July last year but suspected to be foreigners continue to receive notices for re-verification of their documents, days before the publication of the final list. The NRC authority said there was nothing unusual about the notices. "Some people may be summoned on Friday too. The process will continue until the deadline fixed by the Supreme Court," a spokesperson said.

Lack of demand is hobbling the economy's animal spirits, says RBI

Central bank stresses need to revive investment

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT
MUMBAI

The Reserve Bank of India (RBI), in its annual report for 2018-19, has said the lack of domestic demand is holding back the animal spirits in the economy and emphasised the need to revive consumption demand and private investment during 2019-20.
"What ails the animal spirits? At the core is the issue of domestic demand," the RBI said in the annual report.
The report said the recent deceleration could be in the nature of a soft patch mutating into a cyclical downswing, rather than a deep structural slowdown.
"Nonetheless, there are still structural issues in land, labour, agricultural marketing and the like, which need

Dip in ₹2,000 note circulation

The ₹2,000 currency notes have dropped in circulation in the past year. The RBI report said 3,363 million pieces were in circulation as on March-end 2018 and the number dropped to 3,291 million in the year ended March 2019. PAGE 15

Bank frauds go up by 74%

The value of bank frauds went up 73.8% during 2018-19, compared with the previous year. In terms of the number of cases, it was up 15%, the RBI's report said. Banks had taken 55 months, on an average, to report large frauds. PAGE 15 to be addressed," the report said, adding that the policy focus at this point should remain on improving the ease of doing business.

Kandla, Adani ports put on security alert

Inputs warn of terror threats from sea

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT
AHMEDABAD

The country's two largest ports, Kandla and Adani in Gujarat, were put on high alert, along with the entire Gulf of Kutch, after intelligence agencies shared inputs of a possible entry by Pakistan-trained commandos through the Harami Naala creek to carry out underwater attacks.
However, the alerts turned out to be "precautionary" in nature.
Informed sources told The Hindu that "the inputs were meant to warn that there was a likelihood of such attacks".
What created confusion was the wording used by the authorities that "commandos have entered the Gulf of Kutch via the Harami Nala creek area," and that the "commandos were trained in underwater attacks".

According to a top official, a "routine advisory" issued by the agencies created confusion, and the two ports were put on high alert.
The authorities asked all shipping agents to ensure the safety of berthed vessels and those arriving for berthing. They asked all stakeholders to step up security and remain vigilant and report any suspicious activity.

DINAKAR PERI
MOSCOW

Russia is likely to offer India its conventional submarines on the government-to-government route under the Navy's Project-751 at the summit between Prime Minister Narendra Modi and President Vladimir Putin at Vladivostok next week, Russian officials said.
"Russian conventional submarines will be offered through the government-to-government route to India at the summit. This will save a lot of time in the procurement process," one official said.
"The possibility of offering India the Su-57, the Russian Fifth Generation Fighter Aircraft (FGFA), is also being explored, but it has not been

Schoolmates shun Dalits during midday meal

Probe ordered into U.P. school incident after video goes viral; BSP chief demands action

LUCKNOW

A government primary school in Uttar Pradesh's Ballia district has landed in a caste discrimination controversy after some students did not have their midday meals alongside Dalit schoolmates.
The matter came to light after a video of the school during the midday meal session, apparently shot by media persons, was widely shared on social media.

While Bahujan Samaj Party chief Mayawati demanded strict legal action by the State government against those guilty of "such disgusting caste-discrimination", the district administration said the complaints of caste-based discrimination were prima facie "entirely baseless".
But P. Gupta, principal of the Rampur-1 primary school, admitted to "slight discrimination" that the Dalit students faced from others. He said some of the other students do not want to eat in the same plates as Dalit students - they bring their own plates and eat separately.

"We make them sit in a line but they - perhaps they get taught that at home - display slight discrimination," said Mr. Gupta.
Despite warning the students several times and teaching them about equality, Mr. Gupta said they sit and eat in their allotted lines for a short while but once the teachers move away, move out and eat separately.

Ballia DM's denial
The school has mostly Dalit and Scheduled Tribe students with a few coming from the OBC communities, said the principal.
Ballia DM Bhawani Singh

Khangarot, who went on an inspection of the school, said there was no basis to show any discrimination. "All students said it (report of caste-based discrimination) was incorrect," he said.
However, Mr. Khangarot said a detailed probe would be conducted under a joint magisterial-level officer and testimonies of the students as well as their guardians recorded.

SUHASINI HAIDAR
NEW DELHI

Three days after U.S. President Donald Trump met Prime Minister Narendra Modi in France and discussed the situation in Kashmir, American officials said they were "concerned" about the continuing communication restrictions and detentions.
Mr. Trump had said that during their discussion on the Kashmir issue, Mr. Modi had said that he "really feels he has it under control", and that India and Pakistan could resolve the issue bilaterally. Sources told The Hindu that diplomats from different embassies, including senior U.S. and U.K. officials, had been meeting External Affairs Ministry officials over the past few days to stress that they were watching the situation closely.

Women in Music launches India chapter

Aims to promote gender parity and women's visibility in the Indian music industry

MUMBAI

Women in Music (WIM), a New York-based global non-profit has launched its India chapter to work towards promoting gender parity and women's visibility in the Indian music industry.
Priyanka Khimani, chair of India chapter, said WIM would work to attain 50-50 representation in the music industry, a goal the organisation has been working on since it was established in New York in 1985.
On the specific conditions in India, Ms. Khimani said, "It is important because in general in India there are less women in the workforce and many often take a back seat mid-career. Take any record label, Over The Top (OTT) platform, or publishers and you will not find women in senior leadership. There are no women CEOs and clearly, there is disproportion. It is surprising to see disparity even on the creative side and we need to change that," she said.

Ms. Khimani, who is a co-founder and lead partner at the city-based law firm, Anand and Anand and Khimani, represents several top-billed music artistes including Lata Mangeshkar, Kalyanji-Anandji, A.R. Rahman, Vishal-Shekhar, Sunidhi Chauhan and new wave stars Shirley Sethia, Harshdeep Kaur and Vidya Vox.

"They are all my clients and thus, I have a strong inclination towards the music industry. Every year, I curate a conference called 'All about music.' Last year, at the conference, we announced that we will be launching Women in Music in India and finally we had our first, inaugural event on Monday," she said.

Terming it an inclusive group, Ms. Khimani said any artist associated with the industry, lawyers representing them, and production houses, could join the community. "The idea is to create a pool and enable connectivity between stakeholders in the industry," she added.

Patna High Court withdraws judicial work from judge

II-judge Bench suspends order issued by him

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT
PATNA

The Patna High Court has withdrawn all judicial work from a sitting senior judge, Rakesh Kumar, who had in the course of hearing a corruption case against a former IAS officer on Wednesday highlighted the "state of corruption in the judicial system". An II-judge Bench also suspended Justice Kumar's order and ruled that no action ordered by him would be taken.
"All the matters pending before Hon'ble Mr. Justice Rakesh Kumar, sitting singly including tied up/part heard or otherwise stand withdrawn with immediate effect," read a notice issued by the Chief Justice of the Patna High Court on August 28.

"The registrar will implement the order forthwith subject to further orders with regard to the formation of the Bench," the Bench said in the notice, which came into the public domain on Thursday.
No jurisdiction
The Bench also observed that their fellow judge had no "jurisdiction to pass such an order on a case that had been closed".

Bihar Advocate General Lalit Kishore told journalists that the Bench expressed serious concern over the order passed by Justice Kumar in which he has raised questions over the majesty of the court and the integrity of the judicial system.
Justice Kumar, in his 20-page order, had questioned how retired IAS officer K.P. Ramaiah was granted bail in a corruption case when the HC as well as the Supreme Court had rejected it. Mr. Ramaiah was accused of misappropriation of ₹5 crore in the Bihar Mahadalit Vikas Mission when he was its CEO.

Ravidas temple: DDA urged to start land denotification process

Tughlakabad temple was demolished by DDA on August 10 following an SC order

STAFF REPORTER
NEW DELHI

Delhi Social Welfare Minister Rajendra Pal Gautam on Thursday urged the Delhi Development Authority (DDA) to request the Forest Department to denotify the land of a demolished Ravidas temple, in Tughlakabad, from the forest category.

The Minister said that the DDA is the landowning agency and it has to initiate the process.

The temple in Tughlakabad was demolished by the DDA on August 10 following a Supreme Court order. The DDA is headed by Lieutenant-Governor Anil Bajjal, who is appointed by the Central government.

been demanding to rebuild the temple at the same spot and the resolution was passed in the Delhi Assembly on the same, earlier this month.

Blame game

Leader of the Opposition Vijender Gupta had said in the Delhi Assembly that the Forest Department of the Delhi government has to send a proposal to the Central government to denotify the land. This was objected to by Delhi Environment Minister Kailash Gahlot, who said that the DDA has to initiate the process.

In a letter to DDA Vice-

Chairman Tarun Kapoor on Thursday, Mr. Gautam said, "An early resolution of the matter is required which would be possible only if the owner of the land, i.e., the DDA, requests the Forest Department for denotifying the land from the forest category."

"Accordingly, you are requested to immediately review the matter and send an appropriate request to the Forest Department of the Delhi government for denotifying the land so that the Delhi government can send a proposal to the Central government for approval and allotment of land for construction of Sant Ravidas temple," the Minister said in the letter.

'AAP govt.'s claim on power tariff misleading'

ABR in Capital among the highest when compared to other cities and States: Maken

STAFF REPORTER
NEW DELHI

Former Union Minister Ajay Maken on Thursday alleged that the Arvind Kejriwal government's claim that there has been a reduction in the overall power tariff in the Capital was far from the truth.

Making a presentation of a report he had prepared titled "The truth of power sector in Delhi", Mr. Maken said that the Average Billing Rate (ABR) in the Capital was among the highest when compared to other cities and States in the country and not the lowest as claimed by the AAP government.

"In 2018-19, the ABR in the national capital was ₹8.45 as compared to ₹7.36 in 2013-

Congress leader Ajay Maken in the Capital on Thursday. ■ SANDEEP SAXENA

14. Thus, the power tariff increased by ₹1.09 in the last five years," Mr. Maken alleged. Comparing the ABR with other places in the country, Mr. Maken said that in the last fiscal, the ABR was ₹6.59 in Madhya Pradesh, ₹6.63 in Punjab, ₹7.04 in Rajasthan, ₹7.05 in Haryana and ₹7.37 in Bengaluru. He added that the ABR includes fixed charges and variable charges.

Power subsidies

The Congress leader demanded that the government transfer power subsidies directly into the bank accounts of beneficiaries and not to the discoms.

Mr. Maken said that ₹8,532 crore has been given to private companies as subsidies ever since AAP came to power and asked the government to provide a complete list of monthwise beneficiaries/consumers, alongwith meter/connection number, of all those who have received subsidy post-December 2013.

Minister refutes charges

Terming the statements as "baseless" and "lies", AAP Rajya Sabha MP Sanjay Singh said Mr. Maken should explain why the Congress bought costly electricity from private companies when they were in power and also charged high bills from the people.

"In the Congress, Ajay Maken is working as a BJP worker," he said. "Maken is the person who had signed the electricity privatisation agreement with the private discoms and he should explain to the world the reason behind signing them at extremely high rates," he said.

The scholarship will be given for five specified fields of study - engineering and management, pure sciences and applied sciences, agricultures sciences and medicine, international commerce, accounting and finance, and humanities and social science.

'Govt. schemes to benefit students who cannot afford coaching'

19-year-old gets into medical college after attending free classes

STAFF REPORTER
NEW DELHI

A 19-year-old girl who got admission into Lady Hardinge Medical College to pursue MBBS, after attending free entrance coaching classes provided by the Delhi government, said that students like her who do not belong to well-to-do families will benefit from such schemes.

Shashi, the daughter of a daily-wage labourer, said that she had tried to crack NEET in 2018 to get admission for MBBS, but failed as she could not afford an entrance coaching.

I came to know about the scheme from a relative and got enrolled and that really helped me

SHASHI MBBS student

Shashi, who passed Class XII in 2017, got enrolled under the 'Jai Bhim Mukhyamantri Pratibha Vikas Yojana', under which the government provides free entrance coaching to students from Scheduled Castes, whose annual family income is below ₹6 lakh.

"I came to know about the scheme from a relative and got enrolled and that really helped me," the 19-year-old said. Shashi's college classes began in the first week of August and the teenager said that she wanted to help people suffering from cancer. "I want to improve the healthcare system of the country," she added.

Shashi's family of seven lives in a rented accommodation in Jahangirpuri.

Scheme expansion

The government is now planning to expand the scheme to include OBC and EWS of general category, according to Social Welfare Minister Rajendra Pal Gautam.

"Jai Bhim Mukhyamantri Pratibha Vikas Yojana is ensuring that poverty is no longer a hurdle for students," the Minister said.

"It was a four-month course. The duration is not enough to prepare for the exam. It should be increased," Shashi said.

Free travel for women gets Delhi Cabinet nod

Scheme beginning Oct. 29 is not restricted to the city alone but will be available in NCR as well

NEW DELHI

The Delhi Cabinet on Thursday accorded in-principle approval to free travel for women aboard Delhi Transport Corporation (DTC) and cluster buses beginning October 29, the Delhi government said in a statement.

According to the statement, the decision was taken at a meeting of the Cabinet chaired by Chief Minister Arvind Kejriwal and entails the provision of free, single-journey duration passes for women commuters wishing to avail the facility of free travel on DTC and cluster buses.

Free travel will not only be available for women commuters within the jurisdiction of the Capital but also on State-run bus services in Noida and the National Capital Region in addition to the airport and other special services, the statement said

"Single journey duration passes will be issued to women passengers in DTC and cluster buses... The free travel scheme will be voluntary which means any woman passenger who wants to purchase a journey ticket will be free to do so," the statement said adding that the scheme would also apply to women passengers carrying luggage within the limit prescribed by DTC.

According to government statistics, during November 2017, the total number of passengers who utilised the Delhi Metro was 25.08 lakh while 32.76 lakh commuters travelled aboard DTC buses and 12.38 lakh used cluster buses.

According to the statement, the DTC would be reimbursed at the rate of ₹10 per single journey duration pass issued by it to commuters and similar payment would be made in the designated account of the cluster scheme for "proper accounting" of the facility by the Delhi government.

The Cabinet, according to the statement, also directed the DTC to propose "suitable amendments" in the DTC (free & concessional passes) Regulations, 1985, subject to any alterations, if any, so that the same may be notified in the official gazette.

"DTC and DIMTS will strengthen their ticket checking mechanisms to ensure that the facility is not misused and to plug any possible pilferage in issuance of passes for free travel of women," the statement added.

Transport allowance

However, the statement clarified, women officers and officials of the Delhi government, local bodies and undertakings will not be entitled for transport allowance in case they opt for the free travel facility in DTC and cluster buses.

"The departments, autonomous bodies etc. will take an undertaking from their women government servants to the effect that they are not availing this free travel facility. Transport Department shall also write to Ministry of Finance, Government of India, after the implementation of scheme to consider issuing necessary instructions to all the Ministries/departments/autonomous bodies located in Delhi," it added.

Two coaches of Telangana Express catch fire in Faridabad

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT
GURUGRAM

Two coaches of the Hyderabad-New Delhi Telangana Express caught fire near Asaoti railway station in Haryana's Faridabad on Thursday. However, no casualties were reported.

The fire was noticed after the brake binding of the New Delhi-bound train (Train No. 12723) at 7.43 a.m. it spread to the coaches. The train stopped between Asaoti and Ballabgarh railway stations due to flames and heavy smoke emanating from the wheels of the ninth coach from the rear.

"Following the incident, both upward and downward movements of the trains were stopped on the track. Fire tenders were rushed to the spot. Both the coaches were isolated. The fire was controlled. All the passengers were safe," said Deepak Kumar, Chief PRO, Northern Railway.

The movement on the upline was resumed at 10.13 a.m. while the downline was opened to traffic an hour later. The front portion of the train arrived at New Delhi railway station around noon.

Mr. Kumar said that it was not immediately known as to what caused the fire and the matter was under investigation.

One of the two coaches was gutted in the fire.

Woman toll collector assaulted; accused held

She refused free passage to accused

GURUGRAM

In yet another incident of misbehaviour and assault on a staffer at Kherki Daula toll plaza over refusal to pay the toll charges, a 26-year-old woman toll collector was allegedly slapped and abused by a local villager after she refused him free passage. The accused, Rahul, a resident of Shikhopur village, has been arrested.

Soni Kumar, the complainant, was manning lane no. 11 when Rahul reached the toll gate in his car. He refused to pay the toll charges and when Soni insisted, he stepped out of the vehicle and engaged in a scuffle with her. Rahul allegedly slapped Soni, abused her and also threatened to eliminate her. The entire incident was caught on the closed-circuit television camera.

An FIR was registered at Kherki Daula police station on charges of causing hurt, criminal intimidation and using obscene language. The accused was arrested a few hours later and sent to jail. Grappling with instances of frequent altercations between motorists and male toll operators, Skylark Group – the company that operates the Delhi-Gurugram Expressway – had deployed women toll collectors in April 2017, hoping to reduce such cases. But there has been no let up and many incidents of misbehaviour and assault on women toll collectors have been reported.

Past incidents

In a similar incident, 40-year-old gym owner Manjeet, also a resident of Shikhopur village, had assaulted and threatened to kill and rape a woman toll collector in June this year seeking free passage. He was later arrested. Manjeet was co-accused in the 2011 murder case wherein his friend Vijay Veer had shot dead a toll collector at Kherki Daula over payment of toll charges. Vijay had allegedly shot Umesh Kumar Pandey on September 23.

Six women held for honeytrapping men

They were nabbed for extorting money

STAFF REPORTER
NEW DELHI

Six women were arrested from Rohini for allegedly honeytrapping men to extort money from them, the police said on Thursday.

According to the police, they received a complaint where the complainant stated that he was in contact with a woman for the last two-three months. On Tuesday, the complainant had gone to pocket-6, Rohini Sector-2 to meet the woman, where he met two more women. She asked one of the women to take him to a room, the police said.

Meanwhile, someone knocked the door and the woman opened it. "Two men, two women and three girls entered the room and took nude pictures and videos of the man," the police said.

him. "The deal was finalised at ₹10 lakh and the victim called his relative and asked him to arrange the money," they said.

Thereafter, the victim's relative gave money to a person near Rajouri Garden Gate, the police said.

The accused released the victim and threatened that they will post his pictures and videos on social media if he report the matter to the police, they said.

But the victim approached the police and lodged a complaint. During investigation, six women were arrested, a senior police officer said.

They were produced before the court and two of them were sent to one-day police remand. The extorted amount is yet to be recovered, they said.

Former govt. official H.C. Gupta acquitted in coal allocation case

NIRNIMESH KUMAR
NEW DELHI

A Delhi court on Thursday acquitted former Coal Secretary H.C. Gupta and a private company in a coal block allocation case.

The company, Messrs Pushp Steels and Mining, was allocated a coal block in Brahmapuri in Madhya Pradesh.

Allegations

The CBI alleged that the screening committee headed by Mr. Gupta allocated the coal block to the company without any recommendation either by the Madhya Pradesh government or by the administrative ministry – Ministry of Steel.

Acquitting the former bureaucrat, special judge Bharat Parashar said: "Certainly H.C. Gupta was playing a major role in the coal block allocation process but as the basic essential ingredient of the offence of criminal breach of trust by a public servant i.e. of Section 409 IPC or that of the offence of criminal misconduct by a public servant i.e. of Section 13 (1) (c) P.C. Act, 1988, that the public servant concerned must have been either entrusted with the property in question or he must be having dominion/control over the property in question does not stand proved as regard Mr. Gupta," the judge said.

As the prosecution miserably failed to prove the charges of criminal misconduct, criminal breach of trust and criminal conspiracy, the court acquits both accused of all the offences, the judge said.

Man stabbed to death at de-addiction centre

STAFF REPORTER
NEW DELHI

A 32-year-old man was stabbed to death allegedly by a person at a drug de-addiction centre in south Delhi's Kotla Mubarakpur after an argument over stolen water motor, the police said on Thursday.

The deceased was identified as Manoj Balsoiya, a resident of Aliganj in Kotla Mubarakpur.

"The police received information at 8.19 p.m. regarding stabbing of a person at a de-addiction centre in Babu Park area and a team rushed to the spot," a senior police officer said.

Balsoiya, who sustained injuries, was rushed to AIIMS where he was declared brought dead.

During investigation, it was found that one Saheer stole the water motor of Balsoiya's cousin and was later caught by the victim, the police said.

The victim's uncle Sonu said that an altercation took place between Balsoiya and Saheer inside the centre on Wednesday afternoon.

In the evening, Saheer came to the centre and stabbed Balsoiya and escaped from the spot. Saheer and Balsoiya had known each other for sometime, they said. The police have registered a case under various Sections of the IPC. Several teams have been deployed to apprehend Saheer, the police said.

Balsoiya is survived by wife Sarita (28) and two children. He had worked as a driver at Safdarjung hospital and was the sole breadwinner.

Dengue cases down by 80%

2015 : 15,867 cases

डेंगू पे
वार हर
रविवार

Dear Delhiites,
This year too, we have to come together to fight against Dengue.
1st September onwards.

10 हफ्ते, 10 बजे, 10 मिनट
हर रविवार, डेंगू पर वार।

Know about Dengue

- The Dengue mosquito breeds in stagnant clean water.
- The Dengue mosquito grows from an egg into a mosquito in 8-10 days. If clean water is not allowed to stand, the mosquito will not be able to breed.
- The Dengue mosquito's flight range is approximately 200 meters. If someone in your house contracts Dengue, then it is likely that the mosquitoes have either originated from your or your neighbour's house. It is important to check your home and also that of your neighbours for your family's health and wellbeing.

10 minutes, every Sunday

- For the next 10 weeks, we all need to set aside 10 minutes at 10 o'clock every Sunday. Check flower pots, coolers, vases or anywhere inside or outside your house to make sure that clean water has not accumulated. If you find there is an accumulation of clean water, pour it out, change it or add petrol or oil to it.

Just 10 Sundays

- Most Dengue cases occur in the monsoon or just after that. During this period, there are 10 Sundays. If we dedicate 10 minutes at 10 o'clock every Sunday for this, we can get rid of Dengue and Chikungunya. We need to spend less than two hours over 10 weeks. In the last five years, Dengue and Chikungunya have been brought under control, and this year, we will do it again!

Let's come together!

- If you have inspected your house, do take a selfie inside your house and WhatsApp it to 8287972050. Together, we will make Delhi Dengue-free.

Chacko to step down once DPCC gets a new chief

He has been in-charge of Delhi Congress for over 4 years now

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT
NEW DELHI

Once Congress president Sonia Gandhi appoints a new chief for the party's Delhi unit ahead of the Assembly elections, senior Congress leader P.C. Chacko on Thursday said he would like to step down from his post of the party in-charge of Delhi.

P.C. Chacko

Mr. Chacko told The Hindu that he has conveyed this to Ms. Gandhi when he met her last week to start the process of finding a new Congress chief for Delhi after the death of former Chief Minister and Delhi Pradesh Congress Committee (DPCC) chief Sheila Dixit.

"When I met madam [Ms. Gandhi], I told her that I would like to be relieved from this post as I have been handling it for over four years," he told The Hindu, adding that Ms. Gandhi made it clear that choosing the next DPCC chief was a priority at the moment.

"Not before elections" "I am not leaving ahead of the elections or anything like that. I would like to step down only after a new DPCC head is appointed," he clarified.

Mr. Chacko said he has been working as the All India Congress Committee in-charge of Delhi Congress for the past four-and-a-half years and had overseen many elections. He said a new president taking charge should be followed by a new Delhi in-charge.

The former MP, who once headed the Joint Parliamentary Committee on 2G Spectrum allocation issue, wants the Congress leadership to consider him for a different assignment within the party.

The Congress is seeking to rebuild itself in Delhi by pitching itself as an alternative to the Aam Aadmi Party that will complete its five-year term by next February.

Audit records multiple financial irregularities in SDMC

SIDHARTH RAVI
NEW DELHI

The annual audit report for the South Delhi Municipal Corporation (SDMC) for 2016-2017, tabled during the Standing Committee meeting on Thursday, observed multiple irregularities in various departments, leading to a financial implication of ₹1,678.45 crore.

Issues include undue favours to builders, advertising agents; incorrect valuation of properties, such as farmhouses; non-collection of outstanding fees worth several crore of rupees; irregular diversion of funds and others.

The 202-page report contains at least 39 audit observations which detail shortfalls pertaining to departments of accounts and finance, property tax, advertising, licensing, engineering, building, environment, land and estate and health. A major chunk of the financial implications comes from the property tax department. The SDMC did not collect property tax amounting to ₹1177.47 crore from both the government and private properties during the period prior to 2004, the report states. Records show that the civic body has also been very slow in recovering the outstanding dues. The report recommended a concrete plan be developed to recover the dues.

Losses and causes

Other audit observations are related to the wrong classification and self-assessment of certain properties, leading to heavy losses. For instance, four farmhouses in Samalkha village, running as commercial establishments, only paid a tax rate of ₹100. This led to less collection of taxes resulting in a loss of ₹4.50 crore. Also, the Garden of Five Senses in Saket, run by the Delhi government's Tourism Department, undervalued tax rates that resulted in a ₹3.37-crore deficit.

In the engineering department, a cost overrun of ₹32.08 crore due to a 10-year delay in the completion of a multi-specialty hospital in Kalkaji, sanctioned in 2005, was observed. Only two floors were partially handed over to the hospital authorities where OPD services are run, the report states. An investigation into the matter has been recommended.

The report also observed wasteful expenditure to the tune of ₹26.90 crore on a project to cover a drain running from Pushp Vihar to Defence Colony, as the NGT had ordered to stop the same. It also highlighted problems related to projects, such as a multilevel car parking in Jangpura and Kalkaji, which had cost overruns of ₹14.72 crore and a delay of seven years.

Audit observations have also been made with regard to at least three cases of "doubtful execution of works".

In the building department, the report highlights "undue benefit" to property owners and builders with no action on at least 2,149 cases where demolition or sealing orders were not executed. It said that the department's inaction pointed to "unlawful support" of property owners.

Respective departments have been informed about the findings of the report and the replies received have been incorporated into it.

Man stabbed, shot dead in south Delhi

STAFF REPORTER
NEW DELHI

A 24-year-old man was stabbed and shot dead in south Delhi's Tigri on Wednesday night, the police said on Thursday. They have registered a case and begun probe.

Additional Deputy Commissioner of Police (South) Parvinder Singh said that the victim has been identified as Rohit, a resident of Tigri's JJ Camp, who had two cases of causing hurt registered against him.

The police said that they received a call at 11.10 p.m. regarding a person who was shot at. When they reached the spot, they were told that the victim had been taken to a private hospital by his relatives. "When the police reached the hospital, they were told that the man, identified as Rohit, has succumbed to injuries," Mr. Singh said.

During investigation, it was revealed that Rohit was killed by another resident of Tigri, identified as Akash, and his accomplices. "Rohit and Akash had an altercation in the afternoon over some petty issue. Later in the night, Akash came along with his brother Annu, Kapil and a few others. They stopped Rohit when he was on his way home and stabbed him eight times before shooting him twice from a close range," the Additional DCP said, adding that the accused then managed to flee from the spot.

The police said that Akash has one case of murder and another of causing grievous hurt registered against him earlier.

Manhunt on

Mr. Singh said that a case under Section 302 (punishment for murder) and 34 (common intention) of the Indian Penal Code has been registered at Tigri police station and efforts are on to nab the accused.

BJP launches Parivartan Yatra for Assembly polls

Sources in AAP say party will launch yatra in Sept. to counter BJP's initiative

STAFF REPORTER
NEW DELHI

The Delhi unit of the BJP on Thursday launched the 'Delhi Bachao Parivartan Yatra' aimed at garnering support for the party in the Delhi Assembly election due next year.

The Parivartan Yatra, which was launched at the Ramliya Maidan in Bhalaswa Dairy here, will pass through all the 14 districts and 70 Assembly constituencies of the Capital.

"The Kejriwal government has betrayed the people of Delhi. Hence, the time has come to dislodge it. He [the CM] has been obstructing the regularisation of unauthorised colonies, while the Central government is providing ownership rights to the people living in unauthorised colonies," Manoj Tiwari, the State BJP chief, said.

The North East Delhi MP further alleged that the Delhi government had been "in-involved in corruption for 54 months" and failed to fulfil the promises made to the people of the Capital and now needed to be "dislodged."

Meanwhile, sources in the AAP said the party is also planning to launch a yatra in the first week of September to counter the BJP's yatra.

An AAP leader said, "The yatra will start from September 1 and will be headed by Gopal Rai, who is the party's Delhi in-charge." The AAP also aims at covering all the 70

Assembly constituencies in the Capital, the leader said.

The AAP had in June launched 'Aapka Vidhayak Aapke Dwar', a public outreach programme, after the party lost all seven seats it contested in the Lok Sabha election in Delhi.

Though the Delhi Assembly election is due in February 2020, there have been rumours that it could be held earlier. The same was, however, denied by the Election Commission.

Railways to pay ₹20,000 for serving contaminated food

STAFF REPORTER
NEW DELHI

A district consumer disputes redressal forum here has directed the Northern Railway to compensate a complainant by paying ₹20,000 after an insect was spotted in the food provided to the complainant during his journey to Delhi.

The directions came when complainant Pankaj Bansal moved the consumer forum alleging deficiency in services on the part of the railways.

Noting that despite the man lodging a complaint, no action was taken, the consumer panel observed, "We find that [Northern Railway] was deficient in its services as despite having a grievance cell and maintaining a complaint book, no action on the complaint was taken. Therefore, having a grievance call and maintaining a complaint book seems to be farce and eye wash for the public at large."

'Act against AAP government for cheating autorickshaw drivers'

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT
NEW DELHI

A delegation of BJP leaders on Thursday called on L-G Anil Bajjal demanding action against the Delhi government for financially cheating more than one lakh autorickshaw drivers across the city since 2016. The delegation, which consisted of Leader of the Opposition in the Delhi Assembly Vijender Gupta MLAs O.P. Sharma, M.S. Sirsa and Jagdish Pradhan, also had representatives from e-rickshaw, Gramin Sewa, Phat Phat Sewa and Taxi unions.

"We demanded strong action against the Delhi government which has collected GPS charges from such vehicles, notwithstanding the fact that the Central government had exempted them from payment of these charges in 2016 under the Nirbhaya Scheme," Mr. Gupta said, adding that the Delhi government reimburse autorickshaw drivers in lieu of these "illegally collected charges" allegedly amounting to several crore of rupees.

According to Mr. Gupta, the delegation further informed the L-G that the Delhi government had committed "serious violation of the Central government rules" as notified by the Ministry of Road Transport and Highways by collecting GPS charges from the affected autorickshaw drivers all these years.

The Delhi government, the BJP delegation submitted further, "wilfully and deliberately" did not give sufficient time to all public owners to respond to public notice regarding amendment in Delhi Motor Vehicles Rules, 1993.

The Delhi government, the delegation said, owed an explanation to people on why it was "collecting double the charges" all these years.

Water meant for Marathwada not going to Gujarat: Fadnavis

Nar-Par-Tapi river linking project ensuring 52 tmcft for region gets Cabinet nod

PUNE

Stating that no water from the Konkan region intended for Marathwada was going to Gujarat, Chief Minister Devendra Fadnavis on Thursday said his government is committed to giving the arid region 52 thousand million cubic feet (TMCft) of water through the Nar-Par-Tapi river linking project.

"We are not giving even a single drop of water to Gujarat... our government is determined to save the water that drains from the Konkan region into the sea and bring it to Marathwada. Five rivers are to be linked for this project for which our Cabinet has already given its approval," he told reporters during the course of the BJP's Mahajana-desh Yatra in Jalna district.

The State Cabinet in July had given its nod to complete the Nar-Par-Tapi and the Damanganga-Pinjra river linking projects to mitigate the water woes of Marathwada and areas of Mumbai city. The projects have been hanging fire for years owing to technical disputes over water sharing with Gujarat.

scheme, tunnels and canals, will ensure 52 tmcft water for Marathwada and parts of north Maharashtra. Mr. Fadnavis said the injustice being suffered by Marathwada is that it has never received its rightful share of 102 tmcft despite dams and water projects in place as the water flows away in different directions and remains unutilised.

"To remedy this deficit, our government has made plans [in the form of the Marathwada water grid project] to ensure that the region gets its rightful due [of 102 tmcft] in addition to extra water that will be brought through river linking projects," the CM said.

Mr. Fadnavis said the State has taken Israel's assistance to help solve the region's water crisis. "We have received substantial inputs from them and I'm confident there will not be any water scarcity in any Marathwada village after the completion of the water grid project."

On the Aurangabad Divisional Commissioner's decision to recommend the State to dissuade farmers in Marathwada from planting sugar cane, Mr. Fadnavis said, "From what I gather, the recommendations to dissuade farmers from cultivating sugar cane are on the grounds that the crop guzzles water. All studies since 2007 have urged to reduce sugar cane cultivation in this region. But we have to give farmers an alternative."

BJP has 'Gujarat's washing powder' to clean opposition leaders, says Danve

Munde calls NCP's yatra the 'funeral procession' of tyrant, anti-farmer State govt.

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA
MUMBAI

In a veiled reference to Prime Minister Narendra Modi and BJP chief Amit Shah, Union Minister Rao-sahab Danve has said they have "Gujarat's washing powder" which first cleans Congress and NCP leaders before they are inducted into the BJP.

He dubbed as "funeral procession" the NCP's Shiv-swarajya Yatra, the Sharad Pawar-led party's mass contact programme to counter Chief Minister Devendra Fadnavis's Mahajana-desh Yatra ahead of the Assembly polls.

"We have Gujarat's washing powder which first cleans leaders of the Congress and NCP and then the BJP inducts them," Mr. Danve said at a rally on Wednesday evening in Jalna district where Mr. Fadnavis was also present.

Hitting out at the NCP's pre-poll yatra, Mr. Danve said, "(On one hand) there is Mr. Fadnavis's Mahajana-desh Yatra where people are flocking in large numbers. On the other hand, the NCP's rally is, in fact, a funeral procession."

"People generally make a point and attend a funeral procession but in case of the NCP's rally, several senior leaders are skipping it. The NCP's own people are turning their back on the party's rally," said the Union Minister of State for Consumer Affairs, Food and Public Distribution.

take. People are giving huge response to the Shiv-swarajya Yatra to pay homage to the authoritarian government. @raosahebDanve," he tweeted in Marathi.

Mr. Munde also put out a video clip on his Twitter handle to allege that the rally organised as part of Mahajana-desh Yatra received poor response in Mr. Danve's home turf, Jalna, even as the BJP's working president, J.P. Nadda, spoke.

Sarcastic remarks

Meanwhile, NCP leader Dhananjay Munde hit back at Mr. Danve. In remarks laced with sarcasm, Mr. Munde said the Union Minister was "right", and that the NCP's yatra was indeed the "funeral procession" of the "tyrant, insensitive and anti-farmer" BJP-led Maharashtra government.

NCP MLA meets Uddhav amid rumours

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA
MUMBAI

Amid speculations that he may quit the NCP, party MLA Avadhut Tatkare on Thursday met Shiv Sena president Uddhav Thackeray and said he wants to stay in mainstream politics.

Rumours have been doing the rounds that the MLA from Shrivardhan in Raigad district and his uncle and NCP MP Sunil Tatkare may join the Sena. Sunil Tatkare, the Lok Sabha member from Raigad, earlier denied the rumours.

However, his nephew, who met Mr. Thackeray at the latter's residence in Bandra, said he cannot confirm anything, but asserted he wants to stay in mainstream politics. "I met Mr. Thackeray to remain in mainstream politics. I will announce my official decision in the next two days," Avadhut Tatkare told reporters.

Asked if he would part ways with his uncle, he said, "I will take a decision after consultation with my party workers and close aides. I need some time to make a statement on it. I cannot confirm anything but I want to stay in mainstream politics and as part of it, I met Mr. Thackeray."

Several senior leaders from the NCP and Congress have recently joined the BJP and Sena in the State, where the Assembly polls are due in September-October.

Six-time legislator Dilip Sopal earlier this week resigned from the Sharad Pawar-led party and joined the Sena on Wednesday.

Suspension on Congress leader lifted

ALOK DESHPANDE
MUMBAI

The All India Congress Committee on Thursday revoked the suspension of former State minister and Congress leader from Nagpur, Satish Chaturvedi.

Mr. Chaturvedi was suspended two years ago by the then State Congress president, Ashok Chavan, over anti-party activities in Nagpur. He is the five-term MLA and was also the guardian minister of Nagpur.

Meanwhile, the screening committee of the Congress for the Assembly polls held a meeting in Delhi along with senior leaders. According to a leader who was present at the meeting, the party has decided to speed up the process to finalise candidates.

"A mega meeting of State Congress leaders, Central leaders, and members of the screening committee will be held on September 3 and 4 in Mumbai," the leader said.

MSRTC asks KSRTC to increase fares

AJEET MAHALE
MUMBAI

The Maharashtra State Road Transport Corporation (MSRTC) has asked its Karnataka counterpart to raise fares of its interstate Airavat buses that run from Bangalore to Mumbai and Pune.

"There is an agreement between the two States that the same fare will be applicable on routes of State transport buses. The fare will be decided by the State within its jurisdiction. We have asked it to comply with the agreement and revise the fares of a few of its services," Ranjeet Singh Deol, vice-chairman and managing director of MSRTC, said.

At present, the Karnataka State Road Transport Corporation (KSRTC) charges ₹1,260 on its Mumbai-Bangalore route for its Airavat service, which has premium air-conditioned Volvo buses. On the same route, the MSRTC charges ₹1,874 for its Shivshahi service.

In a letter sent to the KSRTC, the MSRTC said the rate charged by them for its premium Airavat service is far lower than what the MSRTC charges for its mid-scale service Shivshahi and is "a breach of the reciprocal agreement". It also cited a disparity of fare on the Borivali-Pune service of both State transport operators. The KSRTC charges ₹364 per seat on its Airavat service, while the MSRTC, which runs a Shivneri on the same route, charges ₹514.

According to the agreement between the two States, the fare charged by the corporations in the reciprocating States shall not be less than those charged by the operators of that State for similar services.

No heavy vehicles on Mumbai-Goa highway during Ganapati festival

AJEET MAHALE
MUMBAI

No heavy vehicles carrying goods or freight will be allowed on the Mumbai-Goa highway during the period of Ganapati festival to ease the congestion as a large number of people travel to their home towns.

The State government announced on Thursday that trucks or large trailers carrying bulky goods will not be permitted on the road. Only essential goods such as milk, petrol, fruits and vegetables, and liquid oxygen for medical use will be allowed.

The ban on heavy vehicles will be in force in three phases spanning 10-day-long festivities.

The first phase will start at 8 p.m. on Friday and go on till noon on September 2, which is the first day of the festival.

On the other days - September 3 to September 6 and September 9 to September 11 - heavy vehicles will not be allowed from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m.

"Given the number of people who go to their home towns during the festival, we have taken this decision to make their journey easy and safe. We will also run more State transport buses on the route to clear the extra rush," State Transport Minister Diwakar Raote said.

KPCC accepts Tharoor's stand

Congress MP had earned wrath of party colleagues for alleged 'Modi praise'

THIRUVANANTHAPURAM

Congress leader Shashi Tharoor, at the centre of a controversy for stating that Prime Minister Narendra Modi should be praised for doing the "right things," on Thursday said he was "relieved" that the party accepted his explanation.

Kerala Pradesh Congress Committee president Mulla-pally Ramachandran is also learnt to have instructed party leaders to avoid airing their views in public over the controversy.

"Yes, that controversy is over. There is no need for any more discussion [on this]," said Leader of the Opposition in Kerala Assembly Ramesh Chennithala.

Mr. Tharoor said he was "grateful" for those who supported him and he would not comment further on this episode.

"I am relieved that KPCC have accepted my reply & this unfortunate & unnecessary episode is over. I am grateful to all those who have stood by me but will be making no further comment on this matter," he tweeted.

Mr. Tharoor had remarked on the performance of the Modi government af-

MP thanks IUML

The three-time MP from Thiruvananthapuram thanked IUML leader and former Minister M.K. Muneer and Muslim Youth League president Sayyid Munavvar Ali Shihab Thangal for their support.

Mr. Muneer said Mr. Tharoor was not a Modi loyalist and could not be pushed towards the "fascist" camp. In a tweet, he said Mr. Tharoor had always taken a strong stand inside and outside Parliament against Mr. Modi and his stand had always been "loud and clear. No conspiracies can down him."

The former Union Minister had earned the wrath of some of his party colleagues for his alleged "Modi praise" following which the KPCC had sought an explanation from him.

Mr. Ramachandran said the Modi government was a failure in all fields. While the country had been going through a crisis, justifying the Prime Minister was unfortunate, he said, citing the NSSO data on highest unemployment in 45 years.

On Wednesday, Mr. Tharoor, in his explanation, said he never justified Mr. Modi and, in fact, was a "strong critic" of the BJP government. He said he wanted the KPCC to examine his parliamentary debates and point out one other leader from the State who had made at least 10% of his efforts to study, research and oppose the Modi government on every Bill introduced.

Siddalinga Swami releasing the special book on the premises of the Siddaganga Math in Tumakuru, Karnataka, on Thursday. ■ SPECIAL ARRANGEMENT

Book on Siddaganga Math released

Volume chronicles history and rich achievements of the Math

STAFF REPORTER
TUMAKURU

Seer and president of Siddaganga Math Shri Siddalinga Swami released the first copy of the book Sri Siddaganga Math: Upholding Basaveshwara's Ideals at the 'gadduge' of late Shivakumara Swami on the Math premises in Tumakuru on Thursday.

After releasing the book, which is part of the series on important shrines and religions from The Hindu, Siddalinga Swami said, "It is a big honour for us that The Hindu, one of the leading newspapers of India, has brought out a book as part of its series on temples and religious institutions."

He praised senior journalist and editor of the volume T.V. Sivanandan for his articles.

The Swamiji said, "I am happy that The Hindu is bringing out a series on temples and religious institutions, which help to impart spiritual knowledge to the present generation and the future generations."

Director of Siddaganga Institute of Technology M.N. Channabasappa recalled his association with late Shivakumara Swami when he was a student at the Math.

Senior General Manager, Circulation department, The Hindu, Meher Yerramilli said, "We are fortunate to bring the book on Siddaganga math, which is providing dasoha (free food) to thousands of students and devotees... We wanted to release this book when Shivakumara Swami was alive as he had given permission to bring this book."

Rare pictures

The book includes rare pictures of Shivakumara Swami, his predecessors, the present Seer Siddalinga Swami and the Math.

The book also throws light on the Math's Sanskrit 'pathashala', which was established in 1941 and is open to all sections of society.

Apart from giving free food and shelter to the students, the Math also provides free education to several students irrespective of their castes and religion.

CEO of Siddaganga Institute of Technology Shivakumaraiah, former Minister Sogadu Shivanna and BJP leader M.B. Nandish were present at the function.

BLoC Boardroom Challenge kicks off

The third edition of the 'BusinessLine on Campus' Boardroom Challenge for B-schoolers is under way. Presented by Aditya Birla Capital and powered by Fredricque Constant Geneve, the Boardroom Challenge has three levels of competition.

B-school students need to register on the website boardroomchallenge.com and take the preliminary online test as a team. The online test, which is now live, assesses students' risk-taking abilities, critical and analytical thinking, and decision-making skills. The six top teams that qualify in each centre will take part in the semi-finals which will be held between September 11 and September 26 across eight cities: Hyderabad, Delhi, Kolkata, Pune, Mumbai, Kochi, Chennai and Bengaluru. The grand finale will be held in Chennai on October 14.

At the semi-finals, teams present to a jury of experts their solutions to a business case, which will be given to them a week in advance. In the finals, eight teams will battle it out for the BusinessLine CXO of the Year title.

In the 2018 edition, over 1,850 teams registered and seven teams took part in the finals in Chennai. The team from ISB Mohali campus won the CXO of the Year title while students of the Department of Management Studies, IIT-Madras, were runners-up. ISB Hyderabad campus were the second runners-up. The semi-finals will be held in B-school campuses across the country. Associate sponsors for the event are RINL-Vizag Steel and OneCrest, Chennai.

'Train 18 no less than Chandrayaan'

Architect of Vande Bharat Express seeks a working environment 'free from fear'

CHENNAI

The architect of Train 18 and Southern Railway's Principal Chief Mechanical Engineer (PCME) Shubhramshu has called for a working environment that is "free from fear, suspicion and inter-departmental conflicts" to deliver Vande Bharat Express trains to the nation as desired by Prime Minister Narendra Modi.

In a letter to Chairman of the Railway Board V.K. Yadav, the officer said while Mr. Modi in his Independence Day address urged the Indian Railways to roll out more Vande Bharat Express trains for the people, the third rake itself of the iconic train was nowhere in sight.

Mr. Shubhramshu's letter comes at a time when the making of Vande Bharat Express has come to a grinding halt at the Integral Coach Factory (ICF) in Chennai due to a variety of reasons, including allegations of one firm being favoured in the award of tenders.

Mr. Shubhramshu had led the team of engineers that manufactured the first Train 18 in a record time of 18 months at a cost of ₹97 crore.

Rejects allegations

"I am duty-bound to bring facts to your notice as the ex-PCME of ICF, who actually manufactured the first rake as envisioned by Sudhanshu Mani, the then General Manager of ICF...there seems to be a suggestion that a particular Indian firm was unduly favoured in the tenders. This is far from the truth. The tender which the Indian firm got for the electricals for the first two rakes was awarded on the lowest tender basis," he said.

Train 18 was manufactured in a record time of 18 months. ■ SANDEEP SAXENA

Reiterating that no compromise was made on safety or quality, Mr. Shubhramshu said the Vande Bharat Express had been running uninterrupted for eight months, a testimony to the robustness of specifications, safety and reliability aspects of the train.

"To make things worse, a Vigilance enquiry has been launched in this indisputably successful project that in no way ranks even a shade lower than the Chandrayaan or Brahmos. I am sure ISRO or DRDO have not launched vigilance enquiries in their proud achievements...we all know that it is not the outcome of the enquiry that kills the spirit of innovation, risk-taking and out-of-box thinking. It is the process of enquiry that does it in ample measure," the letter said.

Relief for Kumaraswamy in mining case

STAFF REPORTER
BENGALURU

Former Karnataka Chief Minister H.D. Kumaraswamy got a relief as the Lokayukta Special Investigation Team (SIT) probing illegal mining cases has not named him as an accused in the Jantakal mining case.

The recently filed SIT chargesheet names senior IAS officer Gangaram Baderiya and mining baron Vinod Goel as accused in the case. The SIT has sought the State government's permission to prosecute the senior bureaucrat.

The approval for such a request is still pending. The case dates back to 2007 when Mr. Baderiya was the Director of Mines.

THIRUVANANTHAPURAM

Kerala Chief Minister Pinarayi Vijayan has said the State government had no regrets over its handling of the Sabarimala issue or its "pro-women stance".

Addressing the media here on Thursday, Mr. Vijayan said the government had no choice but to uphold the Supreme Court order that opened the temple to women of all age groups. If the Supreme Court rescinded the law, the State would comply with the decision. It had no voice in the matter, he said.

'BJP betrayal'

In contrast, the Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP), which sought to capitalise on the emotive issue, had betrayed its supporters, he said. After the BJP came to power at the Centre, the party had dismissed the possibility of a new law to circumvent the Supreme Court decision on the grounds that it would be unconstitutional.

The Left Democratic Front government had no regrets for having supported women who turned out in large numbers to form a human wall in support of gender equality and Renaissance values, Mr. Vijayan added.

The government would continue to support social forces that stood to protect the social dividends and secular values of the 19th century Renaissance Movement, he said.

Mr. Vijayan said spiritual leaders headed the Renaissance Movement in Kerala and not atheists.

Karnataka has cleared T.N. quota of water: Yediyurappa

'Surplus waters discharged from all four Cauvery basin reservoirs'

MANDYA

Karnataka Chief Minister B.S. Yediyurappa on Thursday said the State had cleared the quota of water to be shared with Tamil Nadu in the last one month by discharging the Cauvery and Kabini waters.

He was speaking after offering 'bagina' to the Cauvery at the Krishnaraja Sagar (KRS), near Srirangapatna, which has attained the full-reservoir level.

The storage in all the four Cauvery basin reservoirs in Karnataka was "very poor". Nevertheless, all the four reservoirs attained their maximum storage capacity owing to the blessings of the rain god, he said. The surplus waters were discharged and hence the neighbouring State received its quota in the recent days, he added.

The Chief Minister said the government was committed to developing the KRS on a par with international standards to improve the tourism potential of the region.

He said the government had initiated measures to revive the State-owned Mysore Sugar Company Ltd. (Mysugar) and the cooperative sugar factory Pandavapura Sahakari Sakkare Karkhane in Mandya district.

MPs Sumalatha and Prapat Simha and Revenue Minister R. Ashok were among those present.

Mr. Yediyurappa lost his cool when some journalists repeatedly asked him about the possibilities of mid-term elections to the Assembly. "Go ask Siddaramaiah [the former Chief Minister] if he has spoken about the possibilities of mid-term elections," he said.

As losses touch ₹41 crore, Golden Chariot chugs to a halt

Services of south India's only luxury train suspended

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT
BENGALURU

The Karnataka government has temporarily suspended operation of south India's only luxury train, the Golden Chariot, as losses in running the special train rose to ₹41 crore.

Tourism and Kannada and Culture Minister C.T. Ravi on Thursday held a review meeting with officials of both departments and said the Golden Chariot - which operated between various tourist spots in the State - would not run for now since it had incurred financial loss. In the past, the Golden Chariot used to run only during October to March.

and Resorts and Karnataka State Tourism Development Corporation (KSTDC) continue to make profits, the Minister said.

A task force had been set up under Infosys Foundation chairperson Sudha Murty and based on its report, tourist spots would be developed, Mr. Ravi said. The State had identified 319 tourist spots and 40 major tourist circuits.

Oral cancer stalks the poor in rural Kuppam

High rates reported among agricultural labourers addicted to chewing tobacco and gutkha

K. UMASHANKER
CHITTOOR

The largely rural district of Kuppam on the junction of three major southern States - Andhra Pradesh, Karnataka and Tamil Nadu - has recorded an alarming increase in cases of oral cancer over the last decade. The intensity of the disease has gone up in recent months. The frequency of oral cancers is higher among women in the Kuppam belt.

The dependence of a large proportion of the population on manual labour for livelihood is seen as a major factor contributing to the rising rates of oral cancer. The region of Kuppam, Santhipuram, Gudupalle and Ramakuppam mandals is home to a large number of agriculture labourers. In addition, a huge number of youth from the district depend on odd jobs in Bengaluru and Chennai - both major cities within a day's commute.

Given the hard manual labour, this vast group is forced to undertake, addition to tobacco products, particularly the chewing variety is common.

Families afflicted

Three members of a six-member family - a couple and their son - at Mallanur were all detected with oral cancer in a span of just three years. The head of the family, Senthil, said he had acquired the habit of chewing tobacco from his father.

"Since 2012, I got addicted to gutkha, consuming close to 10 packets a day. I was diagnosed with oral cancer in a Bengaluru hospital in 2017. Later, I recovered. Unfortunately, I continued the habit. Now, I am hit by the malignant disease on the other cheek," he said.

Sugunamma, a worker at the flower gardens in Kuppam, said surgery for cancer caused by chewing tobacco had left her disfigured. "I quit the habit. But the cancer has done its damage, and I am yet to recover fully. My daughter inherited this vile habit from me. But after counselling, she has given it up for good," she said.

The incidence of oral cancer is also found to be high among the youth from Kuppam. Working away from home in hard conditions, many take to chewing tobacco and smoking.

Medical camps

Alarmed by the high rates of cancers, the district medical authorities have been holding medical and awareness camps in recent months.

District Medical and Health Officer B. Ramagiddaiah told The Hindu that the number of victims in the rural pockets was very disquieting. In addition to oral cancer, cases of lung, throat and intestinal cancers were also detected.

"In recent months, we had arranged surgeries for about a dozen cases from Kuppam area," the DMHO said.

₹47,436 crore released for afforestation

The funds have been collected as compensation from industry for razing forest land for business

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT NEW DELHI
The Union Environment Ministry on Thursday transferred ₹47,436 crore to 27 States for afforestation. These are long-pending dues part of the Compensatory Afforestation Fund (CAF), a ₹54,000 crore tranche that has been collected for nearly a decade as environmental compensation from industry, which has razed forest land for its business plans.

Economic value
The amount to be paid by industry depends on the economic value of the goods and services that the razed forest would have provided. These include timber, bamboo, firewood, carbon sequestration, soil conservation, water recharge, and seed dispersal. Industrialists pay this money and this is eventually transferred to the States concerned to carry out afforestation.

Only a fraction of this corpus had actually been disbursed to States, due to the lack of a legal framework and instances of States using it for non-forestry purposes.

Independent authority
The CAF Act 2016, which came into being more than a decade since it was devised, established an independent authority – the Compensatory Afforestation Fund Management and Planning Authority – to execute the fund.

However, it was not until last August that the rules governing the management of the fund were finalised. Environment Minister Prakash Javadekar, while presenting cheques to senior officials in State forest administration, said the Centre would use geographic tagging technology to keep a tab on whether States were using their allotted funds appropriately.

in the forest...it cannot be used for payment of salary, travelling allowances, making buildings and buying of office equipment for forest officers. We will use electronic repositories, geographical tagging for tracking expenses," he added.

Odisha top recipient
Odisha, the top recipient of funds, got nearly ₹6,000 crore followed by Chhattisgarh and Madhya Pradesh with ₹5,791 crore and ₹5,196 crore respectively.

Kerala got the least with ₹81.59 crore.

Activists and environmentalists have raised concerns that the funds are used by the State to ride roughshod over tribal rights and unscientific afforestation methods were often implemented to make good razed forests.

GI tag for T.N.'s Dindigul lock, Kandangi saree

Their popularity has been on decline

SANGEETHA KANDAVEL A. SHRIKUMAR CHENNAI/MADURAI

Two iconic, but dying products from Tamil Nadu – the Dindigul lock and the Kandangi saree – were given the Geographical Indication tag by the Geographical Indications Registry in Chennai on Thursday. While the application for the lock was made by the Dindigul Lock, Hardware and Steel Furniture Workers Industrial Co-operative Society Limited, Deputy Registrar of Geographical Indications, said on Thursday. He added that both these products were losing their sheen in the market, and the GI tag would help them get some recognition.

While the market is flooded with sarees that are woven in other parts of the State and look like the Kandangi saree, the original saree is made manually made using a winding machine, loom, shuttle and bobbin. The famous Dindigul locks are known throughout the world for their superior quality and durability, but the industry has been slowly dying due to competition from Aligarh and Rajapalayam, and lack of proper marketing.

Possession of books not crime, accepts HC

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT MUMBAI

The Bombay High Court on Thursday accepted the submission made by the advocate appearing for activist Vernon Gonsalves, accused in the Elgar Parishad-Bhima Koregaon case, "that mere possession of books does not implicate a person".

A day after Justice S.V. Kotwal told senior advocate Mihir Desai to explain why Rajya Daman Virodhi released by the Kabir Kala Manch, and War and Peace in Jangalmahal: People, State and Maoists was found at his residence, Mr. Desai said on Thursday, "None of the books are banned under Section 95 [power to declare certain publications forfeited and to issue search warrants for the same] of the Code of Criminal Procedure. Most of them are available on [online retailer] Amazon."

'No ban'
He went on to list the 61-year-old Mr. Gonsalves' credentials as a writer and columnist who has written about human rights, left wing rights and many other topics where he has been critical of the government.

On behalf of his client, Mr. Desai said, "Merely some books or literature found on me does not implicate me because there is no link with any activities."

He added, "Mere possession of books does not make him part of a banned organisation."

ED records Faisal Patel's statement

The Enforcement Directorate on Thursday recorded Congress leader Ahmed Patel's son Faisal Patel's statement in the Sterling Biotech Limited case.

The agency examined Mr. Faisal Patel twice last week under the Prevention of Money Laundering Act. The probe is based on two FIRs registered by the Central Bureau of Investigation against Sterling Biotech and others in October 2017, one pertaining to the alleged routing of funds belonging to unknown officials of the Income Tax Department and the other to the default of ₹8,100 crore in bank loan.

Kharif farm profits to grow despite fall in production

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT NEW DELHI

Farmers' profits from field crops are likely to grow 11% to 13% during this kharif or summer crop season, according to a projection by CRISIL Research. Although food grain production is likely to fall, hit by either erratic rainfall or pests, higher demand and mandi prices will help farmers.

However, the projected profit growth rate is still lower than last year's rate of 16%, CRISIL economists said. Kharif output is also likely to decline 3% to 5% this year, with sowing acreage and yields both hit by the uneven distribution of rainfall. "The overall quantum of rainfall is normal, but there was a 36% deficiency in June, which affected paddy acreage mostly in eastern India, and then excess rainfall affecting some crops in August," said CRISIL chief economist Dharmakirti Joshi, adding that abundant rains in August have improved the chances of a healthy rabi season.

Law and opinion

The apex court should decide on Kashmir without being swayed by popular mood

The Supreme Court's decision to form a five-member Constitution Bench to examine the validity of the abrogation of the special status given to Jammu and Kashmir puts an end to apprehensions that its response to the Centre's legal measures since August 5 will only be one of quiet acquiescence. The court appeared reluctant to intervene in the immediate aftermath of the decisions when the restrictions imposed on political activity, communications and movement of the people were challenged. Instead, it chose to give enough time to the Centre to stabilise the situation. It seemed to afford wide latitude to the executive to decide the extent to which fundamental rights, including the freedom of the media, would be restricted in the name of achieving greater integration of Jammu and Kashmir with India and preparing for its development. In some habeas corpus matters, the court is yet to examine the legality of the detention of the persons concerned. True relief in such cases lies in ascertaining the whereabouts of a detenu and determining the lawfulness of the detention, but in a couple of matters, the court has only "allowed" the petitioners to travel to Kashmir and meet the detenues. Lawyers and activists have begun drawing parallels with the court's infamous approbation of the suspension of the writ of habeas corpus during the Emergency in the ADM Jabalpur case.

The petitions before the court cite many grounds for challenging the President's August 5 Order, by which the Order of 1954, which set out the constitutional provisions applicable to J&K, was superseded. A substantial question is on the validity of the substitution of the concurrence of the Governor for that of the government while under President's Rule; in effect, the Centre is taking its own consent to alter the status of the State. The replacement of the term 'Constituent Assembly' (of J&K) found in Article 370 with the term 'Legislative Assembly' is also under challenge. Another question that looms large is whether a federal unit can be downgraded from the status of a State to that of a Union Territory, a move for which there is no precedent. The constitutional morality of the rest of the country deciding the destiny of a State without the consent or participation of its citizens is also a serious issue the court cannot ignore. It does appear that there is widespread popular support for the government's decision to declare Article 370 inoperative and to divide the State into two Union Territories. Yet, the court is duty-bound to examine the legality of the measures taken by the President and Parliament on August 5 and 6. The challenge before the court is to give a reasoned verdict on these questions of constitutional importance, with far-reaching implications for democracy and federalism, without being swayed by the popular mood in J&K or the rest of India.

Tinkering for optics

The latest FDI rule changes may not be enough to draw a rush of investments

On the face of it, the Centre's announcement on Wednesday appears to be one more push to make India a more attractive destination to overseas investors, especially those keen on entering the market for the long haul. From extending the available 100% FDI under the automatic route in the coal mining sector (till now permitted only for captive consumption) to include those companies seeking to commercially sell the commodity, to distinctly including contract manufacturing under the automatic 100% route and easing local sourcing norms for overseas investors in the Single Brand Retail Trading (SBRT) business, the changes in investment guidelines approved by the Cabinet have been touted as "FDI policy reform". The government, clearly concerned by the economic slowdown and persistently weak investment activity, has sought to provide a policy fillip to attract more foreign capital into sectors that it sees as having a multiplier effect particularly in terms of job creation. One must also consider the pressing contexts. Earlier this month, the RBI pointed out that net FDI flows had moderated to $6.8 billion over the first two months of the current fiscal year, from $7.9 billion in April-May 2018. And with Prime Minister Narendra Modi having set a goal of ensuring India becomes a $5 trillion economy within the next five years, the overall consumptive capacity needs to be raised manifold to undergird demand growth. To that end, the act of widening reforms in coal mining, manufacturing and retail is completely understandable.

A closer examination, however, raises several concerns about the ultimate attractiveness of these changes. For instance, the tweaks to investment norms on coal appear at first flush to be a win-win for both the economy at large and the coal industry, the environmental costs of focusing on one of the most polluting fossil fuels notwithstanding. This is predicated on the prospect of seeing an influx of both capital and modern technology into mining and processing, as well as raising domestic supply of the key raw material for power, steel and cement production thereby cutting costly and burgeoning imports. But for foreign mining companies to make a beeline to pitheads, several related regulatory and market challenges will have to be addressed post-haste. Large miners will need economies of scale and so require access to large contiguous fields with minimal bureaucratic constraints on operations. While domestic thermal power plants have had to rely on increased imports in recent times, many of the electricity producers themselves are in financial stress. How much additional investments may actually accrue is not clear.

On dilution, bifurcation and 'special status'

J&K's perceived loss and New Delhi's real gains over the Centre's Article 370 decision need to be objectively assessed

FAIZAN MUSTAFA

The jubilation in parts of the country following the supposed abrogation of Article 370 was in contrast to the gloom in the Kashmir Valley. It was ignored by both sides that New Delhi did not make any substantial gain in terms of powers; neither did Srinagar suffer any major loss. Later, in what could be construed as a setback to the Centre, the Supreme Court referred all the petitions on Article 370 to a Constitution Bench, which will hear the matter in the first week of October.

Amidst these developments, some points require deeper scrutiny. First, the apex court could possibly strike down as 'unconstitutional' the Centre's move to amend Article 370 by invoking the very same article. Second, the bifurcation of a State which is under President's rule into two Union Territories is possibly against federalism. And third, Article 370, as it stood on August 4, was a special power available not to Kashmir, but to the Centre.

First, Article 370 has not been abrogated. It still very much remains part of the Constitution. Instead, the government, in an innovative and constitutionally suspect manner, invoked the Article to amend Article 367. On August 5, the President inserted a new clause to say that the 'Constituent Assembly' of Jammu and Kashmir (J&K) shall mean 'Legislative Assembly' of the State, and 'State government' shall mean 'Governor acting on the advice of Council of Ministers'. With this interpretation, Article 370 presented an entirely different picture. Since the erstwhile State was already under President's rule, the Parliament, by exercising 'powers' of the Legislative Assembly, gave its concurrence to the aggressive surgery of Article 370 that has killed the spirit as well as the text of the provision.

Bona-fide exercise of power? True, during President's rule, Parliament can certainly exercise 'powers' of the State Assembly; but whether the aforesaid 'concurrency' can be termed as a legitimate and bona-fide exercise of power is a moot question for various reasons.

One, a Legislative Assembly that was in itself a creation of the Constituent Assembly cannot take the place of the latter. Two, the August 5 order defined the 'State government' to mean 'Governor acting on the advice of Council of Ministers'. And since there was no Council of Ministers, the validity of the Governor's concurrence mentioned in the presidential order was questionable.

Finally, Article 370(d), which on August 5 was used for the purpose of diluting the Article itself, was meant to be deployed to apply 'other provisions of Constitution' to Jammu and Kashmir, not to modify or repeal Article 370 itself. The expression 'other provisions' here means provisions other than 'Article 1', 'Article 238' (now repealed) and 'Article 370'.

Four points are to be kept in mind here. First, one constitutional provision cannot be used to nullify another. Second, an interpretation clause is to be used only when there is ambiguity in the Constitution. Here, the 'Constituent Assembly' Article 370 talked about was clearly identifiable – it first met on October 31, 1951 and was dissolved on January 26, 1957, and hence there was no ambiguity. Third, even when there are two contradictory provisions, the 'doctrine of harmonious construction' is to be invoked so that both the provisions are given effect to. Fourth, like Parliament, President too cannot alter the federal character of the Constitution, which has been held to be part of its basic structure. The Constitution prohibits colourable exercise of power – what you cannot do directly, you cannot do even indirectly.

"The constitutional validity of J&K's bifurcation into two Union Territories is doubtful." Residents in Srinagar earlier this month. •REUTERS

Blow to federalism

Next, the constitutional validity of Jammu and Kashmir's bifurcation into two Union Territories is also doubtful. Article 3, which deals with Parliament's powers to alter boundaries of a State or bifurcate it, required the President to obtain the 'concurrence' of the J&K State Assembly before Parliament took up such a Bill. It has now come to light that while imposing President's rule in J&K on December 19, 2018, the proviso on the reference to Assembly was suspended. This not only shows that the bifurcation was planned by the Centre in 2018 itself but also gives a clear indication of its mala-fide intention of doing something indirectly.

A mala-fide presidential action under Article 356 can be struck down. If the apex court upholds the Centre's suspension of Article 3, it will be the end of Indian federalism as States will become a plaything in the Centre's hands. It needs to be recalled here that prior to the Reorganisation Act of 1956, States were given the opportunity to express their views. Andhra Pradesh Assembly too was given this opportunity in 2014 prior to the creation of Telangana. Since the J&K Assembly stood dissolved and there had been no election announced, it was denied its right to express its view.

When a State is under President's rule, Parliament can act as nothing more than a 'night watchman'. It certainly cannot pass a resolution to bifurcate the State.

No major departure

Let us now objectively assess New Delhi's gains in sounding the death knell for Article 370. Since almost the entire Constitution of India had been already applicable to J&K, constitutionally speaking, heavens have not fallen for Srinagar. Entry 76 of the Union List, which deals with audit, was extended to J&K in 1958. The Election Commission of India was given powers to conduct elections from 1959 by the First Amendment to the J&K Constitution. A total of 94 out of the 97 items in the Union List had already been made applicable to J&K when the Centre made its move and hence Parliament had all the powers.

Out of the 395 Articles in the Indian Constitution, 260 Articles had already been extended to J&K through successive Presidential Orders. As regards the rest of the Articles, J&K Constitution had identical provisions. Moreover, more than 250 Central laws had already been extended and most of J&K's State laws were identical to Central laws.

In reality, the 'special status' Article 370 conferred was not to J&K but to the Central government. The Centre could deny certain provisions while extending unilaterally some other amendments. For instance, following the 44th Amendment, unlike in the rest of the country, national emergency in J&K could still be imposed on the grounds of 'internal emergency'. Similarly, while for the rest of the country, freedom of speech could be curtailed only through 'reasonable restrictions', in J&K, it could be controlled through restrictions that "appropriate legislation considered reasonable".

Yes, we do live in a post-truth world but we need to objectively assess J&K's loss and New Delhi's real gains when it comes to the dilution of Article 370. Further, whether the apex court will allow India to become a 'unitary state' remains to be seen.

Govt. needs to be prudent in using RBI's transfer

M. GOVINDA RAO

With the acceptance of the Bimal Jalan committee's report by the Reserve Bank of India (RBI), the stand-off between the RBI and the Ministry of Finance seems to have ended for now. The report has also helped to clarify the volume of reserves required for risk provisioning to counter a financial stability crisis if it were to arise.

Though the RBI belongs entirely to the government, the integrity of its balance sheet is important to ensure financial stability and to combat market risks. The committee made its recommendations after taking into account the role of RBI in financial salience; cross-country practices; statutory requirements; and impact of its public policy mandate and operating environment. Based on these factors, it decided on the volume of reserves required to support the financial system in times of crisis and concluded that the provisioning has to be more stringent than in developed countries to ensure the perception of safety, particularly as India has low sovereign rating and the Indian rupee does not have reserve currency status.

The revised economic capital framework recommended by the committee makes a distinction in the economic capital of the RBI between 'revaluation reserves' and 'realised equity'. Revaluation reserves, it held, are a risk buffer against market risks and not available for transfer. The committee used the Expected Shortfall (ES) method to measure the market risk and adopted a more stringent confidence level of 99.5% as against the practice by other central banks at 99%.

Economic capital range

The revised framework would allow the economic capital to be in the range of 24.5% to 20% of the balance sheet. As regards realised equity, the committee recommended the required range to be between 6.5 to 5.5% of the balance sheet.

The RBI Board in its meeting on August 26 accepted these recommendations and decided to transfer ₹1,76,051 crore to the government. As the economic capital of the RBI, at 23.3% in June 2019, was within the prescribed range, it decided to transfer the entire surplus of ₹1,23,414 crore earned during 2018-19. As the RBI had already transferred ₹28,000 crore as interim dividend in February 2019, the remaining amount will be transferred in the current fiscal. The government will get an amount of ₹58,081 crore over the budgeted dividend of ₹90,000 crore for the current fiscal. The large surplus in 2018-2019 was mainly due to the revenues earned from open market operations, amounting to ₹3 lakh crore, to shore up liquidity and therefore, the coming years may not see such large dividends.

The additional fund transfer from the RBI provides much-needed relief and manoeuvrability to the beleaguered government. An analysis of the budget presented in July shows that the tax revenue projections are far too optimistic. In fact, the actual net tax revenue collection of the centre in 2018-2019 was ₹15.9 lakh crore and to achieve the budgeted target of ₹19.78 lakh crore in 2019-2020, the net tax revenue will have to increase by almost 25% and correspondingly, gross tax revenue will have to grow by 26.5%. The expected shortfall in tax revenue for the Central government, if the past trend is taken (after devolution to the States), is likely to be about ₹70,000 crore.

Achieving fiscal deficit target

With the economy slowing down and the Goods and Services Tax (GST) not kicking in the expected buoyancy, the shortfall may even be higher. The infusion of additional funds, thus, will help the government to substantially overcome this shortfall and achieve the fiscal deficit target without having to axe allocations to social sector and poverty alleviation.

However, while the Central government will overcome the shortfall in tax collections, the States will have to suffer the consequence of lower-than-budgeted revenue realisations. They have presented their budgets taking into account the tax devolution based on Central budget forecast and shortfall in collections will adversely impact their expenditure allocations to various sectors.

If, on the other hand, the tax revenue growth picks up, then the government can use the additional money to clear the dues of the Food Corporation of India and fertiliser companies to minimise spillover of deficits to the next year. The additional funds can also be used to spend on much-needed capital expenditure.

The decision of the RBI Board must be welcomed as it has not come a day sooner and should help the government in combating the economic slowdown and to conform to the fiscal targets. It is hoped that the government will be prudent in using these funds.

The judiciary hears

The Supreme Court has done the right thing in deciding to admit and hear a batch of petitions challenging the abrogation of special status to Jammu and Kashmir under Article 370 (Front page, "5-judge SC Bench to hear pleas on withdrawal of Article 370," Aug. 29). Thankfully, it has set in motion the process to decide on the constitutional validity of stripping the erstwhile State of whatever autonomy it had. However, in cautioning the apex court against passing any order or making any observation that can weigh with the UN against India, the Central government has shot itself in the foot. The ruling dispensation in New Delhi should know that invoking 'national interest' in a bid to gag or dictate to the country's top court to suit or serve its political interest can eventually prove to be self-defeating. It is only fair to say that whatever a democratic government does should stand the scrutiny of the independent judiciary. The judiciary cannot be expected to play second fiddle to the government. Meanwhile, it is very baffling and disconcerting that the Supreme Court has not taken a serious view of the continuing lockdown in the Valley and done little for the people to regain their liberties.

Disgraceful comment

By flippantly commenting in his maiden official media interaction since August 5 that the longer politicians stay in jail, the higher the political dividends for them, Jammu and Kashmir Governor Satya Pal Malik has brought disgrace to the office. The comment trivialises the prolonged detention of political leaders and betrays his disdain for the liberty of an individual guaranteed under the Constitution. Equally outrageous is his belief that mobile phones and Internet are essentially weapons of terrorists, and ordinary citizens have little use for them. If so, why not extend such restrictions to the rest of the country? The Governor also displayed his scant regard for decency by predicting that people will beat Congress leaders with shoes ("Front page, 50,000 govt. posts will be filled: Malik," Aug. 29).

Lifting the economy

This is with reference to the article "Hardly the brick and mortar of a revival" by Jayati Ghosh (Editorial page, Aug. 29). The author is right in saying that the transfer of Reserve Bank of India (RBI) surplus is only a stop-gap measure which will not address the key problems of lack of demand. The present precarious state of Indian economy is visible in the crises experienced by sectors like automobiles, real estate and consumer goods. Badly managed policy measures like demonetisation and improper implementation of GST had caused body blows to the informal economy, which is now having an effect on the formal sector.

RBI's income

During the course of a recent television panel discussion on the transfer of ₹1.76 lakh crore from the reserves of the RBI to Central government, an eminent panel member said the RBI's main income derived from the issue of currency notes. As an example, he stated that the cost of printing a 2,000-rupee currency note comes to about ₹3.50 and the difference between the face value and the cost of its printing is RBI's main income. This is utterly incorrect. While the cost of printing banknotes is taken as an item of expenditure in RBI's balance sheet, no income is recorded on account of issue of notes. The wrong notion of the panel member was not countered by other panellists or the anchor. The main income of RBI comes from interest earned on loans and advances to commercial banks, ways and means advances to State and Central governments, investment in Central government securities and foreign currency assets, etc.

What is the right way of regulating social media?

PARLEY

Besides tech solutions, policy discussions involving the public can help fight fake news

The Supreme Court recently stressed the need to find a balance between the right to online privacy and the right of the state to detect people who use the web to spread panic and commit crimes. Are current regulations and the nature of Internet platforms tuned to find this balance? In a conversation moderated by Srinivasan Ramani, Arun Mohan Sukumar and Raman Chima take stock of the issues involved and offer some suggestions. Excerpts:

Arun, in the last few years there has been an explosion in the use of messaging apps such as WhatsApp. Concomitantly, there has been an increase in fake news and rumour-mongering leading to lynchings. Are the steps taken by WhatsApp to combat this enough or should it do more?

Arun Mohan Sukumar: When you ask us what are the steps, we should also ask whether these are the steps that we should take in the first place. I think many would agree that some of these problems have nothing to do with the platforms themselves and cannot be resolved by technological solutions.

Fake news is not something that has been catalysed in the digital age alone; it has been a long-standing problem. We have had very little success in trying to persuade people not to believe certain stuff. And I'm not entirely sure whether the solution to this problem necessarily lies in technology.

WhatsApp, to its credit, tried to limit forwards to five people and the norm has been tested. It has been piloted in other parts of the world as well. WhatsApp is looking at India not just as a booming market but also as a place where it can pilot some of these solutions and test them out in other emerging markets as well.

If you take uncomfortable situations developing in another part of the world, Facebook and Twitter were fairly quick to acknowledge the disinformation operations that were backed by the Chinese government in Hong Kong. This came out in a simultaneous way, documenting instances where state-sponsored elements were perpetrating fake news and sophisticated disinformation campaigns against protesters in Hong Kong. That happened because, one, the extent of the commercial engagement of both these platforms in China is fairly limited. Two, there is an element of geopolitics in this which we can't ignore. The fact is that both of these are American platforms. The orchestrated disclosure, I believe, could have had the blessings of the American government. That is the extent to which these platforms are prepared to take cognisance of fake news. In other economies, it's quite selective.

While WhatsApp has been trying to resist this idea of message traceability, it is also trying to maintain the integrity of the platform. Many regulators in India believe that technological fixes are solutions even if they weaken end-to-end encryption. I'm not sure that is the right way to go.

Raman, while technology per se is not the problem, virality of texts makes fake news spread very fast. Would you agree with some of the solutions that have been propounded – for example, Professor V. Kamakoti's idea of tracing origin of WhatsApp messages?

Raman Chima: Firstly, on virality, communication virality has been there right from the invention of the Gutenberg printing press. Mass circulation has always resulted in tension between people in power with others.

When it comes to messaging services, when they were implemented in India and in other emerging economies, they were not just used for the purpose of messaging. They were, for many people, information discovery platforms. They do not often relate or refer to the World Wide Web. The kind of information consumed in messages are images and videos that may not be actually hosted on the web. The problem, therefore, is that messaging platforms haven't been able to do a good job in ensuring that people have access to good, accurate information. For example, if you sign up to a messaging service, say WhatsApp, are you informed in your local language about how you could report in your own language disinformation content and messages that are malicious or abusive? Sadly, the reality is that there is not even a splash screen in the local language to know what you can or cannot say, during the process of signing up.

Local law enforcement agencies have very limited avenues by which they can prevent the proliferation of malicious content on the Internet through social media platforms at a time of crisis. So, they resort to shutdowns in a ham-handed fashion.

Also, fact-checking websites, fake news busters and government sources don't get the support they need to distribute their content to local users in interior areas. Therefore, the messaging services companies could do more in fighting disinformation. I agree with Arun that they cannot be held liable and that they shouldn't implement technological solutions as a panacea. You mentioned suggestions by Professor Kamakoti of IIT Madras to the Madras High Court. First of all, there is the argument that the Madras High Court should not be going into an area which is a legislative issue. Even if that is set aside, his proposals have been critiqued by other computer scientists. Professor Manoj Prabhakaran of IIT Bombay, for example, has argued against such models of imparting traceability.

Both of you seem to agree that the solution doesn't lie in technology, and neither is there any need to add any extra layer of liability for social media platforms and websites. So, the Shreya Singhal judgment in 2015 was along these lines, right? Some provisions on intermediary liability on publishing were actually read down. But last year, the Ministry of Electronics and Information Technology notified new draft rules for intermediaries and called for public comments. What levels of liability would you set for social media platforms?

AMS: There has been a raft of litigious activity and, concurrently, fairly explosive growth in regulatory guidelines as well. These guidelines from the government have been trying to enhance the agency of the government over technology companies. For instance, there is a debate among government industries today about data localisation, something that will affect the working of most of these big technology companies. The fundamental tension at work is that most of the technology companies, which are into the bread-and-butter business of communication, are based abroad. The consumer base is clear with a WhatsApp or Facebook or Twitter. WhatsApp has effectively made encrypted communication a mass market phenomenon here, which is great for correspondence generally. But on the other hand, the government has very little agency to make these companies do what they want to in terms of adhering to certain intermediary guidelines. Of course, the reason why these guidelines were lapped because the government imposed a high degree of liability, and takedown requirements in many cases were selectively followed. The fact is that if you were to take a step back and look, the government has very limited agency over these companies at the moment. On the one hand, there is a great deal of adoption by a wide user base, which is only increasing as Internet connectivity grows in India. And WhatsApp did not even have an office in India till very lately!

And the same thing goes for Internet shutdowns. Now, nobody would say that Internet shutdowns are a desirable phenomenon. But if you speak to local law enforcement agencies and district magistrates, they tell you that they have very limited avenues by which they can prevent the proliferation of malicious content on the Internet through social media platforms at a time of crisis, whether that crisis is a natural calamity or whether it is man made. So, they have resorted to these in a ham-handed fashion. Of course, you can't justify these measures. But the fact is that at the local level or at the federal level, there seems to be very little agency that government officials have to do what they should do.

RC: On intermediary liability, it has already been identified by our judiciary that the issue of making platforms liable for the content posted by users impacts free speech. And the basic premise there is, you can put pressure on tech platforms to over censor or even perhaps harm the privacy of users by making them liable for all the content they have posted on platforms.

When Parliament legislated provisions, there were some ambiguities over what the executive branch could regulate via rules. Rules were criticised when they were released in 2012 and, ultimately, as you mentioned, they were read down in the Shreya Singhal judgment. The court basically said that if you are asking for content takedowns, that can be done only via a court order or through a legal process. The government's proposed amendments to the rules, for example, that web platforms should deploy self-censoring/auto-filtering of content by users could definitely fly against the face of the court's judgment.

More importantly, on some issues such as identifying the origin of messages through breaking encryption, the government seems to be using rule-making as a way to fix and patch these. Whereas it would be better off to have substantial legislative policy discussions held in a public manner over such knotty issues. Also, as Arun says, there is a lack of agency for the government to receive information from the platforms as there is no clear privacy law in place.

Government agencies lack sufficient agency and often use a ham-handed approach to enforce takedowns or shutdowns. In some cases, a total communication shutdown, as we see in Kashmir today, invoking 'national interest'. What kind of mechanisms would you suggest instead of this approach?

AMS: We did this capacity-building workshop a couple of years ago, with law enforcement agencies from across States. Some States clearly did better, because they had, for lack of a better reason, good cops. They were interested in pursuing this sort of "fitness" measures and not merely rely on takedowns. Telangana, for instance, has a cadre of officers who dedicate themselves to preventing the propagation of fake news through channels like WhatsApp. Some of these steps require serious investment and I am not sure if all States have the capacity.

So perhaps the Prime Minister's/Centre's sending a message down to folks at the district level may well produce some results. But the fact is that they resort to these ham-handed measures because they do not have any other tools.

But I also agree that India is one of the countries which often tops the number of takedown requests, but it's not the only country or the only government that is interested in data from users. Facebook's reports that indicate the number of requests that the government has made for a takedown show that India's [requests for a takedown] are up there with the U.S. government or any other Western European government.

Australia's economic woes

It is time for property rights to be moved away from competing private owners to governments

CHAD SATTERLEE

Australia holds the world record among developed countries for the longest period of uninterrupted economic growth. But there are signs of this remarkable streak being in serious trouble, owing to the chaotic nature of the country's economic system, where most productive assets are privately owned and the major decisions regarding how to use them are made by the market. In this paradigm, the livelihoods of current and future generations of Australians are being left to chance.

No jobs plan

First, consider job creation. Australia has no overarching jobs plan. Granted, private profit-driven employers in competition with each other are currently keeping most of the workforce employed. But the terms of these arrangements, including the existence of the jobs themselves, are ultimately determined privately and subject to change at any moment. One of the most important of such terms concerns pay rates. The key issue here is that many Australian wage-earners have not had a pay rise commensurate with the rising cost of living for the last six years.

This makes sense for individual businesses, because fixing labour costs helps to boost their profits. If most businesses do this, however, they end up unintentionally harming themselves as a group, since poorer workers no longer have enough spending power to buy as many goods and services (or service debts), and so sales and profits decline. Unnecessary workers are eventually laid off. If workers undertake training or education suitable for an industry that becomes unprofitable for whatever reason, then that is just how the chips fall in Australia's economic system. A labour market paradigm with fewer upheavals and less frictional unemployment would require long-term planning and might require certain industries to make concessions at the negotiating table. Alternatively, a robust government job guarantee system could play the role of a safety net.

Second, consider Australia's energy shortfalls. Even though Australia has some of the world's most abundant reserves of natural gas, in early 2017, tens of thousands of Australians went without power during a heatwave. In large measure this was because private businesses correctly calculated that exporting gas overseas was more profitable than meeting the needs of the domestic market. Australia's energy problems are often blamed on the failure of governments to set a stable investment framework. But the core issue is that the market is functioning normally. What is more, the uncoordinated decisions of businesses in Australia's energy market are soon expected to bring about a surplus of electricity, which means lower prices and investor returns.

Will private owners continue supplying enough electricity to meet Australia's energy needs in exchange for lower rates of return? According to the rules of the country's economic system, it is entirely up to them. There is likewise no plan to replace Australia's ageing power stations in an orderly fashion. Older power stations will continue malfunctioning and closing indiscriminately, causing electricity prices to move as erratically upwards as they can downwards, without any regard for the impact this has on people. A much less irrational arrangement used to be in place in Australia until around 1990: government ownership and control of electricity grids.

Meanwhile, scientists tell us we have 15 years to transition away from fossil fuel energy sources. The huge mobilisation of resources and economic restructuring required to meet environmental constraints is fundamentally at odds with the chaotic nature of market competition. An integrated public energy and jobs plan could explicitly take these constraints into account. The prospect of shifting property rights away from competing private owners to governments as a practical way of coherently addressing some of the Australian economy's pressing problems should now be put on the policy agenda.

The delicate art of writing an obituary

SOBHANA K. NAIR

Last week, following former Union Minister Arun Jaitley's death, newspapers were filled with vignettes about him. Many journalists who were close to him shared their grief on social media, while others pointed out Jaitley's shortcomings and critically analysed his tenure as Finance Minister. Heated debates broke out on the delicate art of writing an obituary. Fingers were pointed at reporters and editors who were considered to be part of Jaitley's inner coterie for not being "objective" in their reactions.

The question of how close you keep a source, especially a senior minister, an opposition leader, a bureaucrat, or a police officer, is tricky. It's fatal for a reporter to not have access to those in power. After all, we need their views, whether their comments are on or off the record. We need their perspective to understand events, remarks and policies.

The debate last week led me to the age-old dilemma on the relationship between a source and a reporter: How close is too close? The distance between a source and a reporter should be such that the source doesn't hold sway over the reporter, while the reporter still gets information. Information is, after all, our lifeline.

For a reporter to call a source every morning is not an unusual practice. But what she does after the phone call – that is, how she processes and reports the information she has received – is what matters.

Sources expect a lot from reporters. A reporter is sometimes expected to brush under the carpet any scoop that could hurt their source and/or their interests. Often a reporter is simply expected to write in a way that could help further the source's agenda. Sometimes, reporters are expected to cover up the source's mistakes and gaffes. A senior minister once told me, "You write in your own words, just make sure you embellish it well". I refused to respond to the comment and walked out of his office.

Each of us reporters can recount endless instances of getting cornered in corridors by politicians complaining about their quotes being omitted in reports or not finding their names in the newspaper. We receive sarcastic text messages like, "Oh, I suppose your paper could not find space." Recently, after a factual report on parliamentary proceedings was published, I was yelled at by a politician from down south. He went on to allege that I am reporting on behalf of his political rivals.

In return for this "disservice", reporters are often threatened that information, our currency, will be denied to us. "Next time you call me asking for details, I will not pick up your call," we are curtly told. So, reporters have to constantly walk a tightrope.

This brings me to the task of writing obituaries. In a 2013 piece on the dos and don'ts of writing an obituary, Nick Serpell, then Obituary Editor of BBC News, wrote that an obituary "should be true, balanced and fair in the context of that person's life. It should neither be a eulogy or a character assassination".

The question is this: How do you stay detached after a source's death when you have known them all your life, seen them through their highs and lows, and perhaps shared your own ups and downs with them? You have to err on the side of caution, I have been told. Separate your personal grief and professional duty.

Mao's tactics enrage the Kremlin

The border clashes between the Russians and the Chinese are symptomatic of a deep conflict between the two regimes. Each is now claiming that the other is unpopular and illegitimate. The Peking "People's Daily" recently said that the Russian people want to rise in revolution and "overthrow the Soviet revisionist renegade clique". In Moscow, the "Literaturnaya Gazeta" asserts that there is a bitter struggle for power in China between Chairman Mao and his heir-designate Marshal Lin Biao and that the conflict has polarised into two clans. The journal thinks that Lin Biao will soon take over from the ageing Chairman. Other reports indicate that the Russians are considering drastic action against the Chinese if they escalate the border clashes. It would appear that the Chinese have the advantage in manpower, if not in weapons, and could choose areas of conflict that would favour them. Mr. Brezhnev has publicly stated that he would not allow the Soviet Union to be provoked into unconsidered actions, but the temperature in Russia is steadily rising since the public have no doubts that the Chinese have embarked on a course of deliberate provocation.

Education in Travancore.

(From an Editorial)

The Travancore Government have always held education to be the main line of advance in the progressive policy for the uplift of the people on modern lines; and so responsive have been the people to the working out of this principle that Government now consider it necessary to review the whole field of Education, in order to work up to new educational ideals and to provide the necessary money for that purpose. Some idea of the progress made in Education for the decade ending 1913 - may be found from the expenditure by the Government for that period. The gross expenditure rose from 7.41 lakhs in 1913 to Rs. 22.21 lakhs in 1919 or by 200 per cent during the decade. For the year 1919 the revised estimate is nearly Rs. 23 1/2 lakhs. The proportion of expenditure on education to the total revenues of the State is now about 15 per cent which, by the way, is exclusive of the expenditure on the construction and maintenance of buildings. The net expenditure on education has advanced from Rs. 5 3/4 lakhs in 1913 to over 16 1/2 lakhs in 1919.

Those excluded will get a window of 10 months

Other senior police officers did not rule out "complications for months" after the final list.

"The post-NRC scenario will be highly challenging, because of monitoring of the people to be excluded from the list, following up on their cases and sending people failing the legal proceedings to detention centres," said an officer above the rank of Inspector-General of Police, speaking on condition of anonymity.

Apprehending a critical situation after the NRC, the Centre had in June decided to help Assam create e-Foreigners' Tribunals and increase the number of Foreigners' Tribunals - quasi-judicial establishments headed by members who are lawyers and retired judges and bureaucrats - from the existing 100 to 1,000. At least 200 of the additional Foreigners' Tribunals are expected to be set up by September with the government already having appointed 221 new members.

"It is not as if the NRC-rejects would be shoved into the detention centres immediately after the final list is published. The process will take months, if not years, to complete as the people struck off the citizens' list can go to the High Court and the Supreme Court if they fail to establish their citizenship at the Foreigners' Tribunals," the police officer said.

Each person excluded will have a maximum of 120 days or four months from the date of publication of the final NRC to challenge his or her case at a Foreigners' Tribunal, which has to dispose of the case within six months.

Russia may offer India conventional submarines

The contenders for Project-751 are the Naval Group of France, Rosoboronexport Rubin Design Bureau of Russia, ThyssenKrupp Marine Systems of Germany and Saab Group of Sweden.

In June, the Navy issued the Expression of Interest (EOI) for short-listing potential Indian strategic partners for the project put at ₹45,000 crore. The potential strategic partners were asked to respond within two months. The Indian partners will be shortlisted based on the technical and financial capability to execute the project and absorb the technologies. The foreign manufacturer will be selected separately. However, the strategic partnership is a long-drawn process with many uncertainties, as this model is being attempted for the first time.

The Russian FGFA has completed its development cycle, and the first batch is being produced for delivery to the Russian Air Force. Russian officials said at the ongoing MAKS air show that the jet was also ready for export. India was to have jointly developed its FGFA based on the Russian jet. But after protracted negotiations, India decided last year not to go ahead with the project. Speaking to reporters, Victor N. Kladov, Director for International Cooperation and Regional Policy at Ros-vec, said Russia had never cancelled any agreement with India.

Poor demand hobbling animal spirits, says RBI

The RBI stressed on continued policy focus on reforms in factors of production, faster implementation of capital expenditure by public authorities, among others. While the central bank's analysis confirms that a broad-based cyclical downturn is underway in several sectors like manufacturing, trade, hotels, transport, communication and broadcasting, construction; and agriculture, it added that the growth trend has witnessed slight moderation since 2016-17, contributed mainly by the services sector.

Push for spending

The central bank said reviving consumption demand and private investment has assumed the highest priority in 2019-20. This involves strengthening the banking and non-banking sectors, a big push for spending on infrastructure and implementation of much needed structural reforms in the areas of labour laws, taxation, and other legal reforms.

All these measures will also enhance ease of doing business in pursuit of fulfilling the vision of India becoming a $5 trillion economy by 2024-25, the RBI said.

On the financial sector, the banking regulator said several measures had resulted in a decline in gross non-performing assets (GNPA) ratio of the banking system to 9.1% at end-March 2019, from 11.2% in the previous year, apart from a decline in fresh slippages and an improvement in provision coverage ratio.

Kandla, Adani ports put on security alert

They also directed that all suspicious activity should be reported to the Marine Control Station, the nerve centre of all maritime forces, or the Coast Guard or the marine police stations.

A statement issued by the Adani Port and SEZ in Mundra says, "... inputs had been received from coast guard station that Pakistani commandos are likely to infiltrate into Indian territory through Kutch area preferably via sea route to create communal disturbance or terrorist attack in Gujarat. All stakeholders are requested to institute preventive measures to militate hostile attacks and assume highest state of readiness and be vigilant towards any attempts to breach our coastal security."

An alert signed by the Signal Superintendent of Deen Dayal Port Trust in Kandla asked for enhanced security measures that include "highest state of readiness and vigilance, the use of maximum possible assets and personnel to plug vulnerable areas, the tracking of suspicious individuals or boats, and patrolling along the coast."

On Monday, Navy Chief Admiral Karambir Singh cited intelligence reports to claim that Pakistan-based Jaish-e-Mohammad was training members for underwater attacks in India.

More re-verification notices days before NRC publication

GUWAHATI

People included in the draft National Register of Citizens (NRC) published in July 2018 but suspected to be foreigners continue to receive notices for re-verification of their documents, days before the publication of the final citizens' list.

On Thursday, Nazir Ahmed of No. 4 Kumalia, Jan Mohammad of North Bagma and Suruj Ali and Achar Ali of Japorguri - all three villages in north-eastern Assam's Biswanath district - appeared for a hearing at their assigned NRC service centres. They had received the re-verification notice on Wednesday, about 72 hours before the publication of the final NRC.

According to the notice, a member each in their families was found to be ineligible because of discrepancies discovered while scrutinising their names in the draft NRC of July 2018. The discrepancy was outlined as "family tree reject".

Close scrutiny: Workers at the NRC office checking documents submitted by people ahead of the release of the register's final draft in Guwahati. ■ AFP

Each NRC applicant has to establish his or her family tree so that they are not linked with the wrong legacy person - meaning someone figuring in the legacy data comprising a set of documents, including the first NRC of 1951 and voters' lists up to March 24, 1971.

"This is not only the case of four persons in Biswanath district. Many others in the district and elsewhere such as Kamrup, Morigaon and Barpeta have been receiving re-verification notices. We don't know what the motive is behind this when the NRC deadline is round the bend," Azizur Rahman, adviser to All-Assam Minority Students' Union, told The Hindu.

The NRC authority said there was nothing unusual about such notices. "Some people may be summoned on Friday too. The process will continue until the deadline fixed by the Supreme Court," a spokesperson said.

No visible rush of foreigners after 1971, says rights group

'Assam saw a huge influx of immigrants from 1901 to 1971'

GUWAHATI

A Delhi-based rights group, citing Census reports, says there has been no noticeable influx of foreigners into Assam after 1971, the base year for filtering out non-citizens from the updated National Register of Citizens (NRC), which is to be published on August 31.

A report titled "Foreigners in Assam: a blast from the past" released by the Rights and Risks Analysis Group on Thursday says the State witnessed a huge influx of immigrants from 1901 to 1971. But the influx reduced drastically thereafter.

"As per the Census of India, Assam's average decadal population growth rate was 23.95% from 1901 to 1971 against the all-India average of 12.9%. During these 70 years, the average decadal growth rate of population in Assam was almost double that of India and it changed the demographic character of Assam. But the All Assam Students Union (AASU) had accepted the immigrants of this period as citizens of India under the Assam Accord," the report says.

"The Census of India's 'Decadal Variation in Population Since 1901 to 2011' also states that Assam's decadal population growth has been consistently lower (20.9% than the national average of 21.94% from 1971 to 2011," the report says. "In fact, from 1971 to 2011, Assam had the lowest average decadal population growth rate in the north-eastern region with Nagaland having the highest average decadal population growth rate of 42.52%, followed by Mizoram with 35.14%, Arunachal Pradesh with 31.25%, Meghalaya with 30.88%, Manipur with 27.78%, and Tripura 24.27%," the report says.

"If abnormal population growth rate as reflected in census reports is the determinant for the influx of foreigners, Assam did not witness any noticeable influx of foreigners in the post-1971 period. At least, major influx is not supported by Census statistics," says the rights group's director, Suhas Chakma.

Don't treat children as collateral damage, NGO tells authorities

'Government should protect them from all forms of abuse'

GUWAHATI

An Assam-based NGO specialising in child rights has warned of the psychological impact of the National Register of Citizens (NRC) on children, and asked the authorities not to treat them as "collateral damage" from the expensive exercise.

The final NRC is scheduled to be published on August 31. There are fears that at least 20 lakh people - many of them children - would be labelled foreigners after being excluded from the list.

The Universal Team for Social Action and Help (UTSAH) took to social media to remind the government of the need to honour India's commitment to the United Nations Convention on the Rights of the Child.

"We support NRC as a local organisation, but a violation of children's rights cannot be treated as collateral damage acceptable in pursuit of an exercise deemed to be in national interest. The government should ensure the protection of children from all forms of physical and psychological abuse without discrimination of any kind," Utsah executive director Miguel Das Queah said.

Fact-finding panel

He said his NGO would constitute a fact-finding committee after the publication of the final NRC list and suggest rectification if any violation of children's rights was found.

In a 2018 report, Amnesty International said there were 31 children in Assam's detention centres for declared foreigners and some of them had come of age in captivity without access to counselling. It said that girls were allowed to stay with their mothers while boys above the age of six were sent out of the centres.

A 2018 National Human Rights Commission report on Assam's detention centres underlined the need for caring and protecting children of "foreigners" in detention camps under the Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2015.

BJP now has 7 crore new members: Nadda

'The number exceeded the target as there is great enthusiasm about the BJP among the masses'

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT
NEW DELHI

The BJP on Thursday announced that it had, through a six-week membership drive, managed to increase the recruitment into the party by nearly 50%, or nearly seven crore new members. The conclusion of the drive on August 20 signalled the start of its internal election process.

At a press briefing at the BJP headquarters, its working president, J.P. Nadda, said a new party president would be elected by December. Mr. Nadda said the process of collection of data on the new members was on and once it ended, the party's total membership would be 18 crore.

"The online registration for membership is at 5,81,34,242 crore, which is already 50% more than our current membership; offline registrations are at 62,32,957 lakh; and matched up with the missed call membership drive, the total number of new members will be around 7 crore," he said.

The target of new membership was at 2.2 crore over the 11-crore membership that was done in 2015. The number exceeded the target as there was "great enthusiasm" about the BJP among the masses.

Exceeding expectations

Among the States where the membership drive exceeded expectations was West Bengal, where 80 lakh new members have joined. In Jammu and Kashmir, it was six lakh (no separate figures were provided for Jammu and the Valley).

Former Madhya Pradesh Chief Minister Shivraj Singh Chouhan, who has been in charge of the membership drive, to a query on Jammu and Kashmir, said young women in the proposed Union Territory had shown enthusiasm in joining the party. "The Sher-e-Kashmir Convention Centre in Srinagar was packed when our drive was on," he said.

"At the conclusion of the membership drive, the process of internal election will begin in September from the booth level onwards, and once 50% of these booth, district and State level polls are done, a new national party president will be elected, around December," Mr. Nadda said.

The latest membership drive started on July 6, with Prime Minister Narendra Modi and BJP president Amit Shah launching it from Varanasi and Telangana, respectively, on party ideology Syama Prasad Mookerjee's birth anniversary.

No need to show full evidence: ED

KRISHNADAS RAJAGOPAL
NEW DELHI

The Enforcement Directorate (ED) said the "art of investigation" does not oblige it to reveal to former Union Finance Minister P. Chidambaram the entire gamut of evidence collected during investigation into the INX Media case.

Solicitor General Tushar Mehta, for ED, told the Supreme Court that complete transparency towards an accused, especially one so high-profile like the senior Congress leader, would have been an open invitation to him to tamper with evidence of money laundering. A tell-all policy in favour of accused persons destroys cases.

Mr. Mehta said it was "preposterous and absurd" for Mr. Chidambaram to claim that only evidence he was privy to should have been shown to the Delhi High Court. Such an approach, if adopted, would affect other sensitive investigations into Vijay Mallya, Mehul Choksi, Nirav Modi, Saradha chit fund and terror funding cases. "It will result in disastrous consequences," Mr. Mehta submitted on Thursday.

P. Chidambaram

"The art of investigation is that we reveal only certain things. If we confront him with 15 money trails when he really has 30, he will do his best to wipe out the rest," Mr. Mehta reasoned.

At the end of the fourth day of arguments, a Bench of Justices R. Banumathi and A.S. Bopanna reserved for orders the appeal made by Mr. Chidambaram for protection from arrest.

The court said its order would be given on September 5 and extended the interim protection from arrest till then.

Former Haryana CM Hooda meets Sonia

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT
NEW DELHI

Former Haryana Chief Minister Bhupinder Singh Hooda met Congress president Sonia Gandhi on Thursday amidst speculation of a leadership change in the State ahead of the Assembly elections in a few months' time. Senior leader Ghulam Nabi Azad, the Congress in-charge for Haryana, was also present at the meeting. Neither of them spoke to the media.

This is the first time since the August 18 Rohtak rally - where Mr. Hooda indicated that he would leave the party - that the former Chief Minister has called on Ms. Gandhi.

Mr. Hooda has been insisting on changing State Congress chief Ashok Tanwar, who was appointed by former Congress president Rahul Gandhi five years ago. Supporters of Mr. Hooda, who have always questioned Mr. Tanwar's leadership, have demanded the Haryana Congress chief's removal after the party failed to win even one of the 10 Lok Sabha seats in the election earlier this year.

Centre defers investor summit

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT
NEW DELHI

The Centre has decided to postpone by a month its planned maiden investor summit in Jammu and Kashmir, a senior government official told The Hindu.

The meet, originally scheduled for October, had been postponed as arrangements, including those for security for the delegates, could not be made in time.

"There is no time to make the preparations and arrange the logistics," said the official speaking on condition of anonymity. "It has been decided to postpone the summit by a month."

Navin K. Choudhary, Principal Secretary, Industry & Commerce and Tourism Department, Jammu & Kashmir, announced on August 13 that the summit would be held in Srinagar and Jammu from October 12 to 14.

Union Ministers, representatives of various State governments and top industrialists and business groups of the country were expected to participate.

Another official said that the Cabinet Secretary was monitoring the situation in the Kashmir Valley. "All Ministries have been asked to make a blueprint on how they could generate employment and contribute to development in J&K," the official said.

U.S. again expresses concern on J&K

Comments come three days after Trump said Modi felt he had the situation under control

SUHASINI HAIDAR
NEW DELHI

Three days after U.S. President Donald Trump met Prime Minister Narendra Modi in France and discussed the situation in Kashmir, American officials said they were "concerned" about the continuing communication restrictions and detentions.

Mr. Trump had said that during their discussion on the Kashmir issue, Mr. Modi had said that he "really feels he has it under control", and that India and Pakistan should resolve the issue bilaterally.

Sources told The Hindu that diplomats from different embassies, including senior U.S. and U.K. officials, had been meeting External Affairs Ministry officials over the past few days to stress that they were watching the situation closely.

A U.S. Embassy spokesperson said on Thursday:

"We continue to be very concerned by reports of detentions and the continued restrictions on the residents of the region. We urge respect for human rights, compliance with legal procedures, and inclusive dialogue with those affected. We welcome Prime Minister Modi's statement that J&K will soon return to a normal political status."

The spokesperson added, "We call on all parties to maintain peace and stability along the Line of Control and to prevent cross-border terrorism. We continue to support direct dialogue between India and Pakistan on Kashmir and other issues of concern."

The comments, which also addressed recent statements by Pakistan Prime Minister Imran Khan, said: "The United States is watching the situation in Jammu and Kashmir closely. We continue to call for calm and restraint, including on rhetoric...We note the broader implications of the developments in Jammu and Kashmir and the potential for increased instability in the region."

The comments came on a day Human Rights Watch issued a statement urging the government to lift the communication shutdown and alleging that the curbs had caused "disproportionate harm on the population".

The government has maintained that the restrictions are necessary to prevent large-scale violence and subvert terrorist threats.

India condemns Pak. call for jihad

'No alarming situation in J&K'

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT
NEW DELHI

Pakistan's recent statements regarding Kashmir are aimed at painting an alarming situation in India, Raveesh Kumar, spokesperson of the External Affairs Ministry, said here on Thursday.

At the weekly briefing, Mr. Kumar condemned Pakistan's statements that had called for waging a jihad against India.

"Statements and tweets have been issued from Pakistan that have called for violence in India. Pakistan should understand that the world has realised its clever moves and they will not be fooled by such tactics. We strongly condemn highly irresponsible statements made by the Pakistani leadership that called for jihad and intended to present an alarmist situation in India," Mr. Kumar said.

The statement came a day after Islamabad's Human Rights Minister Shireen Mazari wrote to several UN officials citing human rights violations in Kashmir after India ended the special status of Jammu and Kashmir on August 5 and bifurcated the territory.

The Minister has argued in her public statements that the right of self-determination is a "legally enforceable" right.

However, Mr. Kumar said he would not like to lend any credence to the letter from the Minister.

"The letter is not even worth the paper on which it was written on," said Mr. Kumar, who urged Pakistan to behave like a "normal country".

He reiterated the Indian position about Pakistan using terrorists and terror groups operating from its soil.

"Normal neighbours do not push terrorists into a neighbouring country. Normal neighbours do normal talk and normal trade. This is not something that Pakistan is doing," said Mr. Kumar, acknowledging that intelligence reports suggest some terror elements from Pakistan are trying to enter Indian territory through the sea route.

He maintained that the Indian military is ready to deal with any such threat.

Pakistan on Thursday tested a short-range ballistic missile, after informing India and by following protocol.

SRINAGAR

CPI(M) general secretary Sitaram Yechury on Thursday became the first national leader to enter Srinagar city since August 5 and met his ailing party colleague and former legislator, M.Y. Tarigami.

The visit comes a day after the Supreme Court granted him permission to meet Mr. Tarigami.

Mr. Yechury arrived at the Srinagar airport in the afternoon and was received by senior police officials, who escorted him to the State guest house, sources said. His movement was constantly monitored by security forces.

Later, he arrived at Mr. Tarigami's residence on Gupkar Road, which was cordoned off with concertina wire.

Abiding by the SC direction that he should not talk to anyone in Kashmir other than Mr. Tarigami, Mr. Yechury refused to answer media questions. "Whatever I have to say, I will say it in Delhi," he said.

The CPI(M) leader will be staying overnight in Kashmir and is expected to meet other party workers.

Jamia Millia Islamia student Aleem Ahmad, who was also allowed by the Supreme Court to visit the Valley after he filed a petition on remaining cut off from his family in Anantnag, was escorted on the Srinagar-Jammu highway to reach the south Kashmir district.

Meanwhile, a spontaneous shutdown affected life for the 24th day on Wednesday. Most educational institutes and private offices remained closed. Private vehicles were seen on the commercial hub Lal Chowk but remained few elsewhere in the Valley.

Tribunal upholds ban on SIMI for another five years

NEW DELHI

The Union Home Ministry has told a tribunal that the Students Islamic of India (SIMI) is filing applications under the Right to Information Act (RTI) to help its members who are facing trial in various courts.

Based on the submissions made by the Ministry and State police departments, a tribunal constituted under the Unlawful Activities (Prevention) Act (UAPA) has upheld the ban against SIMI for another five years. The outfit was first banned in 2001, and this is the eighth time it has been banned.

To impose the fresh ban, the tribunal examined at least 34 cases registered against the members and former members of SIMI by the police across the country after January 2014. In a 75-page order, the tribunal headed by Justice Mukta Gupta said some of the members and activists of SI-

The tribunal said it examined two public witnesses and 50 witnesses from the government to reach the conclusion. It said that it received "11 sealed covers in the form of intelligence reports, secret informations collected from time to time by the investigating and intelligence agencies" against SIMI. "One of the (sealed) reports also note about a one-month campaign organised by activists of SIMI under the name and banner of an umbrella organisation and that the activists of SIMI and some of their members and sympathisers are filing RTI applications in the various proceedings to help the accused or members in the trials for committing various offences. The sealed cover placed on record by S.C.L. Das, Joint Secretary, MHA," the tribunal ruled.

The Tamil Nadu police deposed that "SIMI activists/cadres are regrouping themselves under the banner of Wahadat-e-Isaami Hind (WeIH) to expand their militant outreach among Muslim youth under the guise of spreading Islamic ideology. SIMI activists under the guise of WeIH continue to hold meetings, classes, symposium, seminars etc. to spread their anti-national ideology."

Javadekar says he was misquoted

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT
NEW DELHI

Union Minister for Information and Broadcasting Minister Prakash Javadekar on Thursday issued a clarification on his comments during a speech on the importance of communication, saying that he was quoted out of context.

At a community radio awards function, Mr. Javadekar said, "What is the biggest punishment, when people are not able to contact anyone, when they are not able to talk to anyone and when you do not have any tool to communicate... this is the biggest punishment."

The Press Bureau of Information, in a statement, quoted Mr. Javadekar as saying that "sections of media have unnecessarily attempted to link the situation in Jammu & Kashmir region with my comments about the significance of community radio and communication in general, which amounts to irresponsible and unethical journalism."

Collegium nod for four new judges in SC

NEW DELHI

The Supreme Court Collegium is learnt to have recommended four High Court judges for appointment to the apex court.

The Collegium, led by Chief Justice of India Ranjan Gogoi, a source said, has recommended the Chief Justices of Himachal Pradesh, Punjab and Haryana, Rajasthan and Kerala High Courts, V. Ramasubramanian, Krishna Murari, S. Ravindra Bhat and Hrishikesh Roy, respectively, as Supreme Court judges.

The vacancies in the court have increased to four after the Supreme Court (Number of Judges) Bill of 2019 was made a law and following the recent retirement of Justice A.M. Sapre. The new law increased the judicial strength from 31 to 34, including the CJ.

Digital media firms say FDI norms are 'restrictive'

They feel existing and new platforms will be affected

SOBHANA K. NAIR
NEW DELHI

Companies operating news portals expressed disappointment on Thursday with the government's new Foreign Direct Investment (FDI) policy capping the investment in digital media at 26%, saying that the measure would impact both existing digital platforms as also affect new platforms that may be looking to expand.

On Wednesday, Commerce Minister Piyush Goyal announced that the Cabinet had cleared FDI up to 26% under the "government route" for digital media companies that upload or stream news and current affairs.

"This is a departure from the existing policy, as until now only the print media and news broadcast television companies in India

The new policy hurts smaller players like us and the ones who are looking to launch new projects. In future, when we have to look at investments to scale up our operations, this kind of cap will be very discouraging," he said.

"Digital news media was unregulated & thriving so far. 100% FDI was allowed in start ups. Now govt wants to limit FDI to 26%. This is regressive. Cos already operating with 50% or 100% FDI will have to divest foreign equity in favour of domestic when capital is scarce and scared!" M. K. Venu, a founding editor of The Wire, tweeted.

In a series of tweets, Nikhil Pahwa, founder of Mediama, a portal dedicated to digital business, described the new policy as 'restrictive'.

UN warns of rising seas, storm surges

PARIS

The same oceans that nourished human evolution are poised to unleash misery on a global scale unless the carbon pollution destabilising Earth's marine environment is brought to heel, warns a draft UN report obtained by AFP.

Destructive changes already set in motion could see a steady decline in fish stocks, a hundred-fold or more increase in the damages caused by superstorms, and hundreds of millions of people displaced by rising seas, according to the Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change (IPCC) "special report" on oceans and Earth's frozen zones, known as the cryosphere. As the 21st century unfolds, melting glaciers will first give too much and then too little to billions who depend on them for fresh water, it finds.

Without deep cuts to man-made emissions, at least 30% of the northern hemisphere's surface permafrost could melt by century's end, unleashing billions of tonnes of carbon and accelerating global warming even more.

The 900-page scientific assessment is the fourth such tome from the UN in less than a year, with others focused on a 1.5-Celsius cap on global warming, the state of biodiversity, and how to manage forests and the global food system.

All four conclude that humanity must overhaul the way it produces and consumes almost everything to avoid the worst ravages of climate change and environmental degradation.

Governments meet in Monaco next month to vet the new report's official summary. The final advice to policymakers will be released on September 25.

Extreme events

By 2050, many low-lying megacities and small island nations will experience "extreme sea level events" every year, the report concludes.

Even if the world manages to cap global warming at two degrees Celsius, the global ocean waterline will rise enough to displace more 250 million people.

The report indicated this could happen as soon as 2100, though some experts think it is more likely to happen on a longer timescale.

U.S. to keep 8,600 troops in Afghanistan after peace deal

WASHINGTON

President Donald Trump on Thursday said U.S. troop levels in Afghanistan will drop to 8,600 if a deal is reached with the Taliban and that a permanent presence will remain.

"We're going down to 8,600 and then we make a determination from there," Mr. Trump said in an interview with Fox News radio. "We're always going to have a presence."

Mr. Trump also said that if another attack on the U.S. originated from Afghanistan "we would come back with a force like... never before."

U.S. troops were first sent to Afghanistan after the Sep-will only be reduced when the Taliban gives a guarantee that its territory will not be used by al-Qaeda or other international militant groups.

Donald Trump

'High intelligence'

Mr. Trump underlined that there was to be no complete withdrawal, keeping a force that would provide "high intelligence." "You have to keep a presence," he said.

Meanwhile, Defense Secretary Mark Esper, who was confirmed as the Pentagon chief a month ago, told reporters that talks with the Taliban in Qatar must guarantee that Afghanistan "is no longer a safe haven for terrorists to attack the U.S."

September 11, 2001 terrorist attacks on U.S. soil carried out by al-Qaeda, which was sheltered by the former Taliban regime.

Washington now wants to end its military involvement and has been talking to the Taliban since at least 2018. Mr. Trump says that troops

Italy's Conte gets green light to form new government

He will lead a coalition of 5-Star and Democratic Party

REUTERS
ROME

Italy's President asked Giuseppe Conte to lead a coalition of the 5-Star Movement and opposition Democratic Party (PD) on Thursday, a move that could improve Italy's fractious relations with the European Union.

Markets welcomed the prospect of a quick end to a three-week political crisis triggered by League leader Matteo Salvini, who pulled his hard-right party out of its governing alliance with 5-Star after weeks of public bickering.

Mr. Salvini had wanted

Giuseppe Conte

fresh polls to capitalise on his party's success in European elections but his plan backfired as 5-Star and the PD, lagging the League in opinion surveys, set aside their long-standing antipathy to form a government.

Mr. Conte, who told reporters he would present a cabinet list to the President in the coming days, said his priority was to draft a 2020 budget.

The creation of a new government is not yet a done deal, however, and the two parties still need to agree a shared policy platform and divide up cabinet posts.

In a further complication, 5-Star has promised to put the deal with the PD to an online vote of its members. Many 5-Star supporters oppose a pact with the centre-left and a 'yes' vote is not a certainty.

Gillibrand ends U.S. presidential bid

The #MeToo proponent pulled out of the Democratic race over low polling, funds

WASHINGTON

Democrat Kirsten Gillibrand dropped out of the presidential race on Wednesday, abruptly ending a campaign that drew on her strong #MeToo credentials and looked formidable but instead collapsed amid surprisingly low polling and major fundraising struggles.

"I know this isn't the result that we wanted," the 52-year-old New York Senator said in an online video, in which she did not endorse any other 2020 Democratic White House hopeful. "But it's important to know when it's not your time."

The decision came as Ms. Gillibrand failed to qualify for a debate coming next month in Houston by not hitting 2% in at least four approved public opinion polls while securing 1,30,000 unique donors despite spending millions on online and TV ads to woo people contributing as little as $1. That proved especially embarrassing since candidates who began the race with far lower national profiles, including businessman Andrew Yang, made it.

On the eve of Wednesday's qualifying deadline, Ms. Gillibrand sat down with her family and decided that if a pair of polls set to be released the following morning didn't help her meet the polling threshold, she'd drop out. Both ultimately showed her at 0%.

Kirsten Gillibrand

To get to the U.S. House, Ms. Gillibrand had topped an incumbent Republican in a conservative part of upstate New York in 2007, and she was appointed to the Senate two years later, filling the seat vacated by Hillary Clinton.

She later retained the seat during a 2010 special election, as well as in 2012 and 2018.

Vocal in the Senate on curbing sexual harassment and military sexual assault, and promoting equal pay for women and family leave, Ms. Gillibrand made those and her staunch defence of abortion rights the core of her presidential bid.

She stood out in the packed Democratic presidential field by becoming the first to declare she'd only appoint judges to the Supreme Court who consider the landmark 1973 Roe v. Wade decision legalising abortion nationwide settled law, though most of her competitors quickly followed suit.

MPs move court in bid to prevent suspension of U.K. Parliament

LONDON

Prime Minister Boris Johnson's suspension of Parliament just weeks before Britain's EU departure date faced legal challenges on Thursday.

Mr. Johnson announced the surprise decision on Wednesday to dismiss Parliament next month for nearly five weeks, claiming his new government needed to start afresh in order to pursue a "bold and ambitious" post-Brexit domestic agenda.

But the move ahead of the October 31 Brexit date sent shockwaves through the British political system.

Mr. Johnson's opponents labelled the suspension of Parliament a "coup" and a "constitutional outrage".

Main opposition Labour leader Jeremy Corbyn is mulling a no-confidence vote against Mr. Johnson's Conservative government, which commands a majority of just one seat.

It prompted immediate court bids in London, Edinburgh and Belfast to halt the process.

A ruling is expected in the Edinburgh case on Friday.

Gina Miller, a businesswoman and leading anti-Brexit campaigner, has applied for an urgent judicial review in London challenging "the effect and the intention" of the suspension.

In Scotland's highest civil court, 75 MPs are seeking an interim interdict to halt Mr. Johnson's move.

Meanwhile, campaigner Raymond McCord launched a legal bid in Belfast to block Mr. Johnson's move, with a hearing set for Friday.

An online petition seeking to block the decision unless Brexit is delayed or cancelled had garnered around 1.5 million signatures on Thursday.

Mass protests are planned across Britain on Saturday.

Yemen accuses UAE of conducting air strikes

ADEN

Yemen's government on Thursday accused the UAE of launching air strikes against its troops in the interim capital Aden in support of separatists who say they have regained control of the southern city.

The United Arab Emirates has trained and supported secessionists who seek an independent southern Yemen, although it is a key pillar in a Saudi-led military coalition backing the Yemeni government against Iran-aligned Houthi rebels.

"The Yemeni government condemns the Emirati air strikes against government forces in the interim capital Aden and in Zinjibar, which resulted in civilian and military casualties," Deputy Foreign Minister Mohammad al-Hadhrami said in a tweet.

He urged Saudi Arabia "to stand by the legitimate government and stop this illegal and unjustified military escalation".

The fighting has opened a new front in a complex war that has already claimed tens of thousands of lives and sparked what the United Nations calls the world's worst humanitarian crisis.

The UN said at least 13 people were reported to have been killed and 70 wounded during clashes this week.

The clashes between separatists and government forces have raised concerns that the famine-threatened country could break apart entirely.

China sends more troops to Hong Kong as police ban rally

HONG KONG

China sent fresh troops to Hong Kong on Thursday as part of a "routine" garrison rotation, as the financial hub braced for a new round of violent protests after police refused permission for a mass rally at the weekend.

Chinese State media on Thursday broadcast a video of armoured personnel carriers and trucks driving across the Hong Kong border, describing it as a routine rotation of the garrison stationed in the semi-autonomous city.

"Before coming... we learned about the situation of Hong Kong," PLA officer Lieutenant-Colonel Yang Zheng said in a PR video.

The rotation came less than 24 hours after police denied permission for a new mass rally planned for Saturday that was expected to draw hundreds of thousands of people to the streets – the 13th consecutive week of protests.

Kavi advises Nimi

Rishaba Deva was an amsa avatara of Vishnu, who came to the earth to teach moksha dharma, said P.T. Seshadri in a discourse. Nine of his sons were yogiswaras. They could go to whichever world they pleased, whenever they wanted to. That meant they could travel without any hurdle to Deva loka, siddha loka, saadhya loka, gandharva loka, yaksha loka, manushya loka, kinnara loka and Naga loka, and to the caves where sages were doing penance.

There was a king called Nimi, who performed a yaga. When the nava yogiswaras came near the yaga sala, everyone welcomed them. Nimi said to them, "It is a great boon to be born a human being. But life is like a flash of lightning. It is difficult to think of God in this world. Rarely does one meet jnanis like you. Tell us about moksha."

The nava yogiswaras explained different aspects of Bhagavata dharma to Nimi. The first yogiswara, by name Kavi spoke first. He talked about the fears we have in this world. He said, "Those who think of the Lord's feet, will not know fear. Desiring worldly possessions makes you take the wrong path, and this makes you fearful. We should have the jnana that we should reach Him and that the way to do so is through Him. This is Bhagavata dharma. Those who know this have no sorrow. Jnanis will also think of their Acharya as God Himself. A man may see many things in his dream, but when he wakes up he finds that the reality is very different. You must think of the things of this world as things in a dream. To reach Him, think of His great deeds, sing His names, and dance thinking of Him. His devotees see water, fire, earth, stars, planets, animals, directions, trees, plants, rivers and sea as God. Such devotees develop detachment towards material possessions, and attach to His archa form."

'Unplanned GST roll-out led to fraud of ₹45,682 crore'

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT
NEW DELHI

The "hurried and unplanned" roll-out of the GST has not only led to lower tax collections, but has also allowed frauds worth more than ₹45,000 crore to take place, West Bengal Finance Minister Amit Mitra wrote in a letter to Union Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman. "I am shocked to learn about the massive fraud taking place under the GST structure," he wrote. "The scale of this fraud has been quantified by a written response in the Rajya Sabha by the Minister of State for Finance Anurag Singh Thakur, [who said] a staggering amount of ₹45,682 crore of tax fraud was detected under the GST since its roll-out." Mr. Mitra added that he had warned the government that giving up on the concept of invoice matching would lead to widespread tax frauds.

₹2,000 notes in circulation fall

MUMBAI

The ₹2,000 currency notes introduced during the demonetisation exercise of 2016 have dropped in circulation in the last one year ended in March 2019.

According to data in the Reserve Bank of India's annual report, there were 3,363 million pieces of such notes in circulation as at end March 2018, which was 3.3% of the total currency in circulation, in terms of volume. In value terms, the ₹2,000 notes' share in total currency circulation was 37.3%.

The number of pieces dropped to 3,291 million in the year ended March 2019, which was 3% in terms of volume and 31.2% in value of

How the RBI ended 2018-19 with an over ₹1.23 lakh-crore surplus

CHENNAI

Ever since the Reserve Bank of India (RBI) announced a jaw-dropping surplus of ₹1,23,414 crore for 2018-19 (July-June accounting year), the question that has been uppermost on everyone's mind is: how did the central bank post such a massive surplus?

In the immediate two preceding years, 2017-18 and 2016-17, the surpluses were only ₹50,004 crore and ₹30,663 crore respectively.

The RBI Annual Report for 2018-19, released on Thursday, provides the answers. There are two basic reasons for the impressive surge.

to a change in accounting policy. Until last year, when the RBI sold dollars in the market (to support the rupee), the gain or loss was calculated based on the previous Friday's market value of the dollar. This policy was changed this year to reflect the historical acquisition cost of the dollar. A rough, back-of-the-envelope calculation puts this historical cost at around ₹53. This means that, if the RBI were to sell the dollar in the market today at around ₹72, it stands to gain ₹19 for every unit it sells.

In the previous year, the RBI posted a loss of ₹4,067 crore from similar transactions. Former top RBI officials say that the change in policy is not inappropriate as the earlier method resulted in understatement of gains.

The RBI has been buying dollars regularly since the 1991 crisis to build up its reserves at rates much lower than the prevailing one.

When it sells those dollars, the actual gains have to be computed in reference to the weighted average acquisition cost and not that of the previous Friday.

The second reason for the higher surplus is a leap in interest income which was higher by ₹32,966 crore compared to 2017-18. The RBI conducted several rounds of open market operations (OMO) last year to infuse liquidity leading to a 57% jump in its holding of government bonds.

As per estimates by SBI Research, the RBI purchased a whopping ₹3,31,100 crore net of government bonds in 2018-19 through OMOs.

Interest from bond holdings alone was higher by ₹10,375 crore while Liquidity Adjustment Facility (LAF) operations yielded another ₹1,046 crore as interest earnings.

Last year, the central bank had paid interest of ₹9,541 crore to banks as it absorbed excess liquidity from the market. The liquidity infusion operations resulted in a rise in currency in circulation by a good 13.43% to ₹21,68,797 crore as of June 30 this year.

The RBI's balance sheet size grew by 13.41% to ₹41,02,905 crore in 2018-19.

Granules India to divest entire stake in JV firm

HYDERABAD

Pharma firm Granules India on Thursday said it intended to divest its entire equity shareholding in joint venture firm Granules Omnichem (GOC) by selling its stake to the JV partner.

GOC is an equal joint venture between Granules India and S.A. Ajinomoto Omnichem N.V. (now doing business as Ajinomoto Bio-Pharma Services), an integrated contract development and manufacturing organisation. Its manufacturing facility is in Visakhapatnam.

"The proposed divestment of our 50% stake aligns with our focus on strengthening our core area of business. With this transaction, S.A. Ajinomoto Omnichem N.V. will take over full control of the CRAMS (contract research and manufacturing services) business," Krishna Prasad Chigurupati, CMD of Granules India, said.

Conclusion of this transaction is subject to fulfilment of certain closing conditions as well as customary government approvals, Granules India said in a release. The company did not share details of the financials.

Through this deal, "we would like to extend our support to our joint venture partner for their business plan to integrate their small and large molecule businesses... [it] is a win-win situation for both companies as we continue to build upon our business model based on our area of concentration," Mr. Chigurupati said.

Shares of the company closed 2.05% lower at ₹90.80 apiece.

Equities lose ground for second straight session amid mixed cues

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT
MUMBAI

The benchmark equity indices lost ground for the second straight session on Thursday amid expiry of the derivatives contracts, an overall subdued global trend, and weakness in the banking and financial space in the Indian market.

The 30-share Sensex lost 382.91 points, or 1.02%, to close at 37,068.93, with stocks like HDFC, ICICI Bank, HDFC Bank, Kotak Mahindra Bank, State Bank of India, Axis Bank and Reliance Industries contributing the most to the day's losses.

The broader Nifty ended the day at 10,948.30, down 97.80 points or 0.89%.

Market participants attributed the day's fall to mixed global cues and the increased volatility due to expiry of the derivatives contracts.

"Volatility remained high especially in F&O counters due to unwinding and rollover of the positions, while the broader indices remained under pressure," said Ajit Mishra, vice president - research, Religare Broking.

"In the absence of any major domestic event, global cues will continue to dictate the market trend. Indications are in favour of further consolidation in Nifty, thus traders should focus more on stock selection and trade management," he added.

Foreign investors continued to sell Indian equities with provisional numbers showing overseas investors as net sellers at ₹987 crore.

Data shows that foreign portfolio investors (FPIs) have sold shares worth nearly ₹17,000 crore in August. In July, FPIs were net sellers at ₹12,419 crore.

Elsewhere in Asia, while Nikkei and Kospi were down, Hang Seng managed to close with marginal gains.

ICRA sacks CEO amid regulatory probe

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT
MUMBAI

Rating agency ICRA, which had earlier sent its managing director and chief executive officer Naresh Takkar on leave amid a regulatory probe into alleged interference by its officials to ensure good rating for troubled IL&FS, has terminated the services of Mr. Takkar.

"The board of directors of ICRA Limited, at a meeting today, after due consideration and taking into account the best interests of the company and its various stakeholders, has decided to terminate the employment of Mr. Naresh Takkar as managing director and group CEO of ICRA, effective immediately," said the agency in a filing.

"ICRA remains committed to ensuring the independence and integrity of its ratings process and sound corporate governance," it added.

While the board will commence a search for a replacement, Vipul Agarwal, who was appointed interim chief operating officer on July 1, would be responsible for the daily operations until a new CEO is appointed.

Mr. Takkar was sent on compulsory leave in July. The statement comes almost four months after the agency - without naming IL&FS or any of its subsidiaries - disclosed that the Securities and Exchange Board of India had initiated adjudication proceedings in a matter related to rating assigned to one of its clients and its subsidiaries.

'Total privatisation of AI needed'

'Govt. has realised the need for its complete exit'

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT
NEW DELHI

The government will embark on 'total', or 100%, privatisation of Air India, Minister of State for Civil Aviation Hardeep Singh Puri said on Thursday.

"The government's determination to privatise AI is a given, it's undiluted. It should be total privatisation. We have to get the best possible deal in the shortest time possible," Mr. Puri said at a press conference. In its earlier attempt at disinvestment of Air India, the government had sought to sell 76% of its stake and retain the remainder.

The government's refusal to exit completely from Air India was among the main reasons why no private player came forward to participate in the privatisation process.

The Minister explained that the Group of Ministers headed by Amit Shah was likely to meet "in the next few days", to look at the proposal prepared by the Ministry of Civil Aviation and reviewed by the Committee of Secretaries in a recent meeting. The Minister said there were players interested in Air India.

The government has learnt from its past mistakes and, therefore, has realised the need for a complete exit from Air India. Another major obstacle it has sought to circumvent is the huge debt size of ₹58,000 crore until March 2019.

It has hived off ₹29,000 crore of this and transferred it to a special purpose vehicle to provide relief to the airline in terms of interest it has to pay on the debt as well as to attract private players.

The Minister refused to comment if the government would retire more debt when it offers the national carrier for privatisation again.

Focus on the messaging

'Mind your Marketing' is a brand initiative by The Hindu BusinessLine to profile marketing professionals from across India.

What are the three secrets to successful branding? These are the necessities than secrets in marketing:

- First, the focus on customer experience as a marketing vehicle. The generation today takes its time to experience things in order to create a perception.
- Second, the message - it should match the customer requirement and their needs in the most relatable way possible and it must be consistent. Multiple platforms and channels must not lead to different messages being broadcast to the same audience.
- Third, ensure you use the right technology and data to reach out to the audience in the most impactful way possible.

CG Power sacks chairman Gautam Thapar

Action after probe finds governance, financial lapses; no misappropriation of funds, asserts Thapar

MUMBAI

Gautam Thapar, chairman of CG Power and Industrial Solutions, was removed from the post with immediate effect by the company's board after an investigation by a legal firm found governance and financial lapses at the company.

Citing the current situation and recent developments, the CG Power Board of Directors, through a circular resolution passed by majority consent on Thursday, resolved to remove Mr. Thapar with immediate effect.

"This decision has been taken in the interests of the company and its stakeholders in discharge of the fiduciary responsibilities of the board," CG Power said in a filing with the exchanges.

On the defensive: No promoter or promoter entity derived any undue benefit, says Gautam Thapar. ■ GETTY IMAGES

On August 20, CG Power and Industrial Solutions disclosed to the exchanges that some unauthorised transactions had been carried out by certain employees of the company, resulting in understating of liabilities, advances and net worth. Reacting to his removal, Mr. Thapar said in a statement that the reports following the board meeting of August 19, 2019, were disheartening and did not reflect facts.

"In the interests of all stakeholders, including banks and financial institutions, I must say that no funds lent by banks nor any funds of CG have been misappropriated. The money has been applied with due board approval. All inter-corporate transactions have been fully authorised by the board," he said.

According to Mr. Thapar, no promoter or promoter entity had derived any undue benefit and there was 'simply no fraud'.

₹4,000 cr. paid back***

"Promoters who have paid back ₹4,000 crore to lenders since 2015 did not cheat. I had no opportunity to participate in the 'investigation' nor the resulting 'report'. I leave it to the stakeholders to draw their own conclusions from this fact. I will reaffirm this at the board meeting [on] August 30, 2019," he said.

In May, the company had sent its MD & CEO K.N. Neelkant on leave pending an investigation on "suspect, unauthorised and undisclosed transactions."

Shares hit upper circuit
CG Power shares on the BSE hit the upper circuit limit, rising 4.74% to close at ₹9.95 in a weak Mumbai market on Thursday.

This, after the company clarified that it was evaluating divestments of non-core assets and considering other fund-raising avenues, including a potential equity raise for bridging the cash flow gaps as well as working capital requirement, to avoid any business disruption.

Mining opportunities: Increased mining will cut avoidable imports of coal, says Partha S. Bhattacharyya. ■ G.N. RAO.

'100% FDI in coal will boost competitiveness'

More steps needed, says ex-CIL chief

PIYUSH PANDEY
KOLKATA / MUMBAI

The Centre's announcement allowing 100% foreign direct investment (FDI) in the coal sector should enhance Coal India Limited's (CIL) competitiveness and efficiency, said Partha S Bhattacharyya, former CIL chairman.

Ease-of-doing business
However, he felt that while this would kindle the interest of global miners, they would need increased ease-of-doing business and time-bound approvals before they invest here.

"The government has taken a slew of measures, but more needs to be done — they look for large mines and a simplified single-window for mining leases and environmental and forest clearances," he said.

In India, it takes at least six years from getting a mine allocation to actually starting mining operations.

This has now been fixed at 66 months. The Coal Ministry is taking steps such as doing away with the need for prior approval before a State government hands over the mining lease, which typically takes 6-12 months.

"Overseas investors usually do not view such long timelines favourably," Mr. Bhattacharyya said, adding India was among the few countries that still offer opportunities in the sector as most western countries had shut down coal mines.

He added that increased mining will also lower "avoidable imports of coal that India has to make due to the prevalent demand-supply gap. CIL's production is growing at a fast clip, but in 2018-19 India spent about $8 billion on importing 125 million tonnes of coal for non-coastal thermal plants."

Vedanta chairman Anil Agarwal said, "100% FDI in mining... will send a positive signal to global investors and give a significant push to the economy."

A senior Essar official told The Hindu, "India is one of the largest importers of thermal coal. Government allowing 100% FDI in coal mining will attract global miners of the likes of BHP and Anglo American. This will result in FDI inflow along with updated technology, and increase India's coal production." The Coal India chairman could not be reached for his comments.

Cox & Kings gets ROC nod to defer AGM

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA
NEW DELHI

Tours and travel firm Cox & Kings on Thursday said it had received approval from the Registrar of Companies (ROC) for a three-month extension for its annual general meeting (AGM).

The company, which had earlier this month said it was not in a position to finalise financial results for the June 2019 quarter due to its ongoing resolution plan, had sought an extension of deadline to hold its AGM. In a filing, Cox & Kings said the ROC, Mumbai, had given it time till December 30 to hold the AGM for FY19. The meeting was scheduled to be held on September 30.

Adani Green Energy to buy Essel Group's 205 MW of solar assets

Acquisition to be made at enterprise value of ₹1,300 crore

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT
MUMBAI

Adani Green Energy Limited (AGEL) has signed an agreement with Essel Group firms, Essel Green Energy Private Ltd. and Essel Infra-projects Ltd., to buy 205 MW of operating solar assets at an enterprise value of ₹1,300 crore.

The deal includes 10 operating solar PV companies with a combined capacity of 205 MW spread across Punjab, Karnataka and Uttar Pradesh. The companies have long-term power purchase agreements (PPAs) with various State electricity distribution companies.

Jayant Parimal, CEO, AGEL, said: "This is our first brownfield acquisition of operating assets. It expands our footprint in States where we already have presence, and with our strong operational expertise, will deliver significant value to our shareholders."

In a statement, an Essel Group spokesperson said,

"Our asset divestment process is well within the purview of the agreed timelines with our esteemed lenders. The sale of the group's solar assets to AGEL is yet another positive step taken in this direction."

The transaction in cash is expected to be completed by October 15, 2019, said AGEL in a filing with the exchanges. Post completion of the acquisition, AGEL's portfolio of renewable generation capacity in India will stand at 5,500 MW, with 2,403 MW operational projects and balance 3,007 MW in the development stage.

Shares of AGEL fell 2.25% to ₹43.35 on the BSE on Thursday.

'Myth is indifferent to data'

Author Devdutt Pattanaik says mythology is a map of the human mind. It helps you understand the world, life and culture. It is a subjective truth based on memory

PRAVEEN SUDEVAN

It is perhaps easier to find a needle in a haystack than ask Devdutt Pattanaik a question on Indian mythology that he has not answered before. For through 40-plus books, 1,000-plus columns and several talk shows, Devdutt, 48, has explored a multitude of mythological topics.

Devdutt was at The Raja Ravi Varma Heritage Foundation in Bengaluru earlier this week to offer an insight into the setting and thought behind Ravi Varma's paintings. Devdutt discusses the master artist and more.

Excerpts:

What fascinates you about Raja Ravi Varma's art?

● It is popular. I am interested in how old ideas are expressed in modern language. In the 19th and early 20th Century, gods became more human.

There was a shift in their appearance. After Ravi Varma, they looked like you and me. Before that, they did not.

They had bigger eyes and things like that... it wasn't realism.

Did Raja Ravi Varma change the way we looked at gods?

● Yes. Because that was the time new art schools emerged. The whole idea of art changed in India. The British brought new forms of thinking. New ways of drawing emerged. There were new ways of looking at the body. Indian art was always impressionist, Ravi Varma made it natural.

Historical and mythical truths are often read as the same. What are its ramifications?

● Knowledge is a more apt word than truth here. Knowledge based on everybody's facts is history. Knowledge based on somebody's facts is myth. Myth is indifferent to data. It is a subjective truth. God, devil, heaven, hell cannot be mathematically proved. None of them have evidence.

Mythology is conceptual. History as we know it is only 150 years old. Evidence can only tell you so much.

People confuse science with belief. Science is based on doubt, and religion on faith. Faith and doubt are opposites of each other

■ SUDHAKARA JAIN

It helps you understand things in a different way. And, mythology is based on memory. And, does memory matter? If it does not, then how will tribal cultures survive? Because they don't have written texts. If you ask a Baiga tribal person, 'What is the origin of the world?' and if their answers do not match the Big Bang theory, will you dismiss them as fools?

In the Mahabharata, at least in the popular versions of it, we have a mother of a hundred sons and catastrophic weapons. Several political leaders have linked these fantastical elements to modern scientific inventions like in vitro fertilization and nuclear weapons, claiming that they existed in ancient India.

How do you look at these interpretations? Every culture has such stories. It cannot be called scientific. People confuse science with belief. Science is based on doubt, and religion on faith. Faith and doubt are opposites of each other.

They are apples and oranges; you can not put them in the same basket. People who link these stories to modern science do it just to feel good about their ancestors – it is just to massage their egos.

What interests you about mythology?

● Mythology is a map of the human mind. It helps you understand the world, life and culture. Studying mythology was a hobby for a long time. Twenty years ago, it became serious.

What was your introduction to mythology?

● The usual... Amar Chitra Katha and other comics. It is just that I went into a deeper, academic study of it.

Do Amar Chitra Katha and TV shows portray a simplistic ## version of Indian mythology?

● They are just telling you the stories. The magic happens when you discuss these stories and explain them, which a comic book can not do. Comics are just the first layer of the story. What we don't have in them are the layering, the interconnectivity.

People don't realise how it is narrated traditionally. When a mother is telling a story to her child, she is also adding her own emotions, dialogues and connecting it to day-to-day life, which is missing in a comic.

What do you think is the best view of mythology?

● It is a psychological phenomenon. It is not objective. It is like a metaphor. One plus one equals two in mathematics; but in poetry, it can be 11.

One of the main arguments against religion is that it has, throughout history, led to bloodshed. Can an atheistic society be the significantly more non-violent? Was Vietnam war based on religion? Was World War I and II based on religion? Who gave us the idea that religion causes war?

There are many examples of wars being fought without religion. Somebody has taught us wrong. Why do we think academicians don't lie?

Our epics were, for a long time, passed orally until it was formalised through texts. What were its consequences?

● There are 100 texts that claim to be the same Valmiki Ramayana. There is nothing fixed. It is only in religions like Islam and Judaism there was a conscious attempt to remove all variations. In Hinduism, there wasn't such attempts. It is only now that Hindus who live abroad are trying to do that.

Thrown into nature

A global residency programme that invites artists to engage with different geographies and their landscapes, has Delhi-based Gunjan Tyagi participating this year

For five years now, there has been a fairly quiet international initiative that's been taking place annually. Called the Global Nomadic Art Project (GNAP), it invites a dozen or so artists from around the world and sends them to a country, where they spend a fortnight creating site-specific installations, through the experience of the place's geography.

The GNAP is initiated by Yatoo, the 38-year-old Korean Nature Artists' Association. It was when the programme's 2015 edition took place in India, that Delhi-based artist Gunjan Tyagi got invited to be on board the collective.

"They approached me by noticing my work on Facebook," 33-year-old Tyagi, a graduate of the J.J. School of Art, says. In that edition, the project took the group to stark landscapes in Gujarat – they had traversed through Ahmedabad, Rajkot, and Kutch, spending time understanding the landscape, and interacting with its contours to make their art.

This year, Tyagi is back on the GNAP, which is currently ongoing in Germany and Italy, and will conclude on 8th September.

"The programme encourages us to go into nature with no tools, respond to it by creating art – we don't use any external material, just what we find there, and make everything from scratch," Tyagi says. The artists can, however, use a camera to document their process, especially in cases where they use themselves as part of an installation. But mostly pieces that they make are left there, for passers-by to stumble upon, and to have nature grow back on it.

After her first time, Tyagi was invited back, along with another Delhi-based artist Aarati Zaveri, in 2017. This time, the project took them to two countries: the leg in Lithuania had them working in places like Ventė Cape, a town known for being a hotspot for migratory birds, and Raudonė Castle, a 19th Century castle that's now used as a school. In France, they worked in, among others, a small town with troglodyte homes still preserved.

"There's no homework that I do before going on these [GNAP] trips," Tyagi says. There isn't much that she can prepare herself with, barring some basic reading up about the place. Schedules are provided in advance, but it is only when you go there, meet people living in these landscapes, and work in them that ideas really crystallise.

FOOD SPOT

In search of Bihar in NCR

RAHUL VERMA

Whether you do lunch or eat it as an accompaniment to a drink, the food from the state is robust and leaves you yearning for more

The reason I find ride-hailing services convenient, is because they help me find new food outlets. I cannot get into a cab without having a long discussion with the usually friendly driver about food.

Recently, I had a great discussion about the food of Bihar with a driver who still had family living there. I was waxing eloquent about a dish called Champaran Mutton that I had once picked up from a small Bihari outlet. I told him about the garlic bulb in the gravy that had melted and soaked in all the fragrances of the spices and the juices. He, in turn, told me about people who queued up for the meat curry of Supaul, in his home district. It is something you will always remember, he said to me. One of these days, I shall go to Supaul and try out the meat. But all this talk of Bihari food had activated my gastric juices. Once I reached home, I went online to weigh the options, and zeroed in on a place called Khanti Bihari (KB) in Indirapuram.

Most people think that Bihari food is all about Litti and Chokha. While the two dishes – a ball of roasted dough and mashed veggies flavoured with mustard oil – are an important part of the diet, they are just one small segment of it. Bihari food includes some excellent meat dishes. The delicious Champaran Meat dish, for instance, is cooked with garlic, desiccated coconut, and black pepper.

Going in search of Khanti Bihari was almost like looking for Dr Livingstone in the forests of Africa. The address I had got was SD 137 Plot 12 A Jaipuria Sunrise Greens, Indirapuram (Phone numbers: 7370999111, 7370888111). But it was a difficult place to locate in the concrete jungle that's Indirapuram. I asked around, and finally found a security guard who knew where it was. It's right behind the Jaipuria mall, he said – and it was. It is a small eatery, with a bench on which you can sit and eat.

From the menu, I asked for a plate of KB special Bihari Murga (₹400), Litti Meat (₹150), Lehsuniya Sabzi (mixed vegetables, ₹90) and Dal Sagga (₹110). The menu also includes Chokha – mashed brinjal, potato or bitter gourd – with tomatoes and onions, for ₹70) and Machchi Sarson (mustard fish, ₹320). They have Moori Ghoogni (₹40, "blackgram thick gravy served on a bed of puffed rice – goes well with drinks," the menu card says, helpfully) and Chura Bhoonja (₹40, "flaked rice, fried and served with onions and spices, no healthier company to your drinks"). For those with a healthy appetite, there is the Pet bharia bhojan – mutton, rice and salad, for ₹140. Our chicken dish was hot and spicy, and went well with rice. I enjoyed the gravy of the fatty mutton that came with the litti, and the mixed veggies – potatoes, peas and more – did have a distinct garlicky flavour. The dal, cooked with bits of spinach, had a pleasant whiff of ghee, and we made a good meal of it.

Next on the agenda: Supaul.

Ethical wear

Quo, a women's pret wear brand, in collaboration with PETA India, has launched a collection called In Hand, using textiles such as cotton-satin and cotton-lurex, rather than silk, wool, or leather, making it vegan-friendly. Going beyond the subtle though, are motifs designed to communicate the cruelty society meets out to animals. For example, the monkey motif unveils the grim reality of how animals are silenced and the bird motif seeks to remind us to stop neglecting nature.

Sachin Bangera, Director of Celebrity and Public Relations, PETA India: says: "This new vegan collection is dedicated to PETA India's efforts to stop animal testing shows how easy it is to have a look that kills without killing animals."

Kohli's men look to sweep series

Pant's form is, however, a worry

INDIA IN WI
KINGSTON (JAMAICA)

Rishabh Pant will be desperate to pay back the faith reposed in him by the team management when India looks to steamroller West Indies with another dominant show in the second World Test championship encounter starting on Friday.

Tinkering unlikely
It is unlikely that India will be tinkering with its playing XI after a big win even though Pant's form has been a bit of a concern of late.

More than the runs scored, it is the manner of his dismissals that is causing frustration, considering that the Indian cricket establishment has invested heavily in the 21-year-old from Rourkee. His sequence of scores across formats during this current tour has been 0, 4, 65 not out, 20, 0, 24, 7.

With veteran Wriddhiman Saha back in the dressing room and the gutsy K.S. Bharat waiting in the wings, Pant can ill-afford to take things for granted.

Opener Mayank Agarwal wasn't in his element either in the first Test but it is expected that he would get another opportunity, which he rightfully deserves having worked hard in Australia.

Hanuma Vihari also justified his selection with a 93 in the second innings, meaning that Rohit Sharma's wait to make the side could just get a bit longer.

The pace bowling was near flawless in the first game with Ishant Sharma and Jasprit Bumrah looking menacing. Mohammed Shami was also very effective in short bursts, while Ravindra Jadeja proved his utility as an all-rounder.

For West Indies, there hasn't been much to write home about as none of its players even got a half-century in two innings. The saving grace for them was the new-ball pair of Shannon Gabriel and Kemar Roach, who bowled their hearts out.

The teams (from): India: Virat Kohli (Capt.), K.L. Rahul, Mayank Agarwal, Cheteshwar Pujara, Ajinkya Rahane, Hanuma Vihari, Rishabh Pant (wk), Ravindra Jadeja, Mohammed Shami, Ishant Sharma, Jasprit Bumrah, Wriddhiman Saha (wk), R. Ashwin, Umesh Yadav and Bhuvneshwar Kumar.

West Indies: Jason Holder (Capt.), Kraigg Brathwaite, Darren Bravo, Shamir Brooks, John Campbell, Roston Chase, Rahkeem Cornwall, Shane Dowrich, Shannon Gabriel, Shimron Hetmyer, Shai Hope, Keemo Paul and Kemar Roach.

Match starts at 8 p.m. IST.

Bumrah's spell in first Test one of the best by an Indian pacer: Arun

KINGSTON (JAMAICA)

Jasprit Bumrah's situational awareness is unmatched and his five-wicket haul in the second innings of the opening Test against the West Indies is one of the "best spells of fast bowling" by an Indian, feels the team's bowling coach Bharath Arun.

Bumrah, who was given a month's break after the World Cup, looked rusty in the first innings in Antigua but came back to claim five five for seven in 8 overs as India thrashed West Indies by 318 runs in the opening World Test Championship match.

"Bumrah is a thinking bowler. He is aware of situations and adjusts himself beautifully. If you see the lengths that he bowled in the second innings, he pitched the ball up and was getting appreciable movements," Arun said.

"That's the best spell of fast bowling I have seen from an Indian in a long, long time," he added.

For Arun, a coach's priority is to ensure that execution part is perfect as the outcome is then taken care of.

"Well, wickets are the outcome but I am not always looking at the outcome. I am looking at the execution part and that was exactly what was discussed with Bumrah after the first innings," Arun said. "His execution (in the first innings) was a trifle short and with his style of bowling, he should have pitched it up. Wickets were not a concern as the process of bowling right lengths will eventually get you wickets."

No Dhoni, but Hardik is back

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT
MUMBAI

All-rounder Hardik Pandya, who was rested for the tour of the West Indies because of lower-back issues, has been picked for the three-match T20I series to be played against South Africa.

Hardik has replaced seamer Bhuvneshwar Kumar who was in the team for the T20I series against the West Indies.

V.V. Subrahmanyam reports from Hyderabad

BCCI senior selection committee chairman M.S.K. Prasad informed The Hindu that M.S. Dhoni was not considered, as the panel preferred to give more chances to the young Rishabh Pant. "We will focus on him for some more time," he said.

Prasad added that Dhoni has himself not responded to them about his plans.

The chairman refused to engage in any debate on the subject.

Dube and Axar star for India-A

The former takes advantage of three reprieves; Chahal claims five

SA-A VS INDIA-A

M.R. PRAVEEN CHANDRAN
THIRUVANANTHAPURAM

The fielding from both sides was slipshod and catches were put down fairly regularly, but in the end, the three catches which South Africa-A dropped off Shivam Dube cost it the match.

Dube profited from the reprieves to carve out a game-changing innings of 79 not out (60b, 3x4, 6x6).

His hard-hitting knock and an unbroken 121-run seventh-wicket stand with an equally belligerent Axar Patel (60 not out, 36b, 6x4, 3x6) was the cornerstone of India-A's emphatic 69-run win in the opening unofficial one-day cricket match at the Sports Hub here on Thursday.

Dropped on three, 13 and 66, Dube's charge saw India-A amass 327 for six in a match reduced to 47 overs due to wet outfield.

South Africa conceded 105 runs in the last eight overs as both Dube and Axar cut loose.

Late assault
The visitors, till the late assault from the southpaws, were very much in the game after left-arm spinner Bjorn Fortuin put in a tidy shift in the middle overs to stragulate the run-rate.

After Shubman Gill's blazing start, India-A lost three quick wickets and then, Manish Pandey (39) and Ishan Kishan (37) repaired the damage with a 75-run stand for fifth wicket. They both departed in quick succession to give South Africa-A the advantage.

However, profligate bowling by medium-pacers Junior Dala and Beuran Hendriks in the death overs was cannon fodder for both Axar and Dube, who muscled the ball over the fence with ease.

South Africa-A needed a bright start from its openers but Janneman Malan and Reeza Hendricks were circumspect.

Damage

Spinners Yuzvendra Chahal and Krunal Pandya did the initial damage to derail the chase. Hendricks (110), who rode his luck, and Zondol (30) added 66 for the fourth wicket.

But the run-rate kept increasing and it was all over when Hendricks holed out after reaching his century.

Heinrich Klaassen struck a few lusty blows to minimise the damage.

The scores: India-A 327 for six in 47 overs (Shubman Gill 46, Anmolpreet Singh 29, Manish Pandey 39, Ishan Kishan 37, Shivam Dube 79 n.o.) bt South Africa-A 258 in 45 overs (Reeza Hendricks 110, Khaya Zondo 30, Heinrich Klaassen 58, Yuzvendra Chahal five for 47).

Akshath puts India Green in command

DULEEP TROPHY

SHREEDUTTA CHIDANANDA
BENGALURU

An assured 146 by opener Akshath Reddy put India Green in a commanding position on the opening day of its Duleep Trophy clash with India Red.

Akshath's 15th First Class hundred, and his 137-run stand for the third wicket with Siddhesh Lad, helped lay the foundation for a massive total after Green elected to bat. At stumps at the Alur grounds on Thursday, Green was 308 for four, with Priyam Garg and Akshay Wadkar at the crease.

Akshath fell in the final half-hour of the day's play, caught on the mid-wicket boundary slog-sweeping Akshay Wadhare. It brought to an end his 248-ball effort, after he had firmly blunted the Red attack all day. "I missed an opportunity there," he said later. "There were only six overs left. I wanted to keep the shot down but the ball was too full and it went up."

Akshath had only ever looked in trouble in the morning, when Jaydev Unadkat, Sandeep Warrier and Avesh Khan had beaten the bat several times during a testing first hour. He dropped anchor thereafter, and was not distracted even by the multiple stoppages to get the ball changed.

The last domestic season was Akshath's most productive yet, when the Hyderabad captain amassed 797 runs in the Ranji Trophy, at an average of 54.4. The 28-year-old picked up from where he had left off in that campaign. He took no risks against the pace bowlers and raised a steady half-century off 90 balls.

Akshath was more expansive against spin, charging down the pitch to Aditya Sarwate and lofting him over covers for four. Sarwate was later neatly dispatched over the sight-screen, as was part-timer Mahipal Lomror. Akshath completed his hundred (off 174 balls) with a boundary off Sarwate, stepping out to the left-arm spinner before drilling him through mid-wicket.

At the other end, fellow opener Faiz Fazal had fallen for 18, caught at fine-leg pulling Avesh. Dhruv Shorey made 44 before edging the Madhya Pradesh pacesman behind, shortly after lunch. Lad looked confident during his 64, which included two huge sixes, one of which landed outside the compound. The Mumbai batsman eventually perished attempting another big shot.

India Green clearly had a plan against Wadhare and Sarwate, not wanting either spinner to settle. The two bowlers, who toiled hard, could be in for another long day under the sun.

The scores: India Green 308 for four in 90 overs (Akshath Reddy 146, Siddhesh Lad 64, Dhruv Shorey 44, Priyam Garg 30 batting) vs India Red.

NEW YORK

Serena Williams nearly crashed out of the rain-hit US Open on Wednesday while top-ranked defending champion Novak Djokovic battled through shoulder pain and Roger Federer advanced despite a weak start.

Eighth seed Serena, seeking her 24th career Grand Slam title to match Margaret Court's all-time record, got a scare before ousting 17-year-old US wildcard Caty McNally 5-7, 6-3, 6-1.

"I survived tonight. I'm not too pleased with the way I played at all," said Serena.

Djokovic, winner of four of the past five Slam titles, was treated for a sore left shoulder throughout his 6-4, 7-6(3), 6-1 victory over Argentina's 56th-ranked Juan Ignacio Londero.

Djokovic's injury casts grave doubts on his bid to be the first US Open repeat winner since Federer won from 2004-2008, admitting he wondered if he would even get through the first set. Federer, who last triumphed here in 2008, rallied to beat 99th-ranked Bosnian Damir Dzumhur 3-6, 6-2, 6-3, 6-4.

The 38-year-old Swiss third seed, who also dropped the first set against Indian qualifier Sumit Nagal in his opener, answered the wake-up call despite 17 first-set unforced errors.

There were wins for seventh seed Kei Nishikori, French Open champion Ashleigh Barty and third seed Karolina Pliskova. However, seven-time Grand Slam winner Venus Williams crashed out.

Playing Federer and taking a set off him... couldn't have asked for more: Nagal

EXCLUSIVE

WASHINGTON DC

Fast-rising Indian tennis player Sumit Nagal was ecstatic when he was drawn to meet the legendary Roger Federer in the opening round at the U.S. Open. Nagal caused a flutter by getting the better of the legend in the first set before going down in four. The 22-year-old shared his experience in an interview with The Hindu. Excerpts:

Congrats on your match on Monday. How would you assess yourself?

First of all, thank you. Coming from not playing too many hardcourt tournaments this year and then qualifying for a slam, beating really good players in the qualifiers [qualifying rounds], then playing Federer and taking a set off him, playing in the biggest stadium in tennis history... I think I couldn't have asked for more. Overall, I was happy with my performance, with the tournament, with the way I

I didn't have too much time to practise on hardcourt as when I was playing at Hamburg, [in] my last tournament I fell on my ankle, it was not in great shape so I had to take a few weeks off and had to pull out of the next two tournaments after Hamburg. But since then I tried whatever I could. I tried to spend as much time on the hardcourt, but I didn't play great tennis but I was competing a lot, I was fighting every point. I think that's what matters.

In 2018 you were ranked in the 400s after injuries and match losses. You're now ranked 190 and on the first night of the Open you took the first set from Federer. Did you think that would happen?

The funny part with tennis is, anything is possible. You do not know what is going to happen the next morning because you wake up and feel amazing and the other person can feel like [it's] his worst day ever. Tennis is a many thousands of people cheering, making noise. It's just a great, great, great feeling.

I used to play a lot of cricket when I was young. I used to spend a lot of hours on cricket. But my dad was not too happy about it, he wanted me to play an individual sport and that's how I got into tennis.

Meeting Mahesh Bhupathi was a turning point in your journey...

Meeting Mahesh was a turning point. He has played a big role in my tennis, in my life. He has been a part of my journey for the past twelve years. I have been playing tennis for fourteen years, so it does affect [things] a lot. He has always been there... whenever I needed funding, he would find whatever he could to support me.

What next for you?

I am planning to play some tournaments on clay in Europe and South America and then maybe finish the year with some hardcourt tournaments in China and India.

Sports scribes left clueless

NEW DELHI

Earning a National sports award is difficult. Covering the awards function, at the Rashtrapati Bhawan, is no less. At least, that is how the experience has been for the past few years.

On Thursday, it hit a new low. The mainstream sports journalists were left clueless in the absence of any official communication pertaining to the ceremony.

In a surprise departure from the past, the Press Information Bureau chose to ignore those who cover sportspersons and their performance round the year. Instead, the PIB invited only those who were on its list of accredited correspondents. Here too, not all were included.

The process in the past involved non-accredited sports journalists to make a request to cover the ceremony and the PIB always issued the invitation cards.

However, this year, there seems to have been total secrecy over the issuance of invitations. Almost all the mainstream dailies stood ignored.

The saving grace came from the Sports Authority of India.

On its part, SAI continued with its tradition of extending invitations to all National Sports Day-related functions, including the Fit India Movement launch by Prime Minister Narendra Modi at the Indira Gandhi Stadium. Here, arrangements were made even for non-PIB accredited correspondents.

K.P. Bhaskar back as Delhi coach

Rajkumar Sharma will be in charge of bowling

VIJAY LOKAPALLY
NEW DELHI

K. P. Bhaskar will be Delhi's coach this season, while Virat Kohli's childhood mentor Rajkumar Sharma has been named the bowling coach. The announcement was made by the Delhi and District Cricket Association (DDCA) here on Thursday.

The two-member Cricket Advisory Committee (CAC) of Yashpal Sharma and Sunil Valsan, which conducted the interviews, found Bhaskar's credentials for the post impeccable. It was observed that Bhaskar had performed well as head coach when Delhi finished runner-up to Vidarbha in 2018.

Bhaskar had reapplied for the job last season but the CAC, comprising Virender Sehwag, Aakash Chopra and Rahul Sanghvi, thought it prudent to bring in Mithun Manhas as Delhi's coach. The team fared poorly and the DDCA had to fall back on Bhaskar for this season since Manhas did not apply for the job. Others in the fray were Manoj Prabhakar, Hitesh Sharma, Shankar Saini and N. S. Negi. Having handled various assignments handed to him by the Board of Control for Cricket in India (BCCI), including stints at the National Cricket Academy, Bhaskar took up the challenge of guiding Uttarakhand last season when the team made its First Class debut. Bhaskar delivered by ensuring Uttarakhand qualified for the knockouts where it lost to Vidarbha in the quarterfinals, the eventual Ranji Trophy champion.

Bhaskar said, "I am very happy to be appointed as the head coach. It would be nice to take Delhi forward, to make it a powerhouse of domestic cricket that consistently challenges and wins major titles. I am looking forward once again to work with the talented bunch of cricketers that we have. I am thankful to the CAC for giving me this opportunity."

Aware of expectations Rajkumar Sharma, who was Delhi's under-23 coach in 2018 when it won the national title, also returns to the team after a season's gap. "I am really excited to be part of the coaching set up for the senior team. I am aware of the expectations that come along with me and I will work hard with the bowling unit to deliver results this season. I have worked closely with most Delhi boys when I was part of age-group teams and that would stand me in good stead," Sharma said on his new role.

Bhaskar and Sharma have Atul Wassen as chairman of the senior selection committee. All three are products of the iconic Sonnet Cricket Club.

Van Dijk, Bronze win top UEFA prize

MONACO

Liverpool centre-back Virgil van Dijk won the UEFA Men's Player of the Year award on Thursday, edging out Lionel Messi and Cristiano Ronaldo, while Lucy Bronze took the women's prize.

Dutchman Van Dijk starred as Liverpool won its sixth European Cup last season with a final victory over Tottenham in Madrid.

"I need to thank my teammates, without them I would not have achieved what I have achieved," Van Dijk told BT Sport.

"It's been a long road and it's part of my journey. I'm very proud to get this trophy. It's credit to everyone who has helped me."

The 28-year-old is the first defender to win the award since the inaugural edition in 2010-11. Van Dijk was also part of the Netherlands side which lost the inaugural Nations League final.

Full-back Bronze won the Women's Champions League title with Lyon before helping England reach the women's World Cup semifinals. The 27-year-old Bronze is the first English player to win either of the UEFA player of the year titles.

Bottas will continue to be Hamilton's partner; Ocon for Renault

SPA-FRANCORCHAMPS

Valtteri Bottas will remain as Lewis Hamilton's Mercedes teammate next year while Esteban Ocon will replace Nico Hulkenberg at Renault, the teams announced on Thursday.

Frenchman Ocon's return to a race seat after a season spent as test and reserve driver with Mercedes was announced soon after champion Mercedes had decided to give Bottas a fourth year alongside five-time champion Hamilton.

Busy day On a busy first day back after the European summer shutdown, the Formula One paddock was alive with transfer talk and other speculation, including a likely return to action by Marcus Ericsson at Alfa Romeo ahead of the Belgian Grand Prix on Sunday.

Mercedes has exercised an option to retain Bottas, who turned 30 on Wednesday. Since joining Mercedes in 2017, the Finn has won five Grands Prix and is second by 62 points behind Hamilton in this year's title race.

"My overall target is to become Formula One world champion. I believe that on paper, and from my experience with the team, Mercedes is the best option for me to achieve that goal in 2020," said Bottas.

"We have a great working relationship, Valtteri and I, and he's constantly improving," said Hamilton. "I think it was a smart decision from the team, to be honest... we get on well both outside and on the track."

Formula One also announced a record 22-race season next year with Vietnam joining the championship and the Dutch Grand Prix making its return to delight Max Verstappen and his fans at the iconic Zandvoort circuit.

But Red Bull's gifted young Dutch driver won't have the chance to repeat last month's success at Hockenheim with the German Grand Prix dropped from FI's draft calendar released on Thursday.

Saidan shocks Unique Model in the summit clash

SUBROTO CUP

ANANT KAUR
NEW DELHI

Saidan Secondary School (Mizoram) dethroned Unique Model Academy (Manipur) 2-0 to win the Diamond Jubilee edition of the Subroto Cup international football tournament in the sub-junior boys' (under-14) category. This was Saidan's maiden title.

Saidan also bagged the best team award while B. Romalsawma, from the winning team, was adjudged the 'best player' of the tournament. The best goalkeeper award went to Manipur's Bijando.

The Mizoram side showed its attacking intent right from the start and six minutes into the contest, Romalsawma put the team ahead. With two minutes left in the first

miss, scoring his 14th goal of the tournament with seven minutes left for the final whistle.

Confidence booster

Hunmawia said later, "When I missed the penalty, I was feeling very nervous, but at half-time, the coach boosted my confidence and told me to just attack."

Manipur's Th. Ibochouba was feeling dejected after the loss.

"We tried really hard to come back into the match after we saved the penalty, but that didn't happen because their defence was strong.

"We will practice hard and win the cup next time."

Labulliana of Saidan was declared the 'best coach' while the fairplay award went to Our Lady Mount Carmel High School (Goa).

LUCKNOW

India's opponent for the two-leg Olympic qualifier and a fight for a spot at the Tokyo Games would be confirmed on September 9 after a live draw at the FIH headquarters in Lausanne with a likely clash at home against Pakistan, as reported first by The Hindu.

The draw, to be conducted by FIH CEO Thierry Weil, would see 14 teams drawn into seven pairs with the winners on aggregate going to Tokyo in 2020.

The FIH on Thursday released the list of teams making the cut for the qualifiers as per current world rankings, with the top-eight being host teams.

However, with the Oceania Cup ending on September 8, FIH admitted the rankings might change although that would have little effect on the Indian teams' standings or hosting status.

"Since either Australia or New Zealand will qualify directly to the Olympic Games Tokyo 2020 as winners of the Oceania Cup, the group of 'host teams' will be reduced to seven teams... FIH will confirm all the teams involved in the draw, as well as their final ranking order, on September 8 after the publication of the FIH World Rankings," it said in a statement.

As per the current FIH order, Indian men are placed third while Pakistan is 13th (excluding the teams already qualified). With both New Zealand and Australia in the top-half, India's position in top-three is likely to be safe.

The bottom half is likely to remain unchanged, keeping Pakistan in the bottom-three and in with a chance to draw India.

Among the women, India is currently placed seventh but would gain a spot regardless of who wins the Oceania Cup, and stay on course to host the tie.

List of qualified teams (in current rankings order):

Men: Host teams: 1. Australia, 2. the Netherlands, 3. India, 4. Germany, 5. Great Britain, 6. Spain, 7. New Zealand, 8. Canada.

Women: Host teams: 1. Australia, 2. Germany, 3. Great Britain, 4. Spain, 5. New Zealand, 6. Ireland, 7. India, 8. China.

Qualified teams: 9. Korea, 10. Belgium, 11. USA, 12. Canada, 13. Italy, 14. Chile, 15. Russia.

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT KOLKATA
India prevailed over holder Bangladesh 4-0 in the final outing of the round-robin league encounter on Thursday to progress to the final of the SAFF under-15 football championship with an all-win record. The host will now take on Nepal (nine points), which blanked Bhutan 6-0 on Saturday.
The results: India 4 (Himanshu Jangra 29, 74, 79, Renedy Meetei 90) bt Bangladesh 0; Nepal 6 (Pradip Lamsal 7, 48, Niranjani Khattri 11, 85, Ashim Rai 75, Sugam Jimee 90+4) bt Bhutan 0.

Anjali qualifies for Worlds again

Thingalaya betters his own meet record in the 110m hurdles

UTHRA GANESAN LUCKNOW

The 59th National Inter-State athletics championships finally had something to cheer with Anjali winning the 400m and qualifying for the World Championships here, for the second time, and it was as impressive and surprising as the last time she made the cut 11 months ago.

The 21-year-old Haryana girl had clocked 51.79 seconds at the National Open meet at Bhubaneswar in September last to book her Doha ticket.

On Thursday, she beat her own mark with a timing of 51.53s to make the cut yet again.

Anjali's performance had been dipping drastically since the Bhubaneswar meet despite training in Turkey.

Her timings in the four races she ran in 2019 before Thursday were 54.50 (IGP 1 in Feb), 55.98 (IGP 2 in March) and 55.93 and 56.40 (Fed Cup, March). Since then, she had been out of the national camp as well as off the circuit.

Under treatment
"I came back from Turkey due to injury and was not fully fit at the Federation Cup. Since then I have been under treatment with my personal doctor and training with coach Rohtas Siwach at home only. I am confident of going back to the national camp in Patiala after this," Anjali said.

In the morning session, Siddhant Thingalaya broke his own meet record with a 13.65 second dash in the 110m hurdles though the Worlds mark of 13.46s remains elusive.

The results: Men: 10,000m: 1. T. Gopi (Ker, 30:52.75s), 2. Arjun Kumar (UP, 30:55.71), 3. Vikram Bangriya (Goa, 30:59.98).

Discus: 1. Behnam Shiri (Iri, 57.82m), 2. Kirpal Singh (Pun, 57.67m), 3. Gagandeep Singh (Pun, 54.47m); High jump: 1. Sarvesh Kushare (Mah, 2.23), 2. Geo (Ker, 2.21m), 3. B. Chethan (Kar, 2.19m).

Women: 400m: 1. Anjali (Har, 51.53s), 2. Saritaben Gayakwad (Guj, 52.96), 3. Jisna Mathew (Ker, 53.08).

10,000m: 1. Phoolan Pal (UP, 37:00.52), 2. Kavita Yadav (Kar, 37:03.16), 3. Kiran Sahdev (Mah, 37:10.58); Triple jump: 1. Bhairabi Roy (Ben, 13.01m), 2. Aishwarya (Kar, 12.85), 3. Karthika Gothandapani (AP, 12.74m).

Javelin: 1. Sharmila (Har, 54.58), 2. Sanjana Choudhary (Raj, 50.71), 3. Rashmi K (Kar, 50.66); Pole vault: 1. Krishna Rachan (Kar, 3.80), 2. Nivya (Rach, 3.60), 3. Sinju MK (Ker, 3.30).

Unbeaten Anand finishes joint third

SINQUEFIELD CUP

SPORTS BUREAU SAINT LOUIS (USA)

Viswanathan Anand played out his 10th successive draw after facing Hikaru Nakamura and finished an impressive joint third in the Sinquefield Cup chess tournament here on Wednesday.

The unbeaten Indian aggregated six points in the strongest tournament of the year. He ended up half a point behind overnight leader Ding Liren and comeback-man Magnus Carlsen.

To decide the champion, two rapid games, with a time-control of 25 minutes plus a 10-second increment from the first move, will be played. If needed, two five-minute blitz games with a three-second increment will follow. Should the tie persist, the Grand Chess Tour chief arbiter will decide on a way to break the deadlock.

Out of the four players trailing Liren by half a point at the start of the final round, only Carlsen won after his rival Maxime Vachier-Lagrave blundered in the middle game. This was Carlsen's second successive win after nine straight draws.

Later Liren drew with Shakhriyar Mamedyarov to force the tie-break games for the title.

The results (11th round): Viswanathan Anand (6) drew with Hikaru Nakamura (USA, 5); Maxime Vachier-Lagrave (Fra, 5) lost to Magnus Carlsen (Nor, 6.5); Ding Liren (Chn, 6.5) drew with Shakhriyar Mamedyarov (Aze, 5.5); Fabiano Caruana (USA, 5.5) drew with Sergey Karjakin (Rus, 6); Anish Giri (Ned, 5.5) bt Ian Nepomniachtchi (Rus, 5.5); Wesley So (USA, 4.5) drew with Levon Aronian (Arm, 4.5).

Elavenil clinches air rifle gold in close final

SPORTS BUREAU RIO DE JANEIRO

Elavenil Valarivan clinched the women's air rifle gold in the shooting World Cup in Rio de Janeiro. The 20-year-old Elavenil shot 251.7 in the final to beat Seonaid McIntosh of Britain by 1.1 point.

After qualifying in the fourth place with 629.4, Elavenil jumped into the lead after the top three were tied on 147.1 after 14 shots in the 24-shot final. Elavenil enhanced the lead to 1.6 point over the Briton, before the last shot, and could get away with a below par 9.6 last shot.

"I am thrilled with this gold", said Elavenil, who was profuse in thanking mentor Gagan Narang.

Pandey for exceptional guidance that had helped her touch world standards consistently.

Anjum Moudgil shot 629.1 in qualification and placed sixth eventually. Apurvi Chandela missed the final by 0.6 point.

Sanjeev Rajput clinched the eighth Olympic quota place for Tokyo 2020 with the silver medal in men's rifle 3-position.

Sanjeev had the gold on hand, but a below par last shot saw him miss his second World Cup gold, after the one he had won in 2011, by a slender 0.2 point margin to Petar Gorsa of Croatia who had won the Olympic quota in air rifle.

It was a brave effort by Sanjeev, as he had to endure a "zero" credited to him on the 39th shot in kneeling position, in the qualification phase. Eventually, he qualified in style with 1180, after a protest by the Indian camp was upheld.

Sanjeev joined Anjum Moudgil, Apurvi Chandela, Saurabh Chaudhary, Abhishek Verma, Divyansh Singh Panwar, Rahi Sarnobat and Manu Bhaker who have won the Olympic quota.

The results: Women: 10m air rifle: 1. Elavenil Valarivan 251.7 (629.4); 2. Seonaid McIntosh (GBR) 250.6 (628.9); 3. Ying-Shin Lin (Tpe) 229.9 (628.9); 6. Anjum Moudgil 166.8 (629.1); 11. Apurvi Chandela 627.7. MQS: Mehuli Ghosh 629.1.

Men: 50m rifle 3-position: 1. Petar Gorsa (Cro) 462.2 (1177); 2. Sanjeev Rajput 462.0 (1180); 3. Zhang Changhong (Chn) 449.2 (1181); 49. Chian Singh 1161, 57. Parul Kumar 1148.

Sushil eyeing the elusive Olympic gold

Y.B. SARANGI KOLKATA

At 36, Sushil Kumar is one of the oldest wrestlers to vie for a spot in the Tokyo Olympics. The two-time Olympic medallist will give it another try in the men's freestyle 74kg against a clutch of top wrestlers who are younger to him.

Sushil, who won bronze in the 2008 Beijing Olympics and a silver in London four years later in 66kg, is driven by his hunger. "I am eyeing the medal that is absent – the third one, the gold," Sushil told The Hindu after a gruelling training session in preparation for the World championships in Nur-Sultan, Kazakhstan, in September.

Sushil's feud with Nars-

ingh Yadav over the 74kg ticket to the Rio Olympics four years ago may have been a bitter episode in the history of Indian wrestling, but the former World champion has not been flustered in chasing his ambition.

"The morning happens after every night. On the road, we find the red-light signal, speed-breakers and traffic-jams but we move on overcoming every hurdle. Like that, life goes on," was Sushil's philosophical take on how he managed to forget the unpleasant episode and re-focus on his target.

Instead of evading the National selection trials, this time he went through it and emerged as the rightful claimant to compete in the World championships – an Olympic qualifying event.

"Inside the country, I manage to get the better of others. But every opponent poses a different challenge and no one can be taken lightly."

The top-six finishers in each Olympic weight in Nur-Sultan will earn a place in the 2020 Games. Needless to say, Sushil, who clinched his third gold in the Commonwealth Games before crashing out of the Asian Games last year, is primarily aiming for a Tokyo berth.

Tough journey

His journey is expected to be tough, considering that 74kg is packed with the best, including Olympic medallist and two-time World champion Frank Chamizo Marquez, former Olympic and multiple World champion Jordan Burroughs, current World title holder Zaurbek Sidakov and silver medallist Avtandil Kentchadze and two-time Asian Games champion Bekzod Abdurakhmonov.

Sushil is toughening himself under the guidance of Russian coach Kamal Malikov, who was roped in by Tata Motors in April after getting a go-ahead from the Wrestling Federation of India.

Warriors overcome Thalaivas

ANANT KAUR NEW DELHI

Bengal Warriors won its encounter against Tamil Thalaivas 35-26 on the penultimate day of the PKL at the Thyagaraj Sports Complex here on Thursday.

Thalaivas started the match on a bright note, with Ajay Thakur impressing in his raids and the defence not allowing Bengal Raider Maninder Singh to settle in the match.

Warriors' K. Prapanjan inflicted an 'all out' on Thalaivas with a two-point raid in the 11th minute. In the process, Prapanjan and Rinku Narwal secured super 10s. The first-half score was 15-14.

On resumption, Warriors won four straight points with successful raids from Prapanjan and Sukesh Hegde. Thalaivas' Anand achieved a

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT KOLKATA

Bir Bahadur Chhetri, a member of the 1980 Moscow Olympics gold medal-winning national hockey team, feels the current Indian squad is capable of qualifying for the 2020 Tokyo Olympics.

Chhetri said the Indian side ticked almost all the boxes to be able to make it to the mega event. "I feel they will do well and qualify. Now the fitness level is very high. "The best players are being selected and we hope they will perform well," said Chhetri, who was conferred the Lifetime Achievement Award by Hockey Bengal on the occasion of National Sports Day here on Thursday.

"They start (tournaments) on a good note but lose in crucial matches. The coaches have to look into it. They should do well under (Australian coach) Graham Reid."

On being conferred the award, Chhetri said, "It is a great feeling as I played here."

Skull found in Ethiopia yields clues on how humans evolved

The watershed discovery rivals the famous Lucy skeleton in importance

WASHINGTON

Scientists have announced the landmark discovery in Ethiopia of a nearly complete skull of an early human ancestor that lived 3.8 million years ago, a species boasting an intriguing mixture of ape-like and human-like characteristics.

The fossil dubbed MRD, which provides insight into a pivotal period for the evolutionary lineage that eventually led to modern humans, belongs to the species Australopithecus anamensis, which first appeared roughly 4.2 million years ago.

This species is considered the direct ancestor of Australopithecus afarensis, the species best known from the famous partial skeleton nicknamed 'Lucy' unearthed in 1974, about 56 km from the site in the Afar region of Ethiopia where the MRD skull was found in 2016. Lucy dates from about 3.2 million years ago.

MRD and Lucy together stand as watershed fossils for illuminating early human ancestors.

"This is once-in-a-lifetime discovery, and there is nothing more exciting than that," said Cleveland Museum of Natural History palaeoanthropologist Yohannes Haile-Selassie, a leader of the research published in the journal Nature. "We are talking about the most complete cranium of an early human ancestor ever found in the fossil record older than 3 million years."

Until now, the only Australopithecus anamensis cranial remains were isolated jaw fragments and teeth, making it difficult to fully understand the species. The skull is critical for learning about a species' diet, brain size and facial appearance.

The discovery finally allows scientists "to put a face to the name" regarding Australopithecus anamensis, said palaeoanthropologist and study co-author Stephanie Melillo of the Max Planck Institute for Evolutionary Anthropology in Germany.

"The anatomical features in this skull help us to characterise this species, which in turn inform our ideas about the evolutionary relationships among species," Ms. Melillo added.

Smaller than humans

MRD's species, which was bipedal but may also have been able to move around in trees, was much smaller than modern humans.

Its skull, found about 550 km northeast of Ethiopia's capital Addis Ababa, measures about 8 inches front to back and 4.5 inches wide. Previous research suggested the species reached about 5 feet tall, but the researchers did not give a height estimate for this individual, apparently an adult male.

The upper jaw, sticking out of the ground, was the first piece found, leading to the recovery of the rest of the skull.

"What we see in the new cranium is like a primitive face," Mr. Haile-Selassie said.

Robustly built

It had a robustly built and long face with protrusive jaws and a well-developed "sagittal crest", a ridge of bone atop the head indicating strong jaw muscles. The researchers said it apparently inhabited arid shrubland near a river delta and lake.

It hails from a time between 4.1 million and 3.6 million years ago when early human ancestor fossils are exceptionally scarce.

The evolutionary lineage that led to people split from the chimpanzee lineage roughly 6 million to 7 million years ago, gradually acquiring traits such as bipedal walking, flatter face and increased brain size through a succession of species. Homo sapiens appeared roughly 300,000 years ago in Africa.

In scientific parlance, MRD's species was a hominin, a group consisting of modern humans, extinct human species and immediate ancestors including various Australopithecus species. MRD's skull shows a combination of primitive traits seen in older species as well as characteristics resembling those in later hominins.

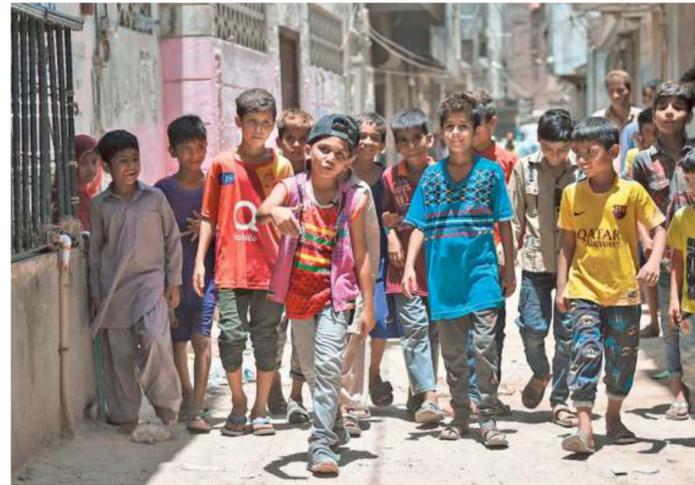

In MRD, there are some primitive features similar to those in an earlier group called Sahelanthropus, including a long and narrow shape of the braincase and the shape of the location on the back of the skull where the neck muscles attach.

MRD also shows a reduction in canine size from older species, though these teeth are still larger than Lucy's species, as canine size progressively diminished among later hominins. Some aspects of its face foreshadowed traits in later species such as the structure of the cheek bones, which anchor important chewing muscles.

The MRD fossil's age indicates this species co-existed for approximately 100,000 years with Lucy's species, challenging previous notions that the earlier species had evolved into the later one with no overlap.

"The fact that these two very closely related species were overlapping both temporally and spatially brings up new questions about whether they were competing for resources like food or space," Ms. Melillo said.

Straight outta Karachi: rap music gets a unique spin

KARACHI

Haunted by gang violence and poverty for decades, Lyari was once considered one of Pakistan's most dangerous areas, but those grim realities also inspired a generation of artists and spawned a burgeoning hip hop scene.

With its close proximity to the sea and history of smuggling, the largely ethnic Balochi neighbourhood in Karachi stands apart for its history of violence and lawlessness.

"Lyari was a notorious place because of the gangs and the war. It was almost impossible for outsiders to even think about entering," explains resident and new rapper Mohammad Omar.

But in recent years, the gangs have been brought to heel following a heavy-handed operation by paramilitary forces that kicked off in 2013 and saw the streets turned into virtual war zones.

But the worst of the violence has abated, and an increase in security has led to flowering creativity.

The embattled neighbourhood now clings fiercely to its reputation for producing top footballers, iron-chinned boxers, and socially conscious rappers.

Street performance

The rise of hip hop in Lyari mirrors the genre's own birth decades ago in New York's Bronx borough, where it largely centred around street performances and featured lyrics that addressed social ills and life in urban ghettos. Hip hop became a global phenomenon, but the genre initially failed to generate much traction in Pakistan where music fans tended to listen to pop, Bollywood soundtracks or traditional Sufi music.

The occasional forays by Pakistani musicians into hip hop over the years largely served as interludes in pop songs. Not so in Lyari where rappers were influenced by the likes of Tupac Shakur and looked to their own experiences for lyrical inspiration. "In other cities and provinces, there's rap but it's mostly about beautiful women and luxury cars," says producer Qammar Anwar Baloch. "We are showing reality."

With little performance space available, Lyari's rappers have largely turned to the Internet to share their clips of their songs, which generate millions of views online.

"I want to highlight the issues in Karachi and my own area in Lyari," explains eight-year-old rapper Waqas Baloch, who released a video under the moniker Thousand earlier this year.

Controversial Tibetan monk, accused of sexual abuse, is dead

He authored a best-selling book on Buddhist wisdom

BANGKOK

A controversial Tibetan monk whose best-selling book on Buddhist wisdom was overshadowed by multiple allegations of sexual abuse has died in Thailand, his official social media account reported.

Sogyal Rinpoche, a former close friend of the Dalai Lama, suffered a pulmonary embolism and "left this world" on Wednesday, a post on his Facebook page said.

"The doctors did everything they could but could not restore the function of his heart... Rinpoche is now resting in meditation," it said.

Rinpoche penned the best-selling The Tibetan Book of Living and Dying in 1992, which became a huge hit in the West with people disillusioned with their lifestyles.

It explored birth, karma, death and reincarnation, and how to train the mind through meditation.

Born in 1947 in Tibet, Sogyal Lakar Rinpoche was recognised as the reincarnation of Tertson Sogyal, a teacher of the 13th Dalai Lama. In the 1970s, he became more prominent internationally and founded Rigpa, a network of more than 100 spiritual centres, many of them in France.

He was pushed out of the organisation in 2017 after former students accused him of physical, emotional, psychological and sexual abuse. The current Dalai Lama came out against his former friend, calling him "disgraced".

Rinpoche always denied the allegations, but an independent inquiry upheld many of the complaints and he withdrew from public life.

Measles cases 3 times more than last year

REUTERS
GENEVA

Every region in the world, except the Americas, is experiencing an increase in the number of cases of measles, a vaccine-preventable disease that can kill or disable children, the World Health Organization (WHO) said on Thursday.

Kate O'Brien, director of WHO's department of immunisation, put the blame on weak health systems and misinformation about vaccines, and called on social media outlets and communities to make sure information on preventing the highly contagious disease was accurate.

Nearly three times as many cases were reported from January to July this year than in the same period in 2018, the WHO said.

Two new species of eels discovered

BERHAMPUR

Two new species of marine eel were discovered and documented this month by the Estuarine Biology Regional Centre (EBRC) of the Zoological Survey of India (ZSI) at Gopalpur in Odisha.

One of them is a short brown unpatterned moray eel now named Gymnothorax andamanensis. Two specimens of this eel were caught in two-metre-deep waters off the south Andaman coast by J. Praveenraj of the Division of Fisheries Science, ICAR-Central Inland Agricultural Research Institute, Port Blair, on March 18. It had been sent to ZSI Gopalpur for identification.

Anil Mohapatra, a scientist at Gopalpur ZSI, and his colleague Swarup Ranjan, after a detailed study, identified the specimens as a complete new species.

The discovery was reported in scientific journals.

Till now, 10 species of short brown unpatterned moray eels have been discovered in the world, out of which two were found in Indian waters. With this new discovery, the number has increased to three.

Similarly, a new white-spotted moray eel, now named Gymnothorax smithi has also been identified by Gopalpur's ZSI scientists. Its first specimen was found in the Arabian Sea in 2011.

Biodiversity hotspot

Recently, a few more specimens were collected from the southeastern Arabian Sea, off the Kerala coast. These specimens had also reached the Gopalpur ZSI for identification.

Marine eels are mostly found in shallow waters but some of them live offshore in sandy or clayey bottoms ranging up to 500 metres. According to Dr. Mohapatra, till now, 49 species of moray eel from 10 genera had been reported from Indian waters, and their species numbers have increased to 50 with the new addition.

An estuarine museum is coming up on the campus of the ZSI at Gopalpur.

This first-of-its-kind museum in Odisha is expected to be ready by the end of 2021.

To be built at a cost of over ₹11 crore, it will showcase the coastal and marine animal diversity of the country, with a special focus on Odisha and the Chilika lake.

S. Africa struggles to bury inequality

JOHANNESBURG

If death is the great equaliser, South Africa's designer graveyards look like one of the best ends on offer.

With hot tea, wifi and soft sofas for visitors and relatives, a new breed of luxury cemetery is reinforcing divides between Johannesburg's haves and have-nots.

Memorial Park cemetery in Soweto, South Africa's biggest township, is one of five cemeteries owned by listed company Calgro M3, whose fortunes are tied to land and housing.

The plush cemeteries they have added to their portfolio of houses and retirement homes have sharply divided opinion: lauded as a wise investment by some, derided as elitist by others. "Everyone deserves a decent send-off," said Lawrence Poole, who buried his cousin in the cemetery last month.

"But unfortunately this is dependent on your pocket," he said from the Nasrec Memorial Park office.

Grave plots at the Nasrec Memorial Park range from 24,500 rand (₹1.15 lakh) to 360,000 rand (₹16.77 lakh) for an eight-person family plot with extra features, such as plants and benches.

A burial plot at a public cemetery costs 3,000 rand (₹14,300) on average.

crime, even in cemeteries. Mourners have reported graveside muggings, ransacked cars, and even coffins dug up to be resold to unknowing customers.

"The cemetery is an idiom for the segregation we still see today in post-apartheid South Africa," said Thulisile Mphambukeli, a town planner and senior lecturer at the University of the Free State.

In Johannesburg there are 32 public cemeteries, plus a handful of private ones, according to the City of Johannesburg.

With about 14,000 burials a year, the city estimates there are enough plots available for the next half century.

"Designer cemeteries segregate South Africans on class. It is a continuity of inequality created by apartheid," Ms. Mphambukeli told the Thomson Reuters Foundation.
