Islamabad has asked all Kashmiri militants in Pakistanoccupied Kashmir to cross the Line of Control and launch jihad in the Valley. It has also ordered closure of offices of Kashmiri militant outfits in Rawalpindi and asked them to shift to Muzaffarabad, capital of PoK, to give the fresh violent movement a complete Kashmiri look.

Pakistan has already vented its fire and fury over the scrapping of Article 370, giving special powers to Jammu and Kashmir, on the global stage, and the directions are aimed at giving a practical shape to its "bloodbath in Kashmir" statement.

Imran Khan had made the statement at the UNGA after

India and Bangladesh kept the contentious issue of National Register of Citizens (NRC) on the back burner and instead focused on steps to build ties on security, trade and transportation links. The two sides took the first step towards a riverwater-sharing pact and agreed to improve their border management to ensure zero killing of civilians by the BSF.

Both sides opted to paper over the uncertainties due to NRC after Bangladesh PM Sheikh Hasina raised it. India had earlier quelled Bangladeshi misgivings on the NRC in Assam during External Affairs Minister S Jaishankar's visit to Dhaka and then at a meeting between PM Modi and his Bangladesh counterpart in New York.

But fresh concern has arisen in Bangladesh after Union Home Minister Amit Shah spoke about extending NRC to the entire country and giving citizenship to all those not figuring in the register, barring Muslims. the existing liberalised family pension, financial assistance from the Army Group Insurance, Army Welfare Fund and ex gratia amount.

The ABCWF has been set up under the Department of Welfare Ex-Servicemen (ESW), Ministry of Defence, after a large number of people offered to provide monetary assistance to the families of battle casualties following an incident in February 2016 at Siachen, wherein 10 soldiers were buried in an avalanche. The fund was created under the Charitable Endowments Act, 1890. A bank account, bearing 90552010165915, was opened in the South Block branch of Syndicate Bank, New Delhi, for public to deposit money.

NEW DELHI, OCTOBER 5

Chinese President Xi Jinping may put off his India visit till the dust settles down on the reorganisation of Jammu and Kashmir. Xi was to arrive here next week for the second summit with PM Narendra Modi in the informal settings of Mamallapuram in Tamil Nadu, without the trappings of formalities and bureaucratese. In 2018, the two leaders had interacted for more than 10 hours in the sylvan surroundings of Wuhan on the banks of the Yangtze. It may be awkward for the Chinese President to visit India when the Army is staging one of its biggest war exercises in Arunachal Pradesh, an area of extreme sensitivity for Beijing, with recently bought American equipment.

"One can't expect Xi to visit when Indian troops are doing a war exercise in Arunachal Pradesh. The Chinese have even objected to visits by our Prime Ministers and Presidents," said strategic analyst Pravin Sawhney.

The Army exercise, HimVijay, does conform to two Sino-India agreements and one protocol on peace and tranquility on the Line of Actual Control (LAC) with China. As per this arrangement, the Chinese would have been notified in advance about the size, though could be J&K. "The boundary in the western sector (Ladakh) was never defined. There is no boundary," says Sawhney, disagreeing with External Affairs Minister S Jaishankar's observation that China had misinterpreted New Delhi's decision to bifurcate Jammu and Kashmir into two Union Territories — J&K and Ladakh. "We are sort of reformatting this within our existing boundaries," Jaishankar had told the Chinese.

Explaining his position, he had said, "I went a few days after the legislation (removal of Article 370 and reorganisation of J&K) to China and explained to them that as far as they were concerned, nothing had changed. India's boundary had not changed, the LAC had not changed."—TNS

Can use powers under Art 142 to dissolve failed marriage: SC

SATYA PRAKASH

NEW DELHI, OCTOBER 5

What if a marriage has totally failed but the party seeking divorce is unable to prove any of the grounds for divorce under the law before a court? The Supreme Court has said that in such a situation, it can exercise its inherent powers under Article 142 of the Constitution (for complete justice) to dissolve such a marriage. "This court, in a series of judgments, has exercised its inherent powers under Article 142 for dissolution of a marriage where the court finds the marriage is totally unworkable, emotionally dead, beyond salvage and has broken down irretrievably, even if the facts of the case do not provide a ground in law on which the divorce could be granted," a Bench of Justice SK Kaul and Justice MR Shah said.

However, noting the wife's interest needed to be protected financially, the Bench ordered the husband to pay Rs 20 lakh as one-time alimony to her within eight weeks.

Under the Hindu marriage Act, 1955, a marriage can be dissolved on the grounds of bigamy, adultery, insanity, cruelty or by mutual consent . It doesn't recognise "irretrievable breakdown of marriage" as a ground for divorce. Even the Special Marriage Act, 1954, doesn't recognise it. However, the top court and high courts have been using their inherent powers to dissolve failed marriages.

Court allows govt plea for closure report copy

BARGARI CBI had claimed state not party to case

TRIBUNE NEWS SERVICE

MOHALI, OCTOBER 5 The Special CBI court on Saturday upheld the state government's right to the closure report in the Bargari sacrilege case, finding "sufficient reason" to its satisfaction to provide a certified copy along with all attached documents.

CBI Special Judge Nirbhow Singh allowed the revision petition filed by the state government against the July 23 order passed by a Special Judicial Magistrate, who had dismissed Punjab's application for the supply of the closure report.

Advocate General Atul Nanda said the judge directed the Special Magistrate to supply the documents to the state as demanded by Special Public Prosecutors Rajesh Salwan and Sanjeev Batra. AIG, Crime, Sarabjeet Singh was also present on the behalf of the state.

Accepting the state's contention, the court ruled, "The party or even a stranger to a criminal case is entitled to a copy of challan in case sufficient reason is shown to the satisfaction of the court."

CHANDIGARH, OCTOBER 5

The paddy procurement in various mandis across the state has been going on despite the boycott call by the commission agents (arthiyas) for the past four days, said a spokesperson of the Department of Food and Civil Supplies in Punjab.

Facilitating smooth procurement, the elected representatives are personally supervising the purchase process in their respective constituencies, the spokeperson said, adding that 22,508 MT paddy had been procured till October 4 as against 28,446 MT last year on the same date.

The spokesperson said it was anticipated that the arrivals would gain momentum after October 10 with a major amount of crop coming to the grain markets in the second week of this month.

Making an appeal to farmers to harvest their crop only after it matures properly, he said it would be difficult for the farmers to control the moisture content if they reap it in its unripe state. They should bring moisture-free yield to grain markets to sell it at the earliest, he said, adding that the peak season may stretch to October-end. — TNS

They did so in presence of Cabinet Minister Sunder Sham Arora, Congress MP Santokh Singh Chaudhary, Avtar Henry and former minister Joginder Singh.

Deepa, a loyalist of former BJP minister Vijay Sampla, said he took the step after suffering "humiliation" by candidate Rajesh Bagha. "He asked me to leave the BJP office as Union Minister Som Parkash does not like me," Gurdeep Singh Deepa said.

On Thursday, BJP leaders Om Parkash Bittu, Vikki Sood and Tripta Sharma, along with their supporters, had joined the Congress. These councillors belonged to the Sampla camp.

Tripta Sharma belongs to Vijay Sampla's faction. Om Parkash Bittu wanted a BJP ticket but he was miffed when the party announced the candidature of Rajesh Bagha. Bittu has worked for Union Minister Som Parkash as a personal assistant (PA). Later, owing to some issues with him, Bittu had joined the camp of Vijay Sampla.

As per the Vector Borne Disease Control Programme, 920 cases of malaria have been reported in the state this year so far. The number is already much higher than the previous year's 624 cases. It is despite the fact that a large number of cases are reported in the months of October and November.

In 2016, National Vector Borne Disease Control Programme had placed Punjab among 15 states where the target was to eliminate malaria by 2020. It was expected that by 2020, the state will achieve zero indigenous cases and deaths due to malaria.

To remain in phase 1, there should have been zero death due to malaria in the state. However, last month migrant labourer in his midtwenties died in Muktsar due to suspected malaria. The district has reported 33 confirmed cases so far. Malaria in this case was one of the causes, but the final confirmation will come after a board of doctors gives its opinion.

In the beginning of 2017, the state government had announced to distribute free insecticide-treated nets in certain areas of the state, which has not been done so far. Another serious problem is that the two crucial medicines which are used in malaria treatment — Chloroquine and Primaguine — are not available in a large number of government hospitals and dispensaries.

Neeraj Dhingra, Director, National Vector Borne Disease Control Programme, said, "The rise in number of cases in Punjab may be due to migratory population. Only after distinguishing the local and migratory cases, we can reach a conclusion if the instance in Punjab is higher."

Anu Dosanjh, Prorgamme Officer, Vector Borne Disease Control Programme, could not be contacted. The National Framework for Malaria Elimination (NFME 2016-2030) was launched with the goal to eliminate malaria from the country by 2030. However, being a category 1 state, Punjab aspires to become malaria-free by 2020 itself.

The Vigilance inquiry brought to the fore that DTO employees, circumventing the rules, used various tactics to deny allotment of fancy numbers to the highest bidders during auctions. No rebel trouble over ticket, claims Khattar

SUSHIL MANAV

KARNAL, OCTOBER 5

Chief Minister Manohar Lal Khattar today downplayed reports of rebellion in the BJP over ticket allotment, claiming no leader would go against the party.

In an exclusive interview with The Tribune after launching his poll campaign for the Karnal seat, Khattar said the BJP had denied ticket to 12 of its sitting MLAs and barring one or two, none had filed nomination papers as Independents. "I am confident we will convince them to withdraw," the CM said.

Taking a dig at the Congress, he said the party didn't dare to refuse ticket to any of its MLA though it changed candidates on 46 seats. On turncoats in the fray, Khattar said leaders of other parties, including sitting MLAs, had joined the BJP of their own will. Questioned on the criteria for selection of candidates, the CM said there could not be one rule for all seats. "Every constituency is different."

Exuding confidence of winning 75-plus seats in the October 21 poll, Khattar said party's endeavour would be to perform even better. About his own prospects from Karnal, he said the victory margin would be even bigger than it

Asked as to what made him confident of BJP's victory, he replied: "The blessings that people have showered on me during the past five years, achievements of the Union Government led by PM Narendra Modi, the positive impact of Centre's policies in Haryana, revocation of Article 370 and transparent system of governance in Harvana. Earlier, governments were run through the police and other enforcement agencies. Now, there is no fear."

The CM pointed out that jobs had been provided to nearly 70,000 youth purely on merit. When his attention was drawn to the Opposition charge that Haryana had the worst unemployment figures, he pointed out that the report by the Centre

On his priorities if re-elected, Khattar said he would speed up development works. "Education and employment will be on the top of the list. We have opened new colleges, particularly for women, and done away with 'no-retention policy' in schools. But a lot more needs to be done. We need to concentrate more on skill development."

The Lals, who had been arch-rivals in politics, dominated the electoral arena of the state for over three decades. However, the names of these leaders continue to have their sway on particular sections of the electorate, which has been providing poll leverage to their progeny as well.

Five members of the family of former Deputy Prime Minister Devi Lal are in the poll fray this time. His son

However, the INLD, which came to power in 2000 before his death and now being headed by his son OP Chautala, has fielded his grandson Abhay Singh Chautala from the Ellenabad segment of Sirsa.

Former minister and fourtime MLA Nirmal Singh and his daughter Chitra Sarwara, who was the general secretary of the All-India Mahila Congress, have rebelled against party's official nominee from Ambala Cantonment. She has filed her nomination from Ambala Cantonment, while her father is in fray from Ambala Cantt. Both as Independent candidates.

The father-daughter duo has resigned from the party. The Congress has fielded former MLA Jasbir Singh wife of a leading businessman and considered a confidante of state party president Kumari Selja.

Nirmal Singh said, "We have been loyal workers of the Congress and held the party's flag high. We never indulged in any anti-party activity, but don't know why we have been denied the ticket".

Sarwara said, "When the nomination (Singla) of a novice was announced, my supporters urged me to enter the contest."

Congress leader Himmat Singh, meanwhile, backed Nirmal Singh. He had unsuccessfully contested the 2014 Assembly elections from Ambala City. This time, he was ticket claimant.

In 2014, the Congress had lost both Ambala City and Cantonment Assembly seats to the ruling BJP

.The Congress leadership has acknowledged differences over ticket distribution, but urged the father-daughter duo to show maturity.

Surender Vashist Kaushik had informed Vashist he withdrew his papers on Saturday in his favour.

The last date for the withdrawn of nominations is October 7.

It is claimed that Kaushikwithdrew the papers after the Brahmin community exerted pressure on him. The community feared division of votes has bothbeen in fray.

In the 2014 poll, BSP's Tek Chand Sharma was elected MLA from Prithla, defeating the BJP candidate.

Meanwhile, 21 nominations out of 94 were found invalid in six Assembly segments of Faridabad district. The papers of 73 candidates have been found valid. In all, 18 papers were found valid in Faridabad (NIT), 12 papers each in Prithla, Ballabgarh and

Alwar woman's journey from manual scavenger to film producer

TRIBUNE NEWS SERVICE

It may sound incredulous but it's the true story of a Alwar woman, Usha, whose phenomenal rise from a manual scavenger to a film producer has created waves and given her the celebrity status.

As a producer, her debut film "Madhubani-The Station of Colours" is a 37-minute docu-drama that showcases the transformation of the Madhubani railway station in Bihar through Mithila paintings. It was screened at the fifth International Film Festival of Shimla.

The movie chronicles the history and other valuable facts surrounding Mithila painting. Paritosh Sand, a famous actor and veteran of the NSD, has enacted the role of Divisional Rail Manager of Samastipur in the film. Her real life story is so unique that it perhaps renders her to become the first woman in the film industry to have turned into a film producer from a manual scavenger.

Usha attributes her transformation to founder of Sulabh International Dr Bindeshwar Pathak and calls him a "Gandhi", for he not only brought her into the mainstream, but also helped other women who carried 'night soil' on their heads.

Pathak had spotted Usha and few other women carrying night soil on their heads at Alwar and asked them if they were willing to do some other work. The offer was astonishing and Usha told him that they were doing the work out of compulsion, otherwise who would do such work willingly.

Later, Usha along with other women founded an organisation — 'Nai Disha'. They took some basic education and started making pickles, 'papad', agarbatti, jute bags, besides doing stitching work. However, marketing posed a big challenge, for untouchabili-

Thereafter, Usha joined the Sulabh International Social Service Organisation (SISSO). On seeing her determination, she was later appointed the president of the organisation. She is also the recipient of first "Safaigiri Award" from Prime Minister Narendra Modi.

About the movie

The Madhubani station, a prime station of Samastipur Rail Division, was ranked second last among 400 other stations in the cleanliness survey index, following which the DRM (Divisional Rail Manager) of Samastipur decided to make it into one of the most attractive stations across the country. Thus, he came up with an idea to beautify the station with Madhubani paintings.

He invited Mithila painting artists and requested them to cover all walls of the station with their artwork. Around artists transformed the station with their effortless and magnificent strokes on the 700-metre wall. Their efforts vielded the station the second position in the survey.

The film scripted and directed by noted director Kamlesh K. Mishra under the banner of "Sangreela Films" was adjudged a national award winning film for best narration at the 66th National Film Award.

Fraudster nabbed from Ludhiana

SOLAN, OCTOBER 5

The Baddi police nabbed Johny Goel, who had fraudulently withdrawn more than Rs 50,000 from the ATM of a State Bank of India branch but ensured that no amount was deducted from any customer's account, from Ludhiana on Friday evening.

Baddi SP Rohit Malpani said that Goel was initially asked to surrender but he refused, forcing the police to scale the walls of his house and nab him. He used a unique modus operandi to steal cash, as a customer did not receive any alert of cash having been withdrawn. He was today produced in a local court that remanded him in five-day police custody. —TNS

D'sala bypoll set for a triangular contest

LALIT MOHAN TRIBUNE NEWS SERVICE

DHARAMSALA, OCTOBER 5

The Dharamsala by-election is turning into a triangular contest as campaigning is progressing. Independent candidate Rakesh Kumar, who was initially not being considered as a serious contender, is fast gaining the support of members of various castes and communities and disgruntled leaders of the BJP and the Congress.

Rakesh Kumar belongs to the OBC community. As both Congress and BJP have fielded candidates belonging to the Gaddi community, there is resentment among other communities of the region.

Sources said that local Brahmin Sabhas had held meetings and their members had expressed displeasure over their neglect, especially by the BJP. There is not even one Brahmin MLA of the BJP in the entire Kangra parliamentary constituency, said Pawan Sharma, a member of a Brahmin Sabha. Besides, Brahmin leaders do not hold any political positions in the region. This time, there were four Brahmin leaders in contention for the BJP ticket from Dharamsala and all of them had been ignored, he added. The Brahmin Sabha at a meeting held in Kangra flayed the political parties for ignoring their community. The sources said that the community leaders could decide not to support the mainstream parties.

The OBC community is also unhappy. Various OBC organisations held meetings in various parts of the constituency and pledged support to Rakesh Kumar. They are also collecting money for him.

Till date, BJP candidate Vishal Nehria is relying on the support of college students affiliated with the ABVP for his campaign. Minister for Industries Bikram Thakur has been campaigning for Nehria in the upper Dharamsala region. However, as Bikram Thakur had hardly visited the area before the by-election, his presence in the area was unlikely to make much difference.

no such restriction in case of gram panchayats and BDCs.

It has been learnt that the ship is also not too keen to bring him for campaigning. Senior BJP leaders, including Chief Minister Jai Ram Thakur, former chief ministers Shanta Kumar and Prem Kumar Dhumal, are likely to attend the main rally on October 13. Union Minister of State for Finance Anurag Thakur is unlikely to join the BJP campaign. Even his photos are missing from the party posters in Dharmasala.

On the other hand, all Congress leaders have visited Dharamsala. Congress Legislative Party leader Mukesh Agnihotri is camping here permanently. He is trying to get in touch with the disgruntled BJP leaders.

Since both BJP and Congress have fielded Gaddi candidates, the votes of the community is likely to be divided. In such a scenario, with dissatisfied communities rallying behind Rakesh Kumar, the Dharamsala by-election is becoming a triangular contest.

Traffic cop among 14 injured in Anantnag grenade attack

TRIBUNE NEWS SERVICE

SRINAGAR, OCTOBER 5

At least a dozen people were injured when suspected militants lobbed a grenade outside the Deputy Commissioner's office in south Kashmir's Anantnag district on Saturday.

The grenade, lobbed around 10.30 am, exploded with a bang leaving 11 persons, including a traffic policeman, two women and a local journalist, injured.

"Today, terrorists lobbed a grenade in a busy Lal Chowk area of Anantnag near DC office, resulting in injuries to 13 civilians and a traffic policeman. All injured have been discharged from hospital barring one, who is under treatment," Anantnag police tweeted.

Deputy Inspector General of Police, south Kashmir, Atul Goyal said the condition of the injured was stable. Soon after the blast, panic spread in the town and people rushed towards safe areas. The police said a manhunt had been launched to nab the militants,

The security of the High Court Complex has been beefed up following appearance of threatening posters. Though the court complex in the Srinagar was already a highly guarded structure, the security has been further tightened in and around the complex, with the security forces deputing more policemen and planning to install more CCTV cameras to secure the perimeter and the inside corridors of the complex.

The purported posters had appeared on the court premises last month which described J&K a police state. The alleged posters claimed that in J&K "wild laws have taken over the humane laws", adding that the "judiciary has completely been rendered defunct". The purported Urdu posters by hitherto unknown organisation "Jammu & Kashmir Fidayeen" and titled "Masala Kashmir — Taqat Kay Muqabalay Mein Tagat" had threatened reprisal attacks against the judiciary by the "Kashmiri Fidayeen" squads.

The threatening posters have also been reported by the J&K Chief Justice in her report to the Supreme Court. "On September 7, posters threatening suicide attacks on the judiciary were found pasted in the High Court Complex at Srinagar. Security of all the courts in the state was immediately taken up with the security agencies," the report said.

"Following the appearance of the threatening posters, the security of the High Court has been increased, besides more surveillance cameras are being installed," a senior court official said, adding that the police had already registered a case into the incident and taken up the investigation.

Controversy hits first-ever BDC elections in state

ARTEEV SHARMA TRIBUNE NEWS SERVICE

JAMMU, OCTOBER 5

The first-ever elections to the Block Development Councils (BDCs), being held on October 24, have come under a cloud in Jammu and Kashmir after the accusations of twisting rules to help the BJP amid the detention of political leaders and missing of over 90 per cent voters in three districts of south Kashmir.

Overall, about 64 per cent posts of sarpanch and panch, who form the electoral college for the BDC elections, are vacant in Kashmir Valley as the National Conference (NC) and the PDP had boycotted the panchayat polls (first-tier of panchayats) which were held on a nonparty basis in 2018. Moreover, the Governor's administration and the Election Authority have come under sharp criticism of elected panchayat members to hold the BDC polls on a party basis without implementing the provisions of 73rd Amendment. According to official data, about 90 per cent panchayat seats of panchayat members in three districts of south Kashmir —Pulwama, Shopian and Kulgam — are lying vacant, which means there will be only a few voters in the upcoming BDC polls from these areas.

"In Pulwama, there should have been at least 1,710 voters (190 sarpanches and 1,520 panches) for its 11 blocks, but only 132 of them are on the electoral rolls, while 92.3 per cent seats are still vacant." Similarly, there are only 82 eligible electors in Shopian district against the total 889 posts (98 sarpanches and 791 panches) in nine blocks, with 90.8 per cent vacancy. In 11 blocks of terror-hit Kulgam district, the total number of voters should have been 1,514, including sarpanches and 1,336 panches, but only 168 of them are on the electoral rolls.

In Kashmir Valley, there are

19,758 posts of sarpanches and panches, but only 7,029 are in place, which clearly reflects that 12,549 potential electors will be missing from the upcoming elections.

What turned the BDC polls murkier was the recent accusations regarding changes in rules for holding these elections as the state administration authorised the government rather than the Election Authority (Chief Electoral Officer, J&K, Shailendra Kumar) to decide the timing were announced on September 29. "The nomination form drafted by the government three days before poll announcement, where a candidate is required to give details of his or her party, is also quite questionable. The move seems to be a directive to the Election Authority to hold the polls on a party basis, which is unfortunate under the prevailing circumstances," an aspirant for the BDC chairperson alleged.

A techie was arrested from Rajasthan for allegedly sending "offensive and threatening" emails to Delhi Chief Minister Arvind Kejriwal, police said on Saturday.

The man was identified as Manish Saraswat, 36, a resident of Ajmer, they said. According to a senior police

NEW DELHI, OCTOBER 5 The Delhi High Court has upheld the life term awarded to three men for kidnapping an acquaintance for ransom and burning the body after murdering him, saying the horrific act reflects the inhuman extent to which they went to satisfy their greed.

It said the gruesome manner in which Runeet Gulathi, Abhay Dewan and Jatin killed Shivam Kapoor and dealt with his body has shocked the judicial conscience and there was no cogent reason to interfere with the judgement of the trial court holding them guilty of the offence.

A Bench of justices Manmohan and Sangita Dhingra Sehgal said the horrific act reflected the inhuman extent to which the accused could go 66 It is a brutal murder

The PWD got a total of 1,897 complaints of faulty Delhi roads, plagued by uneven surface and gaping potholes as 50 MLAs along with as many engineers undertook the city-wide inspection of its 1,260 km of roads maintained by the PWD.

The PWD got the complainants on city roads through its app. A total of 50 teams of one MLA and one engineer each were given the responsibility to inspect 25 km of roads each and report about their condition.

Minister Arvind Kejriwal had announced to launch a citywide exercise to examine roads from October 5 to identify potholed ones.

According to a statement, a total of 1,897 reports were submitted to the PWD through the app by legislators. "Surprisingly, the maximum reports—1,181—were related to roads being uneven, and not of potholes.

"The total number of potholes was 583 and 133 reports were filed about cases where the deficiencies in the roads were due to other departments," it stated. Both sides of the road were inspected by teams on Saturday, based on which the PWD will now begin to repair all its roads on a "war footing", the government said. — PTI

Counsel rapped as Unnao case proceedings go online

NEW DELHI, OCTOBER 5

A Delhi court today pulled up the counsel for one of the parties in the Unnao rape case, allegedly involving expelled BJP MLA Kuldeep Singh, for posting on social media the details of the in-camera proceedings of the case pertaining to the alleged murder of the victim's father.

District Judge Dharmesh Sharma also warned the counsel against posting online the proceedings of the case, which is presently at the stage of the recording of prosecution evidence.

The warning came when the counsel for the other party, during the in-camera proceedings, claimed his opponent's counsel has been posting details of the proceedings, including those of the ongoing recording of the evidence, on social media, said a lawyer privy to the matter. The court put up the matter for further proceedings on October 9. — PTI

SIT can take voice samples of Chinmayanand, student: Court

TRIBUNE NEWS SERVICE

LUCKNOW, OCTOBER 5

A Shahjahanpur court today allowed the special investigation team (SIT) to take the voice samples of rape accused Chinmayanand, survivor and three of her friends.

They all are in judicial custody at the district jail. While Chinmayanand is imprisoned on the rape charge, the law student and her three friends are facing charges of extortion. Last week, the SIT had filed a petition, seeking permission to take voice samples of rape accused Swami Chinmayanand and the survivor.

After hearing the counsels, Chief Judicial Magistrate Omvir Singh, who had reserved his order on Friday, gave permission to take the five of them to Lucknow for the purpose.

The samples would be taken to a state forensic laboratory in Lucknow for examination.

Mizoram CM, NGOs meet Shah, oppose citizenship Bill

AIZAWL, OCTOBER 5

Opposition to the contentious Citizenship Amendment Bill, 2019 was expressed by Mizo-Minister Chief Zoramthanga and civil society organisations of the state during their meetings with Union Home Minister Amit Shah on Saturday.

Shah was on a day-long visit to the state, his first since assuming office. Zoramthanga met Shah at the Raj Bhavan and told him that people of the state are opposed to the CAB, an official statement said.

The proposed amendment to the Citizenship Act, 1955 could "open floodgate of illegal immigrants" to the north state, it said. The Chief Minister urged Shah for raising two battalions of Mizoram Border Guard Force to be deployed along the Mizoram-Myanmar and Mizoram-Bangladesh international borders, it said. However, there have been complaints of infiltration from the two neighbouring countries and the state home department had on earlier occasions sought the creation of such a batallion by the Cen-

The Mizoram NGO Coordination Committee, an umbrella organisation of civil society bodies and student associations of the state, submitted a memorandum demanding that the CAB should not be legislated in Parliament but if it is done then Mizoram and other N-E states should be exempted from its ambit. — PTI

RSS wing at odds with govt on RCEP

VIBHA SHARMA

NEW DELHI, OCTOBER 5

As the government "pushes" to include the Automatic Trigger Safeguard Mechanism (ATSM) in Regional Comprehensive Economic Partnership (RCEP) trade negotiations, the economic wing of the RSS, the Swadeshi Jagaran Manch, is strongly objecting to the move.

The negotiators (of the Ministry of Commerce and Industries headed by Piyush Goyal) are either "unaware of ground realities or deliberately trying to misguide," says Ashwani Mahajan from the Sangh affiliate dealing with economic issues.

"The ATSM is not only a faulty mechanism, but also requires massive corrections at the back-end. It is not a 'one-shot protection plan' for domestic small businesses and farmers from the adversities of entering RCEP," says Mahajan, adding "the Commerce Ministry should not push India into premature de-industrialisation showing the fallacy of ATSM."

While other 15 countries on the negotiations for RCEP mounted pressure on India to commit for this mega-free trade agreement, India pushed to include ATSM — a mechanism which will automatically increase levies once imports cross a given threshold. This is in addition to reviewing the Free Trade Agreement with ASEAN and other members.

ATSM is an effective tool in balancing trade among multilateral partners, say government functionaries. However, Mahajan says: "Such a safeguard mechanism can't be implemented without falling foul of our RCEP partners, who want nothing but barrier-free markets. Sadly, these officials/negotiators are overlooking all the evidence to back the no-RCEP case."

Mahajan also says that shortcomings of ATSM make it as a theoretical safeguard without any practical use.

The Madhya Pradesh government has booked 31 persons over the last two-and-a-half months under the stringent National Security Act (NSA) for allegedly indulging in adulteration of food, milk and dairy products, an official said on Saturday.

Apart from this, 87 cases have been registered against other people for adulteration of food products, the official said. "Starting July 19, 31 persons have been booked under the NSA and charged with adulterating food, milk and dairy products as part of the drive being run in the state to check the malpractices," a deputy director of MP public relations department said.

"Besides, 87 cases have been registered against people adulterating food products under the drive so far. Total 6,463 samples of milk and milk-based products, food and pan masala were collected since July 16," he added. The State Food Testing Laboratory has released the test reports of 1,484 samples. The unmarried have been told to do a refresher's course in arms training and head towards the LoC. Pakistan establishment handlers have told them that their entry into J&K would be facilitated by Pakistan, and they would be provided weapons and ammunition for their assigned task.

The married militants have been asked to start preparing to go (to J&K), and their families would be taken care of by the establishment. Maximum investment is being made in Hizbul-Mujahideen, indigenous group that has offices in PoK and Pakistan.

"Upon the culmination of Rahul Gandhi's Khat Yatra from Deoria to Delhi on October 6, 2016, at Bhairav Mandir, I along with supporters, was attacked with lathis and iron rods by Hooda's personal security officer and his hooligans...Shinde committee was set up but no action was initiated against anyone," he wrote.

Tanwar said he would not join the BJP and would continue to fight for his supporters who felt let down by the Congress. Not once did the former state chief attack Sonia Gandhi or Rahul Gandhi. "Sonia ji is like a mother to me... my fight is against lobbies that are out to sabotage the Congress," he said. In his letter, he raised questions on the party's functioning. "Today the Congress is going through an existential crisis not because of its political opponents but because of serious internal contradictions...Now the Congress is the anti-thesis of democracy, plagued by feudal attitudes and medieval conspiracy theories...Numerous conspiracies are being hatched to eliminate those young leaders who have been groomed by Rahul Gandhi," the letter to Sonia read, resonating the charge former Mumbai Congress chief Sanjay Nirupam levelled on Friday - of Sonia's coterie sabotaging Rahul aides.

On Congress' advice to introspect as to whom were his actions helping, Tanwar retorted, "Have you ever asked this question to those who prevented me functioning as Haryana Congress president? Whom were their actions helping? I will now show who I am to those asking who Ashok Tanwar is...'

In his letter, Tanwar attacked Hooda and his son

ing the Lok Sabha polls "despite Rahul Gandhi's reluctance" and also lashed out at AICC general secretary organisation Ghulam Nabi Azad for "selling out his responsibility of being the eyes and ears of the high command." The buzz in the party i that Tanwar's actions could well have the tacit support of Rahul Gandhi.

face and phase of jihad'

PLANS WON'T SUCCEED

There are some powers who want to carry out a Mumbai-like attack along India's coastal regions, but their plans will not succeed. Pakistan should now understand that the commissioning of INS Khanderi has increased India's capability to strike with greater force, if needed. Rainath Singh, DEFENCE MINISTER and the scheduling of the promised elections at the earliest opportunity."

In such a background, Imran Khan would not have decided to dramatically harden his overt policy towards India so soon after his return to Pakistan when signs are evident that the US is leaning on him to rescue the failed Taliban-Afghanistan accord. Zalmay Khalilzad was in Islamabad on October 1. Mullah Baradar too visited Islamabad. Also, Turkey and Malaysia, which had openly supported Pakistan on Kashmir, are likely to help during the Financial Action Task Force (FATF) inquisition in Paris.

Logic of the illogical

One instance comes to mind indicating Imran Khan's apparent inability to articulate a logical stand on tricky religio-political issues that have dominated Pakistan's history, which he now faces as the Prime Minister. This incident took place seven years ago when he was an Opposition leader. On October 14, 2012, he caused alarm in Pakistan and Afghanistan by justifying Taliban violence, calling it "jihad". He said: "The people who are fighting in Afghanistan against foreign occupation are fighting a 'jihad'."

The occasion he made this statement was also wrong. That was after visiting Malala Yousafzai in a Peshawar hospital after she was severely injured by the Pakistani Taliban in Mingora in Swat valley on October 9 for "preventing obscenity", as stated by Ehasanullah Ehasan, TTP spokesman. Imran Khan's statement then caused tremendous uproar in Pakistan, among the Ulema Council and in Afghanistan.

It is not that Imran Khan was unsympathetic to Malala. On July 13, 2013, he had tweeted: "Malala's courage and commitment to the cause of education, especially girls, is admirable." Or was it because of his admission, as The Guardian (UK) reported on October 14, 2012 that he would not publicly name the Taliban because "he feared it would put his party's supporters at risk".

Whatever might be his motive, it is clear that he is comfortable to run with the hares and hunt with the hounds. This is a dangerous strategy for a Prime Minister of a country which is being accused of being a terror factory. What then could we expect in a worst-case scenario, and are we ready? Pakistan has already been given notice on October 1 by the US through Randall Shriver, Assistant Secretary of Defence for Indo-Pacific Affairs, to put a lid on militants to prevent a cross-border attack. Our own services are preparing for a sea or land-based 26/11-type surprise attack.

Should we expect a high-precision drone attack like the September 14 incidents on Abqaiq or Khuras in Saudi Arabia? Amazingly, even after three weeks, we do not have precise details from where these drones were launched. There is no doubt that we are very vulnerable here although Pakistan may not sponsor this type of attack when things are more favourable to them.

That does not mean that non-state actors would not. I would like to caution all concerned on an incident from Mumbai when none of our protective shields worked. On May 23, 2015, at about 5.55 pm, a Jet Air pilot aborted his take-off after alerting ATC on noticing five unmanned objects which looked like drones flying in a "tight" formation on his flight path. According to the Standard Operating Practice (SOP), the ATC asked an inbound flight not to land and alerted the CISF, police, IAF, INS Kunjali and Military Liaison Unit (MLU).

No clue regarding the identity was received till May 26 when police enquiries revealed that they were harmless celebratory "hot air balloons". For three days, rumours were agog that they were drones fitted with explosives directed against certain targets in Mumbai.

Can Kashmir compel the ummah to close ranks?

India works to prevent it as cause célèbre for the activist Muslim

SANDEEP DIKSHIT IN NEW DELHI

ASHMIR of 2019 is definitely very different from the troubled Valley we have been witness to for the past three decades. Leave alone the diminishing of the politico-governance arrangement from that of a full state to a mere Union Territory with the loss of Ladakh to boot. Also leave alone the scrapping of Article 370, a temporary provision as External Affairs Minister S Jaishankar never tires of educating his audience at American think-tanks, while omitting to mention that it was provisional only till a plebiscite was held.

These two injuries to the Kashmiri psyche are enough cause for the vulnerable and the young to rally to the militant banner. But a more potent one worries Intelligence officials. It has not yet made it to TV chat shows and newspaper articles. Yet it lurks at the back of the Indian Intelligence's calculations. This is the ebbing of Palestine as the cause célèbre for the activist Muslim all over the world.

Once the second Intifada petered out into the 2008-09 Israel-Gaza conflict and a right wing government took power in Tel Aviv, the Palestine cause has lost a lot of its emotional power to rally Muslims. If not in sending fighters, then in making contributions and providing them moral and diplomatic support.

Impending threat

After the restrictions ease in Kashmir and there is the inevitable violence if the citizenry faces off with the security forces, it is the cheerleaders of the thus-far mythically united Muslim ummah (community) whom India's Intelligence community will be closely watching.

Security forces would not like to acknowledge, but they have had considerable help in Kashmir from the division among the militancy's sponsors over the ideology. When militancy first took roots in Kashmir, armed groups were at odds over the end goal: should Kashmir be a part of Pakistan or should it be an independent country?

At times, the armed gangs decimated each other to the delight of the security establishment. Sometimes one group would walk over to the side of the security forces to eliminate their rivals. In one celebrated case, the leader of a gang of gunmen who crossed over became an MLA after one of the poorly patronised elections. At that time, there was little effort at mediation by the sponsors of terrorism sitting in different countries. This was partly because they were involved in other pressing violent mayhem in the Balkans, Chechnya, Indonesia, etc.

It was also because Pakistan kept the insurgency at a low boil. The intention never was to wrest Kashmir valley. It has known that the Indian armed forces have made that impossible. The aim behind frequent violence in the Valley was to deplete New Delhi's political capital to force it into talks with Islamabad. Pakistan's bottomline was freezing the Line of Control (LoC) into a de-facto border.

The new reality

Once the equations changed in Kashmir valley, the bets should be off on the other side too. Till a month before the August 5 clampdown, a new rivalry was playing out among militant groups. On one side were groups like Lashkare-Toiba (LeT) or Hizbul Mujahideen that want political independence or Kashmir's merger into Pakistan. On the other, groups like ISJK (Islamic State for Jammu & Kashmir) or AGH (Ansar Ghazwat-ul-Hind) that want to set up an Islamic Caliphate and are affiliated with Islamic State and Al Qaida.

Days before the clampdown, the Army shot dead a few militants in separate encounters. What was unusual was that they were earlier with LeT and had crossed over to ISJK and AGH. There is a strong possibility one group had tipped the security forces about the newly converted Islamic State and Al Qaida fighters.

Though the ISI views the Islamic State and Al Qaida as adversaries in Afghanistan and Pakistan, the security agencies are weighing if the circumstances have changed enough in Kashmir for it to make an alliance with the pan-Islamic ideology driven terror organisations.

The ISI is up against a stable government whose Kashmir policy is driven by the quartet of Modi-Doval-Amit Shah-Bipin Rawat. On the other hand, the desperate appeals of business tycoons to Pakistan's army chief Qamar Javed Bajwa indicate the economy is severely malfunctioning. Pakistan's rulers will need a diversion. The old methods may not work with the Indian quartet on Kashmir.

This is where the role of ideologues of armed 'jihad' scattered all over the world becomes crucial. Kashmir is the cause that unites all of them as Palestine goes on the backburner, Syria enters a stalemate and the war in Yemen unravels badly for the Sunnis.

Dealing with global backers

India has been well-served in the past by the distractions of the flag-bearers of a united Muslim ummah. This time, India has worked on countries such as Saudi Arabia, Indonesia and UAE that claim this pedestal while Nigeria and Sudan have remained largely neutral. But others such as Malaysia, Turkey and Iran have remained immune to the persuasion by South Block. Their stance gives legitimacy to activists of the Muslim cause to attempt to heal the breach among the jihadis in the Kashmir valley. The clampdown since August 5 has ensured that the regular season of infiltration has been nipped in the bud. The US, as long as it can, will be holding Imran Khan to his promise to keep a check on cross-border terrorism. Forces inimical to India will have to make do with the current lot of jihadis bottled up in the Valley to create much more than a ripple. But the communications clampdown in the Valley is delaying attempts at rapprochement between the groups. ISI will be going against its grain if it concedes ground to pan-Islamists. It had sheltered Al Qaida leaders in Pakistan after 9/11 but was equally quick to hand them over to the Americans to keep the military aid spigot flowing. Osama bin Laden was permitted limited contact with his comrades. Now that the old tactics of calibrated violence have not worked with the Modi government since 2014, ISI could consider throwing the kitchen sink. But if it does so, it would do so knowing that the more virulent brand of terrorism, Al Qaida and Islamic State, need a short spell of abetment before they become out-of- control monsters.

Take an idea and run with it

ROOPINDER SINGH

EHIND every success is a story. A start-up to a billion-dollar company makes a compelling subject, especially if the narrator is a former CEO and cofounder, more so if the company is Netflix. Yes, the streaming giant that is now in what seems to be like every connected living room (at least 15 crore of them according to one account) started small — and, in its original avatar, it was far from what it has become.

In January 1997, Randolph and his boss Reed Hastings carpooled to work, to a company that had been sold. As a result, both men were now redundant. They were required to be in office for the next few months, and used their time to hash out ideas for a new venture, with Randolph proposing and Hastings disposing — using his logic and analytical abilities to demolish what were, admittedly, often halfbaked ideas.

Then Randolph proposed the idea to provide VHS tapes via mail to customers. But these turned out to be bulky and fragile. Then Hastings mentioned that there was a new recording media, the DVD. That worked. Hastings provided $1.9 million to start work. They did so with eight employees. A year later, on January 14, 1998, Netflix, the "world's first online DVD rental store" got its first 150 orders, far exceeding the expectations of the 30member team that had launched the company. The servers crashed after the first 10 minutes, and much time was spent buying new hardware and configuring it.

Netflix was listed on the New York Stock exchange on May 29, 2002. And what a journey it has been for what-started-in-asmall-office operation into the media behemoth it is today. Marc Randolph was there through it all, and then he wasn't. The man who had co-founded the company found himself redundant. He left the company in the hands of the co-founder. Also gone was the seat on the board and most of his stock.

Randolph has moved on to other ventures, less stressful ones, now that he doesn't quite have to worry about mortgage payments to the million-dollar home he and his wife Loraine, whose initial reaction to the idea gave the book its title, moved into soon after he had started the company. His Audi Q7 still seems to be there. This indulgence was tempered by a sense of self-depreciation that made him keep the exterior dirty when he drove into work.

He is visibly proud of his parents, the nuclear scientist father and the mother who ran a real estate business. She provided him cash when he needed to run the company, something that paid her back manifold, with enough to buy an apartment in the Upper East Side of Manhattan. Then there is the connection to Sigmond Freud that the family is chuffed about. Marc traces much of his business ethics to his father's rules of success (see box).

Here is a man who has found a worklife balance that would be the envy of many. He has reinvented himself in a fulfilling way. Still, the story of his struggle along the rocky road of success, the Randolph and Hasting dialectic, the brutality of "radical honesty", the fight for attention, money and validation and then the battle with entrenched players like the now-defunct Blockbuster, all make for interesting reading.

A combination of timing, brilliance and perseverance along with a little bit of luck all combined to make Netflix a success. What was also necessary was to be focused, especially on data, to have the ability to change when required and to innovate and focus on consumers constantly. The contrasting styles of the cofounders complemented each other, as did their skill-sets — his analytical mind and Hastings'marketing acumen and consumer focus.

Now that Netflix is a verb, the tale of its origin provides the grounding needed to understand it. Data collection and analysis have a far more significant role to play in this content-driven service than commonly thought. Marc Randolph and Reed Hastings' creation is shaping our minds, for once we have an account that describes how it was shaped into what it has become.

RANDOLPH'S RULES FOR SUCCESS

When I was twenty-one years old, fresh out of college and about to start my first job, my father gave me a handwritten list of instructions. The whole thing took up less than half a page, in my father's neat engineer's handwriting. It read (original sentence structure retained):

■ Never, ever, to anybody present as fact opinions on things you don't know. Takes great care and discipline.

Do at least 10% more than you are asked.

- Be courteous and considerate always up and down.
- ■Don't knock, don't complain stick to constructive, serious criticism.
- Don't be afraid to make decisions when you have the facts on which to make them.
- Quantify where possible. Be open-minded but sceptical.
- ■Be prompt.
- ...And I've tried, for my entire life, to live up to all eight rules. — Marc Randolph

A complicated look at motherhood

UCY ELLMANN has a lot to say. In Ducks, Newburyport, her 1,034page novel, Ellmann's narrator, an ■ Ohio housewife, lets loose an encyclopedic monologue that encompasses modern motherhood; the American health care system; Trump; and other subjects. Ducks, Newburyport has been shortlisted for the Booker Prize; SHORTLIST other finalists include Margaret Atwood and Salman Rushdie. The Booker From her home in Scotland, the Prize 2019 62-year-old novelist offers some insights on her book.

Your narrator is a mother of four who runs a small baking business and sometimes breaks into song but rarely stops to catch her breath. What is she trying to tell us?

She's not trying to tell you anything; she's just going about her business. Ducks, Newburyport doesn't yank at a reader's coat tails like The Life and Opinions of Tristram Shandy, Gentleman (a book I love). Its approach is oblique, and it's up to the reader to make head or tail of it.

You have 'ny lived in the US since you were a teen. And yet you chose to write in the voice of an American housewife and entrepreneur. Why – and how – did you summon that voice? She's not an "entrepreneur", more like a beggar who's just trying to make ends meet (the family has been crippled by health-care costs). The narrator is, in some ways, the person I might have been, had I never moved to Europe. I have family in America, and dear friends. The country's fate concerns me. And from the outside the horrors are blatant. It is an obtuse entity, endangering the whole world.

> Your book offers a complicated look at motherhood. At one point your narrator says, "I'm scared of all young women now, because when I look at them I see another potential mother hater." What are you trying to say about how society — and women in particular – view motherhood?

I'm stunned by how harshly many daughters treat their mothers these days. This is gratingly anti-feminist, a self-perpetuating cycle of self-hatred, whereby these girls in turn will be scorned by their daughters. The devaluing of motherhood, though, is essential to patriarchy. Our society neglects mothers (practically and emotionally) and even the notion of motherhood. This all serves misogyny extremely well. Not all women are mothers, luckily—what is the point of bearing children, after all, in such a world? But contempt for motherhood surges up from a well of disparagement of women in general, and the whole history of womanhood, a disparagement of life itself.

I have infinite respect for motherhood as a fact, an astounding fact throughout human history and the natural world. It's hard not to believe that the perspective of mothers is more rational and more considerate than many other perspectives. I agree with Tsutomu Yamaguchi, who said only nursing mothers should have control over nuclear bombs. If it had been up to mothers, though, bombs would never have been created.

I've read that you are "committed to peacefully circumventing all governments in order to create a worldwide matriarchy in which women, art and animals will be honoured, instead of bombs, cigars, man caves, computers, gangster movies and garter belts". Which thing will go first?

My plan is that men should admit culpability in ruining the world, and in reparation, hand over all their money and property to women. Whatever women do with the money, it's got to be better than what men spent it on. Once all wealth is in female hands, women can start sorting out the criminal catastrophe men have perpetrated. Advances in metallurgy sparked the demise of matriarchy in the first place, 5,000 years ago, leading to a growth of weaponry and war. You can still see the link between weapons and misogyny today, in the number of American women shot by gun-toting men. So maybe we'll start by banning metal. Also porn. But men can still have beer. — The Independent

How we should protect democracy

BHUPINDER BRAR

TT was famously said that democracy is not the best conceivable form of government, except that all other ⊥forms of government ever actually tried proved to be much worse. What that means in plain English is that democracy is the best humanly possible bet, and must be preserved despite its flaws and pitfalls. The real question is how this could be done, and who would take the responsibility.

The conventional answer is that people themselves would throw out inept or corrupt rulers in the next round of elections. But could the common voter always be trusted to punish those who betrayed his/her trust? Experience in India and elsewhere would show that the ground for reposing such faith is shaky. Often enough, appeals to primordial or populist sentiments easily defeat the rational-critical faculties of the common voter.

RETHINKING GOOD GOVERNANCE: HOLDING TO ACCOUNT INDIA'S PUBLIC INSTITUTIONS

by Vinod Rai. Rupa. Pp. XVIII + 278. ₹595

Odd though this might sound, democracy, therefore, needs to be protected not only from elected rulers who misrule but also from those who elect the untrustworthy rulers in the first place. This has to be done by such public institutions as would not succumb to political pressures or lures, whether from the government or the opposition, nor would they be swayed by popular moods and sentiments of the day.

Such public institutions are best created by provisions made in the Constitution itself. Their autonomy is guaranteed by the Constitution, and they have unswerving loyalty and commitment only to the Constitution. They are what make a democracy 'constitutional democracy' and they are what would ensure 'good governance'.

That, in brief, is the belief that drives the book in hand, written by Vinod Rai, the much lionised and much maligned Comptroller and Auditor General of India. He is the man who, when he demitted office in 2013, was strikingly but aptly compared to T N Seshan, the Chief Election Commissioner, some two decades earlier. Both are remembered for their impeccable personal integrity, zeal to reform and even overhaul systems, and consequently making attempts that amount to crossing the red lines of their domains, making them guilty of overreach. Rai's controversial allegation of 'presumptive loss' of revenue in 2G spectrum is a prime example. It questioned the very right of the government to define 'public good' and undertake a major initiative aimed at fast spread of affordable mobile services.

In the main chapters of the book, Rai takes up for examination what he believes are the seven 'pillars' required to uphold norms and practices of democracy as well as good governance. These are the Parliament, Supreme Court, Election Commission, Reserve Bank, Comptroller and Auditor General, Central Bureau of Investigation, Civil Services and Central Vigilance Commission. The author thinks not all of them have acquitted themselves commendably or even honourably, but he also believes strongly that none of them is beyond repair or redemption. Much of these chapters goes into specific details of what is wrong and specific suggestions as to how it could be set right.

The scope of a short book review would not allow all such details to be mentioned, let alone discussed. Let us therefore limit ourselves to identifying the common thread that binds them. Most of the analysis and prescription contained in this book stems from what political scientists call 'legal-institutional' approach. The approach is at its core rationalist. It believes that once we arrive at correctives through proper reasoning, these can be injected without much hitch into the system.

Max Weber, for example, talked of legal-rational-bureaucratic model of society as the ideal of modernity. Political scientists consider such perspectives very limited, and naïve. Mass culture and psychology, and actors' own drive to power, make social actions prone to both selfishness and irrationality. A political scientist might, therefore, expect a more social-systemic explanation of why institutions of governance have suffered from debilitating limitations.

Translations, debut works make the cut

RANSLATION works including Perumal Murugan's twin novels, ▲ Trial by Silence and Lonely Harvest, and Manoranjan Byapari's There's Gunpowder in the Air are among the five books that have been shortlisted for this year's JCB Prize for Literature.

Murugan's books have been translated from Tamil by Aniruddhan Vasudevan, and Byapari's novel has been translated from Bengali by Arunava Sinha.

The shortlist also features two debut works — Roshan Ali's Ib's Endless Search for Satisfaction, and Madhuri Vijay's The Far Field, as well as awardwinning writer Hansda Sowvendra Shekhar's My Father's Garden.

The jury, chaired by filmmaker and environmentalist Pradip Krishen, noted that the five selected works were "bold" and shared "a deep sense of justice and injustice". "Their private struggles help illuminate larger themes, including patriarchy in rural southern India, religious and political conflict in Kashmir, and social and sexual marginalisation in eastern India. Taken together these novels remind us that fiction remains the most powerful way for a society to examine its fundamental concerns," Krishen said.

Now in its second edition, the Prize carries an amount of Rs 25 lakh, and is awarded each year to a distinguished work of fiction by an Indian writer. It is the most expensive Indian award for writing. Authors and translators of all the shortlisted titles will each be awarded Rs 1 lakh, and Rs 50,000 respectively.

The final winner will be announced on November 2. In case the winning entry is a translation, the translator will be awarded Rs 10 lakh. — PTI

Amritsar Dasehra tragedy, year later

60 onlookers were mowed down by a train during the Dasehra Mela near an unfenced railway track last year. The tragedy shook the nation. No one, except the victims, was held accountable. N the occasion of Dasehra this Tuesday, do spare a thought for the victims, and families, of last year's ghastly tragedy on the railway tracks in Amritsar. No one, either in the Indian Railways or in the Punjab state administration, was held responsible for the unfortunate incident. The Railways, after dithering for a while, did set up an inquiry committee under the Chief Commissioner of Railway Safety (CCRS), SK Pathak. His report concluded that it was "negligence" on part of the people that led to the mishap.

"Having carefully considered the factual material and circumstantial evidence so far available at my disposal, I have provisionally come to the conclusion that the unfortunate incident of running over of 60 persons near Jaura Phatak close to Amritsar railway station of Ferozepur division of Northern Railways on October 19, 2018 at 6:55 pm occurred due to the negligence of persons reportedly standing on and near railway track witnessing Dasehra Mela at Dhobi Ghat," Pathak said in his report.

Officials in the Railway Board, however, contended that though "nobody could be held responsible" for the accident, in which 72 people were also injured, as all the norms relating to Standard Operating Procedures were in place while running the train, there appeared to be "lack of coordination between the Railways' divisional office and district administration" and in such a situation, "fixing accountability is a tough call".

Belongings of those killed/injured in the 2018 train tragedy lie on the track.

AFTER-EFFECTS: AWARENESS CAMPAIGNS, FENCING, HOOTERS

- Various awareness campaigns are organised by the Railways to sensitise passengers about fatalities while crossing railway tracks, foot-board/rooftop travelling, boarding/de-boarding running trains, etc.
- Regular drives are conducted against trespassing, travelling on foot-board, steps, rooftop of trains, boarding/de-boarding running trains and the persons apprehended are prosecuted under Railways Act 1989
- RPF personnel are deployed on locations vulnerable to trespass
- Erection of boundary wall/fencing at identified locations that are vulnerable to trespass
- Warning signboards are provided at conspicuous places for the awareness of passengers
- Enhanced coordination by RPF and GRP with local administration

■ Hooters are to be provided to RPF, GRP personnel on the ground to alert people to vacate tracks well before train's arrival

Advisory post tragedy

Trespassing on railway tracks is "a common feature" in India, considering the vast unfenced stretches, particularly in areas where habitations exist. Given the nature of train operations in the country, a former Railway Board member opined that the Railways cannot wash its hands of the tragedy as it could have been averted had the department deployed railway police near the track to keep the crowd away.

Taking note of the measures suggested in the CCRS report and by experts after the accident, the Railways issued a set of fresh advisories to all divisional managers for train operations during this year's festival season. In the advisory, the Railway Protection Force (RPF), Government Railway Police (GRP) and the rail traffic management team have been asked to hold regular coordination meetings with the district administration and police falling under their respective divisions. The RPF and GRP have been asked to keep a close watch on the festivities organised near tracks and railway stations and get details of such events from the local administration and prepare accordingly. They have also been asked to keep a close vigil to avert any attempt of trespassing on the track.

Asking the divisional managers to procure and provide "hooters" to RPF jawans deployed on the ground near places where festivities are organised, the Railways has asked for their use to alert people before a train passes through. "This has been done as on several occasions, people remain unaware of a train coming towards them because of the loud music around and sound of crackers, as was the case when the Amritsar train tragedy took place," said a senior Railway Board official.

Findings of rail safety report

The CCRS, in its report, classified the accident as "error in working by public near railway line" and made a slew of recommendations to avoid such accidents. It said prior intimation to railway administration should be given by the district administration/organisers to hold big events like rallies so that Railways can take proper precaution in consultation with stakeholders. It said both the GRP as well as the RPF should hold regular meetings with the state police for an update on events where large gatherings are expected.

State administration in coordination with railway administration should also impart training and sensitise residents, especially those living in the vicinity of tracks in urban areas, of the dangers of straying on the tracks and the penalties that could be imposed, the report had said. It also asked the authorities to conduct awareness programmes in schools and interactions with loco drivers who have witnessed accidents, to impact the minds of youngsters on the dangers of straying on to the tracks.

Fencing project

Following the CCRS report, Minister for Railways, Piyush Goyal, constituted an inter-departmental 'Joint Committee' comprising officers of Safety, Security, Signal and Engineering departments across all Zonal Railways to study the causes and suggest measures to minimise deaths due to untoward incidents, including trespassing. Sources said preventive and corrective measures have been taken to improve/create infrastructure to minimise casualties.

Meanwhile, the Indian Railways has put in place an ambitious plan to build boundary wall or install fences on stretches passing through inhabited urban areas to prevent accidents. The issue of building a safe fence between the tracks and inhabited areas had come to the limelight after the Amritsar train tragedy. "In all these years, unauthorised constructions have come up along railway tracks, particularly in cities and towns," a senior official said.

The move to install fencing along the railway track is also aimed at avoiding animal deaths, as according to figures available with the Indian Railways, more than 33,000 animals, including cattle, elephants, lions and leopards, have been killed while coming in the way of running trains. "It also halts train operations by way of derailment or otherwise," said a senior official.

₹7 lakh but no jobs, left to fend for ourselves'

Neha Saini in amritsar

YEAR has gone by, but life for the families of victims of the Jaura Phatak train tragedy remains on Lathe edge. The horrific flashes of the fateful evening of October 19, 2018 are still fresh, and the healing process looks like a far stretch, much like their demand of punishing the "guilty", especially when the authorities feel that those who died or got injured were to blame for their fate and no one else.

Deepak lost his father Girinder Kumar and uncle Pawan Kumar that day. The 21year-old is still unable to come to terms with what happened within a matter of seconds. "It's been a year and we have still not got justice. We have decided to sit on the railway tracks as a mark of protest on Dasehra to let the government know that they cannot take us for a ride with their false promises," he says.

"We know it will be wrong to block the tracks," he adds, "but we are left with no other option to make ourselves heard. We never got the support as promised by the Sidhu couple and other officials to get our life back on track."

The area (Amritsar-East) MLA and then a Cabinet Minister, Navjot Singh Sidhu, and his wife, former MLA from the same area, Navjot Kaur Sidhu, are accused of backtracking on their promises.

Navjot Kaur was the chief guest at the Dasehra function when tragedy struck. Immediately after, the Sidhus had reportedly promised government jobs for the kin of the victims and also support for the education of their children.

At loggerheads with Chief Minister Capt Amarinder Singh, Sidhu formally resigned as a minister on July 14 this year and has since then made only a rare public appearance. He did visit his constituency, Amritsar (East), to oversee developmental projects briefly.

Preeti (right) lost her husband (30) and son (9). She was duped of compensation money by a relative.

DOUBLE BLOW FOR THIS FAMILY

Jaura Phatak falls under Amritsar East constituency and had decidedly pro-Sidhu electoral leanings before the mishap. "We had been working with Navjot Sidhu and his wife when he was in the BJP. But all that was forgotten in an instant as instead of helping us, they shunned their responsibility. We were given the compensation money as if it could last a lifetime," says a distraught Swaran Kaur, mother of Dalbir Singh, who died in the tragedy. Dalbir's story was widely covered as he died saving two lives while returning from the Ramlila event where he used to play Raavan. For Swaran, her son's death caused a double blow. "My daughter-in-law left with my granddaughter and the compensation amount also was divided. I have my elder son Balbir, who earns a meagre living by helping me with a small kiryana store. A job for him would mean we could spend the rest of our life at least with a semblance of normalcy."

and Anup, 18. Both were studying but now are working to support the family." She says that a job or free education would at least ensure a future for her children. Bindu Pandey, who lost her 16-year-old son Bhuvi, shares the same grievance. "People think that giving us money is enough help to get on with our lives. It's like money will improve our living conditions and ensure that our kids will come back. I have a disabled son and a young daughter who wants to pursue higher education. Will the money last forever?" she says.

Zero accountability

The repeated protests and dharnas staged by the families of the victims have had no impact. The Sidhus remained unavailable for comments as their PA, Gauray, said the couple is in Jammu for paying obeisance at Vaishno Devi shrine and will only come after the end of Navratras, The councillor of the area, Saurabh Madaan alias Mithu Madaan, too remained unavailable for comments.

The area surrounding the tracks still does not have a boundary wall though the railway authorities said after the time mishap that they would build one to ensure no tres-replacement for the loved ones? What about punishing those responsible for the death of so many innocent people and children?" questions Vijay Kumar, whose 16-year-old son Munish was among the victims.

"Till date, the Sidhus have not visited us, leave aside fulfilling their promises. Navjot Kaur met us at her residence once and her team would constantly assure us that we would get jobs. We feel cheated and abandoned," says Deepak. A graduate in hotel management, he aspired to migrate. "My father and uncle were fruit vendors and we live in a joint family. After their demise, a major chunk of the compensation money went into paying loans they had taken for our education. I have two younger siblings and my uncle's three kids are also quite young. All the responsibility now rests on my shoulders and I have been running from one office to the other for the job that district administration, 38 members of the victims' families are waiting for jobs.

Vijay Kumar, who runs a small workshop in the area, terms the lackadaisical approach of officials "torturous". "Our wounds are still fresh and we are being forced to run from one person to another, like beggars, asking for help that we were promised. We repeatedly approached the Sidhus, but were ignored. It's not about jobs or money. We want the culprits responsible for the mishap to be punished."

For a few months after the accident, Jaura Phatak residents saw high-profile visits. but it has been quiet the past six months. "Most local leaders are trying to gain political mileage out of our tragedy. Some of them have also approached us to share the political platform. But we know that none in the tragedy. "With ₹5 lakh from the state and ₹2 lakh from the Centre, they expect us to forget and forgive. Is it that easy?" he asks. "Why was the inquiry report not made public? Why was the train driver given a clean chit? How come the railway officials have not been held accountable? Why is the local councillor who organised the Dasehra celebration not behind bars yet? All the guilty parties have joined hands and we await justice," he rues.

Most of the victims belonged to migrant families from Bihar and Uttar Pradesh. A few have moved back to their villages, while some have chosen to stay put. Like Preeti, 27, who lost her husband, Dinesh, 30, and nine-year-old son Abhishek. It was Good Friday, 1986, when I was told to come to PM Rajiv Gandhi's house. I was asked to take over Punjab Police. I sought time to inform my wife, but was told to call her up later. She was not amused. I had to remind her of the marriage vows — 'for better or for worse'

THAT would have been the turn of events if the Centre's plan to confront Bhindranwale and his followers on their way back from Mumbai to Amritsar had materialised? Perhaps Operation Bluestar would not have been necessary and the hurt caused to the Sikhs would have been avoided! Life is full of ifs and buts that could have changed the course of history!

I considered myself lucky to escape the wrath of Indira Gandhi, the Iron Lady, for failing to anticipate the 'escape' of Bhindranwale from the Dadar gurdwara. I completed my term as Mumbai's Police Chief and took command of the CRPF, a body of men I had always admired. Alas, this spell lasted only for six weeks before I was pulled out and sent to Gujarat to settle the communal problem there.

Four months in Gujarat and I was brought back to Delhi in the newly-created post of Special Secretary in the Union Home Ministry. In that capacity, I was tasked to find a suitable substitute to the incumbent DGP of Punjab from among the senior IPS officers cutting across states. Hari Barari, the DIB, was to assist me. The officers we selected were either rejected by Arun Nehru or Surjit Singh Barnala, the CM of Punjab at that time. One officer from Gujarat, acceptable to all, refused the job!

ON SAYING NO TO 'BLACK CATS': No leader of men can succeed if he distrusts his men.

It was Good Friday, of 1986. I was resting when the phone rang. It was Arun Nehru summoning me urgently to the Prime Minister's residence. I drove off in my car and was soon ushered into a private balcony where I noticed Rajiv Gandhi sitting on a swing. Arun Nehru, Arun Singh and Arjun Singh were the only other persons present — no Cabinet Secretary, nor Home Secretary or other bureaucrat.

I was asked to take over Punjab Police. I was told that Hindu hopes of a peaceful existence would increase fourfold when my appointment was announced! I was also told that my status as a Secretary to the GoI and my salary would be protected. And, lastly, that I should take some 'black cats' for my personal protection!

This last suggestion I promptly rejected. If I was to command a force, there was no question of distrusting them. No leader of men can succeed if he distrusts his men! I told Rajiv Gandhi that I would have to gain the trust and loyalty of the men I led if I was to succeed in my mission. If I failed in that effort, the mission itself would fail.

Taking over as DGP

The Prime Minister told me that a plane was ready to fly me to Chandigarh! I asked for time to inform my wife, pick up my uniform and essential clothing. He said all that would follow in another aircraft. I had just to phone my wife from Chandigarh and tell her what needs to be packed till the rest of my luggage was despatched!

Arjun Singh and Arun Nehru accompanied me and presented me to Surjit Singh Barnala. The Chief Minister was obviously in the know of the decision. He welcomed me with noticeable warmth and that made me comfortable. I phoned my wife from the Raj Bhavan telling her of these recent developments that were bound to change the course of our lives. She was not amused. She had just settled down to a more ordered existence away from the nomadic one she and I had been forced to live in the previous year since we left Mumbai. I reminded her of the marriage vows we had taken — "for better or for worse!"

That evening I was introduced to the security detail that I inherited from my predecessor. There was one ASI and four police constables, all armed, and all Jat Sikhs, as I later learnt. They became part and parcel of my existence for the 3-1/2 years I spent in Punjab. Some of them kept in touch with me over the phone till even recently. They were good policemen and good human beings.

In the middle of that first night spent in the Punjab Raj Bhavan, there was a knock on my door. It was the security detail which came to inform me of a terrorist attack on a 'jagran' outside a temple in Jalandhar. My uniform had not arrived, but I got back into the civilian clothes I had worn on arriving in Punjab and told the detail to prepare to leave for Jalandhar.

The men were taken aback. The seniormost among them ventured to say that police movement at night had stopped because of fear of terrorist attacks! I told him that, that was precisely what I intended to correct. I was not going to miss the opportunity to send a message to the rank and file that the incoming DGP expected his men to face the miscreants at night just as they did during the day.

The message was obviously conveyed to the SHO, Jalandhar, who was waiting to receive us when we landed at his police station in the early hours of the morning. He had good news for the new DGP! He had followed the trail of the culprits and actually got hold of them with their weapons just outside the town. That was music to my ears. That music coming on top of the excitement of the chase obviated the necessity of snatching a couple of hours of sleep before getting down to the job of commanding a somewhat demoralised police force.

Alternative facts in post-truth world

For all the glitz and handholding, was Trump grateful? Not enough to give India a trade deal we had been hoping for Instead, he again offered to mediate in Kashmir. He spent some time with Pakistan PM Imran Khan on the sidelines of the UN General Assembly meet. It was business as usual: one day India, the next day Pakistan here is a price to be paid when the people who take most things seriously stop taking anything that you say too seriously. Prime Minister Narendra Modi used the Hindi word akalpaniya when he did that round with US President Donald Trump in Houston. Akalpaniya means unimaginable. That's quite an apt term for some of the spectacles we have seen from 'Howdy, Modi!' in Houston and Modi's appearance at Sabarmati Ashram, where he declared India open defecation free, a little over a week after two Dalit children were beaten to death for defecating in the open in Madhya Pradesh.

We know it's a post-truth world where factual rebuttals are ignored. It is equally true that the practitioners of the craft of post-truth are skillful creators of what is called 'alternative facts' — when you make up stuff because the real facts don't suit you. That sort of stuff has worked wonderfully in this age for some elected leaders, but there is a price to be paid for not answering hard questions and only performing for cheering crowds.

Consider quickly what happened after 'Howdy, Modi!'. Our elected leader endorsed a controversial elected leader, who is in the midst of his presidential rerun. Would the Indian media not have choked with outrage had a visiting world leader made statements suggesting a domestic preference? And for all the glitz and handholding, was Trump grateful? Not enough to give India a trade deal we had been hoping for. Instead, he again offered to mediate in Kashmir, which always irritates us; he spent some time with Pakistan PM Imran Khan on the sidelines of the UN General Assembly meet. It was business as usual: one day India, the next day Pakistan. But Trump did call Modi the "father" of India. Quite cool, say the bhakts. Personally, I have no issue with a foreign head of state saying anything wonderful and over-the-top about our PM.

Here, it must be noted that Imran Khan gave an interview to CNN's Christiane

Prime Minister Narendra Modi addresses the BJP workers in Ahmedabad on Gandhi Jayanti. PTI

Amanpour, in which he said he feared a massacre in Kashmir. From his point of view, the Pakistani leader made his point to the world media where we continue to be attacked on the Kashmir issue. Amanpour has travelled the globe interviewing world leaders, and even some reclusive leaders speak to her. CNN made it a point to state that they have asked for an interview with the Indian Prime Minister as well, and are waiting for a response.

Our PM loves to talk, give speeches and jam in crowded stadiums like a rockstar. But he gives interviews only to a small, pliant troupe. So our PM will give interviews to select Indian journalists, but will not speak to Amanpour, who cannot be handed a script and be expected to not ask hard questions. An open press conference at home would be in the realm of unimaginable now.

It's clear that it's the ratings of the show that the PM and the BJP use to determine the success of the journeys. Certainly the BJP was delighted with 'Howdy'. So when the PM went to Ahmedabad on October 2 and addressed the BJP workers, the backdrop had a giant picture of Modi and Trump, hand in hand. (Never mind that it was Gandhi Jayanti). That day our PM had penned a piece for The New York Times (the sort of paper that best friend Trump calls fake media), titled, Why India and The World Need Gandhi. One "father" of the nation felt a compelling need to associate with the figure that got the title first. The 150th birth anniversary of Gandhi was, in the end, an all-out Modi show. He went to Sabarmati Ashram that night and, just before the 9 pm prime time TV shows, delivered a speech where he basically said the country was open defecation free as every family had access to a toilet and in doing this he had fulfilled Gandhi's dreams. Really? Both the claims do not pass a simple fact check.

It's a fact that the government has initiated a move to take over all Gandhi ashrams, trusts and land. The Gandhians are shocked. It may also be remembered that much before he became the PM, Modi, as the Chief Minister of Gujarat, had created a swanky facility for events, meetings and jamborees such as Vibrant Gujarat investors' meet in Mahatma Mandir. The government says it wants to take over Sabarmati Ashram in order to build a "world class" memorial to Gandhi. Mahatma Mandir is now run by a hospitality chain that also runs luxury hotels. What can one say except, 'Howdy, Gandhi!'

All-clear at Ambala IAF station

N October 1962, a fullfledged war broke out between India and LChina. Though McMahon Line was far away from Ambala, orders were received to dig out trenches and to be ready for any enemy air attack .The Air Force Station activated a night

ORP and the Vampire aircraft (the only night fighter Indian Air Force had at that time) would fly in from Palam before dusk and fly back from Ambala at dawn after providing night cover to the northern sector.

The phase of the Chinese war was over with political turmoil and shakeup in the ministries in New Delhi. War historians worked on the lessons learnt from the unprovoked attack by China and India's retaliation. The Indian Air Force was not used during the 1962 war due to the fear of the unknown.

It was only in September 1965 that the IAF actually participated in a conventional war lasting three weeks. Much before the actual operations began, we had moved to our operational locations. The Air Traffic Services were moved to a wooden hut near Runway 30 L where one could barely squeeze in with the equipment neatly stacked, and the supporting manpower in the open. Trenches were dug all around to jump in during air raids. A mobile control room on wheels, concealed by the foliage of trees, was made operational to control the air traffic in case the wooden hut was destroyed.

The section had a dedicated Class IV employee, Chottay Lal, a devoted worker who besides serving tea would look after the needs of the section boys who were not allowed to go out of the camp owing to operational reasons. He was a part of the duty roster of the section. It was in September 54 years back that his faith in Almighty. "Sir, there is a mazzar inside the airfield which is providing a shield to the Air Force Station. Let Pakistan send any number of aircraft, nothing will happen to the unit."

This was his faith in Pir Baba, whose mazzar he was referring to. I listened to his story, ignoring the content. I was looking at the horizon trying to locate the enemy aircraft.

After a while, we could hear the sound of an aircraft. It appeared that the aircraft was approaching the airfield from the west. The sound became louder as the aircraft came close. The B57 was visually spotted from the trench. It dropped a bomb which hit St Paul's Church adjoining the airfield. The airfield was safe and so was the runway and hangers, which housed critical war equipment.

"Sir, I told you Pir Baba is protecting this airfield," he said, a grin on his face, when the all-clear was announced.

When I visited the Air Force Station a couple of years back, a senior officer enquired if I had heard about the story of Pir Baba during the 1965 operations. I had no hesitation in sharing the story of Chottay Lal with the audience.

The truth is that Ambala was attacked on September 20 and 22 and on both days no serious damage was caused to the airfield and vital installations. Flight operations continued unabated from this airfield. Could we call it the incompetency of the B57 pilots? Chottay Lal's answer we know already.

Khushwant Singh Litfest and challenges in holding it too far from Chandigarh. I have a famlacksquare ily home there. My late father, Khushwant Singh, loved the place and did much of his writing in Kasauli. He would take long walks all over the region, often using the short-cut, from the Kasauli bazaar to the foothills town of Kalka, a distance of some 10 kms. It has now been officially named as "The Khushwant Singh Trail" and has a board at its start, showing the many kinds of birds a walker may encounter on it. The trail was inaugurated a couple of years ago by the then Himachal Chief Minister, Virbhadra Singh. Returning to the "lark", my long-time companion, Niloufer Bilimoria, asked the then Brigadier (now a Major General), in charge of the Kasauli cantonment, Anant Narayan, how would he react to a literary festival named after Khushwant Singh (who was very much alive then, though too frail to make the journey from Delhi to Kasauli) in Kasauli? Anant was excited by the idea and said he would extend full support to it and that the magnificently-restored Kasauli Club — after it was almost entirely destroyed by a fire — would be the perfect venue. The Club has a spacious open-air terrace, a stage at one end, and a glorious view

T began as a lark. We were in Kasauli, of the valley below, leading to the plains and a hill station in Himachal Pradesh, not Chandigarh in the distance, to boot. It was June and we started thinking of holding the Litfest in October the following year, just after the weekend of the Sanawar School's Founder's Day. The school is located on a hill adjoining Kasauli.

> "Why next year?" asked Brigadier Anant. "Do it this October." That's how the Khushwant Singh Literary Festival (KSLF) began, seven years ago. It was the first Litfest in Himachal and also the first to be held in a military cantonment. It has put Kasauli on the literary map of India and made the club famous. But without the unstinting support of succeeding brigadiers, it would not have been possible. Since then, there have been a plethora of litfests all over the country. But I am proud to say that the KSLF is the only surviving one in Himachal, as well as the longest-running — eight consecutive years.

There is one exception, however — the "Jaipur Literary Festival" (JLF), the big daddy of all Indian litfests. It set the benchmark and I doff my hat to them, particularly to Sanjoy Roy, its moving spirit. He raises the funds, and the amount runs into tens of crores. Thousands attend the JLF. From there, it has spread to various parts of the globe, making it an unofficial, yet extremely effective, cultural ambassa-

Kasauli Litfest is graced by celebrities and intellectuals every year. This year, the list of speakers includes Sharmila Tagore, Manisha Koirala, Shabana Azmi, Dr BN Goswami, Javed Akhtar and Tavleen Singh dor for India. I met Sanjoy a few months ago at the London version of the JLF, held at the prestigious British Library. "Where to next?" I asked him. "Belfast", he replied. "Why on earth Belfast!" I exclaimed, associating that city with the Irish troubles. "Because they invited me to on the same page as the Pakistanis. Those hold a litfest there," was his matter-of-fact sessions attracted the largest audiences at laconic reply. So, Belfast it was for the JLF.

Passions and concerns

Returning to the KSLF, we decided that it would centre around some of the passions and concerns of Khushwant Singh, and would be dedicated to the education of the girl child, the Indian soldier, and the preservation of the ecology of the Kasauli region causes dear to Khushwant Singh. His love of Urdu poetry and the importance of humour in our lives were two other characteristics that were an essential part of him. He was not a political animal and could be quite naïve, like in his support for Indira Gandhi's "Emergency". But he spoke and wrote from the heart, and his readers and listeners respected and loved him for it.

Partition had a profound effect on him. He lost his beloved and beautiful Lahore home. Partition embittered many Indians who suffered, making quite a few of them haters of Pakistan and anti-Muslim. With Khushwant Singh, it had exactly the opposite effect: a burning desire to improve ties between the two nations. Hence, a primary objective of the KSLF was to invite prominent Pakistanis to Kasauli, to interact with some of the finest Indian minds that were our Litfest. Indians were listening to Pakistanis who had bravely put their lives on the line back home. Imagine the goodwill they must have taken back to Pakistan! In its own small way, the KSLF was carrying out a veritable "track two diplomacy". Sadly, that fruitful exchange of views ended three years ago, as relations between the two countries deteriorated. Pakistanis found it difficult to get visas for such Litfests, and vice versa.

Getting Pakistanis to Kasauli apart, the biggest challenge KSLF constantly faces is getting enough funds to make the event possible. We don't pay any fee to our speakers, only their travel costs and accommodation. Yet, Kasauli has been graced by leading film stars, celebrities, and intellectuals. This year, the list of speakers includes Sharmila Tagore, Manisha Koirala, Shabana Azmi, Dr BN Goswami, Javed Akhtar and Tavleen Singh. We don't charge any admission fee. So, welcome to the 8th Khushwant Singh Lifest, starting at 11 am on October 11. And if you can help us get more funds - we have tax-free status — and sponsorships, you are doubly welcome. And do visit our website kslitfest.com.

Nepal ex-Speaker booked over rape allegations

KATHMANDU: Nepal police on Saturday registered a case against the former Parliament Speaker Krishna Bahadur Mahara, who has been accused of raping a parliamentary woman staff, according to a media report. The police lodged an FIR after receiving a formal complaint from the woman, the Himalayan Times reported. Democrats subpoena White House

Demand Trump-Ukraine documents as impeachment probe intensifies

WASHINGTON, OCTOBER 5

Democratic lawmakers on Friday demanded that the White House turn over documents related to allegations President Donald Trump pressured Ukraine for political favours, as the explosive impeachment investigation against the US leader intensified.

The congressional committees leading the probe cranked up the heat on the White House as evidence mounted that Trump illicitly used his office to enlist Ukraine President Volodymyr Zelensky's help to damage 2020 Democratic rival Joe Biden, in exchange for military aid.

"The White House has refused to engage with or even respond to multiple requests for documents," the Democratic chairmen of the House oversight, intelligence and foreign affairs committees said.

"His actions have left us with no choice but to issue this subpoena." In their letter to acting White House Chief of Staff Mick Mulvaney, the committees demanded that he turn over the requested files by October 18.

The subpoena followed a demand earlier Friday for documents from Vice-President Mike Pence. The investigators pointed to Pence's knowledge of Trump's calls to Zelensky and his own meeting on September 1 with the Ukraine leader, as well as discussions he may have had with Trump

CONGRESS INCREASING PRESSURE: POMPEO

■ There's been a congressional increase that harassed and abused State Department employees by contacting them directly and seeking to have them provide documents... that belong to the State Department, that are official US government records, said Pompeo

Pompeo confirmed on Wednesday that he had been on the telephone call when Trump pressed Ukraine for damaging information on Biden > and US diplomats about Ukraine and obtaining political dirt on Biden. A series of text messages between US diplomats dealing with Ukraine, made public by the congressional investigators, supported Democratic accusations that Trump had ille gally sought foreign help for his re-election effort.

And the Wall Street Journal reported that, in an interview, Republican Senator Ron Johnson said he had learned that a quid pro quo had been proposed to Zelensky's government by Trump's emissaries, tying military aid to a Ukraine corruption investigation into Biden.

Trump pushed back hard, saying there was no quid pro quo and, in an effort to recast the entire saga, insisted it was his responsibility to investigate "corruption."

The former US vicepresident responded by calling Trump "the most corrupt president we've had in modern history." "I am not going to stand for it," said Biden.

Trump has alleged that Biden's son Hunter earned "millions" from sitting on the board of directors of a Ukraine tycoon's gas company.—AFP

officials meet for nuclear talks

North Korea, US

STOCKHOLM, OCTOBER 5

North Korean and US officials on Saturday gathered for new nuclear talks in Stockholm after months of deadlock and Pyongyang's defiant test of a sea-launched ballistic missile this week.

North Korea's Kim Myong Gil and Stephen Biegun, the special envoy of US President Donald Trump, are part of the teams at the talks. The two were to meet at a heavily guarded venue on an island off Stockholm, an AFP correspondent said. "I am encouraged that US and (North Korean) working level delegations are currently in Sweden to hold talks," Swedish Foreign Minister Ann Lindh tweeted.

Similar-level talks on North Korea's nuclear disarmament were held in Stockholm in March 2018 and then in January. Pyongyang tested what it called a "super-large" rocket on Wednesday just hours after it said it was willing to resume talks with Washington.—AFP

Thai judge shoots self in Taliban, US envoy discuss Afghan peace deal court criticising system

BANGKOK, OCTOBER 5

A Thai judge shot himself in the chest in front of a packed court after acquitting several murder suspects and decrying the kingdom's judicial system in an impassioned speech broadcast on Facebook Live. Critics say Thailand's courts often work in favour of the rich and powerful, while delivering swift and harsh sentences on ordinary people for minor offences.

But it is virtually unheard of for judges to criticise the system. Kanakorn Pianchana, a judge at Yala court in the heart of the insurgency-battered Thai south, was delivering the verdict for five Mus-

Pakistan Prime Minister Imran Khan has dismissed fears of an Islamabad lockdown on October 27 by Jamiat Ulema-i-Islam (JUI-F) chief Maulana Fazlur Rehman, saying he would not be able to exploit the 'religious card' against the government at the behest of the Pakistan Peoples Party and the Pakistan Muslim League-Nawaz

Pro-democracy protesters marched through Hong Kong in defiance of a ban on face masks as much of the city ground to a halt on Saturday with the subway suspended and swathes of shops and malls shuttered following another night of violence.

Hundreds of protesters, almost all masked, staged an unsanctioned march through the popular shopping district of Causeway Bay, a day after the city's leader outlawed face coverings at protests invoking colonial-era emergency powers not used for half a century.

The latest act of resistance came after a night of widespread night of chaos as hardcore protesters trashed dozens of subway stations vandalised shops with mainland China ties, built fires and blocked roads.

As the crowds were marching on Saturday, city leader Carrie Lam released a stonyfaced video statement in which she condemned protesters for "a very dark night".

Rohit ton gives India control

DAY 4: Is 2nd Indian opener to hit 2 100s in a Test, it's up to spinners now

VISAKHAPATNAM, OCTOBER 5 Rohit Sharma smashed another hundred and a plethora of records as India set an improbable 395-run target for South Africa in the first Test which is headed for an exciting final day. Revelling in his new role, Rohit effortlessly walked his way into the record books as he scored 127 off 149 balls, following his 176, to become the first ever batsman to score two hundreds in his first Test as an opener.

Late declaration

In a debatable decision, India batted late into the final session on Day 4 before declaring their second innings at 323/4 in 67 overs, giving themselves 45 minutes on Day 4 and the whole of Day 5 to bowl out South Africa. In the end, only 30 minutes of play was possible due to bad light after South Africa came out to bat.

Elgar trapped

At stumps, South Africa were 11/0 with Ravindra first Jadeja trapping innings centurion Dean Elgar in front of the stumps. The visitors need another 384 runs for victory. The pitch remains slow but is offering turn with the odd ball rearing up from the spots created. Ravichandran Ashwin who took seven wickets in the first innings — and Jadeja hold the key on the final day. With the doughty Elgar removed, the only other factor could be Quinton de Kock, who has often proved to be a thorn in India's flesh. Considering their spirited effort with the bat in the first innings, South Africa would be backing themselves to bat out the 90-odd overs on the final day.

Sublime knock

The day once again belonged to Rohit, who played yet another sublime knock at a brisk pace after the hosts bowled out South Africa for 431 almost one hour into morning session, earning a 71-run lead. Rohit smashed six sixes in first innings and seven in the second, including a hattrick of sixes off spinner Dane Piedt in the 56th over when India were looking for quick runs.

His 169-run stand for the wicket second with Cheteshwar Pujara (81 off 148) set the tone for India's second innings before Ravindra Jadeja (40), Virat Kohli (31*) and Ajinkya Rahane (27*) played their part. — PTI

ROHIT'S SWEAR WORD CAUGHT ON STUMP MIC

Rohit Sharma has taken his first Test series as an opener by storm. The 32-year-old today scored his second century of the match, taking a slew of records with him. There was, however, a moment today which he won't be too proud of. He was on strike with Cheteshwar Pujara at the other end and as Rohit looked for a single, he was sent back by Pujara. When making his way to the crease, Rohit urged Pujara to run while using a Hindi expletive in the sentence. A clip from that moment has since gone viral on the social media and has caught the eye of England all-rounder Ben Stokes. Stokes himself had tweeted about the expletive, which happens to rhyme with his name, in June when people tweeted images of Virat Kohli using the word and joking that it was Stokes' name that he was invoking. "This time it's Rohit not Virat.... If you know you know," tweeted Stokes. — IANS

Pujara defends timing of declaration, says didn't want soft ball

VISAKHAPATNAM, OCTOBER 5 Cheteshwar Pujara has said that the Indians their timed second innings declaration in such a manner that they didn't have to start with a soft semi-new-ball on the fifth day tomorrow.

Asked if the timing of declaration was right, Pujara said: "It was. We did not want to bowl too many overs because we wanted to keep the ball hard for the start of Day 5. You don't want to end up bowling too many overs and once the ball gets soft, it gets slightly easier to bat. We picked up a crucial wicket (Dean Elgar). So as a team, we are happy with the way things went today."

Pujara also felt that it won't be easy to bat on a fifth-day track. "Hopefully, on Day 5, this pitch wouldn't be easy to bat on and all started well. Taking 70 runs lead we would have taken it as they scored 500 runs. Hopefully we come ready tomorrow, bat well and take it real close Vernon Philander, SA PACER

there will be a little more assistance for the spinners. We have already seen that the pitch offers variable bounce, so the fast bowlers will also come into play. I think there is enough rough for the spinners and the cracks will open up a bit more on Day 5," India's ever-dependable No. 3 said. Pujara is expecting Ravindra Jadeja to exploit the rough on the pitch, as certain deliveries have either kicked up or stayed low from the spots created.—PTI

NBA packs off with Pacers' win

DEEPANKAR SHARDA

MUMBAI, OCTOBER 5

Indiana Pacers became the new sensation for the NBA fans in the city and across India as they recorded their second consecutive victory over Sacramento Kings (130-106) in the NBA preseason basketball match at DOME SYNC Stadium.

Pacers were trailing 25-30 in the first quarter but managed to overcome the deficit soon. Kings' Dewayne Dedmon had a good first quarter and gave the team early lead. He started with a three-pointer and combined well with forward De Aaron Fox and the momentum going.

In the second quarter, Pacers made a 46-29 comeback. Coach Nate McMillan substituted forward JaKarr Sampson, which proved to be he best move of the match. Sampson supported forwards Domantas Sabonis and Myles Turner to set the pace. Doug McDermott's killer three-pointers were on the target. As a result, the second quarter went in favour of the Pacers.

Kings played their trump card by promoting guard Yogi Ferrell as an attacker and pulled back Caleb Swanigan. But alert Pacers' guards, Justin Holiday and TJ Mc Connell, repulsed Kings' every attack. Kings were expected to make a comeback in the last quarter, but it was once again Pacers who stole the show by recording a 34-27 victory. In the end, Pacers pulled off an easy 130-106 victory to leave the Indian fans mesmerised. American basketball legend Larry Bird, who was here throughout the match, received the loudest cheers from the spectators.

for Liverpool, Spurs fall

LONDON, OCTOBER 5 A stoppage-time James Milner penalty sparked huge celebrations at Anfield as Liverpool beat Leicester City 2-1 on Saturday for an eighth successive Premier League win that moved them eight points clear at the top of the table.

The contrast with Tottenham Hotspur, whom they beat in last season's Champions League final, could not be more marked as Mauricio Pochettino's side continued to ship goals in a 3-0 loss at Brighton & Hove Albion while Aston Villa thumped Norwich City 5-1 and Burnley edged Everton 1-0. With Manchester City not playing until Sunday, Liverpool looked determined to lay down their marker and were win control when Sadio Mane scored the opener — his 50th league goal for the club — after getting on the end of a superb through ball from Milner.

GREEN STIR 29 of them sent to custody | Section 144 imposed | HC refuses stay

MUMBAI, OCTOBER 5

The Mumbai police have arrested more than 60 persons for violating prohibitory orders while protesting against the axing of nearly 2,700 trees in suburban Aarey for constructing a metro car shed.

After the Bombay High Court refused to stay felling of the trees on Friday, officials of the Mumbai Metro Rail (MMRCL) Corporation rushed in bulldozers and electric axes and began cutting the trees at night.

As protesters arrived on the spot, the police imposed section 144 of the Criminal Procedure Code (CrPC) in Aarey Colony and surrounding areas. More than 60 persons were detained of whom 29 were sent to judicial custody, the police said on Saturday evening. Some of the arrested persons have been accused of assaulting cops on duty.

Several activists moved the Bombay High Court on Saturday and sought a week's stay on cutting of the trees so that they could file a petition in the Supreme Court. However, Justice SC Dharmadhikari

A 30-year-old man was on Saturday allegedly shot dead in a broad daylight by two bike-borne assailants over "Facebook comments" at Harmara here.

The incident occurred around 10 am when the deceased, Mahaveer, a driver, was going on a bike with his friend towards Loha Mandi.

Preliminary probe hints at rivalry

The assailants, who had their faces covered, first hit their bike with theirs. As Mahaveer fell down, three bullets were pumped into his body — one in head, and two in chest — by the assailants in the busy market. The attackers fled the spot after committing the crime.

"Preliminary investigation has pointed towards an old rivalry and a controversy over Facebook comments. His Facebook account is being searched to ascertain the exact cause of the murder," said Ramesh Saini, SHO, Harmara police station.

Arunachal exercise 100 km inside LAC, says Army

TRIBUNE NEWS SERVICE

NEW DELHI, OCTOBER 5

A day after China reportedly objected to Indian Army's exercise in the Himalayas, Army sources said the exercise was taking place around 100 km from the Line of Actual Control (LAC), the defacto border between the two countries, and that it was scheduled much in advance. Named operation 'Him-

Vijay', the military exercise in Arunachal Pradesh will culminate on October 25 and had nothing to do with Chinese President Xi Jinping's visit, said sources. They said the same Corps was exercising in eastern Ladakh when the 73-day Doklam stand-off was ensuing in July-August 2017.

China claims the northeastern Indian state of Arunachal Pradesh as part of southern Tibet. India has maintained Arunachal is an "integral and inalienable part" of the country. The two countries have held over 20 rounds of talks to resolve the border dispute.

In their first informal summit at Wuhan in April 2018, Modi and Xi had decided to issue "strategic guidance" to their militaries to strengthen communication and build trust and understanding between the border guarding forces of the two countries. The summit had taken place months after Indian and Chinese troops were locked in a 73-day-long standoff in Doklam.

Addressing the annual convention of the Islamic Society of North America in Houston early last month, Sanders had said he was "deeply concerned" about the situation in Kashmir and asked the US Government to "speak out boldly" in support of a UN-backed peaceful resolution to resolve the issue.

Defending the restrictions, Foreign Minister S Jaishankar said in an interview last month: "It wasn't possible to stop communications between militants without impacting all of Kashmir. How do I cut off communication between the terrorists and their masters on the one hand, but keep the Internet open for other people? I would be delighted to know."

Tensions between India and Pakistan spiked after New Delhi abrogated provisions of Article 370 of the Constitution to revoke Jammu and Kashmir's special status. Pakistan has been trying to raise the issue at various international fora, but India says it is an internal matter. — PTI

Preparing for Pak's new

Retaliation's certain, test is to prevent terror strike

12.5 crore lives at stake in case nuclear warheads get used

AJAY BANERJEE IN NEW DELHI

NDIA is nowadays living under a 'threat' of possible terror strikes engineered by terrorists trained and based in Pakistan. Such a strike could result in India retaliating militarily and even spiral out into a short skirmish or war fanned by rhetoric-oriented media on either side.

The lives of almost 12.5 crore people on either side of the divide are at risk in case nuclear warheads get used.

Since Aug 5, when India changed special status of J&K, there have been reports of Pakistan activating terror camps. India has already cast templates of land and air strikes. Escalation into a war-type scenario will boil down to what choice Pakistan makes, and how India responds

Since August 5, the day India changed the special status of Jammu and Kashmir, there have been reports of Pakistan activating terror camps. Indian agencies have intercepted communication to say some 60 such terrorists are believed to have entered India in the past two months and another 500 odd are in Pakistan.

Terror strikes pose a major threat to not just Army bases but also air bases in North India, which hold war-fighting assets of the IAF like MiG 29 (at Adampur), Apache and Mi35 attack copters (Pathankot), Sukhoi 30 (Sirsa, Bathinda and Halwara) and Jaguar (Ambala). Besides this, long-distance trains, metros, malls and entertainment centres like movie theatres in big cities are at risk, is the warning from security agencies.

Templates for retaliation

New Delhi will retaliate to terror strikes. Two templates have been cast — one was the land-based surgical strikes at five different terror camps in Pakistan-occupied Kashmir on September 29, 2016, and the second air strikes at Balakot on February 26 this year to destroy a terror camp. In both cases, India was responding to major terror strikes — one on a military camp at Uri and the other on a CRPF convoy at Pulwama.

Former Northern Army Commander Lt Gen DS Hooda (retd) says, "Pakistani deep state will not stop its efforts in attempting to carry out terror attacks in India. Infiltration has been stepped up and the situation at the Line of Control (LoC) is marked by heavy exchange of fire." Since the last week of September, the Indian Army has carried out mock drills 'to flush out terrorists' from major facilities, including the civil airport of Amritsar. The Indian Air Force fighter jets carried out low-altitude flying on October 1. IAF jets overflying Punjab broke the 'sound barrier', resulting in a sonic boom and fears that 'someone' was being 'chased', hence the high speed. "It was a routine exercise" is what IAF officials said later, explaining that the sonic boom was part of it.

An assessment of the Pentagon says India could be attacked by Pakistan-trained terrorists. The US Assistant Secretary of Defence for Indo-Pacific Security Affairs, Randall Shriver, told an audience in Washington on October 2: "Many have concerns that Pakistan keeps a lid on militant groups that might conduct cross-border activities as a result of the Kashmir decisions."

Changes post Mumbai hold key

The period 2001-2008 looks far away. Terrorists launched audacious attacks in mainland India, including the ones on Parliament (December 2001) and Mumbai (November 2008). Within this period, a series of bomb blasts rocked several Indian cities, all carried out by what was called the 'Indian Mujahideen'.

Post-Mumbai, radical changes were made in the functioning of the security and Intelligence agencies. This included changes to the Unlawful Activities Prevention Act (UAPA) by giving sweeping powers to agencies, including that of arrest. An approach of joint operations and information sharing through an established channel called the multi-agency centre (MAC) works seamlessly. Things did turn around, random bomb blasts were controlled, but the Kashmir situation continued to fester.

In the past few years, barring the attack on the Pathankot air base in 2016, gun-toting terrorists have been restricted to the Kashmir valley, where terrorists have tried to storm military bases like Uri, Nagrota, Sanjuwan, etc.

Threat of war or nuclear war

An escalation into a war-type scenario will boil down to what choice Pakistan makes and how India responds. Islamabad can either risk its own soldiers and trigger a war for which it may not be prepared, or else it could continue with the low-cost option of waging a proxy war through terrorists and keep the Indian Army on its toes.

But does Pakistan have the military and economic strength to ignite a full-scale war with India? Lt Gen Subrata Saha (retd), a former commander of the Srinagar-based 15 Corps, has a pertinent query: "Can Pakistan justify a war to its own people? Do they have the military strength to fight one and what is the intention of such a war?"

Pakistan will opt for a proxy war for now, says Lt Gen Saha, who is now a member of the National Security Advisory Board (NSAB).

Almost 125 million (12.5 crore) people are at a risk of losing their lives in case India and Pakistan open up their nuclear arsenal. Pakistan Prime Minister Imran Khan, in a recent editorial in New York Times, unsheathed the nuclear sabre, saying: "If the world does nothing to stop the Indian assault on Kashmir and its people, there will be consequences for the whole world as two nuclear-armed states get ever closer to a direct military confrontation."

A study by researchers from the University of Colorado and Rutgers University in the US says a nuclear war between India and Pakistan could, in less than a week, kill 50-125 million people — more than the death toll during all six years of World War II, and lead to a global climate catastrophe. It examined how such a hypothetical future conflict would have consequences that could ripple across the globe.

The study, published in the journal Science Advances, looked at a war scenario that may occur between India and Pakistan in 2025.

India and Pakistan have almost an equal number of nuclear warheads: 140-150. New Delhi holds the edge in having missiles with greater range and the ability to launch a strike from undersea using a submarine.

Lt Gen Hooda adds, "Unless Pakistan tones down its rhetoric and desists from pushing in terrorists, it could lead to a major incident between the two countries."

So, can China intervene? A US assessment made public by Ronald Shriver in Washington said, "China may not want that kind of a conflict or would support that."

Across the border, Pakistan army chief Gen Qamar Javed Bajwa chaired the Corps Commanders Conference on October 3. The statement issued thereafter indicated the need to have a back channel open, lest the media on either side dictate terms. The statement said: "Commanders reiterated resolve for a befitting response to any Indian misadventure or aggression being conveyed through irresponsible media statements by Indian military commanders."

'Hyperbole' is unlikely to be India's reading of PM Imran Khan's assertion that those standing by Kashmiris were doing 'jihad'. Does it indicate that ISI will, for the first time, concede ground to pan-Islamists, now that the old tactics of calibrated violence have not worked with the Modi government since 2014? If ISI were to, it would do so knowing that the more virulent brands of terrorism, Al Qaida and Islamic State, need a short spell of abetment before they become out-of-control monsters

ISLAMABAD NEEDS TO TONE DOWN RHETORIC

Pakistan has got no support in its attempts to internationalise the Kashmir issue, at the UN and other platforms. Pakistani deep state (the Inter Services Intelligence and a section within the army) will not stop in its efforts in attempting to carry out terror attacks in India. In the past few months, infiltration across the Line of Control (LoC) has been stepped up by Pakistan and the situation at the LoC has been marked by heavy exchanges of fire. Unless Pakistan tones down its rhetoric and desists from pushing in terrorists, it could lead to a major incident between the two countries.

Making sense of Imran Kh

Vappala Balachandran

T is not very clear what Prime Minister Imran Khan had in mind when he said on September 29 at Islamabad airport that those standing by the Kashmiris were doing "jihad" and that Pakistan would support Kashmiris even if the world did not. Was he being alarmist as he was at the UN, or was he using a scaremongering hyperbole to impress the domestic audience?

Was it due to his frustration that his US visit did not result in any dramatic traction in favour of Pakistan's stand on Kashmir despite his aggressive UN speech, meetings with US leaders or major think tanks?

Was it a green signal to Pakistan's political and religious parties who were dissuaded by him on September 19 from marching towards the Line of Control (LoC) to show solidarity with the Kashmiris? He had said on that day after inaugurating the Torkham Terminal on the Afghan-Pak border: "If anyone from Pakistan goes to India to fight 'jihad', he will be the first to do an injustice to Kashmiris, he will be the enemy of Kashmiris." According to unconfirmed reports, Khan also asked them to wait till he forcefully presented the Kashmir issue "like never before" at the UN General Assembly.

Or worse still, was it his signal to unleash the Kashmir-centric non-state actors who were so far held in check through international pressure?

The Washington angle

restraint, although she also added that Washington DC would expect "sustained commitment" by Pakistan to rein in all terrorist groups to maintain regional stability.

For Imran Khan, there are also welcome signs from US Congressman Brad Sherman, Chairman of the US House Sub-Committee on Asia, who has announced that Alice Wells would appear before the Sub-Committee on October 22 to discuss the prevailing situation in the Valley, including human rights. Scott

Bushy, Deputy Secretary in charge of democracy, human rights and labour in South Asia, was also expected to testify on Assam (NRC).

On September 26, Alice Wells, while addressing the 74th United Nations General Assembly, had said that the US wanted India to "rapidly" ease restrictions in Kashmir and that they were "concerned by the widespread detentions in the Valley". "We look forward to the Indian Government's resumption of political engagement with local leaders
