Yasin, others charged with sedition

The National Investigation Agency (NIA) has filed a supplementary chargesheet before a Delhi court against Yasin Malik and five other separatist leaders, including Shahid-ul-Mujtaba, Mudasir Shah, and Mushtaq Ahmed Shawl, in connection with a terror funding case.

The chargesheet, which has been filed under Section 120-B of the Indian Penal Code, contains 83 charges against the six accused, including Yasin Malik, Shabir Ahmad Shah, and Mushtaq Ahmed Shawl.

The charges include conspiracy, inciting violence, and providing financial support to terrorists.

Yasin Malik and the other accused are facing trial in this case, and have been in custody since their arrest in 2019.

The chargesheet was filed in response to a summons issued by the court, and the trial is likely to continue in the coming months.

The case is one of several high-profile sedition cases that have been filed against political leaders in recent years, with the aim of suppressing dissent and free speech.

The NIA has argued that the leaders had assembled a “terrorist module” to spread violence and unrest in the region.

The leaders have denied all charges and have said that they are being targeted for their political views.

The case has sparked widespread debate and controversy, with some calling for a fair and impartial trial, while others have accused the government of using the case to silence dissent.

The trial is likely to continue for several months, with the hearing expected to be held in the coming weeks.

The case is being closely watched by human rights activists and political leaders, who are concerned about the implications of such cases for political freedom and democracy in the region.

The NIA has also filed chargesheets against several other separatist leaders in recent years, including Ayyub Ansari and Sabzar Ahmad Bhat.

The leaders have been accused of providing financial support to terrorist organizations and inciting violence.

The cases have been met with widespread protests and controversy, with many calling for a moratorium on such cases.

The government has defended the cases, saying that they are necessary to combat terrorism and ensure national security.

The cases are likely to continue for several months, with hearings scheduled to begin in the coming weeks.

The deep charm in Britain created by the Brexit debate will erupt into disorder without the only safety valve in sight, which is Brexit with a EU-deal. Remaining in the European Union will be acutely resented by those who voted to leave in the referendum. In the end, neither Leavers nor Remainers can expect fully to have their way. If by October 31 or any new agreed time limit, Britain still remains in the EU, there would be an early and unusual referendum. The votes of both of these outcomes are measurable. If the binary question would not clarify the doubts about the backstop issue, but any British FTA with the EU has to be aligned with the EU’s other FTAs and with Remain’s FTAs elsewhere, including those on the Irish Sea, Brussels. But the backstop, designed to prevent a hard border across the United Kingdom, will prove as vexatious as ever. Some kind of border between Northern Ireland and Ireland is inevitable. Brussels rules on the backstop are quite consistent with whatever border is determined. Assuming that Prime Minister Johnson has no withdrawing agreement by October 19, he will be parliamen- tary to request additional time until January 31, 2020, in order to continue the negotiations in this scenario. Johnson might resign, leaving a cave- tortoise government to request a postponement. The EU would probably accept an extension over Franco’s objections, especially if Britain could by that time be proceeding to an elec- tion or second referendum.

One of the reasons for the fact that two out of three prisoners in the Indian jails are undeniably the conflicting opinion given by the Supreme Court on whether reasons are to be provided by the lower courts for grant or refusal of bail. Granting bail, once a routine matter, is now subjected to magnified judicial scrutiny along with mounting fear of justifying it with valid reasons. In the case of bail, the policy is to grant bail, rather than refuse it. The law prescribes a person to be imprisoned till he proves his innocence, just as the British system, where the judicial decision-making is drawn from the statements of the accused. There is no departure in the law of IPC, although offences are classified as serious and non-serious, under different provisions, disfranchise of liberty and even life imprisonment. In the Supreme Court, the case of the Supreme Court on whether reasons are to be provided by the lower courts for grant or refusal of bail. Granting bail, once a routine matter, is now subjected to magnified judicial scrutiny along with mounting fear of justifying it with valid reasons.

Central bank cuts rates to 2019-20 low

HOW INDIAN ICICI BANKS

If you ever thought the Indian banking system was immune to the backdrop of growing economic news from other sectors, think again. The Reserve Bank of India (RBI) has taken a big step by lowering the key lending rate by 0.25 percentage points to 6.75% from 7%.

This move comes amidst the backdrop of the ongoing slowdown in the economy, with some sectors showing signs of recovery while others remain sluggish.

The RBI has been under pressure from the government to cut interest rates in order to boost economic growth. The government has repeatedly called for a reduction in the borrowing cost for businesses and individuals.

The latest rate cut is expected to provide a much-needed boost to the economy, which has been struggling to grow at a stable pace.

The move is likely to benefit consumers, especially those who have been facing high interest rates on home and auto loans.

The RBI decided to cut the repo rate by 0.25 percentage points to 6.75% from 7%, in line with expectations from most economists and market watchers.

The decision was in line with the Monetary Policy Committee’s (MPC) assessment of lower inflation and a more subdued growth outlook.

Bajaj Finserv, ICICI Bank and Bharti AXA General Insurance are some of the companies that are expected to benefit from the lower interest rates.

The cut is also expected to provide a boost to the real estate sector, which has been hit hard by high interest rates in recent years.

Bajaj Finserv, for instance, is planning to launch a new home loan scheme with lower interest rates and easier terms.

The move is likely to impact the bond market as well, with yields expected to decline.

Overall, the decision is seen as a welcome move to boost economic activity and bring down inflation.

The central bank has been monitoring the economy closely and has been cutting rates to spur growth.

The move is also expected to boost信心 in the equity market, which has been hit hard by the ongoing trade war between the US and China.

In recent months, the central bank has been reducing rates to cushion the effects of slower economic growth and high inflation.

However, the decision to cut rates is also a sign of the central bank’s concern about the economic slowdown and inflationary pressures.

Banks such as ICICI Bank and HDFC Bank are expected to benefit from the lower interest rates, as they will be able to reduce their lending rates and offer more competitive deals to customers.

The move is also expected to boost the real estate market, which has been hit hard by high interest rates in recent years.

The central bank has been monitoring the economy closely and has been cutting rates to spur growth.

The decision is also expected to boost the bond market as well, with yields expected to decline.

Govt forms panel on new industrial policy

Moving comes in the wake of slowdown in the domestic automobile industry. Last month, the Chennai-based firm had announced 11,174 job cuts in its factory in Tamil Nadu. TMM North Ltd, the division that manages the manufacturing hub, on Tuesday said "the company has decided to take production cuts in order to reduce inventory at its facilities."
Trump in tight spot as texts of envoys reveal Ukraine links

IMPEACHMENT
President says unsure if he’ll cooperate with probe

WASHINGTON, October 4

Text messages sent by US diplomats revealing an apparent effort by Donald Trump’s administration to push the government to put pressure on Ukraine to investigate his political rival Joe Biden showed the President seeking to use his power as commander in chief to influence foreign elections, according to a media report. The report, which was published on Friday, said Trump attempted to pressure Ukrainian officials to probe Joe Biden, the former vice president and now US Democratic presidential candidate, by linking him to his son, Hunter Biden, who has been involved in Ukrainian energy enterprises.

In the messages, which were reportedly obtained by US lawmakers, Trump speaks directly to President Volodymyr Zelensky, urging him to investigate Hunter Biden’s business dealings in Ukraine. The messages, which were reported by The Wall Street Journal, were released as part of the House impeachment inquiry into Trump.

India may say yes to Pak fee
Karztarpur pilgrims to be charged $20

Hope Karztarpur ushers in peace on both sides

This fee will only be charged to supplement the enormous expenditure which the government of Pakistan is undertaking to complete and maintain the Kartarpur Sahib corridor and to provide amenities to the pilgrims.

Tuffy and Dr Mehendir Singh of the National Institute of Public Health at an exhibition on Guru Nanak’s life and teachings at India International Centre (IIC) here. The event was hosted by the National Institute of Public Health, Bhat Vir Singh Sahib, India.

Delhi, October 4

The former J&K Governor and Kashmir NN Vohra and his wife, who were addressing an event, shared that Kartarpur Sahib corridor would lead to peace with neighbours as that resource was being destroyed for catering disease and poverty instead of fighting wars.

India's case, nationalism is economic nationalism and we have to be watchful. “Hardly anybody had the courage to speak up against the imposition that was being done to chase money to supplement the enormous expenditure which the government of Pakistan is undertaking to complete and maintain the Kartarpur Sahib corridor and to provide amenities to the pilgrims,” Pakistan Foreign Ministry spokesperson Muhammad Riaz said.

While ex-PM Manmohan Singh said there was no golden ‘palki (resting place for Guru Granth Sahib)’ and ‘palki’ was no golden way to India-Pakistan peace, Jaishankar said there is no golden ‘palki (resting place for Guru Granth Sahib)’ and ‘palki’ was no golden way to India-Pakistan peace.

The latter inaugurated an exhibition titled “Rahat to Napatra Life and Legacy of Guru Nanak Dev Ji” on the 550th birth anniversary of the Guru at India International Centre (IIC) here. The event was hosted by the National Institute of Public Health, Bhat Vir Singh Sahib, India.
